The men walked off their jobs at Gaspe Copper Mines Limited March 11. Tension has ebbed and flowed since then and the community was quiet today in spite of a company statement Tuesday saying the mine will re-open on restricted scale by the end of the week.

Robert McKenna, community manager, said Tuesday the strike has arrested Murdochville's development and that provincial police were brought in at the request of civic officials.

Mr. McKenna said that before the provincial police detachment here was brought up to 110 two weeks ago there had been several incidents involving property damage.

CARS OVERTURNED

Three cars were overturned and damaged heavily and 21 other automobiles had sugar put in their gas tanks. Seven homes had windows smashed and at least three telephone lines were cut, he said.

USWA representative Roger Bedard said the incidents reported were minor considering the scope of the strike. In disputes of this size there generally are many more incidents.

The company, in a full-page advertisement in today's Montreal Gazette, accused "union hoodlums" of attacking and beating two company employees.

"In one instance," the advertisement said, "employees of the company, engaged in snow plowing the highway under a government contract, were assaulted, beaten and kicked by a group of over 40 union hoodlums. Both suffered broken bones and one was in hospital for some days."

Neither union nor company spokesmen here could be reached for comment on the advertisement.

WILL RESUME

Herve Berube, assistant manager of Gaspe Copper, a Noranda Mines subsidiary, announced the company will resume drilling operations on a restricted scale Friday.

Mr. Berube said the company Tuesday hired an undisclosed number of non-union workers.

Mr. Bedard maintains the company is "bluffing." The union says only 30 workers are back at their jobs. The company puts the number at 269.

BEGAN IN SUMMER

Trouble between the company and the union began last summer when a company-obtained injunction restrained the Quebec Labor Relations Board from hearing the union's application for certification.

The strike began three days after the local union president was laid off or dismissed. The union says he was dismissed, but the company, in today's advertisement, said:

"This person was one of a group of employees who were not discharged but laid off March 8 when the jobs they had been doing were completed. He was to see the mine manager March 11 but failed to keep his appointment. In the meantime the strike began with no representations to the company of any complaint."

Mr. Bedard said the hourly wages here—ranging from $1.07 to $1.66—are 50 cents below those paid for comparable work at Sudbury by International Nickel Company.

FIGHT FATALITIES

MONTREAL (CP) — The city executive committee, in an effort to bring the number of traffic fatalities to the public's attention decided Tuesday to place black flags on police cars and motorcycles each day a fatality is reported. A white cross will also be painted on the street at the site of every fatal accident.

"He hasn't any hair, so I content myself with running my hands through his money."

Chiding Remarks Exchanged Over Church's Location

KINGSTON (CP)—Chiding remarks were exchanged Tuesday night by clergymen at the two-day meeting of the 91st synod of the Anglican diocese of Ontario.

It started when Rev. H. S. D. Robinson of the Church of the Redeemer, north of Kingston, said his church's location made it difficult to draw a congregation. Other Anglican churches were too close.

He said his church needed help from the extension program but that loans offered were too small, interest too high and repayment time too short.

Rev. L. E. Hawkes of North Addington rebuked him. "It is time this idea of looking for a handout, even for a new parish, should be curbed," he said.

Rev. T. Harvey Good of Kingston's St. Paul's Church defended Mr. Robinson. He said that when the church was being built in 1955 he had warned it was in the wrong place. He criticized the trend toward building small churches. They would be "in everyone's back yard, and that will be no credit to the Anglican tradition."

DEFENDS LOCATION

Harold Ripley of Kingston, who presented the extension committee report, defended the location of Mr. Robinson's church.

"I'm convinced it's in the right place," he said.

Mr. Robinson finally said his church was not giving up—a permanent church would eventually be built—but assistance is still needed.

Earlier Rev. W. G. H. Swayne gave a state of the church report which showed reductions in membership in city churches in spite of a population increase, explained by erection of new churches.

Dr. P. G. C. Campbell of Kingston, re-elected treasurer, reported Sh. diocese in financial condition.

Bishop K. C. Evans criticized the "insipid and inadequate philosophy" which "millions" have adopted as "a substitute for the Christian faith."

Said the bishop: "According to this modern view, sin and guilt are merely the traumatic effect of an unfortunate experience in the past, of which the winner is to be relieved by a visit to the psychiatrist."

Police Sergeant Nicknamed Montreal's Sherlock Holmes

MONTREAL (CP) — The colorful career of Sgt. Leo Plouffe, head of the Montreal police crime laboratory, has earned him the nickname of Montreal's Sherlock Holmes.

A stocky young 34, former amateur boxing champion, Sgt. Plouffe bears no physical likeness to the famed sleuth of fiction. But he is a criminal scientist and he applies science with an experience that has put him in the front rank of Canadian detectives.

Clues at the scene of a crime may be infinitesimal, but the scientific investigator must find them and make them talk, he says.

He once picked out a burglar by listening to footsteps. After examining a footprint at the scene of a burglary Sgt. Plouffe deduced that a nail was missing from a metal heel-plate. When he heard the clanking sound following a suspect's footsteps, it was obvious that the heel was loose.

Another time he identified the death car in a hit-and-run case by using as clues a few specks of glass, two fragments of bakelite, an oval bruise on the victim's leg and some blue pigment on his clothing.

After graduation from high school he had five years as a metallurgical chemist before joining the Montreal police force. From pounding a beat, he was transferred to the radio division, and later to the morality branch. There he worked the night shift and in the daytime was a student in medical technology at the University of Montreal.

Later he studied at the provincial medico-legal laboratories and spent four months at an FBI-conducted police science course in Washington.

Sgt. Plouffe's job requires a lot of skill, sometimes a bit of luck and in one case at least a world of nerve.

Police recently discovered a dynamite time-bomb planted in a locker in Montreal's busy Central Station. Sgt. Plouffe took on the assignment of disarming the bomb, which was ticking and believed overdue to explode.

He coolly made up to the bomb and pulled the wires apart. Examination showed the two contacts were separated by only a few fibres of cotton, caught in the mechanism.

"It was diabolic," he said afterwards.

Frost Says More To Be Spent on Mental Health

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost promised more expenditures on mental health Tuesday as the Ontario division of the Canadian Mental Health Association honored him with an award of merit.

President Charles E. Hendry extolled the premier for Ontario's leadership in recognizing the need for regional hospitals closer to patients' homes, including care for mental patients in the projected hospital insurance plan, giving special treatment to emotionally disturbed children and promising money for research and training.

Premier Frost replied he intends to raise Ontario's existing $30,000,000 yearly expenditure. Research and active treatment of the mentally ill will be encouraged, he said.

Community Forum Formed by Council

WINDSOR (CP) — City council Monday night established a community forum to answer a series of articles last week in the Toronto Globe and Mail critical of the labor and economic situation in Windsor.

The forum will be made up of four labor leaders, four representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and four city councillors—Aldermen William C. Riggs, W. John Wheelton, Bernard Newman and Controller Mrs. Cameron H. Montrose.

Mrs. Montrose, who moved the motion establishing the forum, said its purpose would be to turn the "detrimental" series into a credit for the city.

Coldwell Wants Full Coverage In Health Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — CCF Leader Coldwell claims that introduction of a comprehensive national health insurance program in Canada won't mean the expenditure of vast new sums of money.

"The difference between the total cost and what we are spending now (on health care) will not be a vast sum," he said Tuesday night in a television broadcast.

Mr. Coldwell said a national health insurance plan giving overall coverage to all Canadians cannot be provided through private or voluntary insurance schemes.

"It can only be done on the initiative of the federal government" he said.

The remarks were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Coldwell leaves today for Timmins.

He described the federal government's proposal to pay half the cost of standard hospital care and diagnostic services as, a "partial and very limited hospital insurance plan." It fell short of what the Liberals had been promising down through the years.

MITS PLAN

Mr. Coldwell said the federal plan will be available to scarcely more than half the Canadian people. The CCF would continue to fight for a comprehensive plan and for the financing by the federal government of a sufficiently large proportion of the costs so that all provinces will enter and all Canadians will be covered.

"The CCF wants a complete plan that will provide over-all coverage for everyone, and we believe that no private or voluntary insurance plan can provide that kind of coverage."

The cost of such a plan would not be a new expense for the nation. Canadians last year, as individuals and through their governments, spent more than $800,000,000 on health care.

"That's something that should be remembered by those who criticize health insurance on the ground that it would cost too much. Health insurance would replace entirely the amount being spent now by individuals and would replace a substantial part of the present expenditures by federal and provincial governments."

Council Forced To Increase Town's Taxes

PICTON — The town tax rate was struck by council Monday night. Rate for residential property is 97.62 mills, and for commercial property, 108.32 mill's. The general rate last year was 95 mills.

Main reasons for increase are public school debentures, up 2.20 mills, Prince Edward Collegiate, up 4.41 mills.

Another contributing factor is the matter of unpaid taxes. There is $35,000 outstanding from 1956.

Budget items included: public school, $73,288.48; county rate, $74,088; public library, $2,700; public utilities debentures, $16,-232.74; collegiate institute, $33,-433.16; collegiate debenture, $5,-945.87 and sewerage debenture, $47,207.06.

Richards Mission Returns From Mid East Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roving Ambassador James P. Richards was expected today to report to President Eisenhower on his return that Middle Eastern countries are largely united in their determination to resist the spread of Soviet communism.

Richards has visited 15 countries in that strategic area during the last two months. He headed a mission sent to explain the Eisenhower program for using force if necessary to oppose any open aggression by international communism, and meanwhile to strengthen the region with American economic and military assistance.

Before leaving Rabat, Morocco, Tuesday night en route to the United States, Richards told reporters that most of the countries have accepted the principle of the Eisenhower program, and he added:

"None of the 15 nations which this mission has visited rejected proposals of American aid in the framework of the doctrine."

BIG COMMITMENTS

Richards is understood to have committed about $155,000,000 of U.S. foreign aid funds to various countries during his trip. Congress has authorized use of up to $200,000,000 for the program.

Officials here think the mission was on the whole highly successful in focusing attention in the area on the Communist threat. It brought expressions by a dozen or more governments of determination to oppose communism.

One failure was Richards' inability even to call on the leaders of Egypt, Syria and Jordan, in the case of Jordan, recently racked by internal crisis, the failure is not considered significant since King Hussein has put down pro-Soviet elements and succeeded in orienting his country toward the West.

Prior to Richards' departure on March 12 authorities here considered it possible he would be able to call on Presidents Nasser of Egypt and Shukri Al-Kuwatly of Syria, and at least have friendly talks with them to explain the Eisenhower program. This did not work out because of the strong pro-Soviet ties of Egypt and Syria.

Apart from these, countries which Richards met or will meet across North Africa and into south-western Asia included Libya, the Sudan, Saudi Arabia, Israel, Lebanon Afghanistan, Ethiopia, Tunisia, Morocco, Greece and Yemen.

MONTREAL (CP)—Two police-men killed a wandering skunk in a doorway in downtown Montreal Tuesday night.

Frank Costello Given 30 Days In Workhouse

NEW YORK (AP) — Racketeer Frank Costello Tuesday was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse for contempt in refusing to tell a grand jury the meaning of a cryptic note found on him.

The note was in his pocket when Costello was creased by a bullet Thursday night. It apparently referred to a six-figure gambling transaction.

Brought before a grand jury probing the attempted killing of Costello, the gambler refused to talk about the note on the grounds that his answers might incriminate him.

The note read:

"Gross casino wins as of 4-26-57 $651,284. Casino wins less markers $434,695. Lost wins $63,944. Markeys $152,745. Mike $150 per week. Jake $100 per week."

Police claim Costello lied when he said he didn't know who attacked him or why. Earlier, police released a description of a pot-bellied man who waddles like a duck and whom they believe took the shot at Costello. They figure him for be an ex-convict.

A rash of theories arose out of the attempt on the life of a man once the most feared of all underworld chieftains. Latest among these rumors was one that Costello, 66, had lost his grip on the national crime syndicate and had been deposed as a figure of power.

Hiss Declares False Testimony Convicted Him

NEW YORK (AP)—Alger Hiss, in a book out today, says political pressure, public hysteria, faked evidence and false testimony sent him to prison for 3½ years.

The former United States state department official, convicted of perjury in denying that he gave confidential documents to ex-spy courier Whittaker Chambers, insists in the book that he was innocent, as he did throughout his two trials.

The 419-page book is entitled In the Court of Public Opinion. Hiss was released from prison in 1954, and he, his wife and son have since lived quietly in New York.

Hiss, disbarred as a lawyer after his conviction, maintains in the book that testimony of Chambers, a confessed ex-Communist, Chamber's wife and other government witnesses was at variance with documentary evidence.

Groundhog Makes Two Anglers Most Unhappy

ORILLIA (CP)—Ken Johnson and Doug Stickles are a couple of anglers who dislike groundhogs —and they admit it isn't really the fault of the groundhog.

The history of their antipathy dates back to the opening day of the trout season.

Fishing in the Coldwater River, they caught and tossed back a half-dozen fish barely over the legal limit.

Then they landed a big speckled beauty.

They laid it tenderly on a grassy bank and went back to try for more.

When they looked around a few moments later, they saw the trout flopping and squirming. They dashed toward it but it was too late. It gave one last convulsive flip into the air and disappeared down the mouth of a groundhog's burrow.

They're aware it was probably nothing but a bother to the groundhog but that doesn't change their feelings toward the underground dwellers.

NETHERLANDS NOT SCARED

THE HAGUE (AP)—The Netherlands told Moscow Friday it will not be forced from the goal of European integration "through vague Soviet plans or implied threats of nuclear retaliation." The foreign ministry, in a reply to a Soviet statement of March 16, denied that the treaties for a European common market and an atomic community are instruments of aggression.

Dozen Sparrows Marooned on Rig Afraid to Fly

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—More than a dozen sparrows marooned on an oil drilling rig off the Louisiana shore for seven months are showing signs of turning neurotic.

"The sparrows can't see land and they're afraid to fly," reported Ross Cummings, public relations director for Kerr-McGee Oil Industries Inc. "In fact they hardly ever fly."

The birds built nests on the rig when it was under construction at Pascagoula, Miss. and stayed aboard. They live on scraps tossed to them by workmen.

Diocesan Work Best in History States Bishop

KINGSTON (CP)—Work done in the diocese of Ontario during 1956 was perhaps the best in its history from both the material and spiritual viewpoints, Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans, Anglican bishop of Ontario, said Thur. He spoke to the 81st synod of the Anglican synod of the diocese of Ontario.

Bishop Evans, presiding over his sixth synod since his consecration as bishop, told the assembly at St. George's Cathedral that the number of confirmations was the second highest in the history of the diocese and that total income of parishes made a "spectacular increase."

He said total income of the parishes in 1956 was 3½ times greater than it was in 1946. This increase was due in part to the success of stewardship campaigns undertaken during the year.

4-Year-Old Mutt Left $50,800 By Mistress

READING, Pa. (AP)—Bobby, a four-year-old mutt who has no conception of the meaning of pedigree and doesn't care, today is the richest dog in Pennsylvania, and possibly one of the richest in the world.

Bobby was named principal—and practically sole—beneficiary of the estate of his late mistress, Mrs. Ruth A. Maurer. The estate was filed for probate here and its value estimated at $50,800.

Mrs. Maurer directed that all of the money be left to provide for the care of the mongrel dog she picked up from the local humane society when it was a pup.

Bobby will have a practical nurse to look after him. Mrs. Maurer directed that Bobby sleep in his own bed in the air-conditioned bedroom once occupied by his mistress. He is to have full run of Mrs. Maurer's three-room apartment, and every morning and evening is to be taken for a walk.

He won't do badly at chow time either. The bequest specifies Bobby is to receive "the best food a dog can have."

Fired Dressen Not Too Fussy About Staying With Senators

DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Dressen, bounced from his job as manager of Washington Senators, remained up in the air today about his future. Should he take a front office post with the last-place American League club or look elsewhere?

"So far," Dressen said. "I have no other offers."

DEFINITELY INTERESTED

"I'm definitely interested," Dressen said, "but I told them it would have to be for more than one year."

"That's a problem which will have to be settled by our board of directors," Griffith said. Griffith is the principal stockholder of the club and president of the six-man board.

Dressen made it clear that he would listen to any big league managerial offers he might get.

Dressen, who was manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers when they won the National League championships in 1952 and 1953, took over the Senators in 1955. He has been in and out of the big leagues as a player and manager since 1925.

WAS SERIES STAR

The 44-year-old Lavagetto was nearing the end of his 10-year playing career when Dressen, as manager of the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast League in 1950, picked the one-time world series star as his aide. He has been with Dressen ever since.

The managerial change was a drastic move to shake the Senators out of a nine-game losing streak. The club hasn't finished in the first division in 11 seasons and have gotten off to the worst start of their 57-year American League history, losing 17 of 21 starts this season. They lost 5-3 to Detroit Tigers Tuesday in Lavagetto's first start as a big league manager.

Griffith said the reason for the change "is to strengthen our organization and we know of no other man more qualified than Chuck to scout players and handle them for us."

WON'T BAN BOXING

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP) Justice Minister C. R. Swart said Tuesday he is not prepared to outlaw professional boxing.

He was replying to demands to end the sport in South Africa following the death of Jimmy Elliott after his British Empire title fight with Pat McAteer.

"Elliott's death is a terribly sad occurrence, but similar tragedies have occurred in other sports such as rugby, and there is little can be done about it," Swart said.

TAKE CRICKET MATCH

The county side piled up 332 in their second innings, leaving the West Indians with the apparently simple job of scoring 96 to win. However, they lost six wickets before the winning run.

Leafs' Walker Still a 'Bum' And Proves It

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto manager Dixie Walker, the former popular Brooklyn right fielder and "mayor of Ebbets Field," is still a Dodger at heart.

Exhibiting the legendary Brooklyn touch of the zany, Dixie sent the wrong lineup to the umpire Tuesday night before his Maple Leafs played the Richmond Virginians in an International League game at Toronto.

He spent the first two innings untangling the mess by sending up five pinchhitters, Jack Daniels, one of them, hit a home run.

In the meantime, the Virginians were bouncing three of Dixie's pitchers for eight runs in the first two innings. Richmond went on to win 9-2 to move into a virtual tie for second with Toronto. Leafs are in second by .006.

Elsewhere in the league, Miami maintained a two-game lead in first place over Toronto and Richmond as the Marlins won their seventh in nine road games at Rochester 7-2. Havana overcame a six-run Buffalo lead and whipped the Bisons 11-9 at Buffalo and Montreal Royals edged Columbus Jets 6-5 in 13 innings at Montreal.

Righthander Wimpy Nardella pitched the first seven innings against Toronto to even his record at 1-1. Larry Donovan was the loser. Third baseman Jerry Lumpe hit a three-run homer for the Virginians in the second.

Miami's Tommy Qualters won his second game, allowing Red Wings six hits. He needed relief from Hank Mason in the ninth.

Harry Schwegman hit a double in the 13th to drive in the tying and winning runs for Montreal, which ended a three-game losing string. The hit made a winning pitcher of George Barker, who had relieved in the 10th. It was his first victory against no defeats. Russ Sullivan blasted two homers for Columbus. Lefty Dino Donnon was the loser, his second in three decisions.

Jim Gentile's homer ended a three-game Buffalo win streak. Pat Scantlebury won his first game of the season in relief for Sugar Kings. He was one of 11 pitchers to work the three hour, 36 minute contest.

Extent of Herb Score Injury Won't Be Known for 3 Days

CLEVELAND (AP)—Not for two or three days—possibly longer—will doctors be able to tell how seriously Herb Score, Cleveland's southpaw strikeout king, was injured Tuesday night when a line drive struck him in the right eye.

The ball, hit by Gil McDougald, veteran New York Yankee infielder, knocked Score to the ground, but he remained conscious. Two cuts were inflicted—one along the eyebrow and the other on the side of his nose, and he bled profusely from the nose and mouth.

He could distinguish light from dark with the damaged eye, Dr. Don Kelly, Tribe physician, said after a preliminary examination. The bleeding prevented additional testing, and Kelly said:

"He could be perfectly all right, but we just won't know for two or three days."

DOWN THE MIDDLE

The pitch McDougald hit was only the twelfth one Score threw, and it came on a 2-2 count. Score said "it was right down the middle —maybe a little low—and probably straight as a string, and it came back that way."

"I didn't see the ball until it got a foot or two from my face," Score said at the hospital. "Then I saw too much of it."

McDougald wiped his eyes with a towel in the corner of the Yankee dressing room and sat worrying while other players dressed. He didn't want to talk.

'Gallant Man' May Not Run In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gallant Man, Ralph Lowe's runner-up in the Kentucky Derby, was "shaken" by his 30-hour train trip from Louisville to New York and is a questionable starter in the $100,000 - added Preakness here, May 18, Pimlico officials said Tuesday.

Trainer Johnny Nerud told track operators he would not decide for "four or five days" whether the colt would be shipped to Pimlico for the May 18 race.

In New York, Nerud said:

"I didn't mean to create the impression that anything is wrong with Gallant Man. He's in fine shape right now.

"But the trip tired him and I simply want to wait four or five days to make sure he is all right before I decide whether to enter him in the Preakness."

He won the 100-yard sprint by equalling his record time of 10.3 last year.

Boxing Brass May Exclude Archie Moore

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Boxing Club hoped today to close a featherweight championship match between Hogan (Kid) Bassey and Cherif Hamia in Syracuse, N.Y., June 7—and thereby leave Archie Moore out in the cold.

Originally, the IBC scheduled a lightheavyweight title match between ruler Moore and Tony Anthony. But Archie, now in Germany, has not been heard from, so the IBC decided to sidetrack him.

"We have only a month to go and there has been no word from Moore," said IBC managing director Harry Markson. "He had been given until last Monday by the various boxing commissions to confirm that he would defend his title by June 7."

ASKS GUARANTEE

While the commissions were waiting for the word that never came, Moore told German news men that he would meet Anthony if he is guaragteed $100,000 and can get in shape. He weighed 206½ for his bout with Hans Kalbfell a week ago.

When Markson heard of Moore's demand, he snorted:

"We're not going to guarantee him $100,000. We don't have Hami yet, but I hope to close the deal today."

And if Moore doesn't defend his crown by July 7, the light heavyweight championship also will be declared vacant.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, SHUN!

This piece is slightly off the sports beat but it actually stems from a sports foundation inasmuch as one of the principals is now a well-known name in boxing and in the days of World War II was a household name in girls softball and other sports in and around the Mountain View Air Station.

Remember Vic Bagnato, Corporal Bagnato to youse guys and gals who were the air force blue at Mountain View. To make a long story short Vic has been in nostalgic mood for the past six months or so, so much that he wants to organize a reunion here for all and sundry who claimed the MV Air Station as a wartime-lavishing alma mammy.

In fact the groundwork has been laid, according to word received from the diminutive Vic, Earlier in the month a meeting was held in the office of Mr. Alf Cowling, M.P.P. in Toronto. Nine were in attendance and it was the consensus to contact as many former Mountain Viewers as possible with the reunion in mind.

Vic mentioned the project earlier in the year when he sat at the same table with this department at the Sports Celebrities dinner in Toronto. The little guy was fairly "bursting" with enthusiasm over the ideas and said he had put the slightest doubt the reunion would be a success. The big problem, he said, was to secure contact with the Mountain View "graduates."

So here's the word. Any former "Viewers" regardless of rank, color or creed, who is interested in the proposed reunion is requested to get in touch with Vic at 38 Cowan Avenue, Toronto 3. And do it right away.

Those of you who were around in the days of World War Two when Mountain View Air Station was a hive of training activity will recall Vic and his famous Mountain View Bomberettes softball squad, The little corporal trained and managed the gals, whipped them into an efficient team and walked off with more than one championship. He was as popular—both off and on the station as was the paymaster corps twice a month.

Vic is now and has been for some time associated with his brother in the boxing game in Toronto. They have promoted many fine cards and perhaps will be best remembered for their part in the Archie Moore — James J. Parker fight.

And knowing Vic's organizational ability from Mountain View days, the proposed reunion will be a bang-up success. If and when enough of the "graduates" show interest in the scheme. So contact the little corporal and get things under way.

ALL OVER

The curtain has fallen on the 1956-57 hockey season — and it won't be too long before it rises again. However both the Ontario Hockey Association and the Ontario Minor Hockey Association report highly successful seasons.

The OMHA figures which constitute a new all-time record, dispel the foolish rumors of a few months ago that hockey was on the decline. The OMHA says it had 365 teams registered in group play or playdowns which consisted of 6,570 players, Competing in town or city leagues were 1651 teams or 35,765 players, for a grand total of 1,416 teams and 2,335 players in Ontario.

The former record (1955-56) saw 1,029 teams or 15,426 players in playdowns and 6,468 in town and city leagues or a total of 21,848 kid players taking part.

Bill Hanley of the OHA reports: "In the final analysis the season 1956-57 will go down as one of the finest that the OHA has had for several years. The playoffs from competitive standpoint were the best in recent years and crowd-wise, the best in the OHA history. Only one protest was registered and that was undefended."

LIFE IS HARD

The big guy staggered into the news room and slumped in a chair. He was "beat" he said; "This has been the toughest day of my whole life."

"What happened!" someone asked.

"Well," he stammered, "My wife fell downstairs and broke a leg. Some crook stole my wallet. Another pinched my car and the Yankees defeated the Senators 4-3."

"That was a tough day," somebody sympathized.

"Yeah," moaned the sufferer, "it sure was. And those Senators were leading 3-0 going into the ninth."

Tribe Hurler Seriously Hurt When Hit by Hard Line Drive; Cincy Crowds Braves, Brooks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ted Williams, Boston's temperamental thumper, is "happy to get off to such a good start" but warns it is too early to make batting title predictions.

He cautioned: "I've only played 15 games and if I go 0-for-6 tomorrow my average will drop 150 points."

Williams, who is clipping along with a .455 average, was wrong. Should the still "splendid splitter" get collared in six tries—which is unlikely—he'll drop to .406.

Williams knocked in three runs with his sixth homer of the season Tuesday night as he lead Red Sox to a 4-3 victory over Chicago White Sox. In his three other trips to the plate he walked, twice on intentional passes.

In another night game, Cleveland Indians nipped the New York Yankees winning streak at six with a 2-1 triumph but lost the services of Herb Score for an indefinite period. The prize southpaw was hit in the right eye by a hard liner off the bat of Gil McDougald in the first inning.

DON'T KNOW EXTENT

He was taken to hospital were his attending physician said it will be several days before the extent of the damage to his badly cut eye can be ascertained.

Bob Lemon took over when Score was carried from the field with two out in the first inning and held Yankees to six hits for his second victory in six decisions. Tom Sturdivant, the loser, walked Rocky Colavito in the eighth with the bases loaded to force home the winning run.

Kansas City retained their half game lead over fifth place Cleveland with a 3-2 triumph over Baltimore in 10 innings. Vic Power hit home runs on the first and last pitches of the Orioles' Hector Brown to extend the Athletics' winning streak to four games.

Detroit spoiled Cookie Lavagetto's managerial debut with Washington, defeating the Senators 3-3 behind the three-hit pitching of Paul Foytack. The defeat was the ninth in a row for the cellar-ridden Senators.

WOODLING STARTED IT

A former Yankee, Gene Woodling, started Yankees on their downfall. He singled with one out in the ninth and went to third when Al Smith popped a fly to right field which dropped in front of Hank Bauer and on which Bauer threw wild to second. A walk to Vic Wertz filled the bases. Roger Maris fanned before Colavito walked to force home the tie-breaking run.

Virgil Trucks, pitching three hitless innings in relief of starter rookie Jiney Duren, received credit for his fourth Kansas City victory without a defeat. Orioles lost the services of shortstop Willie Miranda, who sprained his ankle sliding into second in the second inning.

Home runs by Frank Bolling and Frank House, each with a man on base, were the most productive blows in Detroit's victory over Washington. Each came in the fifth inning off loser Ted Abernathy, first of three Washington hurlers.

HORSEMAN DIES

TORONTO (CP)—A. E. Faulkner, long connected with horse racing in Ontario, and former superintendent of the track at Hamilton, died Monday in hospital at Fort Erie.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tuesday night, for the third game in succession, Tebbetts found a pitcher who could go nine innings. As a result the Redlegs today owned a handsome eight-game winning streak, the longest in the major leagues.

Hal Jeffcoat is the latest Redleg route-goer, following his 9-3 triumph over Brooklyn that hoisted Cincinnati to within a half game of the second-place Braves and a game and a half behind the National League leading Milwaukee Braves.

Jeffcoat's six-hit performance followed on the heels of complete jobs by Brooks Lawrence and Don Gross against Pittsburgh Sunday. Prior to that only one pitcher—Lawrence—had gone the distance in Cincinnati's first 16 games.

The Redlegs picked up a full game on the Braves who dropped an 8-4 decision to Philadelphia Phillies as Robin Roberts stopped them with six hits. New York Giants whipped St. Louis Cardinals 6-5 and Chicago Cubs took a 14-inning 10-8 win from Pittsburgh to dump Pirates into the cellar.

The Reds pounded five Brooklyn pitchers for 14 hits, including run-scoring doubles by their hottest hitter, Don Hoak, who leads the league with a .410 batting average. Johnny Podres, who pitched the first seven innings for Brooklyn, was charged with his second defeat.

Pee Wee Reese and Duke Snider were back in the Dodger lineup but the defending champions will be without the services of Gino Cimoli for several days. The outfielder sprained his ankle, stepping into an outfield hole, and was taken to a hospital where x-rays proved negative.

Warren Spahn suffered his first defeat of the season, after four victories, when the Phillies blasted Milwaukee pitching for 13 hits Gran Hamner, playing his first game at second base after a brief experiment as a pitcher, walloped a home run and single and Stan Lopata had a perfect day for the Phillies, three singles and a double. Roberts struck out five, walked one for his second victory

Country Kids Nearly Stopped City Slickers

TORONTO (CP) — Nine farm boys wearing an assortment of unmatched uniforms Tuesday night all but got short of spiking away the Midget hockey championship of Metropolitan Toronto.

The Pickering Midgets, an unsponsored team from nearby Pickering Township, were stopped 1-0 by Marlboro Minors, a midget team sponsored by Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

The game was a special 20-minute tie-breaker played right after a 4-2 victory for Marlboros which matched the 3-2 win for Pickering in the first game Sunday.

"They were too strong for us—they had 18 men," said Donald Hopkins, Pickering team manager. "That second game tonight killed us."

Hopkins gathered his nine boys together from farms in the Pickering area only a day before the King City tournament began in early March. Other teams, all sponsored, had been playing all season in the Toronto Hockey League, which has more teams than any in the world. Midget players are 16 and under.

The Giants, playing without Willie Mays, who is hospitalized by a virus attack, enjoyed their biggest day of the season. They pelted a pair of Cardinal hurlers for 15 hits, including home runs by Red Schoendienst and Dusty Rhodes. The big hitter, however, was catcher Ray Katt, who drove in three runs with a double and two singles. Red Worthington, with a brilliant two-hit relief chore through five runless innings, earned his first victory of the season.

Dale Long's two-run double climaxed the Cubs' four-run 14th inning rally against Pirates. Pirates had tallied twice in the ninth to forge a 6-6 tie, the fourth consecutive night game they had rallied for a tie in the ninth only to lose in overtime.

Quebec's Three Aces Better Than Brandon's Full House

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—Three aces can often win a poker game but Thursday night they did it in hockey.

Orval Tessier, Marcel Bonin and Skip Teal, the first line of the powerful Quebec Aces, accounted for all Quebec goals as the Aces edged Brandon Regals 4-3 in overtime to take a 4-1 lead in their best-of-nine series for the Edinburgh Trophy.

Tessier, high scorer in the Quebec Hockey League during the season, netted two in the first period, Bonin added his in the second and Teal got the winner at 14:24 of the sudden-death overtime stanza.

The scrappy Regals, who have dropped three games to the QHL champs by a single goal, kept the crowd of 5,200 roaring as they came back from a 3-0 deficit in the third period to knot the count. Elliott Chorley, Les Colwill and Les Lilley scored for the Western Hockey League champions.

The victory gave Aces a chance to wrap up the series when the clubs meet here Thursday.

The winners opened powerfully in the first period as they tried to cdnne back in the series with Tessier's two goals set them back. The Quebec right winger batted in a rebound at 9:43 after Regal goalie Lucien Dechene blocked his first attempt, then scored again just over a minute later on a 30-foot screen shot.

Bonin made it 3-0 in the second stanza when he took a pass from defenceman Joe Crozier who was deep in the corner and poked it into the Regal net.

The westerners launched another attack early in the third period and this one clicked for two fast goals. Chorley tallied with a partly-screened 15-footer on a pretty pass from centre Norm Johnson and Colwill gathered in a pass from winger Len Haley to score from close range just over a minute later.

A drop pass from defenceman Bill Bucyk set Lilley up for the tying marker at 6:39. He netted a partly-screened 10-footer.

Both clubs came close in the overtime period and only quick work by Dechene and Quebec netminder Al Millar kept the contest alive. Regals had a short-lived man advantage when defenceman Jean-Paul Lamirande was waved for hooking at 10:09 but Bob Chrystal was sent off for the same offence 18 seconds later and neither club could score.

Only three minor penalties were issued by referee Len Corriveau during the hard-checking contest. Aces drew two. Dechene blocked 32 shots while Millar made 22 stops.

Plans Laid for Lionel Conacher Community Centre

TORONTO (CP)—A fund-raising drive to build a Lionel Conacher memorial community centre in suburban Scarborough will begin May 15 with the proposed centre expected to cost about $1,000,000.

The week-long drive is expected to raise about $125,000 for an auditorium. Other proposed units in the centre include an arena, curling rink, swimming and bowling alley.

Conacher, who excelled at football, hockey and numerous other sports, was chosen Canada's greatest athlete of the half-century. After his sports career concluded he became the Liberal member for Toronto Trinity in the House of Commons. He died of a heart attack at the age of 52 in 1954 during a Commons-press gallery softball game.

The memorial centre is being sponsored by service clubs, ratepayers associations and home and school groups.

'We Can Play It Their Way' Says Western Junior Coach

REGINA (CP)—Ottawa Canadiens and Flin Flon Bombers meet tonight in the seventh and possibly deciding game in the Memorial Cup junior hockey finals.

The seventh game of the best-of-seven series was forced Monday night when Ottawa scored a come-from-behind 4-3 win here.

If tonight's contest ends in a tie after 10 minutes of overtime the eighth game Thursday will be played to a decision.

Flin Flon is the first western club to win three games in the series since 1948. Bombers scored 3-1 wins in the first and fourth games and took a 3-2 decision in the fifth Ottawa won 4-3, 5-3 and 4-2.

Spectators will be looking for another wild third period in the seventh contest. The last five games of the Canadian Junior hockey championship series were decided on a final period scoring spurt.

The eastern champion Canadiens will be depending to a large extent on captain Ralph Backstrom and winger Bill Carter. The two have accounted for eight of the 17 Ottawa goals in the series. Former Regina Pat star Murray Balfour has scored three.

Bombers will have intact their big line of Patty Ginnell, Mel Pearson and Ted Hampson. The trio has accounted for exactly half the Flin Flon goal total with eight of 16.

"We have always tried to play a clean, clever type of game and we've won our share of games that way.

"But if we have to adopt those eastern clutch and grab tactics to help us in this all important game, we'll do it. We're not going to back down from the Canadiens one bit," said Kirk.

Sam Pollock, Canadiens' coach, had little to say. He was happy after Monday's win and gave each Ottawa player a chance to make a long distance call home as a reward for tying the series.

Pollock said there is a chance Mike Legace may rejoin the team for the seventh contest. Legace returned to Laval University to write exams Saturday but may be west today. If he returns, Pollock will not dress forward Don Johns.

Top Golfer Faces Loss of Amateur Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Harvie Ward Jr., of San Francisco, rated as the world's outstanding amateur golfer, faced loss of his amateur standing today on possible expense money irregularities. But he could be reinstated immediately.

Ward's status as an amateur became clouded by testimony of his San Francisco automobile firm employer, Edward E. Lowery, before a grand jury investigating Lowery's income tax returns.

Lowery said he paid Ward's expenses to the Canadian golf championship in London, and the U.S. national Amateur in Detroit in 1954. He was quoted as saying he did it as a reward for Harvie's "good work as a salesman."

Tuesday Lowery said Harvie "did not breach any amateur rules."

DENIED INFRACTIONS

Ward, 31, winner of the national amateur title the last two years and former champion of Britain and Canada, denied any infractions.

"I did not accept any expense money," Ward said. "I borrowed $11,000, but it was strictly a loan, and I paid some of it back."

Joey Dey, executive director of the United States Golf Association said he was not prepared to rule or judge the case but that if Lowery's statements to the Grand Jury proved correct Ward appears to have breached the amateur code.

Ward would forfeit his standing as amateur golfer from accepting expenses from any source other than one on whom the player is normally or legally dependent. The rule states specifically that an employer cannot stand for the expenses of an employee in an amateur event.

Should the executive committee find Ward guilty of infractions, the normal procedure would be to declare him a non-amateur. Both violators never are declared professionals.

However, the specific rule governing such a case is that the golfer so penalized must undergo two years' probation after which he is eligible for reinstatement. But the punishment dates from the time of the infraction—in this case 1954—and Ward would be eligible for reinstatement immediately since the two years have elapsed.

Tommy Sands Given Singing Role in 'Flesh and Blood'

NEW YORK (AP) — Less than four months ago 19-year-old Tommy Sands was a comparatively unknown rock 'n' roll singer. Today he's worrying about how long he can last as a star.

"Look," says Tommy, with an earnest concern of a person many years his senior, "in this business you can fall just as fast as you've shot up."

Tommy may be a new star but he's a veteran of 11 years in show business and has had a little dramatic acting experience.

SECOND DRAMATIC ROLE

Tonight on NBC's hour-long live Television Theatre Sands will take on his second big dramatic role—the singing son in Flesh and Blood, a story about a deported American gangster returned to his native land, his parents and his long-deserted wife and child.

In many ways the setup is similar to that of his first TV splash last January when he played the lead in Singing Idol. Then he introduced a song called Teen-age Crush—and overnight was a singing and acting sensation.

ERNIE FORD DISCOVERY

Tommy has been signed to a movie contract for Singing Idol, and has been tested for Marjorie Morningstar. He sang at the academy awards show; he's about to open a three-week run at New York's Roxy Theatre; and he's made guest appearances with George Gobel and with his old friend Tennessee Ernie Ford, who discovered Tommy before the teen-agers started screaming about him.

When Tommy was eight he persuaded his mother to buy him a guitar, and soon landed himself a spot on a radio show.

AUDREY HEPBURN IN "FUNNY FACE", FULL OF GAIETY, GLAMOUR

Rose Pelswick, noted critic of the New York Journal American, speaks of Paramount's, "Funny Face", in the following terms:

For stars, there are the enchanting Audrey Hepburn who proves she can sing and dance too, the debonair Fred Astaire and the comic Kay Thompson.

For music there are half a dozen lilting Gershwin tunes plus four more by Roger Edens and Leonard Gershe. The story revolves about the dazzling world of high style fashion magazines, the dance routines are inventive and the whole confection has been lavishly done up in Technicolor and VistaVision against the backgrounds of Paris which has never been lensed as beautifully before.

Despite its title and songs, by the way, it has no connection with the Gershwin stage musical of the same name. Here the plot worked out around the idea of transforming Miss Hepburn, first seen as dowdy intellectual, into an eye-filling model by fashion magazine photographer Astaire.

It's all in the interests of a chic fashion periodical edited by Miss Thompson, and next thing you know they're all in Paris for romance in the spring, complications having to do with a wacky cult known as Empathicalism and fashion displays that'll have the feminine half of the audience sighing out loud.

Smartly worked into the action are the musical numbers which are sung and danced against a variety of settings ranging from the plush magazine offices in New York to one lovely Paris landmark after another. Whether performing solo or teamed the always effective Astaire, Miss Hepburn is delightful to see as well as hear.

Miss Thompson checks in several amusing routines, notably one in which she pairs with Astaire in a Left Bank basement bistro, and there's a refreshing dash to the staging of such numbers as "Think Pink!" "S'Wonderful", "He Loves And She Loves", "How Long Has This Been Going On", "Let's Kiss And Make Up", "On How To Be Love" and "Bonjours Paris". You'll find "Funny Face" grand fun.

By 12 he had his own disk jockey show.

But it was in Los Angeles that the breaks started. He appeared with a disk jockey, who also manages Tennessee Ernie. When Elvis Presley was unavailable to play Singing Idol, Presley's manager suggested Tommy Sands.

Jean Simmons and Hubby Enthusiastic Converts to West

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meanwhile, back at the ranch . . .

Jean Simmons and Stewart Granger are in Hollywood, but they'll be back on their ranch as soon as they wind up their current film duties. These two exiles from London drawing rooms are the most enthusiastic converts to the west in these parts.

When I last talked to Jean she was slightly numbed by her husband's announcement that they had bought 103 square miles of cattle country near Silver City, N.M. His plan was to live there all the time and come to California only to make movies.

"I'm not so sure now I'm going to like it," she said warily at the time. "But it's what Jimmy (Granger's real name) wants, so I'll go along with it."

That was a year ago. Since then, the Grangers have acquired American citizenship, a baby and another ranch. The new place is 10,000 acres near Nogales, Ariz.

I paid Jean another call on the set of "Till The End of Time" and saw how she liked the ranch.

Her face lit up, squirted with wide eyes. "The residential ranch or the working ranch!" That's the first word I've heard with "big" and "hers" ranches.

"The working place is the residential ranch, she explained, and she is captivated by the life there. "At first I wondered what I would do," she said. "But I find the day isn't big enough to accomplish everything I want to do. There is always some place to go by horseback or truck, some phase of ranching to watch. And I want to relax. I can go rowing on one of our five lakes.

"What do we do at night? We're too tired to do anything. We eat an enormous meal and go to bed. We don't even turn on the television set."

They employ five cowboys, she said, and their acceptance of the British acting couple was interesting.

"At first, they were standoffish. They didn't know quite what to think of Jimmy. But when they saw him cutting a steer out of the herd, their attitude changed entirely. They decided he was all right."

Granger dropped in to visit his wife on the MGM set and added his glowing comments about ranching.

"If I could afford to, I'd chuck this whole acting business," he replied, "but with the price of beef as it is, I can't. I've got to keep working to pay for the ranch."

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, May 9, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Those engaged in travel, water activities, shipping, dealings in liquids, oils and chemicals have especially good ray. Despite some irritations, all should fare their best, however.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Friendly Neptune vibrations indicate generous rewards where you least expect them. Everything worthwhile is worth striving for.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — This day should be a quietly progressive one even though you may not have as many bright ideas as usual or net big returns. Study, mark time, make plans that will be fruitful in the future.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Fine indications. Avoid excitement and worry by keeping intelligently busy. This does not mean to overtax yourself. Plan, think, work, study; relax, too.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Diplomacy, kindliness, especially with co-workers and those interested in you, are important. Some personal desires may have to give way to more urgent matters.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — There is a tendency toward indifference today, but it may be avoided by reasoning and intelligent study. Make no hasty decisions or snap judgments.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Today can be interesting and challenging if you feel up to it. Meet troubles as well as pleasures with serenity, and know that good work will always bring reward.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — A steady, unhurried pace will bring best returns. Serenity and thoughtfulness should be valuable aids today; hard work and patience are useful implements, too. Strive and you can win success.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Economy of time as well as money stressed. Don't seek the unreasonable, but apply yourself eagerly to your work and you should gain. Artistic and personal matters favored.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your Saturn's auspicious aspect augurs for personal achievement beyond the ordinary. Mechanics, railroading, building, dealing in tools, leather, lumber, mining among day's sponsored activities.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Fairly good rays for written matters, menial work, for originality. But the day is not entirely promising. You may have to strive harder for attainment in other matters.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Your day! Don't let it go by without making some gain in occupational interests, adding to credits in other ways. Hard work, tedious details won't annoy you if you are your cheery, dependable self.

You born today are strong in character, yet gentle in demeanor, firm in principles and decisions. The Taurus-born is known for courage and graciousness; is a thoughtful, dependable type. You make wonderful physicians, nurses, able organization builders; are creative, yet can take others' ideas or projects and improve them to a point where they become your own. You must control a desire for too much ease of living, extravagance, extremes. Don't keep troubles, worry to yourself. It relieves the mind, frees one from harmful anxiety to confide in loved ones, wise counsellors. Birthdate: Sir James Barrie, noted novelist, dramatist; John Brown, Amer. abolitionist.

Heavy Rainfalls Check Bush Fires In North Ontario

Skead in Sudbury District Hard Hit, With 88 Homeless

SUDBURY (CP)—Major forest fires in Northern Ontario abated slightly Wednesday following heavy rainfalls and a rise in the humidity. But in many areas fire fighters are still battling to confine the blazes.

The worst hit area was around Sudbury where, until heavy rain fell during most of Wednesday, 80 fires were scorching the countryside.

In Skead, 20 miles north of Sudbury, 88 persons were made homeless when fire cut through an 8,000-acre strip destroying 30 homes.

Relief stations were established and arrangements made to feed and clothe the stricken families. Forestry officials later reported all residents and their dwellings out of danger.

Rain also helped fire fighters restrict 11 fires in the Cochrane region, northeast of Timmins. It is expected most of the fires will be extinguished within a few days. Unless high winds hit, blazes of half - out fires, no immediate trouble is expected.

DESTROYS 8 BUILDINGS

In the Timmins area the worst fire was in Dickson Township. At least five buildings were destroyed but the fire was restricted to 200 acres.

An outbreak 24 miles south of Sudbury ran wild over 500 acres of Laura township bushland. Prisoners of the Burwash industrial farm and volunteers battled to check the flames.

The lands and forests department described the fire hazard as ranging from "extreme to high" across the top of the province.

UNDER CONTROL

Four fires were reported in a 70-mile radius of Port Arthur. Several were brought under control and the fourth is out. These bring the number of fires in the district to 18, the 1957 fire season.

Other fires were reported in the regions of Pembroke, Lindsay, Sioux Lookout, Gogama, White River, Kenora, Swastika, Tweed, Parry Sound, Kapuskasing and Geraldton.

Thanes are being used to trace fires.

U.S. Will Resume Help for Tito

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is reported about ready to resume military aid, including jet planes, to Yugoslavia after banning any weapons shipments nearly a year ago.

A top-level decision to end the existing embargo is understood to be near, subject to President Eisenhower's final approval.

Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland, a vigorous foe of major military aid to Yugoslavia, is reported to have been advised by administration leaders that they are sympathetically considering such a move. However, Yugoslavia would not get the full backing of about 300 American jet fighters previously earmarked for delivery.

"And furthermore," the female battle-axe told the lawyer, "Yugo might warn my husband that if he misses a single alimony payment, I'll repeat it."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Southern Ontario's current warm spell appears to be in its last day today as colder air is pushing steadily southward across the province. The leading edge of the cold air has reached the North Bay-Sudbury area causing showers and a sharp drop in temperatures. As this cold front continues southward increasing cloudiness is indicated for southern regions followed by scattered showers or thunderstorms.

Friday will see cold weather firmly established over all parts of the province with temperatures below normal for this time of the year.

In Michigan, firefighters kept an anxious eye on tinder-dry sections after a winning fight over one of the worst timber blazes in years.

During the month-long dry spell in New York state, 30 forest fires have blackened almost 8,000 acres of woodland.

STATE OF EMERGENCY

Massachusetts declared a state of emergency and Maine clamped restrictions on its forests Wednesday night as fires gutted thousands of woodland acres in those states, New Hampshire, Vermont, Connecticut and New Jersey.

In Michigan, a 700-acre fire in the big Huron national forest near Lake Huron was brought under control Wednesday night after a half-day battle by 400 persons.

In Maine a wind-whipped blaze roared through 3,200 acres of forest in Jackman Wednesday night. The fire isolated a sporting camp owner and his wife, but forestry officials expected to get them out.

HOMES DESTROYED

Several homes were destroyed in the Plymouth-Carver area in southeastern Massachusetts.

In New York state, three houses and a barn were destroyed. A woman pleaded guilty to violating Governor Averell Harriman's forest-closing order and was fined $15.

Maine Governor Edmund Muskie suspended the open season for brush fishing and banned smoking in woodlands and building of outdoor fires.

Accused Admits Doorhandle Was Highly Charged

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Burdette Bristow, 49, of Port Dalhousie, Wednesday was committed for trial on a manslaughter charge in the death of a 16-year-old youth who was killed as an electrically charged doorknob of his unoccupied cottage April 2.

Gary Hart, 16, St. Catharines died a few minutes after he grabbed the doorknob which, Bristow testified, was charged to keep intruders from the cabin when he left for the expected diving equipment.

Provincial Police Corporal Fred Peer told a preliminary hearing one wire from a transformer was connected to the doorknob and another to a metal plate under the doormat. Two nails, one for each, Nails were driven through the plate and the planks from the bottom so that the wire touched the victim's shoe.

Bristow, former electrician, said he had installed the device to keep away a former lethal device. I have taken a number of wallops out of myself."

Magistrate H. R. Howitt of Toronto said: "No warning was posted for this dangerous device. It is possible a jury could come to a conclusion of guilt."

STAMFORD, Conn. (CP)—Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan Opera bass who became world-famous through his singing role in the Broadway musical South Pacific, died early today at the age of 64.

Physicians, Dr. Henry D. Fogel, said he "passed quietly in his sleep."

Pinza had suffered two heart attacks. One was at Cervia, Italy, on Aug. 26, 1956, which kept him in an Italian hospital for a short time. The second came at his home here last Dec. 3. He was in critical condition for about three weeks then at Greenwich, Conn., hospital.

Pinza also suffered a stroke late in April.

In addition to the doctor, those at Pinza's bedside when he died were his wife, the former Doris Leak; their two daughters, Clair, 15, and Gloria, 6, and their son Feyzer, 11.

Pinza also is survived by a third daughter, Mrs. Claudia Bolter who is known to his first wife, who is dead. Mrs. Bolter lives with her husband, Alfred, and their two children in Italy.

Pinza suffered his first heart attack—first described as a slight paralytic stroke — while on vacation at a villa in Cervia, 15 miles from his boyhood home at Ravenna, Italy.

Immediately, plans were cancelled for his first non-singing part in a Broadway drama, A Very Special Baby.

FARM PRODUCTS PRICE SPREADS INQUIRY URGED

Diefenbaker Pledges Commission if Elected

BRANTFORD (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker said today that if his party is elected June 10 the government will set up a royal commission to investigate price spreads on farm products.

In a statement issued aboard his campaign train intended as the basis for a press conference here, Mr. Diefenbaker said the royal commission would be asked to provide answers on "full and complete information" on what happens to food prices between farm and table.

He said farmers now receive a little more than 39 per cent of what is paid by consumers for food products, compared with a 50-per-cent share a few years ago.

Aboard the train with the PC leader was John A. Charlton, the party's farm spokesman in the forthcoming election in Brant-Haldimand.

MAJOR POLICY POINT

The promise to establish a royal commission is a major plank in a summary of Conservative agricultural policy which Mr. Diefenbaker on the second of six days of campaigning in Ontario.

The summary reiterated the Conservative promise of flexible price supports to ensure farmers "a fair price-cost relationship" on returns for farm products.

1. Be federal treasury help returns carry the loss when wheat is exported at "world parity" prices to "good customers" in the Commonwealth and elsewhere.

2. Farm cash sales be paid on farm-stored wheat, since the Canadian wheat board was the only marketing agency for prairie wheat and, in effect, owned it.

3. Develop a more realistic crop insurance plan" for drought, flood and hail, with co-operation with the prairie provinces.

FIRST TIME RAISED

Those three points have been presented before by the Conservatives but this was the first time they have been made a key PC platform in the election campaign.

His statement set out these other points in the party's agricultural program:

1. Protection for farmers against unwarranted import a t i o n s of agricultural products.

2. Extension of farm credit, particularly for young farmers to get a start and assist established farmers to enlarge their holdings.

3. Support for the establishment of producer marketing boards on the initiative of the farmers themselves if they want that.

4. Establishment of a soil and water conservation program in co-operation with the provinces.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement makes walk outside the door. Nails were driven through the plate and the planks from the bottom so that the wire touched the victim's shoe.

Bristow, former electrician, said he had installed the device to keep away a former lethal device. I have taken a number of wallops out of myself."

Magistrate H. R. Howitt of Toronto said: "No warning was posted for this dangerous device. It is possible a jury could come to a conclusion of guilt."

Stinging Words Being Used As Election Drive Warms Up

By CP STAFF WRITER

More are getting into the June 10 federal election act all the time.

A new political party—the Canadian Democratic—has been started in British Columbia. And its leader, Gerry Goeujon, 31-year-old University of B.C. law student, said at New Westminster Wednesday he has hopes to run about 20 candidates in the election.

In the Ottawa area meantime, Prime Minister St. Laurent was coming while Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker and CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell were going. Social Credit Leader Solon Low was headed for Brandon, Man.

Mr. St. Laurent had some stinging words to direct at Mr. Low on his return to Ottawa from a 12-day tour of Western Canada. He described as a "downright lie" Mr. Low's Victoria statement Monday that Mr. St. Laurent in telegrams to then British prime minister Eden last fall threatened "possibly Canada's withdrawal from the Commonwealth" unless British troops were withdrawn from the Suez zone.

At B r a n d o n, on his way through Ontario for a western tour, Mr. Diefenbaker proposed establishment of a special government branch to help small businesses, similar to that in the United States government.

Mr. Hamilton Howe got into the act on a CBC television program. Describing himself as a "cautious optimist," he said Canada is bursting at the seams now but is entering an era that will surprise even the most optimistic.

Canada was one of the most fortunate countries in the world, but the record would show that the Liberal government "has followed the kind of policies that have enabled Canada, and Canadians, to make good use of our good fortune."

While other speechmakers scurried about the country wooing voters, Mr. Coldwell made no public appearances. He was heading for Timmins and a Friday night speech there after spending most of the week in Ottawa.

Elsewhere, Finance Minister Martin praised the federal hospital insurance scheme in a Windsor luncheon conversation that returned him as Liberal defender for the Essex East seat he held in the last Parliament.

"The valuable protection will be of particular importance to older persons who are more likely to require hospital care and whose financial resources are not as great as those who are still in their earning years." But it would be available to all, no matter what their age, or economic circumstances.

George Hees promoted his party's cause by telling a public meeting at Rosetown, Sask., that the Conservative government in Ottawa would "assist the provinces in developing their own natural resources within their borders." The former president of the Canadian Legion was seeking re-election in Toronto Broadview.

The Liberal government's refusal to participate in the South Nahanni hydro power-irrigation project showed clearly it was "not interested in helping the people of the west to help themselves obtain a more diversified economy with a higher standard of living." But a Conservative government would help provinces to develop such projects.

Boy May Have Been Murdered Verdict of Coroner's Jury

GLENCOE, Ont. (CP)—A boy who disappeared from Skunk's Misery on Labor Day, 1954 and whose skeleton was found three weeks ago, may have been murdered, says a coroner's jury.

The jury found Wednesday night that Harold Tompkins, then 13, died from a skull fracture and other injuries "caused by a fall or by violence."

Showing a layout of bones to the jury, Dr. John Phillips, provincial pathologist, said the unusual position of fractures indicated death was "probably by violence, not by accidence," rather than from a fall.

Middlesex crown attorney Claude Savage said he was delaying a decision on charges until he examined a transcription of evidence.

After new rumors had reopened the disappearance, Wilfrid Tompkins, 37, led police to the boy's shallow grave in the Skunk's Misery desolate bushland 10 miles west of here. The territory which borders Middlesex, Lambton and Kent counties got its name in the prohibition era when it flourished in the production of variety of moonshine, including "swamp whisky."

Stubbs and his mother, Mrs. Rita Tompkins, 39, who have been held in custody as material witnesses since the finding of the skeleton, were key witnesses at the inquest.

Today at London the Crown withdrew a v a g r a n c y charge against Mrs. Tompkins after she was freed after 26 days in jail, when arrested in Wallaceburg in connection with the investigation into the disappearance and death of her son.

Mother and son had been living with Stubbs in his log cabin north of Bothwell, a few miles south of where the bones were found.

Stubbs claimed he found Harold Tompkins unconscious on Sept. 6, 1954, beside a house about 400 yards from his cabin. There—said in ladder against the house, and he believed the boy fell off the roof while trying to help himself.

He took the boy into the house and "put him on a bed with a pillow," Bill Simpson," the boy died in a few minutes.

Stubbs returned to his cabin by lantern light and told Mrs. Tompkins the boy was dead. Then—said both drove off in Stubbs' car, and Mrs. Tompkins said Stubbs took the body from the trunk and went into the bush. He returned without it.

Mrs. Tompkins said she was "afraid" to tell police that her husband was apparently dead.

Stubbs said he didn't report the boy's death to police "because I thought I would be blamed for it."

Both corroborated the statements they had given earlier to provincial police Inspector Harold Graham.

Of the evidence of William Simpson of Newbury, Stubbs said: "I wonder if Harold did fall off the roof or not."

Simpson said it was his "sixth sense" which told him that Harold Tompkins was the name before dying, even before police gave him the exact words.

"Kids," remarked Simpson, "admire the strangest people." He did not elaborate.

Hammarskjold Flies to Israel

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations flew to Israel today for talks on the Middle East situation with Premier David Ben-Gurion.

UN sources said the visit was suggested by Hammarskjold to Ben-Gurion and that, having been unable to arrange an agenda in an exchange of letters, they agreed to leave the agenda open. Hammarskjold is due to leave Israel since the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt last November.

Israeli foreign ministry officials said they expect to discuss withdrawal of relations between Egypt and Israel to be raised during the next two days. As for as Israel is concerned, the most important specific item for discussion is the Egyptian blockade on Israeli shipping through the Suez Canal.

PREMIERS MAKE BIPARTISAN PLEA FOR FEDERAL AID

Maritimers Agree on All Seven Items on Agenda

HALIFAX (CP)—The old cry of "Maritime rights" appears to have been refined into a new pattern of Atlantic provinces co - operation and solidarity.

Premiers of C a n a d a's four "Down East" provinces wound up a one-day conference here Wednesday night—their second in less than a year—by announcing agreement on all seven items on the agenda.

They also agreed to meet again Sept. 26 and 27 in Charlottetown.

JOIN IN PROGRAM

Liberal premiers of Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland joined Progressive Conservative premiers of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in calling for:

1. Federal subsidization on coal used in Maritime power plants.

2. Joint Atlantic region offices in the United Kingdom, and possibly the United States and the West Indies.

3. Annual federal payments for capital projects in the region.

4. Transportation for northern territories allotted other provinces.

5. A causeway from Prince Edward Island to the mainland.

6. Co-operation in expanding interprovincial education institutions.

7. A permanent four-man committee to maintain continuous contact between the four governments.

KEYNOTE THEME

The conference opened on the keynote "what's good for one is good for all." It ended with Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia saying: "We agreed on a surprising number of things."

The apparently unanimous feeling of the conference was reflected while contrasted with guarded optimism expressed at the first pre-conference meeting in Fredericton last July.

Premier Stanfield said the agreement to set up a joint regional office in London was a good idea by himself alone.

Premier Matheson of Prince Edward Island said: "We are agreed on the necessity for such conferences as this."

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland gave the conferences credit for helping awaken in Ottawa a new interest in the Atlantic region.

NEW AWARENESS

All four agreed that Canadians generally show a new awareness of the Atlantic provinces.

New Brunswick's Premier Fleming said: "As long as there is tangible evidence of a growing interest and concern in the welfare of the Maritimes, the people will be satisfied."

The conference named a committee to arrange for a regional study of resources and study prospects for similar offices in New York, the West Indies and elsewhere.

Another committee will present arguments at Ottawa on compensation for northern territories as allotted to other provinces in Confederation.

Premiers Flemming and Stanfield said causeway studies are necessary to lower power costs at thermal generating stations. The Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island premiers endorsed the idea.

The talks ranged from European integration to Britain's decision to slash her forces in West Germany by more than 20 per cent.

ONE MAIN TARGET

Chrysler Files Damage Suit Against Union

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has filed a $5,000,000-damage suit against Local 212 of the United Auto Workers union in the wake of a series of unauthorized work stoppages by the local's 23,000 members in Chrysler's body stamping division.

In addition, Chrysler asked Wednesday for $500,000 a day in benefits for each day in which the local interferes with its attempts to move tool, dies and fixtures from Detroit factories to a new plant at Twinsburg, Ohio. Both actions were filed in U.S. district court.

The corporation contended it has an agreement on both equipment and job transfers with the international UAW and that the local is violating it through work stoppages aimed at interfering with transfer of equipment to Ohio. The international is not a defendant.

Chrysler, in a telegram, asked Walter P. Reuther, UAW international president, "to immediately direct the officers of Local 212 to cease their obstructive and illegal activities, which are in violation of our contract with the UAW."

Local 212, meanwhile, was conducting a series of meetings of asking the international union for permission to call a strike against Chrysler. A body division walkout would shut down Chrysler within a day or two.

Man Shot in Leg In Beverage Room

TORONTO (CP)—An uproar developed in a crowded downtown area beverage room Wednesday night when Leo Boyd, 24, was shot in the left leg.

Police said a man fled from the women's beverage room while patrons stampeded in an effort to get out of the line of gunfire.

Witnesses said Ryan was shot after saying a man told him "you must be crazy" to be carrying a gun.

Three hours later a police officer found a man at a downtown intersection and arrested Garry Ryan, 25, charging him with being charged with wounding, having an offensive weapon, having an unregistered gun over a car, breach of ticket of leave, shopbreaking and possessing stolen property.

James A. Moore, Former Reeve of Elzevir Twp., Dies

Former dean of Hastings county council and well-known and highly respected in many parts of the county, James A. Moore, Queensboro, passed away in Belleville General Hospital early today. Mr. Moore was in his 85th year.

The death of Mr. Moore severs another link with the storied past of Hastings county municipal government. He took an active interest in the affairs of his native Elzevir township in his younger days and served for many years on the council.

Elected to the reeveship in 1912, Mr. Moore represented Elzevir for the next 35 years without a break in time of service. He held a distinct record for years of continuous service as reeve and member of a county council.

Mr. Moore was a highly esteemed member of the county body. He was made chairman of a number of bridge committees, a position he held for 17 consecutive years. He retired from active council duty in 1947 after his 35 tenure of duty he worked not only for the betterment of his township but for the county as a whole.

Son of a well-known county agricultural family, Mr. Moore spent most of his life on the 100 acre farm of his birth. He took an active interest in other phases of the industry and was a member of years president of the Queensboro Cheese Factory. He also acted as president of the Madoc Cheese Board for a lengthy period of years. Mr. Moore belonged to the Anglican Church. He retired from active farm life some years ago, but remained in residence in his farm home.

Mrs. Moore, the former Jessie Spencer, predeceased him a few weeks ago. There is no immediate family.

Surviving are two brothers, John Moore, resident of Queensboro now in his 91st year, and Robert Moore of Regina, Saskatchewan.

The funeral will take place from the late residence at Queensboro for service in Queensboro Anglican Church on Saturday, May 11 at 2 p.m.

Hastings-Frontenac Conservatives Meet

Expressing confidence of victory in the forthcoming election, George S. White, Progressive Conservative nominee for Hastings-Frontenac, (centre) and riding association heads Ralph Neal of Marmora and Wilfred Spencer of Rawdon township, join hands following nominating convention at Madoc. Mr. White, riding representative for the past 16 years, was unanimously nominated for what could be a fifth term at Ottawa.

George S. White of Madoc PC Nominee for Fifth Time For Hastings-Frontenac Riding

The unanimous choice of close to 500 party delegates, George S. White, Madoc barrister, was MP.P. for Hastings-Frontenac for the past 16 years, has again been nominated as the Progressive Conservative standard bearer in the forthcoming federal election.

Mr. White was the 30-1 choice of nominators at the party riding convention held Monday afternoon in the Madoc Armouries. Liberal nominee is Peter Wise Sandercock, M.L.A. for West Hastings, and Social Credit, Cecil Jenkins of Havelock.

In receiving the 30 nominations, the only other nominee being Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon township, past president of the riding association, who immediately withdrew his name to make the nomination unanimous.

"It's a great honor to represent the loyal riding of Hastings-Frontenac and to know that I have the support of the makers of Canada," Mr. White said as he accepted the nomination to the accompaniment of a standing ovation by party delegates.

"I hope that I have not disappointed you in the past, and I make no promises except one. That is, if I am elected, I will endeavor to serve all the people in the riding, not only those who supported the party, and in the best interest of Canada as a whole."

Guest speaker for the nomination meeting was Donald M. Fleming, M.P. for Eglinton, Toronto, who sharply criticized the Liberal government over its alleged methods of government.

RALPH NEAL NEW PRESIDENT

Ralph Neal of Marmora was named the new riding association president, succeeding Wilfred Spencer who resigns past president. The new secretary is Lloyd (Bud) Price of Actinolite with Bruce White as assistant.

The appointment of a new secretary came as result of the retirement of Charlie Buskard of Deloro who, with his predecessor, the late R. J. Graham, had been the only two riding association secretaries since 1932. Mr. Buskard is retiring from his position with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company and Mrs. Buskard says will move to Cobourg.

In his nomination acceptance speech Mr. White paid tribute to both Mr. Spencer and to Mr. Buskard for their work in connection with the riding association.

Riding vice-presidents named were Rodney Webb, Arnold Yorke, Arnold Gasbel, Noble Truesdale, Mac Martin and Chester Hamilton. Treasurer is George West of Madoc.

The report of the nominating committee, presented by Clarke T. Rollins of Coe Hill, was accepted unanimously.

Kenneth West, Madoc village councillor, welcomed party delegates to the convention in the absence of village Reeve Murray Smith. Mr. West's ears behind John Diefenbaker and do our part to elect him as the next prime minister of Canada," he urged.

MANY GUESTS PRESENT

Among those seated on the platform as president Spencer called the meeting were Donald Fleming, Q.C.; Rodney Robson, M.L.A. for East Hastings; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for West Hastings; B. Aylesworth, Peterborough, and Lee Grills, P.C. candidate for South Hastings.

In sixteen years as riding representative in the House of Commons, Mr. White said he had made urgent pleas for better prices and better markets for the Canadian farmer.

Instead, importations of farm products had been allowed at prices with which the Canadian farmer could not hope to compete. "It would be only fair to give farmers tariff protection," he said.

Mr. White said he had also always taken the part of the veteran and had taken a leading part in motions for their welfare.

The speaker vigorously attacked what he termed "government by bureaucratic boards" without the sanction of parliament. He said voters had only to recall the pipeline debate and how discussion had been ended by closure to realize how far the government has travelled down a dangerous path.

Claiming the government was attempting to "spoon feed" the people, Mr. White declared Canadians were capable of spending their own money without the assistance of the Liberals.

"If you take away initiative and incentive, then you have taken away what youth treasures most," he said.

CRITICAL OF POLICY

Mr. White was critical of the Liberal government policy in connection with the Suez crisis and said the party had been the only two riding association secretaries since 1932, Mr. Buskard is retiring from his position with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company and Mrs. Buskard says will move to Cobourg.

"First of all I am a Canadian and I want to keep Canada for Canadians. The future destiny of Canada is within the British Commonwealth of Nations."

Mr. White said he was not opposed to a distinctive Canadian flag, but declared that any new flag had to have the Union Jack in the upper left hand corner.

Turning to the forthcoming election, Mr. White said there were marvellous prospects of overwhelming success but with a possible four candidates in the field in Hastings-Frontenac it meant that every effort must be made to get out every vote.

"I have appreciated the loyalty and support given me in the past years," Mr. White said, noting that his majority had risen from a mere 200 16 years ago, to over 3,500 four years ago. "This was accomplished only by loyalty, support and hard work. It was many thanks."

PRAISES CANDIDATE

Before launching into his attack on the policies of the Liberal government, Mr. Fleming referred to Mr. White as "one of the most sincere and most experienced members of the House of Commons."

In again naming Mr. White as their candidate, Mr. Fleming said he congratulated riding delegates on what they had done for themselves, for their riding, and for Canada.

Then turning directly into the election, Mr. Fleming declared that this was no ordinary election.

"It is an election in which the people of Canada will be given the opportunity of getting rid of a government which has shown no sense of responsibility to the people" he declared.

He said the government had "snuffed out debate" on the pipeline issue, but fortunately the issue did not end in the House of Commons. "That will be ended on election day."

He said for all who treasure their freedom, the issue at stake is one of parliament itself.

The trend of government with out sense of responsibility of the people had been going on for years, according to Mr. Fleming.

He said parliament was being dominated by Hon. C. D. Howe and other cabinet ministers. Quoting a statement attributed to Mr. Howe in the House: "If we have exceeded our powers, I have no apology to make," Mr. Fleming asked if such a man knew the meaning of democracy.

In forcing closure on the pipeline debate the traditions of parliament had been brought into disgrace.

WARPED BY POWER

"If John Diefenbaker is elected, the supremacy of parliament and the integrity will be restored what a glorious day."

On the other hand, the Liberal government is returned, Mr. Fleming said they "will keep on getting away with it. The attitude of Liberals are warped by too much power for too long."

Some of the time honored Canadian institutions were constitutional democracy; the Commonwealth; parliamentary freedom, freedom of speech, according to Mr. Fleming. These were being skirted by the Liberals.

Mr. Fleming called for more federal financial aid to the municipalities, which he said were going deeper into debt and being "bled white" by taxation.

And this at a time when federal government finished the last fiscal year with an "embarrassingly large surplus."

WILL RAISE MORE TAXES

But instead of reducing taxes, Mr. Fleming said that the federal government "pickets guns" butter, would actually raise more taxes than ever from the people.

The six dollar increase in old age pensions to be effective this summer would mean only 10 cents per day extra to needy persons.

"The government is completely out of touch with reality. They don't understand the problems of the people of this country," he said.

Quinte Secondary School Cadets Inspected

The Belleville Armouries was taken over by the Air Force Wednesday morning as the Air Cadets of 608 Squadron from the Quinte Secondary School held their second annual inspection. Shown inspecting cadets on Armouries floor is Wing Commander G. H. Avent, DFC, CD, Training Command Headquarter, RCAF Station Trenton, and his party. With the inspecting officer is S/L E. A. Craighead, DFM, commanding officer of the air cadets. The Armouries balcony was jammed with students and parents who witnessed the ceremony.

Sponsoring Committee Host At Splendid Turkey Dinner

The sponsoring committee of No. 608 (Belleville) Squadron of Royal Canadian Air Cadets entertained Wing Commander G. H. Avent, other RCAF officers, Mayor Forrester, squadron instructors and other guests at a turkey luncheon in the Golden Arch yesterday noon.

W/C Avent, who returned to RCAF Station, Trenton, in 1956 after a three-year stint in Germany, is the staff officer of personnel administration at RCAF Training Command Headquarters, which is located at Canada's largest military airfield, nine miles west of Belleville.

One of his duties is to inspect 12 Air Cadet squadrons in southcentral Ontario and recommend which one should receive the coveted Strathcona Trophy, which is awarded annually to the most outstanding high school Air Cadet Squadron in the district.

Yesterday morning was the beginning of the wing commander's tour of inspection and it won't be known for some time which squadron won the trophy.

When asked to speak, Mayor Forrester was "happy to bring the congratulations of every Belleville citizen to everyone who took part in the inspection this morning. I am delighted that we have such a wonderful Air Cadet squadron in Belleville."

Squadron Leader L. R. Patlee, who is liason officer between Training Command Headquarters and Ontario Air Cadet squadrons, was particularly pleased with the work being carried out by squadron officers and instructors.

"I'm glad," he said, "if I had a bouquet of flowers I would give it to them."

SPOKE OF NEW HORIZONS

The squadron leader spoke of "new horizons" and "new opportunities" afforded the young men who join Canada's modern air force. A pilot himself, S/L Patlee (who won the Distinguished Flying Cross during the war), foresees the day, not too far off, "when maybe one of the Air Cadets here with us today will be piloting some type of vehicle so high in the air that, when he looks down, he will say: 'Well, it really is round'."

Mr. Brooks Allen, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board, which is affiliated with the sponsoring committee, thanked W/C Avent and his accompanying officers for "doing such a wonderful job of enlightening the public on RCAF activities." Mr. Allen is also very proud of the Air Cadet squadron in Belleville.

The principal of Quinte Secondary School, Mr. Leslie Reid, who is also the chairman of the sponsoring committee, spoke in his letter capacity and said: "We were indeed pleased with this morning's inspection" and thanked W/C Avent and his staff for inspecting the squadron.

"I think, sir," he smiled, "without looking too far afield, we can show you the winners of the Strathcona Trophy."

Mr. Reid highly commended the squadron's commanding officer, S/L E. A. Craighead, for the "tremendous job he has been doing for Belleville's Air Cadets".

Vice-chairman of the Ontario Air Cadet League, Mr. Douglas Whitley, explained that Air Cadets are not bound to the RCAF.

"This is not an RCAF group," he said. "It is a civilian movement started during the war) and sponsored by civilians who have the co-operation of the RCAF.

"We, as the Ontario Air League, are delighted with the co-operation of the RCAF. Without it, we wouldn't have any Air Cadet movement, believe me."

Mr. Whitley pointed out a few of the "plums that are ripe for the picking" which any Air Cadet can reach for. Once a year a number of deserving cadets are chosen to represent Canada on an exchange visit to the United Kingdom and the continent, with all expenses paid.

Cadets who pass the required medical examinations and attain good standing in Air Cadet academic subjects may be awarded flying scholarships, which enable them to learn to fly at a recognized flying club. This includes a total of 20 hours of dual and solo flying and upon the successful completion of the course, cadets are awarded their flying badges and are given private pilots' licences by the Department of Transport.

This year, possibly for the last time, a number of outstanding Air Cadets will be picked to compete against the Civil Air Patrol of the U.S. in an international drill competition at the C.N.E.

Also available, is a senior leaders' and drill instructors' course given annually at RCAF Station Camp Borden, Ont., the birthplace of the RCAF.

S/L Craighead highly commended the officers, civilian instructors and F/L Padre Don MacNaughton of Perth, who is the padre's liaison officer at Trenton Command Headquarters. He graciously thanked Her Worship, Mayor Forrester, for "taking time off from your office duties to attend the inspection and luncheon."

He also thanked S/L Patlee and F/L Keith Roulston (who works with S/L Patlee) for their "tremendous help" to the squadron. F/L Roulston was the squadron's liaison officer a few years ago.

S/L Craighead also had a nice word for Cadet Warrant Officer Bill Cox. "Give him a job and he will do it to the best of his ability," he said.

"It is due to our capable instructors and non-commissioned officers that we have a good squadron," he concluded.

The 60th annual conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Canada held its opening session in the Belleville Wesleyan Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, the Rev. H. Kiely of Ottawa, president of the conference, was in charge.

Lantern Hung to Frighten Beavers Used by Them to Speed New Dam

By W. W. BITTLE
In Tweed Forestry District
Weekly Report

Not only are beaver becoming a nuisance in some localities, but bold and lazy. At the close of the recent trapping season, a farmer and trapper in the Plevna area, living 1/2 mile from the nearest water, reported the following story to us.

Towards the wee hours of the morning, the farmer was aroused by the excited barking of his two hounds. Several attempts to quiet the animals failed. Finally around 4 a.m. when it became apparent that there would be no further sleep unless something could be done about the noise, the farmer went out to investigate. Here the owner found both dogs looking toward their dog-house and the presence of their master gave them added courage to approach closer and to snarl and bark more viciously, but it was quite obvious they would not enter or even get too close to the entrance.

Very cautiously the farmer peered into the dog-house and low and behold, there sat an extremely large beaver on the skinned - out carcass of another which had been placed there as food for the dogs.

It is any person's guess as to whether the beaver was looking for ready-made lodging or attending the wake of a departed friend.

While we leave the first one to we will let you decide on the next.

A farmer from near the same area was having nuisance beaver trouble and reported same to the local conservation Officer. He was told he could destroy the dam and then to hang a lantern nearby and to place tin cans along a wire which would frighten the animals away.

This was tried and several days later the farmer reported the following story.

After the lantern and tin cans were strung along and over the creek where the dam had been built, farmer waited for a couple of nights to see what effect they had. When he returned he was amazed to see a new and larger dam nearly completed. Several beaver were busily employed at construction, while one was holding the light and another was using one of the tin cans to carry water to the workers so as to prevent any delay.

HEART-WARMING STORY FROM AFRICA

Out of Africa, via the BBC, comes a story to warm the heart.

Northern Rhodesia has a government which is not fully democratic in form. Two European members are nominated to the legislature by the Crown and one of these must be nominated to the executive council or cabinet. The nominated cabinet member is Harry Franklin, who is minister of education and social services.

Mr. Franklin, in a recent address on the BBC overseas service, said that the Crown nominates two European members of the legislature to strengthen African interests. Does that bring a wry smile? Has it an unpleasantly familiar sound, akin to statements by segregationists in the south, American or African? Well, do not jump to conclusions.

Listen to Mr. Franklin: "Economically, the color bar in industry must go, and it is slowly on its way out. Politically, the Africans must have a voting power, and therefore more representation, and that too is on its way. Socially, I believe most of our Europeans still think there should be no contact. That belief is based on an unnecessary fear of intermarriage, which Africans emphatically do not want, and on ignorance of the fact that there is now an ever increasing number of educated, civilized, and Westernized Africans with whom it is possible to have reasonable and pleasant social contact on an equal footing."

Fair words? Well, Mr. Franklin has matched them with deeds.

"I have always heard the same thing from colored 'nationalist leaders,'" he declared in his talk. "We know,' they say, 'you British are just and incorruptible. You have brought us hospitals and roads and bridges, but you will have nothing to do with us outside your work.' I determined that we must stop this feeling growing in Rhodesia, if we are to succeed in creating a peaceful and happy state which can only be created by white men and black working in friendship together."

So, two years ago, Mr. Franklin took the initiative by organizing an inter-racial association which operates strictly non-political clubs, where white man and black mingle together. The clubs do not seek to create any contact between the races. What they do strive to accomplish is to create an atmosphere of mutual understanding, respect and friendship among the leaders of both races. Pictures accompanying a report of Mr. Franklin's radio speech, in "London Calling," show Indian, African and European members of these clubs playing billiards and tennis and gathered around a bar for a cool beer.

Here is an approach poles apart from that of the advocate of apartheid in South Africa or of the segregationist in the Southern States.

Will it work?

"People who thought we were woolly-minded idealists are now coming our way," says Mr. Franklin.

Sometimes it seems as if the only truly practical man is the idealist. For, if the world is to live in peace, its racial problems must be solved. Many believe these problems are potentially as dangerous as the nuclear weapons race. Mr. Franklin appears to share that view. We have not much time: the warning words with which he concluded his broadcast.

POLITICAL PUZZLE

Newspapers with Conservative leanings are attaching considerable significance to the active support which Premier Leslie Frost is extending to the Progressive-Conservative cause in the present federal election campaign.

It will be interesting to see whether the results are sufficiently clear-cut to permit observers to reach any definite conclusion about Premier Frost's influence on the vote.

If, when the votes are counted, it becomes evident that Premier Frost's active participation in the campaign has increased the Progressive-Conservative vote in this province perceptibly, he will be faced with a pretty problem.

Should this be taken as proof that provincial premiers carry great weight with the voters of their province, even when a campaign is being fought on Federal issues? Or should it be taken as additional proof of the personal popularity of Premier Frost?

If the former answer is advanced, what explanation could be offered for the fact that, on many occasions in the past, provincial and federal elections held within brief periods of time have produced widely differing results — a phenomena which even gave rise to a theory that Canadian voters were deliberately switching their political allegiance between provincial and federal elections in order to maintain a balance of power, turning provincial governments into a variety of unofficial opposition to the Liberal regime at Ottawa?

When you buy a lot for a new home you feel like you own the earth—that is until you go out to purchase some topsoil for it.—Sarnia Canadian Observer.

CALENDAR

Perhaps our calendar should be more orderly; I don't know.
The one we have has suited me;
I've watched the leaves days come and go.

And with us through the week they stay.
On time the monthly bills come in,
But not on time them all I pay.

A few brief seconds incorrect
They say our seasons will upset;
But still what's mere sun's error?
I haven't missed a pay day yet.

Astronomers must be exact
When checking stars and moon facts;
But I can't say that I have lacked
The time for more I could have done.

Channel Tunnel Chaos

By John Allan May, writing from London to the Christian Science Monitor

The great question is what happens in the middle of the tunnel?

I mean this channel tunnel from Dover to Calais which most at last seems certain to be driven under the bed of the English Channel (La Manche).

With tunnel how far do "territorial waters" extend? Three miles? Five miles? Or up to the open middle — in this case 11½ miles? Where do French laws stop and British laws take over, and vice versa?

In other words, when do you stop driving on the left and switch over to the right? That's coming from England, of course. The problem the other way is the problem in reverse.

This is the sort of practical problem we had better start thinking about right now. Unless we get it sorted out there will inevitably be utter confusion in the centre of the tunnel.

It would, I suppose, be possible to have the ingenious pretzel design to have the two lines of traffic cross under each other's noses in the middle and come back again so that everyone who was driving on the left would continue safely find himself driving on the right when he came to emerge at Dover. But it would be a great deal simpler to face the problem now and get it out of the way before so that everyone normally drives on the right side of the road.

The second great question then arises, shall we British start driving on the left when the rest of the world be converted to our point of view? Or shall we come to the left? To any good Briton there is only one possible answer.

We might go the whole way and at the same time convert the rest of the world to our currency system. That would be a wonderful thing simpler for everybody. (Except, maybe, those who now use to you accept the French definition of speed limit in the recently issued UNESCO handbook—"a somewhat pointless form of play."

If we could persuade the Americans that there were ideally 240 pfennigs in a mark, 24 pfennigs in a penny, 20 pennings in a schilling, three pfennigs in a pennigwalig a sport. That is even pfennigs in a pfennig perhaps they would not take commerce so seriously.

Maybe dollar-chasing could be entirely ruined as an exciting sport if there were six cents in a dime, 24 dimes in a dollar and 24 dimes in a double-dollar (the dubloon). This is the System-of-24. And it's fun, don't you think?

The above is only, of course, a rough outline. But clearly if we are to persuade the world to our point of view we must start doing something now. If we fail to can see no possible consequence except confusion. Unless it is that we should adopt the point of view of the rest of the world.

This means the sacrifice of many of our cherished coins and customs. Frequency Monday at Scrunge (when everybody within the bounds whose name is Tom gets a silver fivepence and every toasted muffin) would for instance obviously have to go. And we should lose also the half-crown, which is one-eighth of a pound and twenty-four (one-penny one-four-hundred-and-eighthieth) and the shilling (one-nine-hundred-and-sixtieth).

Presumably under a decimal system we should still be able to keep the florin (two bob) and the bob (one shilling). The tuthenpeck (sixpence) and tenpurpshit (thruppence) would have to go. Other obvious changes would be fivepence in a bob. The old island would simply not be the same.

The same, of course, applies, only more so, to having people driving around here on the right hand side of the road. It would not look right. It wouldn't do at all. Yet a tunnel involves the British inextricably to the rest of Europe. On a boat one has time to adjust oneself to change (even, if you are a Socialist, to British small-change). A boat lends distance to a journey—a good one—and distance lends enchantment.

The same is just not true of a tunnel. Any change is an abrupt one. And, of course, to deal with things like cars, it is patently best if there isn't one.

The Channel Tunnel clearly is going to bring great changes. I think we should start doing this at once and while there is time persuade the rest of the world to join us. The British Council ought even now to be mounting its new world-wide Drive-on-the-Left campaign and its subtle propaganda in favor of the System-of-24.

After all, you can't deny that there are 24 hours in a day. They work out all right, doesn't it?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THREE BABY SQUIRRELS

Through an accident to the mother, I have on my hands three small baby grey squirrels. Their eyes are just beginning to look out upon a new and strange world. Their soft coat of fur is like spun silk. I have been told by those who claim to know, that would be an insult to nature. So I am the new mother to each. I have been feeding them milk with a medicine dropper and they seem to be growing fine.

Nothing I can pull them through to robust life. Even though I fail, I feel confident He will take note of these tiny orphans from His outer world. He has a purpose in all animals in nature, but the beautiful grey squirrel has long been a favorite of me and the pleasure from my library window, they taking them from my fingers.

Yes, I know that many look upon these beautiful small animals as destructive pests. The destruction is not great, and they romp over my forest yard, happy and industrious. They are not lazy. The mother of these three baby squirrels got caught in a fierce and savage storm while clearing it. She escaped, but had to leave her babies behind. So I came their only friend and godfather, plus their only mother, for she never was seen again.

I take my little charges in my hand and talk to them each day. These small animals have interested many a nature writer, including John Burroughs, Charles Muir, E. V. Lucas, and Edwin Way Teale. I take my place with them! I appeal to all Nature's mother to keep these three baby squirrels alive.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Lunch time was well past. When I drove over to the small roadside restaurant to break my journey with a bite to eat, the customers had all gone, and I found the chief the proprietor resting his elbows on the cash register counter drowsily reading a newspaper spread before him.

But from the kitchen, and its steamy doors, came an extraordinary sound...Girls singing.

They were singing beautifully, gaily.

"Hello," I said. "Got a rehearsal going on?"

"Aw, no," replied the proprietor. "It's those country kids. We hired two sisters from up in the backwoods here. Now they got the whole staff singing."

"That's good!" I checked.

"I suppose it is," reflected the proprietor. "They certainly have made everybody more cheerful, I must say."

I took a pew, and the proprietor went to the back and told one of the girls to come and wait on me. The singing went on.

"No, I wish I were," she said. "It's just just harmless."

"You like it, eh?"

"I'm very sure," said she. "I always sing, though singing was, you know, sort of professional. It was what you heard at the end of TV. It's always done by somebody else."

"No, that's different," explained the girl. "I mean just singing around, any old time. What'll you have, sir?"

She was anxious to get back in the kitchen.

So I ate my sandwich slowly to the light fluid tones of a pleasantly sung by what might have been four or five girls and apparently they were also soft, some in chorus. As I paid my check, the proprietor woke from his dour over the paper.

"You know," he said, "when I was a kid, forty years ago, you heard a lot of that, all over the place. But I guess it has gone professional, like the plumber and the motor mechanic, the painter, the electrician. Nobody does anything for themselves no more. Even singing."

He has been connected with baseball for many many years and was considered one of the best back-stops in the province of Ontario. In many positions in the club, having been captain for a long period and has served as advisory coach. "Penny" is well liked by all members of the club and is popular with the fans — he is certainly the man for the job. In securing the job of management to take up the duties of umpiring the club loses a clever base ball man in the person of Walter Grower, who has been a real booster and during his regime the team has twice reached the finals for the Intermediate championship. His judgment has been a valued factor in placing the team in the high place it has held. He and Ken Colling will umpire all games in the Bay of Quinte loop. He has a host of friends. Newton Thompson, the retiring president, is not new to local baseball circles; he will handle the ball with efficiency and the club made no mistake in selecting him for the office of president.

Poachers Use Autos

Manchester Guardian

The modern poacher in England is different from yesterday's simple chesked old man with his snares, ferrets and nets. A portrait of the modern poacher is given by Hugh Bradley, game keeper to the Manchester Corporation's waterworks estate in Cheshire.

Modern poachers work in partnership. They drive out from town in a large car shortly before dusk, and work during darkness. They are generally middleclass people who have better than average luck (fitted with telescopic sights and a silencer) and an automatic 12 bore shotgun.

Their chief victims until recently were grouse, partridge and pheasant, but now rabbits are also taken.

The moors where the poaching takes place have an air of foul play that any film producer would favor. A grey scene of smoke hangs halfway down the valley, jagged rocks are black to the factory chimneys.

The poachers often start the day by firing some shots at the top of the valley to attract the keepers, then drive to the bottom where the real slaughter begins.

The sheep are taken back to town where they fetch about £1 apiece—less than normal because the carcasses have not been bled.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Whadaya Mean Diseased?

"My little boy will be 3 next month and the doctor says his tonsils should be removed this summer, as they are diseased. Two children in our town died during this operation, and we are therefore greatly worried. Yet we are fearful that rheumatic fever or something of the sort may develop from the tonsils as they are" . . . (R.L.M.)

Children two to ten years of age have one or two attacks of sore throat or tonsillitis in the course of coddling season (winter and spring) whether their tonsils have been hacked out or not. In some instances, children who have been subjected to the strategy known as "discovery" may have only mild or no sore throat afterward; but in as many or more instances, they continue to have recurrent attacks of sore throat or tonsillitis.

The tonsil is that enlarged (hypertrophied) tonsils of childhood are usually more diseased, all, but merely enlarged. This enlargement is a manifestation of health. It is nature's way of protecting the child from infection, particularly from the ills—common respiratory infections and which account for most illnesses of childhood", including poliomyelitis.

Children should have enlarged tonsils at this time of the year. Only when there is obstruction or breathing or impairment of hearing by the enlarged tonsil is surgery advised, and then only routine surgery, not the major operation called tonsillectomy. What the child needs is tonsilotomy, which is instantaneous, as safe as extraction of a tooth, and as effective in every respect as the dangerous tonsillectomy. Tonsilotomy, a minor operation, may be done in the doctor's office with or without anesthesia. It consists in placing the ring of the tonsilotome (a guillotine-like gadget) around the portion of tonsil that is to be sliced off, pulling the trigger, and the operation is over.

R.L.M. should give her little boy a tonsilotomy. There is no urgency unless the doctor becomes impatient. Just look to it that he gets his daily cod liver oil — a teaspoonful every day. He should get around the portion of tonsil that is to be sliced off, pulling the trigger, and the operation is over.

Shorter Week And Boredom

Financial Post

The four-day week will soon be here. That's the current cry of factory workers.

Walter Reuther, head of the Auto Workers, has formally announced that by 1960 he will be asking "the costliest wage packet ever" — the four-day week plus enough weekly pay for four days than is now being received for five days.

The average American worker's week was 69.8 hours in 1850. It was 60.3 hours in 1900. It was 44.1 hours in 1955. Over the whole period the rate of reduction has been 0.3 hours per week per decade —faster since 1900 than it was before.

Judging from the past record, of working hour reductions, the four-day week may be standard in 20 years. But if Reuther and other union leaders intend to do it faster it is almost certainly to the achievement of this goal right away. It could become widespread by the early 1960s.

We don't think upward pressure can be relieved that much. But here are a few comments:

We are living in an age of inflation. Most of the time it is creeping rather slowly. The four-day week is almost certainly to speed it up very greatly.

Can productivity suddenly be increased 20% to make a four-day week achieve the same as a five-day week? That is hard to imagine. Actually the annual rate of increase is about 2½% per year in man-hour output.

So what does that situation mean? Drastic spoilation of people with the accumulated fat of years and of the people on fixed incomes who cannot protect themselves against rising prices.

But there's also a social question involved. What is the country going to do with that bonus of 26 carefree hours? How are they going to use the extra five-day weekend that happens 52 times a year?

The optimistic theory is that all of us, when released from toil for another precious hour, use our spare time improving our minds and bodies. On every block we may see people to find masses of eager citizens improving their minds by reading Plato, going to concerts, venturing into the country to try their hand at landscape-painting or even planting daffodils?

Human experience says no. Beer and baseball will claim more clients than Bach and Beethoven, and poker more than sleep more than Shakespeare.

There is nothing the matter with fun and games; but we seriously suggest that a perpetually recurring four-day weekend is not the answer to anything.

Even though "the dignity of labor" may be an unpopular phrase today, man's most satisfying happiness is still in his work.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE GREEN-EYED MONSTER

I do not know who first called jealousy a "green-eyed monster," but it is certainly an old expression for Shakespeare used it in his great play, Othello, and it is a very apt and vivid expression, as it suggests the unpleasantness and bitterness of jealousy on our lives.

Jealousy does nothing hurts our personal relationships with, others more than anything else. It usually destroys respect for others. Admiration or esteem for someone who has been better than we have been or a fine thing, leading to emulation and our own eventual success but the jealous man cannot admire, for he only hates and envies.

Jealousy poisons friendship. If we are jealous of our friends, then we resent their good fortune and rejoice at their failures—an attitude which soon puts an end to friendship. Jealousy shatters love. When we are jealous, we can no longer trust; and when we cannot trust, we cannot love.

But even worse than what jealousy does to our relations with others is what it does to ourselves. The jealous man is sour and bitter, for he is always consciously conscious of whatever others have. The jealous man is sorry for himself. He hates others for getting ahead, instead of blaming himself for failing behind, and learning from their success.

4-Room Addition to Bayview School in Thurlow Township Opened Before Large Assembly

Although in use since the beginning of the year, the our-room addition to Bayview School, No. 20 in the South Thurlow School area was officially opened on Wednesday evening by J. H. Kennedy, Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Education in the Department at Toronto. The auditorium was filled to capacity with parents, pupils, teachers on the staff, the Trustee Board of the area, members of the Thurlow township council and invited guests.

In cutting the ribbon to declare the addition opened Mr. Kennedy dedicated the building to "the youth of the community that they may take their place in society as useful citizens of this great democracy." Mr. Douglas Atkins, chairman of the board, and chairman for the ceremony, welcomed the rounded by members of the board, Douglas McLean, Arnold Mitchell, Bert Henderson, and Ken Greatrix with Ross C. Bailey as secretary-treasurer. Also prominently seated were Reeve Alf Wickett and Harry Pound, members of Corah Howard, Ralph Plumpton and Robert Hopwood-Jones, members of the council. Also on hand at the school, H. E. Darling, principal; Mrs. H. Walkom, Mrs. T. Perrett, Mrs. George Clay, Miss Nancy Jackson, Mrs. T. Roberts and Mrs. H. E. Darling were seated in a body with Donald Bell of section one, William Lott of section four and Miss Marion Valentine of section three. Gordon Hutchison is president of the Parent-Teacher Association of the school and at the close of the ceremony, the women of the organization served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee.

A varied program was given by pupils of the various schools in the Area with Mrs. J. Parrott, director of music, in charge. Marilyn Mitchell and Mary Ellen Clapp sang a duet, Mrs. Robert Atkins gave an accordion solo, Jane Thomson gave a piano solo. Peter Lipes, a violin solo and Richard Harrigan, Terry Gervan, Stephen Hanson, Kenny Smith and David McLean contributed a chorus and all numbers were enthusiastically received.

REEVE WICKETT HONORED

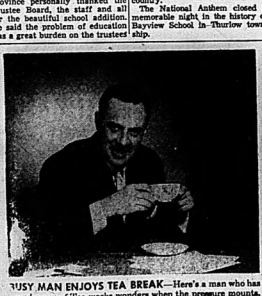
Reeve Alfred Wickett was signally honored, when Arnold Mitchell, a member of the Area Board presented him with a brief case for his many years of service as secretary-treasurer of the board. Mr. Wickett was forced to resign his office, when he undertook higher municipal office and he was taken completely by surprise. He stated the hours spent in the deliberations of the board were happy recollections and he wanted his wife to be remembered as she had helped on many occasions when work piled up.

The greeting of the County of Hastings was brought by the Warden, Leslie McLaren, while Roy Sills, member of the Quinte High School District Board, brought greetings from that board and told his listeners that the board was prepared to accommodate those pupils who will graduate in the years to come by securing a site not far from the school now being honored. Alfred Wickett, Reeve, brought the greetings of the township and praised the board for the excellent job they had done and overcoming the financial difficulties they had encountered along the way. Mr. Darling, principal of the school, took his audience back into the past when the school was first composed of two rooms, then four and now eight. He thanked all, who in any way, had contributed to the success of the undertaking and he was sure, with the staff of teachers now engaged that the pupils of the community would be well looked after in mind, body and soul.

Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East in the Legislature of the Province personally thanked the Trustee Board, the staff and all for the beautiful school addition. He said the problem of education was a great burden on the trustees and ratepayers and the end of the road was not in sight for he said as the population increased and that will surely happen more schools will be needed but he was sure that the government would stand behind those earnest people, who were trying to put children out in the world as useful citizens.

INTRODUCES SPEAKER

In introducing the speaker of the evening Mr. Robson stated that Mr. Kennedy had progressed through the various stages of the education program and would be a welcome addition to members of the Department of Education in the Province. Mr. Kennedy after thanking Mr. Robson for the kind introduction brought greetings from the department and hoped the school would fulfill the need it was intended for. "The residents of Thurlow township have accepted the responsibility for the future and have recognized the need and bravely accepted the task and tonight we see this beautiful new wing to a very fine building" said Mr. Kennedy. "The speaker pointed out that the duties of a board in 1930 were to select teachers, find and build school buildings but today they have to seek teachers and plan for the future needs and education will continue for a long time. "If we accept the 20th century" he said the speaker, "we can expect an immigration of 75,000 per year, a heavy increase in population by 1980, a shorter working week and a gross national product of 31 billions." He showed how some of the pupils now going to the school would be out working and helping to pay off the debenture debt before the final payments were made. Mr. Kennedy dealt with the part the Department plays in helping the various boards in securing new schools. He showed that the grants for schools were based on population in the cities and on assessments in the rural areas and stated that the grants for school purposes in 1956-57 were $84,000,000 and this year 100 million dollars will be required.



Mr. Kennedy showed that the school population was up 48,000 over June of last year with the same period up 14,000 over the same period and that 1,800 additional rooms were needed. In 1953 there were 425 building projects to provide 63,500 pupil spaces at a cost of $20,217,000. The teachers kept pace with this advancement as 2,400 graduated. "More thought is being given to education than ever before" said Mr. Kennedy.

MUST KEEP EYE TO FUTURE

"We must keep our eye to the distant goal with respect to education" said the speaker. "We must stress the three Rs, provide individual differences, accelerate the brilliant, streamline the course for the slow learner, use group procedures, plan terminal courses and enrich the program for the gifted." This will give a well rounded, well developed, give adjusted individual and well equipped to live in a modern society." In closing Mr. Kennedy said that the people of Thurlow should ought to be proud of the new addition that was made possible through the Trustee Board, the Reeve and council, the Department of Education, the member for the riding, the school inspector, the architect, the principal and his staff and without whom the new project would be useless. The most important item in the whole scheme are the children for they are the centre of the project.

Mr. A. Cummins, inspector for the area sincerely thanked the speaker for the constructive address and personally thanked all the officials in any capacity who, in any way had any part in the completion of the new addition. "It is a worthwhile project and all of us will benefit from the material that is sent away from this building to take his or her part in the moulding of this great country."

The National Anthem closed a memorable night in the history of Bayview School in Thurlow township.

Election Denied, President Rojas Retains Office

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—More turbulence appeared in prospect today for Colombia following the re-election of President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla by the government-picked Constituent Assembly.

Ignoring widespread demands for a popular election, the assembly voted Wednesday night—76 to 0—to give Rojas another four-year term beginning in August, 1958.

Violent protest demonstrations and strikes have kept the country in an uproar since Friday. Troops and armored cars guarded the capital as the assembly met.

The assembly, which Rojas named to rewrite the constitution, voted two days earlier to suspend constitutional articles requiring popular election of the chief executive and forbidding a president to succeed himself. Rojas took power in a military coup in 1953.

USE TEAR GAS

Before and after the assembly meeting police broke up several scattered demonstrations with tear gas. Observers reached Bogota that from 15 to 50 persons were killed and more than 100 injured Tuesday in anti-Rojas riots in the textile milles southwest of here. Uncontirmed reports said police fired bayonets and a gunfire against the crowd.

The press reports were officially reported killed in Bogota and Cali during the disorders.

About 1,000 poorly dressed Protestant demonstrators took to the streets before the assembly meeting and demanded the reopening of all banned industries.

The government radio claimed "some agitators are coercing stores to oblige them to close" but declared police "will guarantee complete order." Another broadcast said banks that participated in the business strike would be punished by having the interest rates on their deposits reduced.

There was no indication today that the bankers, businessmen and manufacturers who have led the strike intend to back down. There were no reports in Bogota as shops remained closed through a second day.

Only government-operated banks were open. A list 01 closed commercial establishments made public by government showed at least 20,000 employees were affected in this city of 325,000 population.

Bogota and Cali were under military rule. Loudspeaker trucks toured the streets calling on merchants to open their stores.

Rojas blames the unrest on a conflict between labor and employers. Leaders of a dozen important unions in Bogota have announced their support for him.

Election Campaign

Diefenbaker Sees No Hope for CCF Or Social Credit

BROCKVILLE (CP) — John Diefenbaker has said the CCF or Social Credit parties have no hope of forming the government at Ottawa and are contributing to undermine the parliamentary system.

Third parties had set up regional groupings in the Commons and ruined the two-party system, the Progressive Conservative leader said here Wednesday night.

"No Parliament divided in that way can function. Unity can only be maintained by preservation of the two-party system."

He raised the issue in referring to the recent entry of a Social Credit candidate in Leeds constituency here against a Liberal and a Conservative candidate.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there was no hope of achieving power at Ottawa. "Within the ordinary period of contemplation" only the Conservatives were able to form an effective government, he said. "The general administration and every vote of a third party has the effect of assuring the return of the Liberal party."

OPPOSE TOUR

Mr. Diefenbaker, who opened a six-day Ontario tour here, speaks today at Whitby, Oshawa, Lindsay, Kent and at Windsor, focal point of three Essex County ridings. All four were held by Liberals in the last Parliament.

He said: "They gave nothing but what they took from you and me. That type of Roman holiday at the expense of the people will end democracy."

He criticized what he said was a "whispering campaign" that a Conservative government would cut established welfare benefits. All benefits would be maintained under the Conservatives.

EVERY FOUR YEARS

The Liberal government had degraded Parliament in recent years and merely went to the people every four years to tell what had been done.

"It would simply be easier to elect Mr. Howe as Number One, Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Gardiner and then as philosopher and pundit Mr. Pickersgill," he said with acrimony.

"There's no reason to elect the rest of them. These are the men who determine what Parliament does."

A Conservative government would set up a committee, with representatives of the cabinet and small business associations, to recommend effective action to help small businesses.

Prime Minister Accuses Low of Telling Untruth

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent last night accused Social Credit eader Solon Low of uttering a "downright lie" about undisclosed contents of telegrams Mr. St. Laurent sent to then British prime minister Sir Anthony Eden during the Suez crisis last fall.

He also offered—though it was more in the nature of a challenge —to have another Privy Council member, after reading the classified telegrams, assure Mr. Low that there was no threat in them.

He made his statements to reporters Wednesday night on his return by air to the capital from a 13-day campaign for the June 10 federal election that took him some 5,000 miles across Western Canada.

Today he attends an afternoon cabinet meeting, then leaves for his Quebec City home for the weekend. He is to speak there Monday.

LOOKS FIT

The 75-year-old Liberal chief looked fit and vigorous as he was met by Resources Minister Lesage Privy Council President Chevrier and some 20 others.

But he left them for a few minutes when newspaper men approached. It was windy and threatening rain. So he drew the reporters to a sheltered spot on the edge of the terminal. Then he tugged a newspaper out of his coat pocket and read a Victoria report of an interview with Mr. Low last Monday. He had first read it on the plane.

The report quoted Mr. Low as saying Mr. St. Laurent "told British that if it did not withdraw its troops from the canal zone within a specified time some very drastic action would be taken — possibly Canada's withdrawal from the Commonwealth."

The Social Credit leader said the prime minister made the threats in telegrams to Sir Anthony and that he thought Mr. St. Laurent "is going to be forced to reveal the telegrams."

"I can't imagine any justification for Solon Low to make any assertion of that kind," Mr. St. Laurent said heatedly. "In fact it amounts to a downright lie."

As for the statement that Canada might have withdrawn from the Commonwealth that was a "ridiculous assertion." Mr. St. Laurent noted that he told the Commons several times he had "never made any threat whatsoever" in his four correspondence with Sir Anthony.

His cabinet oath bound him to keep the secrets of the Privy Council members, bound by the same oath, could be shown the telegrams. He would show them to any of the 50-odd members Mr. Low might choose.

The member could not disclose the contents Mr. Low, but could assure the Social Credit leader that Mr. St. Laurent was telling the truth when he said there were no threats in the telegrams.

The top "laker" tipped the scales at six-and-one-quarter pounds. The biggest — and they were many — of the speckled weighed three and one-quarter pounds.

That's the story of George Dewsbury and party of seven who spent three days in the park— and they have pictures to prove it.

In the party were, besides George, Charles and Mrs. Dewsbury, Fred Neal, Albert Dewsbury, of Flint, Michigan, and Ray Staley and Charles Wilson. of Rittman, Ohio.

It is recommended good taste to combine several sets of early American furniture in one room. A Windsor chair, a ladderback chair and a Boston rocker, may be used together although they are from different eras. Window shops, shown above, are popular today.

Weddings

MITCHELL — FINDLAY

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, May 4, at 2.30 p.m. in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, by the Reverend C. W. Hamilton, when Ruth Sharon Findlay, of Bellevville, was united in marriage to Harold Allan Mitchell, also of Bellevville. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Findlay, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Mitchell, all of Bellevville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Mr. Boyd Findlay, was attractively attired in pouvdre blue organza lafette in sweetheart fashioned with fitted bodice having a "V"-shaped neckline and three-quarter sleeves. She wore a white half hat, white gloves, and a corsage of pink roses, mingled with white kvacinth bells.

She was attended by Mrs. Jack Laundrie, of Bellevville, sister of the bridegroom, who was becomingly gowned in aqua net over taffeta in street-length with matching half hat, and corsage of yellow roses.

Mr. Jack Laundrie, of Bellevville, assisted the bridegroom.

The reception was held at the bride's home where bride's mother received guests wearing a navy and white carnation corsage, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in turquoise glazed cotton with pink carnation corsage.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask centred by a three-tier wedding cake surrounded by a miniature bride and bridegroom, and encircled about the base with a wreath of white roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell are residing in Bellevville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the recipient of a lovely woollen blanket presented to her by her co-workers of the Northern Electric.

TANKER AT RIAT

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A second United States tanker, loaded with oil apparently from Iran, has reached the southern Israeli port of Eilat, it was reported Tuesday from Aqaba, which is in Jordan a short distance from Eilat at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba. Information received indirectly from Israel substantiated the Jordan report but censors apparently were keeping Jerusalem correspondents from calling the news for fear that publicity might incite the Arabs to stop such shipments.

HOLLOWAY WMS

The Holloway St. WMS held its May meeting in the church parlor on Tuesday afternoon in the form of a "Service of Intercession for Home Missions".

The hymn "As Comes the Breath of Spring" was sung in unison followed by prayer by the president, Mrs. T. Y. Townsend.

The secretary, Mrs. Smith read a letter of invitation to the Society from the Picton WMS to attend their May meeting on May 22nd when Miss Dorothy Pearson, returned missionary, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. Johns instructed some interesting facts about the activities of Miss Tillman, missionary for prayer.

Mrs. Weese reported 38 calls made on sick and shut-ins at home and in hospital during April and May.

Mrs. Bunnett reported on the bale being packed at her home and made a special appeal for children's apparel and also stressed the need for used, clean clothing.

After reporting on the supply work which should be the Christian concern of all WMS workers, Mrs. Bunnett concluded her remarks with the timely poem—

"Because I have been sheltered, fed
Because I have been clothed, fed
I too, shall give;
Because of Thy great bounty, Lord,
Each day I live
I shall divide my gifts from Thee
With every brother that I see
Who has the need of help from me,
Because I have been sheltered, fed
By Thy good care,
I cannot see another's lack
And I not share
My growing fire, my loaf of bread,
My roof's shelter overhead,
That he, too, may be comforted."

A solo by Mrs. Jeffery entitled, "The Ninety and Nine", was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Coulter and her group gave a descriptive account of their missionaries and their activities in the hospitals, churches, schools, homes for children and the aged, in the outlying areas throughout Canada.

After a closing prayer by Mrs. Coulter, refreshments and a social half hour were enjoyed.

St. Margaret's Guild Plans Tea, Bazaar

On Monday night at St. Margaret's church hall the members of the Guild held a sewing meeting for the final meeting of the season.

After the call to worship by the president, Mrs. Watson, 4 business period followed. Mrs. George Mountenay presented a report on the recent Missions Festival. This showed that this event was one of the most successful sewing teas on record. Much of the credit is due to Mrs. Mountford's enthusiasm and hard work. She thanked all those who helped and then called on the various convenors to give their reports.

Because of these encouraging results a tea and bazaar is planned for November. The convenors for the different tables were appointed and Mrs. Mountenay served to act again as general convenor, with Mrs. Walter Rollin as co-convenor.

Other business followed which included a devotional period conducted by the Alleman Convalescent Home for the proposed playground.

The president closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. A. Paradis and the members of her group then served refreshments.

BEAUTY

by MRS. GUI VIVE

A BEAUTY SCHEDULE FOR THE NEW MOTHER

Where beauty's concerned the new mother has many adjustments to make. Before the "little dears ling" arrived, she had plenty of time to primp, preen and generally look the part she was having ... She was. And then, all of a sudden, she took on a different meaning—and, with it, a new routine. All the time she used to spend on self is now devoted to the baby. The day has become a constant round of changing, feeding, constant care. It's seemingly an endless task. In fact, many mature women who have, unfortunately, "let themselves go," admit that they often cite this as the beginning of their self-neglect to the arrival of their first child. There was just so much to do, they say, that they had no time for themselves.

Young mothers should remember this. No matter how busy they are, time must be found for grooming. No woman can afford to neglect her looks these days. And, with a little thought, a program can be worked out. One of the most important things to remember is that no matter how hectic the day begins with baby sounding off for that first A.M. feeding, she should, at the first possible second, do two things. 1) Use make-up. It only takes five minutes to apply a bit of foundation, rouge, powder and lipstick. But that five minutes will be rewarding all day, for make-up is a real morale booster. 2) Dress neatly. Don't get in the habit of donning a sloppy robe over nightie or pajamas or, before the morning's half over, you'll feel miserable. Put on a perky housedress instead. There'll be no upkeep problem if you select your home wardrobe with washability in mind. Choose no-iron fabrics, minus fancy trimmings and keep an eye open for wrap-around frocks that are easy to get into and come in high fashion colors that will look pretty on you. Always try to avoid that dowdy "housedress" look.

The beauty chores can be done while working around the house. Any women can spare ten minutes to put up her hair in pin curls. While baby's napping is the perfect time, then she can cover them with a pretty kerchief and let the curls set while she either tends the baby or cleans the house.

It's also possible to fit a weekly facial into a day's schedule. Facial massages take but a few seconds to apply and, while Mother's doing dishes or whatever, the cream will be doing its best work for her complexion. And, speaking of complexions, the homemaker who suffers from dry skin really has a great advantage over her desk-bound sisters, for she can slather rich creams all over her face and leave them on for hours while she carries on her daily program. Yes, you can make time for beauty. All it takes is a little system.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE W.I.

6th SIDNEY — The meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held on May 2nd at the home of Mrs. Fred Farmer, 6th concession of Sidney, with 17 members and three visitors. Minutes and treasurer's report were given by Mrs. George Striker. Correspondence consisted of letters from Mrs. Hubble, Foxboro; Mrs. Jim Sine, Mrs. Haggarty, Nagahee, along with a questionnaire which was dealt with, also thank you notes from Red Cross; Children's Camp at Deerwood; Scott's W.I. and Dorothy Bywell; Ruth Munn and the Garrison family, Allan Dafoe and Mrs. Chamberlain.

The orgiendon service is to be dealt with next month with a choice written on paper. A resolution is being prepared for district annual and delegates will be Mrs. M. Dodds and Mrs. M. Mallory. This is on June 6th.

Mrs. B. Bush had charge of the program which consisted of a poem, "Canadian Born" by Paul Johnson, read by Mrs. Harrington; "Dot Shoot Kindt" by Mrs. M. Mallory; "Ontario to lead in Manufacturing and Mines for Years to Come," by Mrs. Ross Dafoe; "Rural Women of Canada," by Mrs. M. Ring; a paper on "Nickel" was read by Mrs. B. Bush. Nickel was first mined in Northern Ontario in 1888, it is strong and tough and will resist wear and corrosion. It is used in industrial machines and in machining cars, trucks and locomotives. Nearly all home appliances contain a certain amount of nickel. Many thousands of people are employed in mining nickel and in the production of manufactured steel and nickel products. Over 95 per cent of nickel produced from the Sudbury mines is exported to the United States, Great Britain and other industrial countries.

A recipe for "Heavenly Jam" was read by Mrs. H. Frost.

Owing to the district annual falling on the regular meeting day the next meeting will be May 30 at the home of Mrs. G. Harrington, 4th concession of Sidney. Roll call will be "A garden pest and how to get rid of it." Convener, Mrs. E. Anderson.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses and a thank-you tendered to Mrs. Farmer for opening her home.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. HERSCHMAN

WHEN THE HONORARY PALLBEARERS SIT

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

"All" says that at a funeral, either in church or in a funeral chapel, the honorary pallbearers always sit in the front pews in the family's left. "B" insists that they sit in the pews directly behind the family. Who is right?

— Two Readers

"A" is right.

MUST SHE INVITE THE CO-HOSTESS?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Several days ago I went to a bridge party given by two hostesses. That is, both their names were on the invitations, but I knew only one of them. In this case, what is my social obligation? Must I invite the hostess I didn't know to a party sometime?

There is no strict obligation to the hostess you didn't know, but of course it would be gracious of you to include both these hostesses in a more or less general party you give . . . for example, a tea or other late-afternoon party, or a buffet supper, or a luncheon.

MASS CARDS SHOULD BE THANKED FOR

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My mother died recently, and my sister and I have finished writing the notes of appreciation for the flowers and for the letters and notes and telegrams of sympathy. Mother was a wonderful woman, deeply religious. We received many, many Mass cards. Is it necessary to acknowledge these? If so, would you please give us a sample form of note we could write to everyone, the shortest possible note, but sincere. — Reader

Not only should Mass cards be acknowledged, but they should be thanked for, sincerely thanked for. Here is a brief, sincere form for your notes:

Dear Mrs. Hall:

You were most kind to send the Mass card for our dear mother, and we thank you for your good and comforting thought.

Sincerely,

WHEN GROOM RESPONDS TO TOAST "TO THE BRIDE AND GROOM!"

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am the prospective bridegroom. I would appreciate it so much if you will help me out by telling me a few appropriate words to say when the toast is proposed "To the Bride and Groom." I don't have to make a speech, do I? — Jim

No, sir, you certainly don't have to make a speech. Actually, a gracious "Thank you" is all you need to say in response to the toast to the bride and groom. But it would be a fine idea for you to add a few words of appreciation for this important toast. What you might say, "Helen and I thank you most heartily for your kind words and for your good wishes. It is wonderful to have you all here with us on this Great Day of ours. My lovely bride and I thank you for coming . . . and we hope to greet you on our Golden Wedding Day!" (If you wish, you may of course say only the first sentence, for this does what your response must do . . . express your bride's thanks and your thanks for the toast.)

HAT WITH DINNER DRESS?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I have just received an invitation to a dinner-dance which is to be given in a large out-of-town hotel. I know that a dinner dress is proper to wear. But how about a hat? The affair is from 6:30 to midnight. — L.S.

A hat is not appropriate to wear with your dinner dress on this occasion. (However, going to and from the dinner-dance you might wear some kind of veil-or-flower-arrangement to keep your hair-do in order.)

FLOWERS SENT HOME WEEKS AFTER FUNERAL

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The other day a dear friend of mine happened to mention to me something that interested me very much, for it would fill a need I have often felt about the sending of a message of sympathy by means of flowers. She said that she and her husband quite often send flowers several weeks after a funeral, to the family of a relative or a close friend who has passed on. She said she and her husband feel that a month or two months, say, after the death, is so often a particularly difficult time, a time when flowers with a message of sympathy or friendship might be most helpful.

I like this idea. Do you approve of it, Mrs. Beechman? I'm wondering if, when one did send flowers, a card of sympathy should be enclosed? And, if so, would a message be added to the words of sympathy? If so, how would the — Martha H.

Yes, I do most heartily approve of this warmly thoughtful gesture to those in sorrow, and I like your good friend who told you about it. I often follow this kindly custom which has been growing in speed in recent years. As a matter of fact, just a thoughtful card understanding note, even without flowers, can be a deep comfort sent at this time. Please, don't ever, ever suppose or send a card of sympathy . . . to mention deaths by mark of the bereavement. The idea of the message should be: "We were you to know, dear friends, that we are thinking of you, have a great love and sympathy for you." And I hope you will add the benediction "God bless you."

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO BE BIG ABOUT THIS

It's a wise wife who knows the difference between a domestic crisis that should be diplomatically by-passed and a major problem that calls for more definite treatment. If more wives realized the necessity of cultivating such a sense of proportion, there would be fewer broken homes.

A wife who, unfortunately, has not yet achieved this kind of perception seems to me to be shaking a mountain of an issue out of a molehill of a happening.

She — Mrs. J. — tells me that she has been married four years, and that up to a few months ago she and her husband have been ideally happy together. Then one day a friend told her that she had seen Mr. J. and an unidentified young woman lunching together one day in a restaurant, and that the two seemed to be on very good terms.

"I asked my husband about this," Mrs. J. writes, "and he admitted it. He said the girl worked in his office and they sometimes went out to lunch together, but that she didn't mean anything to him except as a pleasant luncheon companion. But why wouldn't he spend money buying lunches for a girl who didn't mean anything to him? And how can he say she doesn't mean anything to him when he admits he has taken her out a number of times?

"We had a big fight about it, and I finally told him I was going to get a separation from him until I could decide what to do. He said he loved me, and only me, and begged me not to leave him, promising that since I was so upset about it he would never take her out for lunch again. I don't really want to leave, because I truly love my husband, but if I overlook what he has done, I'm afraid he will think he can do as he pleases ever after. And I don't know if I can ever have any faith or trust in him again, because he just doesn't seem to realize how he has hurt me. He said that he never thought I would mind, and that he really couldn't see that he had done anything so very wrong.

"What should I do? I don't see how I can forgive and forget so easily."

Well, let's see now.

Mrs. J. doesn't say how old she is, but since she has been married no more than four years, I would think it reasonable to suppose she would be in her early twenties, perhaps. If this is so, her trouble is, no doubt, that she has not yet matured sufficiently as a wife to distinguish between the important and unimportant things of married life. Perhaps, again, she never held a job before marriage and so never had a chance to realize that a business man and a business girl can lunch together without it having any dire significance.

On the other hand, if Mrs. J. is not as young as I imagined, but married later in life, then it may be that she feels insecure, as many older wives do, and is apprehensive lest a younger woman might take her husband away from her.

In either case, however, her behavior and attitude toward this occurrence are both wrong. To turn something so relatively trivial into a dramatic crisis is the worst possible way she could go about things. What she should have done in the first place was to let the so-called "friend" who informed on her husband know that she thought it perfectly in order for him to have a pleasant luncheon companion and never mention it to her husband at all. Or, if she did mention it, to tease him a little about it and laugh it all off.

Since she lacked the good sense to do this in the beginning, however, but, instead, has acted as though it were a major crisis, I advise her to try and be big enough to reverse herself even at this late date. That is, to tell her husband that she was so taken aback by what the "friend" told her that she reacted very foolishly at first; that she now realizes how silly she was, knows he loves her too much ever to go anything that would hurt her and proposes they both forget all about it.

She'll be very glad, I think, if she does this.

Salmon Is In Season

By Mary Moore

Maundy Thursday is long since gone but the memory of the B.C. Cohoe salmon we had that day lingers on.

The season for Restigouche and Gaspe salmon is upon us and the method I used for the Cohoe at Easter is the same as I use for them. When the weather is hot I will serve our salmon cold, but at the time of writing this hot food sounds more seasonal.

BOILED SALMON WITH EGG SAUCE

The piece of salmon we had served 8 generously and weighed 3½ lbs. and cost 75c per lb. for the centre cut but it was a "special" and in most stores here would be at least 90c per lb. I wrapped it in a big sheet of cookery parchment (a heavy tea towel would do) and lowered it into gently boiling water, covered it and simmered it 45 minutes. I drained it an gingerly unwrapped it and peeled off the dark skin, leaving the symmetrical rows of dark fat under it undisturbed. Over it I poured Egg and Parsley Sauce: Melt 4 tablespoons butter, stir in 4 tablespoons flour until blended, then 2 cups milk until thick. Add salt and pepper and ½ cup finley chopped parsley and the finely chopped whites of 2 hard-cooked eggs. Heat through before pouring over salmon on platter. Just before carrying to the table sieve the hard-cooked yolks of 2 eggs over the top, letting them fall where wanted for if pushed about the feather-light effect is ruined.

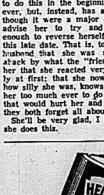
Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY

Broiled Meat Cakes or Baby Beef Liver, Bread and Butter Pickles, Creamed Onions, New Potatoes, Dessert Fruit Salads on Lettuce: Pear Halves, Cheese Balls, Grapefruit Sections, Pineapple Chunks; Fruit Cream Dressing, Crackers and Cheese, Coffee.

SALMON MAYONNAISE



This is the dish famous at the Parliament Buildings dining-room at Ottawa. Their chef did not give me this recipe for the mayonnaise mask for this lovely cold salmon plate, but a good chef doing a good job in another famous restaurant did. It is ideal for a summer holiday or Sunday supper in the garden or on the porch. Or to have ready for expected smoking visitors. If they are late nothing spoils and it may be taken, icy cold, from the refrigerator after they arrive and are washed up and come into your dining-room, ravenously hungry, after their long drive. Arrange boiled salmon on platter as directed above for Boiled Salmon. Chill it on platter on which it is to be served. Spread over entire surface Mayonnaise Jelly: (Double this amount if you have a very big fish.) Soak 2 teaspoons gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. When thick melt by stirring over hot water. Add this warm liquid gelatin to 1 cup genuine mayonnaise and stir. When spread and set over fish, garnish with "flowers" of olive petals and pimiento or green pepper, etc., and lemon and tomato wedges. NOTE: Good in salads and fillings with celery or similar moisture. NOTE 2: May be used over carefully unmoulded canned salmon.

Aussie Works Way Around 3 Continents

VANCOUVER (CP) — Miss Gwen Pelck, 31 year - old Australian free-lance journalist, has spent four years seeking adventure on three continents.

"I'm afraid I left home four years ago after an argument with my father," said the former Sydney film reporter. "We had words.

I read a brochure about Sunny Africa and a couple of weeks later I was off.

I boarded a ship to the nearest stopping point which happened to be Capetown, South Africa.

"My first was to work my way from Africa to England to North America by contacting newspapers on each continent and scoring in free-lance stories.

"My first job in Africa proved to be the biggest in my career. I was included as an accredited member of the Royal Tour of Rhodesia in 1953 when Princess Margaret and the Queen Mother visited there."

COLORFUL SULTANA

From Rhodesia she went to Zanzibar where she interviewed the island's sultana through the ruler's secretary.

"The sultana is quite a woman," she said. "She wore exotic dark blue and green veils and dropped them just enough to be distracting. She also wore an earring in her nose and it was surprisingly attractive."

Next stop was Nairobi, where she wrote articles on the Mau Mau for South African newspapers.

Then she went by paddle steamer to the Congo and through French Equatorial Africa to Nigeria. She sailed on a tanker from the Gold Coast—now the Independent country of Ghana—to England, where she settled down for a year to work on a woman's journal.

"England was the only country where I spent more than I earned," she said. "I ended by working in an all-night coffee shop just back of Regent Street."

Then she travelled to New York, for a visit in radio and TV work, and from there visited Labrador and Canada's Arctic.

She plans to spend about a year in Vancouver before returning to Australia.

Pert and Pretty

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's a charming little spring into summer cloche with a distinctly youthful look that goes equally well with suits or coltons and prints.

The body of the hat is linen type straw in blush pink. And its low rounded crown is covered with several toned pink chiffon beneath which a narrow rippling brim flares. A single rose is caught in a dip of the brim and lies against the side of the crown.

Club Activities

W. T. FEDERATION

WELLINGTON — The April meeting of the Wellington Unit, Women's Teachers' Federation met at Pleasant Bay school with Miss Donna White as hostess.

Mrs. Matthews, the president, opened the meeting and welcomed members and guests.

Sixteen members answered the roll call and there were three guests. It was announced that the spring assembly was to be in Belleville on May 11, and it was hoped a goodly number would plan to attend.

Mrs. Clifford McFaul and Mrs. Freeman kindly consented to act as a nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for the June meeting.

Mrs. Matthews invited the Unit to her home for a pot-luck supper for the June meeting on the second Tuesday of the month.

Miss Mary Huff gave the first chapter of the new study book, "Everyday Problems of the Child." She stressed that a successful teacher must have a keen enjoyment of children and an inner contentment and enjoyment of life. Each teacher should strive to build up a good relationship with the children and with the other members of the staff.

Miss Huff spoke on 'merit rating' which teachers are being asked to consider instead of licensing.

Mrs. Barton Cronk was called upon to show some beautiful colored slides of a trip she and her husband and a party had taken to the Canadian West Coast, and home by way of the States.

Mrs. Roger Cronk kindly operated the projector, and Mrs. Douglas Redner voiced the thanks of the gathering to Mrs. Cronk and Dawn. Refreshments and a half hour of visiting were enjoyed.

JOHNSTOWN — Sunday School and Church was held at Johnstown Church on Sunday afternoon. Rev. G. A. Puttenham's lesson was found in the 24th chapter of St. Luke with the text being "Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures."

The disciples met to study the Bible thus making them understand better the message of the cross. This they had looked upon as regretable. They could not imagine why God had allowed this to happen.

At first the Jews thought the Lord's message was for them alone, but as they studied they came to see it was meant for all people. It came to have a new meaning to them, for the risen Lord had opened their minds.

Mr. Puttenham reminded that there were two acts to a revelation. What God does, and man's understanding of what God does.

"Some people will not give their hearts to the Lord because they will not give up their own way. When we belong to the Saviour we must take His way. In these days of terrible happenings we should all repent and turn to Him who has done so much for us."

FICTON

Bloomfield Man Again Heads TB Association

FICTON — Prince Edward County Tuberculosis Association held its annual meeting Friday night with Trevor Pierce of the Ontario Association as guest speaker. He emphasized the fact that in spite of medical advances and treatment, the incidence of tuberculosis is such that it calls for continued effort to control the disease.

Mrs. Ed Allan, secretary, announced that proceeds of the sale of Christmas seals amounted to $2,523. Report of treasurer John deB. Arnand revealed that expenditures covered seals, TB education, gifts and aid to patients. In the offing is a mass X-ray for tuberculosis.

President Earl Smith of Bloomfield was re-elected to that office with Percy Mellott of Cherry Valley as vice-president; B. G. Foreman, Bank of Montreal, treasurer. Committee chairmen: Xmas seal sale, P. Mellott and Phil Dodds; case finding, Miss A. McConnell; TB education, P. Mellott; social service and rehabilitation, F. Dodds, E. Smith will be representative to the Ontario Tuberculosis Association. Dr. W. Turpel is medical adviser. Members of the executive are Reeve Calvin Hughes, Reeve Howard Gyde, R. L. Perkin, P. L. Mellott, F. Dodds, Mrs. Bernard Brooks, Mrs. Wannamaker, Earl Smith, Dr. Turpel, Miss A. McConnell, Mrs. R. Covert, Mrs. Sheldon Williams, James Tulley, B. G. Foreman.

Mr. Allan will continue as secretary and was highly commended for her work last year.

A vote of appreciation was expressed to John deB. Arnand who retires as treasurer of the Association after six years' service.

NO MEANS DEFEATED

In brief addresses Dr. Turpel, M.O.H. for Prince Edward, and Trevor Pierce pointed out that tuberculosis is by no means defeated, though many have that impression due to the tremendous strides made in its identification, control and cure. Today, the cause and the cure are known, facilities are available and it is necessary that the public be made aware of the importance of early discovery through an annual check-up and participation in mass X-rays.

Tuberculosis, Mr. Pierce pointed out, affects not only the individual, but the entire home concerned. Though number of cases discovered through mass X-rays may not be great, their discovery may prevent a wide spread of the disease.

Education is needed to bring home the importance of co-operating in the efforts to completely eliminate the disease. This will be possible only when the public fully realizes the situation and gives its full co-operation.

Ornate Ivory Cribbage Board Took 3,000 Hours to Complete

EXQUISITE CARVINGS

"Ivory Joe" Yarmalow, 60-year-old Churchill blacksmith who began working with ivory 20 years ago to pass the long northern nights, poses with some of his carvings which have attracted wide interest. The three pieces of sculpture in this picture represent eight years of painstaking work in his combination home and workshop in Churchill. The piece in foreground is an ornate cribbage board decorated with figures of northern wildlife. It has a polar bear, walrus, seal, ptarmigan, arctic eagle, wolf, husky, arctic owl and American eagle. He has received an offer of $2,200 for the cribbage board. (CP Photo).

WINNIPEG (CP)—"Ivory Joe" Yarmalow, a Churchill black smith who is well-known for his carvings in ivory, was faced with a problem when he planned a visit to Winnipeg recently.

In his tiny combination home and workshop at Churchill were three pieces of sculpture representing eight years' work. Joe, a 60-year-old bachelor, was apprehensive about leaving them, so he packed them in a specially-built case and brought them with him.

One of the pieces, an ornate cribbage board, is in itself a miniature museum of northern wildlife. The ivory carving has a polar bear, walrus, seal, ptarmigan, arctic eagle, wolf, husky, arctic owl and American eagle—all fitted into the over-all design of the board by brass and wooden pegs.

ABSORBING HOBBY

Joe says this piece alone kept him busy from 1949 to 1954. It represents about 3,000 hours' work.

Mr. Yarmalow works exclusively with the ivory of the walrus tusk, given to him at Churchill as presents from Eskimos in remote Arctic areas. They send it on ships which play between the port and their hunting grounds.

Ivory is the ideal material to work in to achieve a fine degree of reproduction in form, he says. The carving of the polar bear is a five-inch high figure, complete to the last black molar.

A Lithuanian immigrant with only a smattering of book learning, Joe began working with ivory 20 years ago to pass the long northern nights after his day's work with the National Harbor Board at Churchill.

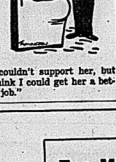
NOT FOR SALE



He carves a few smaller pieces for presents and souvenirs, but his larger pieces, are not for sale although he has received an offer of $2,200 for the cribbage board.

He works mainly with files of his own design and a small lathe. The pieces are finished to a gleaming white sheen with cleanser.

Joe says his eyes are feeling the strain of intricate work. He now is preparing plans for what he says will be his last major carving.

It will be an eskimo seated in a kayak, surrounded by the various animals he hunts.

Anatomy Professor Working To Find Chemical Treatment For Hardening of Arteries

VANCOUVER (CP)—A University of British Columbia anatomy professor has been given three grants to aid his research into heart disease.

Dr. Paris Constantinides, 36, who has been working since 1951 to find a chemical treatment for arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) received grants totalling $40,300.

Fatty deposits in artery walls are involved in the disease which is one of the key factors in coronary heart attacks and strokes. It attacks all ages.

Dr. Constantinides' work has attracted the attention of Ciba Company Limited, Swiss drug company, which is making a grant of $20,000 for the testing of drugs developed by the firm.

The The Insurance Research Fund of New York is boosting its annual grant made to Dr. Constantinides for the last two years. The fund will provide $16,500 for further work in the next two years.

The National Research Council also is renewing its annual $4,000 grant.

In six years the professor has conducted extensive experiments on hundreds of animals and the scope of his work has forced enlargement of the university's central animal depot.

His hopes for finding drugs with eventually value in treating arteriosclerosis rest primarily, but not exclusively, with a family of compounds known as sulfonated polysaccharides.

His most encouraging lead has come through using sulfonated alginic acid, a compound synthesized from seaweed.

From the experimental use of these compounds so far he draws these conclusions:

"It has been confirmed that these compounds will arrest progress of arteriosclerosis in animals. . . .

"We also think we have found a lead worth following that, under the right conditions, these compounds will start some regression of the disease in animals . . . testing of this possibility will take a lot more work.

"We have learned to avoid the kidney damage that was an undesirable alle-effect during initial use of these compounds."

The professor cautioned that experimental results with drugs given to animals do not prove by a long shot that the same drugs will work in human arteriosclerosis. Prolonged clinical trials in hospitals will determine if they will work on humans.

"Any substance we develop here with animals would be of limited value since it would attack only some types. . . since several different factors seem to be involved in the production of this disease, no single drug is likely to attack all of them simultaneously."

Recalls Highlights of 47 Years Of Service at Government House

OTTAWA (CP)—"I got along with them all," says Frederick Pereira of the 10 bosses he had during nearly a lifetime as assistant secretary to Canada's governors-general.

It was Jan. 1, 1901, when young Frederick Linwood Clinton Pereira first reported for work with the then governor-general, Lord Minto.

Mr. Pereira, now 77, retired June 22, 1948. In a recent interview he recalled the highlights of his 47 years of service at Government House.

One of his first jobs was to accompany the Duke and Duchess of York, later King George V and Queen Mary, on their tour of Canada in 1901.

The crowds were smaller in Lord Minto's time, but the liquor was more plentiful.

The Duke of Devonshire was a shrewd and great businessman, though his heavylidded eyes gave him an appearance of being half asleep. Mr. Pereira remembers Lady Dorothy Cavendish, the Duke's daughter, now the wife of Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan.

Lady Byng, wife of Lord Byng and a fresh air enthusiast, would wrap up in furs in Government House in cold weather and have a window open.

Lord Willingdon was a splendid speaker and Lady Willingdon a generous woman. Lord Tweedsmuir was just beginning to make money on his books when he came to Ottawa and did not entertain lavishly.

"All governors - general spend more than their salaries — some much more," said Mr. Pereira, a native of England.

Voters Can Count On Three Hours To Cast Ballots

OTTAWA (CP) — Voters who are working on election day June 10 can count on three hours to cast their ballots without being docked in pay. But the three hours need not all be working time.

Polling hours in the federal election will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. local standard time, or for communities on daylight time from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. local daylight time.

Employees who are qualified electors must be given three consecutive hours apart from lunch periods to cast their votes. But the employer can determine what the hours will be.

If the polls in a riding open at 8 a.m. and a man is not due at work until 9 a.m., he can be given the three hours between 8 and 11 a.m. Or if his working day ends normally at, say, 3 p.m., the remaining part of the voting day may be taken into account in figuring time off.

This will be the fifth election at which voters who are absent not "ordinarily" on polling place at closing time will be allowed to vote. Before 1940, only those inside the polls at the deadline were given ballots.

Niagara Falls Votes For Cocktail Bars

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The sound of gurgling liquor will soon be added to the roar of the waterfalls in this honeymoon resort of 24,000.

Niagara Falls has gone completely wet.

Its citizens Wednesday voted by a 65-per-cent majority to have cocktail bars and dining lounges in their city, reversing the result of a similar plebiscite in 1954 and offering the possibility of higher tourist revenues.

While they voted, members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of surrounding Welland County met in convention at Stamford United Church and prayed for a dry victory.

Support Strikers

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Members of the Sydney local of the United Steelworkers Wednesday approved a donation of $1 per member a month to go to strikers at the Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd., of Murdochville, Que. The Sydney local has about 4,000 members.

The contribution was recommended at an April policy meeting of steel union groups in Montreal.

Old Candidates Running Under Different Colors

ST. BONIFACE, Man. (CP)—St. Boniface constituency voters may be excused if they have trouble figuring out which candidate represents what party in the June 10 Dominion election.

A former Liberal is the Progressive Conservative candidate. The Liberal who has represented the seat in the House of Commons since 1945 is running as an Independent Liberal. The rest of the five-man field falls into a normal pattern with a Liberal, CCF and Social Credit.

The five candidates are: Louis Deniset, Liberal; Laurier Regnier, Progressive Conservative; Nick Manchur, CCF; Dollard LaFrenière, Social Credit; and Fernand Viau, Independent Liberal.

Mr. Viau lost the party nomination to Mr. Deniset last November at a Liberal convention and said he would run as an Independent Liberal and filed his papers Wednesday.

Million Multi-Colored Tulips Dotting 24-Mile FDC Highway Draw Thousands to Capital

OTTAWA (CP)—Officials predict the capital's tulip festival this year will be the best ever—if the weather holds out.

Last year, rainy, chilly weather forced postponement of the festival. The 750,000 tulips were three weeks late and stunted when they did bloom.

This spring, however, temperatures averaged about 10 degrees above normal during the last half of April. Tulips are already starting to bloom, about two weeks ahead of time.

UNUSUAL OCCURENCE

An official of the federal district commission, government agency which is implementing the National Capital Plan for the beautification of Ottawa and district, said it is the first time he's seen tulips and daffodils blooming side by side.

The festival, now a big tourist attraction, is scheduled for May 15-30.

More than 1,000,000 tulips will dot the 24-mile FDC driveway winding through the city and along the landscaped banks of the Rideau Canal. Big beds will add color to the Parliament buildings, the National War Memorial and parks.

Gerald Geldert, city publicity director, says the tulips and other spring flowers are "a magnet drawing thousands of tourists to the city."

"Many people are booking conventions during May just because of the tulips and 3,000 delegates will see the blooms this year," he said.

Mr. Geldert's office gets an average 50 letters a day—between 300 and 400 some days—requesting information on the festival, which boasts 200 varieties of Dutch bulbs in bloom.

The city puts out a map detailing location of the 29-odd beds scattered through the capital. The largest display, with 70,000 bulbs, is located on the east side of the artificial but picturesque Dow's lake in south Ottawa.

Some 750,000 crocuses dotted the rolling lawns of Parliament hill, the National War Memorial and parks. They are being followed by more than 1,000,000 daffodils. The tulips will be in full bloom around May 13.

Salk Vaccine Being Exported

TORONTO (CP) — The chief Canadian producer of Salk antipolio vaccine — Connaught Medical Research Laboratories here —has made surplus vaccine available for both overseas export and for Canadian commercial use for the first time in its history.

Dr. W. P. Gerald, laboratory secretary, said Wednesday that Connaught has shipped about 100,000 doses to Jamaica since late April and shipments are continuing at the rate of 10,000 to 15,000 doses per week.

PRINCE POLO STAR

WINDSOR, Eng. (AP)—Prince Philip starred Sunday in his first polo match of the season. He scored three goals for the Welsh Guards who defeated the Red Jackets 6 to 2½. The Red Jackets had a 1½-goal handicap. Watching the match were Queen Elizabeth, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Files Produced Show Beck Jr. As 'Overgrown Spoiled Boy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets committee today put into evidence an interoffice communication of the Anheuser-Busch Co. describing Dave Beck Jr. as "an overgrown spoiled boy." Young Beck at the time was a Budweiser beer distributor in Seattle.

Dwight D. Ingamells, lawyer for Anheuser-Busch of St. Louis, testified the only inference he could draw was that the firm gave young Beck the beer distribution rights because of the influence of his father, teamsters President Dave Beck.

The Senate committee has charged the elder Beck with taking some $320,000 of teamsters union funds for his personal benefit and with misusing his position as teamsters boss for his own financial benefit.

In a hearing Wednesday, the committee developed that the teamsters president helped establish Dave Jr. in the beer and whisky distributing business in the state of Washington and Alaska when the latter left the armed services in 1946.

PRESSURE QUESTION

Taking up the story today, the investigators pressed a line that appeared to be directed toward the question of whether pressures were exerted on the St. Louis Brewing Company.

In one of them, Jay R. Rideout, writing from Seattle to another Anheuser-Busch official, Earl H. Memory, said "I'm beginning to realize what you meant when you said Dave Beck Jr., was an overgrown spoiled boy."

This memo went on to relate how Beck had arranged for squads of motorcycle police to escort a Budweiser parade through Seattle to publicize the return of that brand of beer to the city after World War II.

BECAME STOCKHOLDER

Other witnesses have told how Beck Sr. arranged with Anheuser-Busch to get the Budweiser beer distributorship for the K and L Beer and Whisky Distributing Enterprises after young Beck acquired stock in the firm.

The Anheuser-Busch documents placed in evidence told at one point how Beck Sr. and Beck Jr. had periodic arguments with Irving J. Levine, a major owner of the K and L distributorship.

Levine was quoted in one of the Anheuser-Busch memos as saying he protested to the Becks against an arrangement whereby young Beck was to get five cents a case, up to $1,000 a month, on all beer handled by the K and L company.

The memo went on to say that when Levine protested, Beck Sr. insisted that young Beck get $1,000 a month, plus five cents a case.

Jailed 15 Years For Selling Red Soldiers Brandy

VIENNA (Reuters) — Fourteen Hungarians have been sentenced to terms of 10 to 15 years in Russian prisons for selling plum brandy (schnappz) to Soviet soldiers, it was reported here today.

Refugees from the Hungarian town of Kecskemet, 50 miles southeast of Budapest, said military courts of the Soviet garrison there sentenced the Hungarians.

The prisoners admitted they sold schnapps to the Russians under duress after the soldiers broke into their homes.

Russian military police claimed the prisoners confessed they sold the schnapps to the troops "of their own free will."

STAR OF OPERA

He never thought of singing as a life work until 18—an age when most opera fledglings have amassed a decade of sober study.

He had little training, could scarcely read a note—yet flawlessly sang 78 operatic roles to critical acclaim in the world's music capitals.

He rarely practised, gave his voice no special care. But he also exhibited none of the opera star's customary temperament and tantrums.

MADE TOUGH CHANGE

After 25 years atop the opera world he successfully made a difficult transition into popular music and became a matinee idol of Broadway musical comedy.

The seventh child of a poor couple, the future bel canto was born in Rome, May 18, 1892.

His father was a carpenter from Ravenna who wanted to name the boy for his brother, Ezio. But the parish priest, horrified that it had been the name of a pagan general who persecuted early Christians, insisted that the baby be baptized Fortunato instead. But everyone always called him Ezio.

There is a story that some friends heard him singing O Sole Mio while bathing and suggested he try a vocal career.

His father took him to Bologna. A voice teacher there turned him down (the maestro changed his mind later and gave Pinza lessons) but with the help of the mayor, the hopeful youth got a scholarship to study music at the university.

WENT IN ARMY

His career as a singer began in 1914 — and almost immediately Pinza found himself in the Italian Army. He spent the next five years in uniform, emerging as a captain of artillery.

His post-war debut was in the role of King Mark in Wagner's Tristan und Isolde in the Royal Opera at Rome. He became an overnight sensation. Two years later Toscanini had him singing at La Scala in Milan. In 1926 he was invited to New York's Metropolitan Opera.

There—and in the opera centres of Chicago, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro and London—he was the undisputed monarch of song for two decades.

Flin Flon

Wins First National Title In Any Realm of Athletics

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP) — A scrappy band of senior hockey players — seven of them homebrews — brought this northern Manitoba mining town its first national championship.

The Flin Flon Bombers literally night captured the Memorial Cup in a rugged best-of-seven series with Ottawa Canadien which went the limit.

It marks the first time since Fort Arthur Bruins turned the trick in 1948 that the cup has been won by the West and the first time since 1946 that a prairie province team has won. Winnipeg Monarchs did it that year.

Flin Flon had never before had a Canadian championship in any sport, but the pride of the community of 12,000 always have been with hockey.

ALWAYS HAD HOCKEY

As far back as the town's history goes—1928—there has been hockey here. It was not until the late 30's, however, that an enthusiast, Gordie Mackie, began enticing players from southern Manitoba and Saskatchewan to the north to work in the mines and play hockey.

In 1945, Flin Flon entered the Saskatchewan Senior League. Some of the better-known players to migrate to the town to play with the Senior Bombers were Sid Abel, later to become a Detroit Red Wing star; Marcel Trembley; Jimmy Skinner, present Detroit coach, Sid Brown, Gordie Hayes and Slim Holdaway.

The Main Arena, still standing and used today, was built in 1934 to house the Senior Bombers. It contained natural ice until 1950 and always seated 1,141 persons until the end was knocked out this year during the Memorial Cup playoffs to accommodate an additional 200.

REACHED SEMI-FINALS

It was in 1938 that Flin Flon residents first had their hopes raised and their eyes levelled on a Canadian championship. The Senior Bombers reached the western semi-finals for the Allan Cup but were sidelined by the Trail, B.C., Smoke Eaters, who went on to win the Canadian championship.

Senior hockey folve way to Junior in 1948. Bombers entered the Saskatchewan Junior League that year and have since won the league championship six times. Until this season, Bombers never advanced past their own league championship.

Bobby Kirk, Flin Flon's present coach, came here three seasons ago to take over the coaching job from Alex Shibicky, former New York Ranger star. Kirk has since coached the club to three successive league titles.

He played Minor and Junior hockey in Winnipeg. After playing for Vancouver, he joined New York Rangers of the National Hockey League. During the war years, he coached an RCAF team. After the war, he handled such clubs as Trail Smoke Eaters, New Westminster Royals, Saskatoon Quakers, St. Boniface Junior Canadiens and Kapuskasing.

LOTS OF TALENT

A major factor which makes Kirk's coaching job an easier one is the strong minor setup from which he can pluck players. With more than 100 players in the Midget and Juvenile divisions and more than 300 in Peewee and Tom Thumb leagues, Flin Flon has a source of talent unequalled by any other Canadian centre of comparable size.

The 1956-57 Bombers boasted seven native sons and signed only three players from outside town. Jim Bartlett, a 1954 Memorial Cup winner from Liege and a handful of less glamorous 3-year-olds.

Neither appeared the worse for wear but track officials were bagged by the possibility that Gen. John might not recover from the sore injury which caused his withdrawal from the Derby in time for the May 18 Preakness.

WILL TRY TRACK

Trainer Jimmy Jones, expected today, had said he would decide on the Duke's status only after watching him work on the Pimlico strip.

Also still to be heard from were Trainer Johnny Nerud, whose Gallant Man was a scant nose behind Iron Liege in the Derby, and Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, veteran handler of Bold Ruler.

With the withdrawal of T. Kerr's Round Table, third in the Derby, and Toronto-nian John L. Applebaum's Misty Morn, who ran seventh, the only other starter out of nine in the Derby classic expected to go in the Preakness is Federal Hill, the fifth-place finisher.

SCOTLAND WINS

GLASGOW (Reuters)—Scotland defeated Spain 4-3 Wednesday after leading 3-1 at halftime in a preliminary World Soccer Cup game.

Preakness May Be Dream Race Or Nightmare

BALTIMORE (AP)—Pimlico officials anxiously awaited word today from the owners of three top colts to learn whether the Preakness was to be a "dream race" or a nightmare.

All they could count on so far for the $100,000-added race was the presence of Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege and a handful of less glamorous 3-year-olds.

Neither appeared the worse for wear but track officials were bagged by the possibility that Gen. John might not recover from the sore injury which caused his withdrawal from the Derby in time for the May 18 Preakness.

Score Will Have Some Sight But Will It Be Sufficient?

CLEVELAND (AP)—In a darkened hospital room without visitors, pitcher Herb Score sets out the hours today, knowing he would have some sight in his battered right eye and wondering if it would be enough to continue a brilliant baseball career in only its third major league season.

The waiting will go on through today and at least part of Friday, Dr. Charles Thomas, eye specialist, has indicated. Intensive bleeding started Tuesday night when a liner from New York Yankee Gil McDougald's bat felled Score. That bleeding has to stop before the tell-tale examination can be made.

GUARDED OPTIMISM

There was guarded optimism in Dr. Thomas' reports that the 23-year-old pitcher has "improved," and the specialist indicated there could be some sight—the amount doubtful.

"The eye will be saved," Dr. Thomas said. "It is beginning to clear up. I can't tell yet the full extent of the damage."

X-rays were planned for today to learn more about the bone fracture Dr. Thomas said Score suffered and any cheek bone damage.

"There is no brain injury," the doctor said.

While Score himself has admitted to considerable pain, he maintained a cheerful, heartening attitude with teammates and newsmen who talked with him before a ban was put on visiting to give him more rest.

CONTINUES TO PRAY

To his mother, Mrs. Ann Score in Lake Worth, Fla., he sent word asking her not to make the trip to Cleveland. Mrs. Score, who reared the pitcher a devout Catholic, said she was content to stay home and continue the prayers in which she and some neighbors spent most of Tuesday night.

Sharing in her concern was

Get Sawchuk Or No Deal Says Red Wings

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Red Wings said Wednesday they will consider no deals, trade or cash, until they either obtain goalie Terry Sawchuk from Boston Bruins or the proposed acquisition of Sawchuk is discarded.

General manager Jack Adams, vacationing in Florida, has expressed interest in obtaining Sawchuk, a one-time Detroit star who quit Bruins during mid-season.

Fred Huber, publicist for Red Wings, said Adams told him via telephone that Boston has not yet advised what it would want in the matter of player rights, players or cash for Sawchuk's contract.

Huber added that Red Wings wouldn't consider much less make, other deals until the Sawchuk acquisition is completed or discarded.

McDougald, who felt so downcast he said at first that he might quit baseball. Said Mrs. Score:

Through general manager Hank Greenberg, Score sent McDougald this message:

"Tell him that it's just part of the game. It wasn't his fault. I don't hold any grudge or ill feeling at all."

McDougald played for Yanks in their 10-4 defeat here Wednesday night and got three singles in five at-bats.

Seven Teams May Enter Baseball Loop

Seven possible entries were represented last night at a meeting of the newly formed Belleville and District baseball league held at radio station CJBQ.

Commissioner Don Thomas chaired the meeting and outlined plans to representatives from Trenton Minors team, consisting of midget, juveniles and juniors, the Trenton Intermediates, Wellington Juniors, Picton Juveniles, Prince Edward County McFarlands, Belleville Minors, and Belleville Juniors or Intermediates. The Belleville Minors will consist of midget and juvenile players while the other possible city entry may be a junior or intermediate club.

The entry deadline was set for Thursday, May 16th. A meeting will be held at that time at CJBQ at 7.45 p.m. Any team wishing to enter must do so before that date and must have a representative at the meeting to finalize season's plans.

Prince Edward McFarlands, an intermediate club playing out of Picton, and the Wellington Juniors are definite starters. Both Trenton teams will definitely be in providing arrangements can be made for playing fields. Belleville Minors felt sure last night they would enter while the possibility of the other Belleville club is not too strong. It is understood that backing could be arranged to enter either an intermediate or junior club.

It is expected the league schedule will open during the last week of May and run until early August. A double schedule was favored by most, depending on the final number of entries.

Each team has been asked to submit a list of umpires for approval of the league. The visiting team will supply one umpire and the home club the other.

Jack Carson, executive member of the Ontario Baseball Association, was present at the meeting and explained the new amendments.

A number of the teams are expected to enter the O.B.A. playdowns following the completion of the regular schedule.

Commissioner Thomas stressed last night that any other district or centres wishing to enter will come to do so before next Thursday.

Barbarians Roll To Easy 51-8 Win Over West

VICTORIA (CP) — Britain's touring Barbarian football club staged a smashing display here Wednesday night to overwhelm a British Columbia team 51-8 in an exhibition rugby match.

Composed of international stars from England, Wales and Scotland, the Barbarians outplayed the British Columbians in every department. They opened up a 17-3 lead in the first half and piled on 34 points in the closing sessions.

It was the fourth straight win for the Barbarians on their six-game Canadian tour. They previously scored 41-3 and 53-0 decisions over an Ontario side in Toronto and a 16-6 victory over B.C. All-Stars at Vancouver.

TEAM DISBANDS

TOKYO (AP) — Kanto High School here has disbanded its baseball team after players beat a teacher to mistake practice on two holidays.

The 16 - year - old player was treated for internal bleeding after he was beaten with baseball bats.

Y Natators Do Well in Toronto Meet

Eleven members of the Belleville swimming and diving team competed in the Ontario Y.M.C.A. swimming and diving championships Saturday in Toronto.

Fourteen-year-old John Peoples, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Peoples 18 Third St. successfully defended his title of Ontario Y.M.C.A. under 15 diving champion, outclassing all other opponents in a five dive competition.

Second place was won by B. Taylor, while two other Belleville divers Paul Peoples and Bob Brown placed third and fourth respectively.

Belleville's junior Divers John Segar and Larry Regenburg did very well winning second and third place medals respectively.

All Belleville swimmers placed in the preliminaries but failed to qualify for the finals.

Valdes Gets Nod Over Holman

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Nino Valdes' hooks pounded out a unanimous 10 - round decision over Johnny Holman of Chicago in a heavyweight bout here Wednesday night.

The Cuban, ninth-ranked heavyweight in the world who entered the ring at 209, beat a steady Holman at 204½ to a pulp to pick up his winning points. Holman weighed 204.

There were no knockdowns, but in the eighth round, both fighters went over the ropes in a wild flurry. Holman was the first to go and Valdes, still flailing away, fell on top of him.

Referee Ralph Gruman ruled it no knockdown.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Youth may crave its fling in the sports world but age still has a lot to say — and does.

The impressarios of sport in any phase of athletics are continually on the lookout for new, especially young, blood. The rookies they say are the stars of tomorrow. But how about some of the oldsters who are still holding off the bloke with the scythe and whiskers — and doing a fair job of it.

As Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll points out "the probable answer is firm, the ability to do the right thing at the right time, and in the simplest way without pressing." Dink says the Ole Satch Paige is an estimated 58 but he is still saving games for the Miami Marlins. Ted Williams, who is 38, is leading the American League in batting.

When Sammy Baugh retired from football he had been throwing passes and kicking footballs for 19 years in college and professional ranks. Tex Coulter, who announced his retirement at the end of last season, played 14 years in college and professional ranks.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard has been in the National Hockey League for 18 seasons. He will be 36 in August.

Archie Moore is light heavyweight champion of the world at 43 and Sugar Ray Robinson, who says he's 36, but some say 37, is the middleweight champion. Joe Walcott was still engaging in fights at the age of 44.

Gene Sarazen, now 55, competes in major golf tournaments.

Bill Tilden was playing first-rate tennis when he was past the half-century mark.

Johnny Mize continued to lash out base hits for the Yankees when he was past 40. After 23 years in the game he was their star in the 1952 World Series, hitting three homers and missing a fourth when Carl Furillo pulled the ball out of the stands with a leaping catch.

Satch Paige averaged 200 games a year in North and South America until he entered organized baseball. He is one of the most remarkable athletes we have ever seen.

Paige and Mize will have to be listed with Honus Wagner, Denton T. (Cy) Young, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Rogers Hornsby, Babe Ruth, Nap Lajoie and Mel Ott for longevity in baseball. All of them lasted from 20 to 25 years in baseball.

Gene Sarazen won his first United States Open in 1922. He has as fine a swing today as he ever had and hits the ball as well as he ever did, but his legs won't carry him as far as they once did.

Maurice Richard scored 33 goals last season and hockey fans all around the N.H.L. marvelled at him. Toe Blake says a hockey player should reach his peak at the age of 26 and the Rocket was almost 10 years beyond that age. Bill Cook led the league in scoring at the age of 39.

For longevity the Rocket will find a spot in the same bracket with Bill Cook, Dit Clapper, Hooley Smith, Neis Stewart, Newsy Lalonde, Odi Heller, and several others. But the Rocket, playing a 70-game schedule and extended playoffs, may be the miracle man of them all.

The unorthodox' tactics of Prince Maiava, bushy haired Samoan grappler, will be tested by Pat O'Connor, highly rated matman from New Zealand in the feature match of Friday night's wrestling program at the Memorial Arena.

Maiava is undoubtedly the most spectacular wrestler to appear in this territory for several months. The south sea islander has impressed fans with his brute strength and colorful attack. The Prince is just as unusual out of the ring as he is in it. Maiava thinks nothing of eating raw fish, walking on red-hot coals, barefooted, or opening a coconut by banging it against his head. The Prince speaks no English, and his constant companion is his manager, Coconut Willie, who directs Maiava's ring tactics by beating out messages on a tom-tom.

O'Connor, an Irishman from New Zealand, is probably the most talented matman to invade the North American wrestling scene, Pat was the heavyweight champion of New Zealand from 1947-1950.

Hoak Blasts Grand-Slammer In 7-6 Victory Over Brooklyn; Yankees Bow to Indians 10-4

By The Canadian Press

Ted Williams, at an age when most baseball players are thinking of — or are in — retirement, may be in for his greatest year in major league ball.

The 38-year-old "splendid splinter" of Boston Red Sox slammed three homers Wednesday to power Boston to its fourth straight victory, a 4-1 triumph over the slumping Chicago White Sox.

Williams thus banged out four homers in his last five times at bat. He welded three in a row, hitting a pair in his first two trips Wednesday after his ninth-inning two-run smash Tuesday night which gave Boston a 4-3 victory over the Sox.

Williams' magnificent clouting hoisted the Bosox into a second-place tie with Chicago in the American League, half a game behind the New York Yankees, who lost 10-4 to Cleveland Indians. The Tribe collected 13 hits, including three home runs.

IN OTHER GAMES

Homers also figured in other games. Gus Triandos and Billy Gardner hammered circuit clouts as Baltimore Orioles trampled Kansas City Athletics 11-2, while Charlie Maxwell of Detroit Tigers banged another when the Bengals sent the last-place Washington Senators plummeting their 10th straight defeat 11-3.

At Chicago, taking advantage of a brisk Comiskey Park tailwind, Williams lofted a four-bagger into the right field upper deck in the first inning and parked one in the left field lower stands in the third.

The leagues leading hitter, hiking his mark to .474, now has collected nine homers for the season. He didn't bag that many last year until July 30, winding up with 24 for the campaign.

He found the target again in the eighth, banging another homer into the top right field tier to score Billy Klaus.

The only other time Williams hit as many as three homers in one game was July 14, 1946 against Cleveland, the day the famous "Boudreau shift" was born in attempting to stop him.

DOWNED THREE

Cleveland battered four New York pitchers in winning their second straight game from the Yankees. Three-run homers by Vic Wertz and Gene Woodling and a two-run blast by rookie Roger Maris helped Early Wynn post his third victory.

Micky Mantle's fourth homer of the season accounted for the first three Yankee runs.

Triandos hit his homer with two on base in the seventh and he drove in four runs as the Orioles' Billy Loes pitched an eight-hitter to end the Athletics' four-game winning streak. Kansas City contributed to their own downfall with four costly errors.

Gardner's homer led off the first inning when Baltimore got two runs off Alex Kellner. The last one came in the seventh by Bob Cerv, who dropped Bob Nieman's fly, permitting Bob Boyd to score from third.

KEPT IT SAFE

The Senators got to starter Duke Maas for 10 safeties in the first five innings, but Jim Bunning came on and didn't allow the Senators another hit the rest of the way. The victory went to Maas, his fourth in a row after one defeat.

The Tigers broke the game open with four runs in the fifth inning, sending 10 men to bat against Russ Kemmerer and Dick Hyde. Kemmerer, making his second start since being obtained from Boston failed to retire a batter in the fifth.

He was replaced after yielding doubles to Reno Bertoia and Harvey Kuenn around a base on balls and a single to Frank Bolling.

The Tigers added two more in the sixth when Maxwell hit his second home run off the third deck facade in right field following a base on balls.

Richmond Tops Toronto 6-4; Marlins Win

By The Associated Press

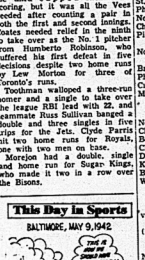
Miami's Marlins, getting the job done on the road, did it the hard way Wednesday night to retain their two-game lead in the International League.

Marlins, who have won eight of 10 on the road compared to 6-4 at home, blew a 6-0 lead at Rochester but hustled back with two runs in the ninth to win 8-7.

Second-place Richmond scored early to beat Toronto 6-4 as right-hander Jim Coates became the league's leading pitcher with a 4-0 record. Havana's Danny Morejon drove in three runs as Sugar Kings beat Buffalo 5-4. And Ken Toothman batted home five runs for Columbus in the Jets' 9-5 decision over Montreal.

WALKS DID IT

Miami's rally didn't get started until two were out in the ninth. Then Rochester reliever Bill Greason walked Ben Tompkins and Larry Novak and Don Landrum singled to tie it. Tall, Francisco Herrera followed with a grounder that bounced through the infield for a double to score the winning run.



Tom Carroll's two-run homer in the third capped Richmond's scoring, but it was all the Vees needed after counting a pair in both the first and second innings. Coates needed only 101 pitches to take over as the No. 1 pitcher from Humberto Robinson, who suffered his first defeat in five decisions despite two home runs by Lew Morton for three of Toronto's runs.

Toothman's two-run homer in the third and a single to take over the league RBI lead with 22, and teammate Russ Sullivan banged a double and three singles in five trips for the Jets. Clyde Parris hit two home runs for Royals, one with two men on base.

Morejon had a double, single and home run for Sugar Kings, who made it two in a row over the Bisons.

Flin Flon Wins Memorial Cup; Defeats Baby Habs 3-2 In Deciding Game

Trophy Goes to Western Club First Time in Nine Years; Bomber Captain Proves Hero

REGINA (CP)—For the first time in nine years the Memorial Cup has found a resting place in Western Canada.

Flin Flon Bombers edged a fighting Ottawa Canadiens club 3-2 Wednesday night in the seventh and deciding game of the Canadian Junior hockey championship series to give the West its first cup since 1948.

Bombers, in bringing the first junior title to the small north-western Manitoba mining town, scored two 3-2 and a pair of 3-2 victories over the Ottawa club. Canadiens won the second, third and sixth games by scores of 4-3, 5-3 and 6-4.

It was the first time since 1946, when Winnipeg Monarchs took the trophy, that a prairie team had been able to take the decision.

Last year Toronto Marlboros defended Eastern Canada.

HAMPSON IS HERO

Captain Ted Hampson was the Bomber hero, scoring the winning goal just 1:03 after Fred Hampson's linemates, Patty Gilsdale and Hal Brenzall, scored the first two Flin Flon goals in the first period while Ottawa played short-handed.

Centre Mike Lagace, who arrived in the Bomber camp shortly before after the game started, scored both Ottawa goals, his second coming just 1:03 after the second to end the game.

Bombers, Saskatchewan Junior League champions, led 2-0 after the first period but Lagace, who made his first appearance on the ice at 13:10 of the second period, cut the margin to 2-1 as the teams headed into the final session.

FOUR OVER BOARDS

The game's end touched off wild scenes as Flin Flon fans poured over the boards to cheer their players. It was Bombers' 83th game of the year and their 72nd victory.

It marked the 17th time the Memorial Cup has been won by a western team since the Canadian Junior title was first played for in 1919.

Penalties killed the Canadiens as three of four goals in the penalties handed out.

The penalty parade started at 16:21 of the first period with Ottawa drawing two penalties in 16 seconds. Gilles Tremblay went out for tripping and captain Ralph Backstrom took a major for hitting George Konik over the head with his stick.

TWO SHORT

Gilsenan and Pearson each scored during the manpower shortage. Gilsenan's goal, his sixth of the series, came while Ottawa was two men short.

Both goalies performed spectacularly throughout but the standout was Canadiens' Claude Dubois. He was forced to make many breakaway saves, especially in the late minutes, as Canadiens opened up in a desperate effort to get back into the game.

PENALTY THRILL

"It's the greatest thrill of my life" said Flin Flon coach Bobby Kiry. "We won the cup because an inspired, determined hockey club fought when the chips were down and never gave up."

Team - captain Hampson had praise for Canadiens.

"They fought up to the end," he said.

The Ottawa dressing room was deserted except for the trainer and two or three players and coach Sam Pollock.

A reporter suggested that Canadiens had a rough deal penalty-wise.

"Yeah," said Sam, "I guess it had to be that way."

TEATHER RESIGNS

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Jim Lomore, president of the St. Catharines Athletics lacrosse club, announced Wednesday that Yank Teather has resigned as coach and Joe McNulty has been appointed to succeed him.

Teather said he was resigning because of increased business responsibilities. He played with Canadian senior championship teams in St. Catharines and Hamilton and was drafted this second season as Athletic coach.

Dunlops Feted In Celebration; Ready for Russia

WHITBY (CP) — Most of Whitby's 7,000 citizens, six bands and 46 floats proudly turned out Wednesday night to honor the Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops during parade down the town's main street.

The Cinderella team of Canadian hockey was carried in convertibles past cheering supporters in an hour-long parade led by a police motorcycle escort and a navy cadet trumpet band. Three pipe bands and two brass bands from Oshawa, Bowmanville and Whitby and floats from Whitby and Oshawa were brought in to help with celebrations.

Stops of the floats showed the Dunlops beating red - shirted, hockey representatives at last years' world hockey championships in Oslo Norway. A second truck carried cash to purchase tickets already on sale for the Whitby-Russia game. After the parade the club's sponsors invited the whole town to a reception and dance in the arena.

Dunlops have expressed an interest in representing Canada at the world championships next year. Wren Blair, the club's general manager, will present Dunlops' proposal to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association next month. Canada has not sent a team to the championships since Russia beat Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen two years ago.

In their first year of senior A competition the "Go Go Dunlops" astounded the hockey world by knocking off the highly - rated Dutchmen and North Bay Trappers and then in the Canadian finals trouncing Spokane Flyers in four straight games.

Petes Sign Western Star

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Junior Kings of the Ontario Lacrosse Association announced Wednesday night the signing of Bobby Allan, leading scorer with last year's Canadian senior champion Nanaimo Timbermen.

In Nanaimo, team officials said Allan had already signed to play with the Timbermen and had signed a conditional offer of returning. They said they would fight any attempt Allan made to play in the east.

Allan said he has since enrolled at the University of Toronto and wants to be in the East when classes start in September.

Max Kayt, Peterborough general manager, said he signed Allan after consultation with Ted Blair, OLA president. An Ontario regulation forbids transfer of more than one player from one team to another in one season.

Quintes's Jimmy Green Wins Ken Colling Memorial Race; Negotiates Course in 20.39

Jimmy Green, Quinte Secondary School track and field ace won the annual Ken Colling Memorial Cross Country run from a field of 26 runners here yesterday afternoon.

Green's time was 20.39 for the four-mile course, an automatic record since it was the first race over the new distance. The new course was reduced from five and one quarter miles to eliminate the CNR tracks hazard at the coal sheds.

Chasing Green to the wire was BCI's Glen Maracle who crossed the finish line 24 seconds later after a thrilling nip-and-tuck battle. In third place was Gerald Hill of BCI who was timed in 21.34.

In fourth place was Gerald Hoyle of Alliston College, 21.58 and next came Don McMullen of BCI. In sixth and last prize award position was Doug Hamlin for BCI.

Green was presented with the handsome Ken Colling Memorial Trophy by its donor Mr. Cleo Colling, brother of the former sports editor of this newspaper. It was the second consecutive sports triumph for the winner. Mr. Colling stated later if Green wins it next year, the trophy will become his permanent possession while another annual trophy will take its place. He also presented handsome crests to each participant in the race.

All the 26 starters finished the race.

Principal A. E. Orr of BCI sent the pack away shortly after 4.30 from the campus. Dick Hurst quickly assumed the lead followed closely by Green. The Quinte runner overtook Hurst at the end of Queen Street when another threat in Glen Maracle loomed up. Maracle edged past Green at the end of Herchimer but Green passed him shortly after. The runners were neck and neck from the half-way mark to the foot of Church Street hill.

Here Green forged into the lead and Maracle's pace fell off coming up the gradient. Green finished strongly a few yards in front of the runner-up. Poulos ran third practically all the way until he reached the top of Church Street when Hill sprinted hard to overtake him and finish in third place.

The BCI presentation was packed with students prior to the presentation ceremonies, and the youngsters were not sparing with their applause for the various trackmen. One of the proudest people in the gym and at the race was Mrs. Ethel Green, mother of the winner, who was given a special seat of honor in the gymnasium.

Mr. A. "Peter" Beach introduced Mr. Colling, who paid tribute to the four governors of the race, Messrs. Beach, "Red" Townsend, Jack Sisson and Father McGee. "It it were not for these men," he said, "there would be no race. They have done a wonderful job for sports in the city schools." He stated that the Memorial Trophy had been won twice by three runners, George Ewald, "Sam" Gault and Jimmy Green. "Jimmy will keep this one if he wins it next year. And there will be another in its place," Mr. Colling said.

He then presented the trophy to Green and the colorful crests to the participants.

Homer "Red" Townsend said he was proud to be associated with such men as his fellow governors of the race. He was proud to see so much interest in the event, he said. He paid tribute to Mrs. Green "for making her son the winner" saying that Jimmy did not win the race mainly for Quinte Secondary School. "He also won it for his mother".

Schools represented in the event were BCI, Quinte, Albert College and North Hastings. Two runners from Bancroft Leonard McCormack and Don Hennessy were splendid showings in their first attempt in the race.

The first six to finish will receive cash awards. These will be presented during classes some day next week.

Thirty Seven Nags Eligible for Queen's Plate

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Jockey Club announced Wednesday that 37 Canadian-bred three-year-olds still are eligible for next month's renewal of the historic Queen's Plate, the 98th running of the Queen's Plate — North America's oldest annual stakes race—will be contested at the New Woodbine course Saturday, June 8.

The distance of the plate, this year, will be 1¼ miles. In recent years it has been raced at 1¼ miles. The Dash Trial, at 1 1-16 miles, will be contested at New Woodbine June 3.

This year's prospective field was reduced to 37 when a payment of $100 became due on May 1. Owners must pay another $250 for each candidate which is named through the entry box the day before the race.

DONATES $0 GUINEAS

The Ontario Jockey Club posts a purse of $225,000 for the Queen's Plate. Additionally, the Queen donates 50 guineas to the winning owner. With insertion fees, interim payments and starting fees, this year's runner will finish third, three lengths behind the winner, Howboy.

Alta Pride, which made a successful 1957 debut at Fort Erie is second choice in the pre-race wagering.

Tennis Aces Meet in Tourney

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —American and Canadian tennis aces will play Friday matches in the finals of the National clay court singles championship.

Jack Frost of St. Petersburg, top-seeded U.S. player, advanced Wednesday to the quarter-finals with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 win over Hugh Quinn of Philadelphia.

Aces Could Take Cup Tonight

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces and Brandon Regals agree on one thing—this May weather is for golfers, not for hockey players.

While the westerners forecast a high of 80 for Quebec today, the two teams prepared to do battle again in what could be the windup of the best-of-nine series for the Edinburgh Trophy. Quebec leads the series 4-1.

Although playing coach Don Raleigh of Regals says his team is not out of contention yet, players and officials of both teams give the impression they'll be happy to have the whole thing over with.

Raleigh says the season now runs "far too late." He feels the Quebec Hockey League and the Western Hockey League should start earlier and finish under way earlier in future years.

NEED LONG SEASON

Two factors now cause the late season. The two leagues say they need a best-of-nine series to cover the high cost of the East-West meeting. And they don't want to start the series until after the Stanley Cup playoffs, to avoid the stiff competition.

Both general - manager Punch Imlach of the Aces and Art Jones, president of the WHL, favor a seven-game series in future.

If the present series goes the full nine games, the last contest will be played May 15.

Attendance for the series has been good. In two night games the clubs drew crowds of 8,100 and 5,200 and attracted 7,300 and 10,300 to two Sunday afternoon contests. The only match played away from Quebec—in Montreal—drew about 8,000.

TAKES BOWLING TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—Millie McCabe of Toronto Wednesday won the Ontario Bowling Association women's five-pin A singles championship with a 870 triple. M. Summers of St. Catharines was third with 798.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

You can't turn in a top performance on the baseball diamond if you are tired, and you are not likely to get tired if you get good physical condition. No one gets real enjoyment out of a game if he isn't in shape to play it.

Once you begin to exercise regularly, you will find that it is fun, and you will get a lot of satisfaction out of having your body fit for action. This is particularly true of the conditioning you do to get ready to play baseball.

In addition to body-building and conditioning exercises like those shown above, sharpening fly balls, participating in pepper games, taking wind sprints and hitting off a batting tee are a few of the ways big league players use to get and stay physically fit.

When you find a player who has remained a major league star much longer than most athletes of the same age you generally find a fellow who has made more of an effort to stay physically fit—men like Bob Feller, Fred Fitzsimmons, Peewee Reese, Phil Rizzuto, Pepper Martin and Stan Musial.

AT THE PARK — Gregory Peck, portraying the vengeful Captain Ahab, is challenged by his first mate, Starbuck, Leo Genn, in a tense dramatic moment from the Warner Bros. presentation of John Huston's production of Herman Melville's adventure classic "Moby Dick," which opens tonight at the Park Theatre. On the same program, excitement explodes in "The Quiet Gun," starring Forrest Tucker.

AT THE BELLE — Stepping to the music of Gershwin, through the streets and byways of Paris, Audrey Hepburn and Kay Thompson deliver a lesson on "How To Be Lovely," in song and dance while Fred Astaire salutes their obvious qualifications. The Paris filmed picture, is Audrey's song-and-dance bow, in Vistavision and Technicolor, and is continuing at the Belle Theatre. "Funny Face" is reaching for a fourth week at three important Toronto Theatres.

AT THE McCARTHY — Grant Williams, only an inch in height as the result of a mysterious malady, plans an ingenious attack on a spider that has been stalking him in this scene from the Allied Artists' Shrinking Man," a science-fiction-adventure chiller in which Williams and Randy Stuart co-star. Opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Big Klu Ready For Surgery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ted Kluszewski, eager to undergo an operation for a slipped disc, said Wednesday the surgeons will not know how serious it is "until they have a chance to look at it," probably next week.

"They won't know how long I'll be out until they actually cut and get in there," the big Cincinnati Redleg first baseman told reporters.

START TONIGHT

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the International League announced Wednesday that night games will begin tonight instead of Friday as previously announced.

Night games, except Saturdays, will be started at 8 p.m. EDT. Saturday games will start at 8:30 p.m. because of television commitments. Twilight-night doubleheaders will start at 6:30 p.m.

Afternoon games will continue on Sundays and holidays.

HOLD BOXER'S FUNERAL

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Four hundred cars Wednesday formed the funeral procession of boxer Jimmy Elliott.

Elliott, 26, died Sunday following brain operation soon after he was knocked out by Pat MacAteer in the British champion, in the sixth round of an empire middleweight title fight.

On the South African boxer's coffin were the gloves he wore against MacAteer and his green dressing robe.

Argonauts Sign Versatile Star

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Verdan Newton, a lineman who alternated as a guard, tackle and centre at San Diego State College, has been signed by Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football union, managing director Lew Hayman announced today.

The six-foot, 230-pound Newton was offered a contract after working out a tryout clinic which head coach Hamp Pool held in Los Angeles a few weeks ago. Hayman said at least one other prospect from the clinic will be added to the Argo roster.

Hayman said the 23-year-old Newton, the 15th new import signed by Argos, will be given a chance to win a guard position since he is an exceptionally fast and agile runner.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and Dopey Shorty Judge went past, and I said, Talk about being dopey, pop, the guy really is.

Perhaps he's a poet in disknie, pop said, and I said, He better start soon, because he's got a long ways to go. Us fellows were talking about what kind of an engineer we would rather be when we grow up, and Shorty said he wants to be the engineer of a merry go round, so he can get free rides all day long while everybody else has to pay for them. Now's that for being dopey, pop? I meen heck, no matter who you are you'd get sure to get dizzy sooner or later, I said.

It's my impression that merry go round engineers have an even worse fate than that, pop said. I believe they have to stay in a middle compartment that doesn't go around at all. The association of merry go round owners probably fired it that way deliberdy so no shiftless pleasure loving characters would apply for the job. I suppose you have a really sensible idea for your own future, he said.

Sure, I told them I wanted to be the engineer of a roller coaster where you just shoot along and go down through the air all day on safe tracks, I said, and pop said, That's a very conservative goal and if nothing happens to change it, I hope you'll give my grandchildren some rides.

Which I promised I would.

Mickey Shaughnessy Worked Way up as Comedian in Saloons

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The fat man chewing on an ice cream sandwich and a candy bar in the middle of the morning appeared to be the least likely candidate for film success.

With glasses, wild reddish hair and an Irish face, he looked like an inflated Mickey Rooney. But Mickey Shaughnessy has hit it rich in films.

He's been around town for five years, but only recently did his career take off. He plays Gregory Peck's punch-drunk pal in Designing Woman and puts in a gem of a performance. MGM quickly cast him in Don't Go Near the Water and Until They Sail.

Now he's at Universal playing a bond in Slaughter on 10th Ave. As soon as he finishes, he dashes back to MGM to be Elvis Presley's criminal mentor in Jailhouse Rock.

STARTED AS KID

"I started as a kid at Conty Island and other joints doing the singing waiter bit. It was stealing, but mostly how you could make a couple of bucks for a song."

Mickey worked his way up as a comedian in the saloons, and his night club salary rose to $1,000 a week, at the Thunderbird in Las Vegas. But he turned no profit in the gambling capital. "I earned $50,000 in four years of dates in Las Vegas," Mickey lamented, "and I ended up owing them $3,700. I still have to go back and play it off."

"But this time it will be different. There is a certain party named Michael Shaughnessy Jr., born Feb. 4, who will keep me away from the tables."

For those who wondered about him in Designing Woman, he really isn't that beat up; the prizefight scars were an adept makeup job. Nor is he dopey. He's a hep fellow who knows where he's going.

Gangster's Name and Scene Changed Before Presentation

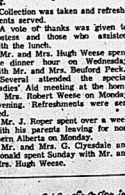
By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—An interesting change was made in the script of Flesh and Blood, starring Victor Jory and Tommy Sands, on Television Theatre (NBC-TV) Wednesday night.

The first announcement of the drama by Anthony Spinner last month identified the principal character as a wealthy American gangster named Frankie who returned to his native Italy. In the final version the gangster's name was Franz and the scene was changed from Italy to Austria.

At first glance it might appear that somebody was afraid of annoying some wealthy American gangster living in Italy. But the truth is you cannot annoy any wealthy American gangster living in Italy. You can, however, annoy innumerable Americans of Italian descent by casting one of their native countrymen in an unfavorable light. There are relatively few Americans of Austrian descent.)

About a year ago I wrote a column complaining that we were seeing too many Italian villains on television. It seems that I personally had nothing to do with the change, but I don't recall seeing a villain of Italian descent on the home screen since. I urged a fair proportion of Italian villains—not no Italian villains.



It's getting terribly difficult to cast a villain. The safest way not to offend anyone is to make a villain an Iron Curtain Communist. It must be a great trial for the script writers—and it's becoming a trial for some of us viewers.

Villainy on television is gradually sinking behind the Iron Curtain and into the hills and draws of the far west. The medium is even becoming sensitive about mentioning countries.

This situation which has arisen in TV drama is truly perplexing. Individuals no longer can be individuals. They represent a country, a race, a business, a profession. It should not be, but that's the way it is.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — While your planet Jupiter, suggests consistent rather than hurried effort, you will still gain some special ground by stepping up your efforts where it's reasonable. Avoid hassles.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Saturn's position encourages all honest endeavors; also stresses more than usual patients with the shortcomings of others. You can do much with this day if you put forth your best efforts.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — There's no better time than now to increase your incentive through study, analysing, discussions, etc. You may find opposition, never mind, keep your counsel and go forward courageously.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — A good opportunity here for reviewing, going over facts and theories with capable heads. Debate but don't get into arguments. Some attractive offers possible; carefully separate the wheat from the chaff.

You Born Today are artistic and practical; can make the ordinary pay in unusual ways; can improve upon the creative, too. All depends upon your continued interest, if you are careful of details and do not hurry. Don't depend upon talent and instinct alone. Study and continuous improvements are necessary all the time. Many renowned musicians, artists, humanitarians and inventors were born under Taurus. Don't enter your gifts, neither strain to achieve. Don't waste precious moments on the unworthy. Curtail appetites. Don't be misled through sympathy. Birthdate of: James (Viscount) Bryce, Brit. diplomat, statesman.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in this section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, MAY 10, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Be mindful of your principles and finer instincts in even the smallest ways. And be careful in your selection of associates. You won't be happy with the unreliable. The position of Mars suggests forethought in all matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Accept things in your routinely philosophical way. Keep ambitions and enthusiasms strong, but within reason, of course. Neither overdo nor daily; both will tempt.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Don't put minor matters or personal preferences before things which are truly important. Don't be antagonistic, brusque or careless. You have much talent; use it well.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You may find yourself involved in others' problems or arguments. Don't. Don't count out of turn, but defend principles if necessary. Control emotions.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — It's better to think first, then speak — and speak only when you have facts. Day can be pleasant, though maybe not overly productive.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — The position of Mercury now suggests that you curb your step in dealings with others in your friends. Listen, heed good suggestions.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — The position of your Venus indicates that discretion will be important now. But don't fail to speak up in defence of principles. Don't "quit," but don't drive yourself too hard.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — There are many ways in which you can draw attention to advanced methods, but you must use tact and discretion — which you can when you really try. Think before you leap, then

GOOD-BYE

YOU WILL SAY to your present accommodation if you live in need of a three-bedroom home. Good Bay of Quinte view that this home is — what is called the older type. On Ann St., across the road from school. You will like the size of the rooms. The six rooms in all and the bath. There is a verandah would be nice for those warm days in summer — all enclosed. Oil heat and garage. The terms will not hurt.

Strikebound Mine Plans to Resume Operations Friday

MURADOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—Gaspe Copper Mines Ltd., strike-bound since March 11, says it will resume operations Friday.

The company earlier this week said it could, and would, resume restricted operations with both union and non-union workers.

The United Steelworkers of America (CLC), its 800 members waiting to see what will happen, says the company is bluffing.

Another friction point was discussed by this Gaspe Peninsula community's five-man municipal council Wednesday night. Council was scheduled to consider the possibility of cutting off water supply to 30 homes for non-payment of water taxes.

SOME NOTICES SENT

Municipal secretary - treasurer Gabriel Bernard said some of the tenants in company-owned homes already have received a notice, and notices are pending in other cases. The tax, payable quarterly, varies from $6.88 to $8.15.

In Ottawa, President Claude Jodoin of the Canadian Labor Congress accused the company of "obvious distortion" in an advertisement carried in several newspapers Wednesday.

In the advertisement the company contended the strike is illegal because the union has not been certified as bargaining agent for the workers.

COURT INJUNCTION

Mr. Jodoin noted that when the union last June applied to the Quebec labor relations board for certification, the company obtained a court injunction preventing the board from hearing the application.

The advertisement referred to acts of mass picketing, violence, intimidation and terrorism.

"This Gaspe statement contains obvious distortion," Mr. Jodoin said. "It must be an effort to justify to Noranda shareholders the enormous losses already sustained by these shareholders and the losses yet to come as a result of the unnecessary dispute that now is in progress at Murdochville."

The dispute started three days after local union president Theo Gagne left the company. Gaspe Copper says he was laid off while the union maintains he was fired.

OIL TANK DYNAMITED

A company-obtained injunction forced removal of picket lines April 25 and early the following day a company oil-storage tank at Mont-Louis, 22 miles north, was damaged heavily by a dynamite explosion.

The provincial police detachment here was increased to 110 men and 35 men from a Montreal private detective agency were hired by the company.

The company announced April 29 it was re-opening its mine and since that time both union and non-union workers have been trickling in. Three hundred strikers live here while about 500 are scattered throughout the peninsula.

The USWA says it wants wage increases averaging about 50 cents an hour, to bring wages here in line with those paid International Nickel Company employees at Sudbury. Hourly rates her range between $1.07 and $1.66.

Main point in that of certification. The company says it will not negotiate with a union certified union and the USWA insists on being recognized as bargaining agent.

BRANTFORD (CP) — John Diefenbaker, national Progressive Conservative leader, made a five-minute whistle stop here Thursday—and almost missed.

While he was shaking hands and talking to supporters on the platform of the CNR station, the conductor's call of "all aboard" went unnoticed.

The train started to move and Mr. Diefenbaker and his party made a dash for the last car. With a boost from CNR constable Victor Lee, the opposition leader made it.

Military Junta Given Control In Colombia

He acted in the face of a bank and business strike paralyzing Colombia's major cities two days after being re-elected to the presidency by the parliament.

Only a few hours before, his regime had threatened criminal action to crush the business strike.

UP TO 30 DEAD

An official spokesman said 11 persons have died in the anti-Rojas disorders which began last week, but unofficial reports said the death toll might be as high as 30. Violence flared in opposition to Rojas' dictated re-election to another four-year term, but university students generally led the protest demonstrations.

The ministry of economic development announced that criminal actions would be started against all manufacturers who refuse to sell their products or try to hinder operation of their plants.

Officials said any banks remaining closed today would be seized and their employees drafted into military service. That action was taken Thursday against one of the Bogota banks which were shuttered.

PROTESTS SPREAD

Although there has been no country-wide strike call, shop owners, industrialists and bankers closed down their operations in a widespread protesting protest.

Business reached a virtual standstill here in the capital, in general strike shut down industry, commerce and transport in Cali, a city of 400,000 about 100 miles southwest of Bogota. The government spokesman said 18,000 workers were on strike in Medellin city. Unofficial sources said the work stoppage had spread to other cities.

Other sources said 20,000 persons took part in a protest march with three priests at their head. Cali has been the scene of some of the most violent outbursts. Nine of the officially acknowledged 11 deaths were reported there.

SUSPECTED BANK ROBBERS NABBED, CAR OUT OF GAS

Recover All $16,733 Stolen at Markham

MARKHAM, Ont. (CP) — Two bandits robbed Royal Bank Thursday but were caught in their attempted getaway by an automobile which ran out of gas and the refusal of a usually obliging CNR express agent to give them a lift.

Two and a half hours after the bank in this village, 15 miles northeast of Toronto, was held up, two 25-year-old Toronto men, George Preston and Joseph Perry, were arrested in a roadside restaurant on Highway 7. They were charged with armed robbery.

Police said all the money was recovered. A 32-calibre revolver believed used by the holdup was found in a swamp near Markham.

Two men, one short and stout and wearing a black hat, the other tall and dark and wearing a white hat, entered the bank and tied up the manager and two employees before escaping with money taken from the vault and teller's cages.

WAVES PISTOL

The short bandit leaped the counter to get the money. Donald Forbes, 20, a teller, smiled at him, thinking his holdup threat was a joke. The man, armed with a revolver, told him: "This is no joke."

Manager Maurice Lennox and Forbes were forced to open the vault. The manager stuffed into a white duffel bag and cash drawers were emptied by Joyce Baggett, another teller. Forbes and Lennox were made to lie down while they were tied up.

One of the men apologized to Miss Baggett, saying: "Sorry about dirtying your clothes, ma'am, but you'll have to lie down."

After the bandits left the three managed to release themselves and called police. Police said a stolen car found near the bank and away was found half a mile away, out of gas.

A provincial police armed with shotguns and sub-machine guns searched a swamp where the men were thought to have gone after leaving the road.

JUMP INTO ROAD

John Lunau, railway express agent usually gives lifts to hitch-hikers, but on this occasion jumped into the road as he drove south. He said the men asked for a lift but "were in too much of a hurry." He said he was suspicious, and Lunau, a former police officer, said he drove on, saying he was going only to the next concession before a police from a house farther along the road.

The man saw two men emerge from the swamp near a restaurant on Highway 7 and called police.

Tom Haverkort, proprietor of the restaurant, said: "I'm sorry I did not appear nervous. One made a telephone call to the police, the other ordered milk and a milk shake. Haverkort said he saw the men throw money bags into the bank safe.

Police joined in the search police came upon two youths, one with a rifle. They were thought to have been involved in the robbery until they convinced officers they were only out shooting rabbits.

Husky U.S. Navy Veteran Reaches 10 As He 'Grows up' for Second Time

EL MONTE, Calif., (AP) — Ask husky Melvin Hewitt, 32, a U.S. Navy veteran who was once married and has an eight-year-old daughter, how old he is now and he'll answer proudly, "10."

This is a proper achievement for Hewitt, who seemingly died from a head injury on Oct. 3, 1951 but was revived when doctors opened his chest and massaged his heart back into action.

It's an even prouder achievement for his mother, Mrs. Mabel Werrett, who at a time of life when most mothers are thinking of being grandmothers, is leading her full-grown son again through the bewildering maze of fancy and young childhood.

"It was an awful shock when the doctors told me," Mrs. Werrett recalled today. "Washing and dressing and diapers, and all that —it's one thing with a baby, but with a full-grown man."

The doctors told her, she said, that Melvin's brain was damaged by the fall to the extent he would be in the deep, death-like trance into which he lapsed.

At the Veterans Administration Hospital where he spent much of his time, and at home, Hewitt made slow progress. For the second time, he had to learn to walk, through toilet training, learned to eat solid foods, to talk.

And now doctors say he has arrived at the mental age of 10.

"I don't know. He's been coming along so well," Mrs. Werrett said. "He plays ball with the youngsters around here, he sings, and sometimes he's real witty. He likes to watch television and play cards. And he looks better than ever, too."

But almost everything that happened during the first 32 years of his life is forgotten. Forgotten, he doesn't remember the girl he married briefly, who has since divorced him. He doesn't know he has a daughter. He doesn't know he was in the navy, or that he was hurt.

"He doesn't really know," his mother said. "But sometimes when I tell him something has happened to him, he smiles at me and says, 'Don't worry, Mom,' always remember that I'm going to be OK."

Are at Least 166 Forest Fires Now Burning in 6 Provinces

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Blackened ruins of 20 homes in a little Northern Ontario village offer mute testimony today to the ravages of forest fires dotting the timberlands of six provinces.

Skead, 30 miles north of Sudbury was swept by flames of an 8,000-acre blaze earlier in the week and 88 residents were burned out.

The fire at Skead was one of 80 scattered throughout Northern Ontario, 38 of which are reported still burning. Only one, at Barrow, near Pembroke, was out of control.

In all, there are at least 166 fires burning in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia. With the exception of one each in Nova Scotia, Quebec and Ontario, all are under control.

Between 50 and 75 fires are reported in Quebec, all but two in the area north of Montreal.

Six cottages were destroyed Wednesday at Baie Saint Paul, Quebec, and two at L'Assomption, 25 miles north of Montreal. Otherwise there was no major property damage.

Nova Scotia has 34 outbreaks but the only one not under control is at Lansdowne in Hants County.

Officials said Thursday night the fire hazard in the province is still "explosive." But rain forecast for today was expected to help the situation.

Two fires are reported in New Brunswick. Chief forester G. L. Miller at Fredericton said a big fire is burning near Dieppe in the Moncton area. Another, smaller, blaze is near Clarendon, Carleton County.

Seven fires are burning in British Columbia but all are under control. Alberta has a dozen blazes, none out of control.

Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Saskatchewan have no fires.

Scattered rains in Northern Ontario put out 21 of the 80 fires that were burning earlier in the week.

The danger was reduced somewhat by rising humidity but this was little consolation to the people who lost their homes at Skead.

Hundreds of food and clothing streamed into the area Thursday from Sudbury and Premier Frost in Toronto the Ontario government is considering financial aid to the burned-out families. Relief officials said the most urgent need was for tools and building materials.

The premier said that federal payments could also be made available if the federal government designates the forest fire damage as a disaster.

French Commission Named To Probe Alleged Tortures

PARIS (AP) — A special commission, including some of the most brilliant legal minds of France, is considering today a question distressing many French men.

Are the army and police guilty of widespread torture of prisoners and brutal repression in French attempts to put down the nationalist rebellion in Algeria?

Socialist Premier Guy Mollet named the 12 men — "commission to safeguard individual rights and liberties." He assigned them the weighty task of ascertaining that torture chambers and ruthless killings have been part of France's "pacification" methods in the insurrection.

Mollet, a humanitarian leader in the war, knew German excesses first hand. He has sharply denied that the forces in Algeria are Nazis in French uniforms.

He seems convinced the special commission will bear him out.

Although no one has seriously questioned the integrity of the commission, there is a feeling its efforts may have been somewhat compromised even before it gets to work.

Opponents of the government charge, in effect, that only the Socialist Premier Mendes-France has been able to pick members of a "jury" to hear the accusations. The extreme west pro-Communist and Lacoste wanted only a "hand picked" group to go to Algeria. Lacoste discouraged a Radical Socialist party commission from going to Algiers to make its own probe. The radical socialists are led by Pierre Mendes-France, who quit the Mollet government mainly over its Algerian policies.

Mendes-France went to Algeria and Lacoste wanted only a "hand picked" group to go to Algeria. Lacoste discouraged a Radical Socialist party commission from going to Algiers to make its own probe. The radical socialists are led by Pierre Mendes-France, who quit the Mollet government mainly over its Algerian policies.

Mendes-France went to Algeria and was afraid to let out the truth of what he found, the Socialist cities seized the May 1 issue of the leftist weekly France Observateur. The reason was a page spread with purported excerpts from a French Catholic soldier, telling of the use of torture on Moslem prisoners by French troops in Algeria.

The government said the newspaper had weakened the "internal and external security of the state."

Beef of Social Credit Leader Helps to Warm up Campaign

By CP STAFF WRITER

To liven up an election campaign, you can't beat a shot or two of the unexpected. Especially if it's beef.

With exactly a month from today to go to the June 10 federal election, Canadian voters can look back at a campaign noteworthy more for its serenity than its turbulence. But for excitement, the best may yet to be.

Attention is rapidly focussing now on this question: Just what was in Prime Minister St. Laurent's correspondence last fall with then British prime minister Sir Anthony Eden about the Anglo-French invasion of Egypt?

Meantime, Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker criticized the Liberal federal government's agriculture policies as he campaigned through Southwestern Ontario with a night meeting at Windsor.

CANADA'S BIGGEST AIR DISASTER MAY SOON BE SOLVED

Snow in Mountains Starting to Melt

VANCOUVER (CP)—The mystery of Canada's worst aviation disaster, shrouded for five months in the jagged peaks of the Coast Range mountains, may be near solution. The snow shroud is melting.

The disaster occurred Dec. 9 when a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star disappeared at night over the mountains 100 miles east of here with 62 passengers and three crew members aboard.

Not a trace of the 62 persons or the airliner has been found.

For five days after the North Star disappeared, the cloud and extreme air turbulence thwarted the search. On the 10th day, 50 planes criss-crossed a 1,200-mile area but the deep snow already had been at work.

During the nine days of bad flying weather, 16 to 20 feet of snow—depending on the altitude—fell in the jagged, rocky ridges that makes up the southern British Columbia Cascade range.

START SEARCH PLANE

But the mountain snowline now is creeping up and TCA held an organizational meeting Thursday to lay search renewal plans.

Representatives at the meeting chief Allen Richardson of the federal transport department, Donald Gordon, president of TCA, Surveys Ltd., and the B.C. mountain rescue organization.

Richardson said TCA operations chief here, announced Army Surveys will photograph a 2,200-square-mile area considered the heart of the search area. This project will begin near the end of June or start of July.

Last January Aero Surveys covered 1,100 square miles of the same area but, Donnelly said, the cover at the vast amount of snow that had fallen, it "was like grasping at straws."

An RCAF search "with at least 12 planes" will be conducted on the 5,000 - square - mile area centered about 9,700-foot Silvertip Mountain, 70 miles east of Vancouver and 20—miles southeast of Hope, B.C.

WHEN SNOW FAVORABLE

Donnelly said the plane search will start when snow conditions are more favorable than those at the time of the planes' disappearance. It will be unlikely to be earlier than mid-June.

The mountainous area will be first to get started. On June 1 they will search 7,000-foot Mount Hicsilwus and Mount Hicsilwus and a few miles east of Silvertip.

Sqdn. Ldr. Sheahan Shenkin, who commands the RCAF's search and rescue squadron here, said since the North Star disaster other planes crashed in the same general area so he is confident he can find it.

Sqdn. Ldr. Sheahan said more than 3,000 reports have been received from the public since the plane disappeared.

Hundreds of these, he said, including nearly 500 from persons who say they reported their dreams about the crash.

WOULD CO-OPERATE

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada is prepared to co-operate fully with European nations aiming at a 10-year program for production of electricity by atomic energy, officials said Thursday. They added that Canada's big uranium mines will sell the European nations substantial quantities of natural uranium for other countries and to contribute technical aid.

Sale Notice On City Park' At Brantford

BRANTFORD (CP) — Parks Superintendent Leonard Joylyn was startled Thursday when told someone had posted For Sale notices on a small city park adjoining the CNR station.

He was even more startled to find on investigation that the city doesn't own the land. But he sent a man to remove the signs, anyway.

It developed that the land belongs to the CNR but has been zoned by the city as a parking area.

The city now plans to open negotiations to buy the land so it will not fall into the hands of a private owner.

Red Flag Drapes Queen's Statue In New Delhi

NEW DELHI (AP) — Communists leaded their hammer-and-sickle flag to Queen Victoria's statue today as India marked the 100th anniversary of the Sepoy Mutiny, which many Indians now are calling the first campaign of the "War of Independence."

It was a national holiday in India. In the capital, where a British siege lasted the 1857 rising, the Communists were at the forefront of the early demonstrations.

Bay of Quinte district farmers and forest rangers in the Tweed area to the north breathed a sigh of relief this morning following last night's rain and indications that it may extend well into the day.

Up to six o'clock this morning approximately one-inch of rain to inch of rain had fallen at Belleville. The rain was quite general in the Tweed area, but was considerably tapered off toward the east with only .30 inch recorded at Picton. "It is certainly a welcome rain," stated "Mac" Wilson, in charge of fire protection at the Lands and Forests office at Tweed. "If it continues, it will do much to bring the bush fires now raging under control."

To date this season there have been 93 forest fires reported in the Tweed district, these extending over 8,500 acres. Most of these have been brought under control but 13 bush blazes are still being patrolled.

Biggest fire to date has been in the Gilmour area where a fire which extended over 500 acres is still being patrolled. Another large fire was in the Northbrook area which burned over 150 acres.

Aylmer investigation into the Arden fire is underway with Department officials confident that evidence will be uncovered to prosecute the offender may be fined and ordered to pay costs of fighting the blaze.

So far in the Tweed district no buildings other than those used to forests have resulted from the many bush blazes.

The area is based at Tweed this year by the Department of Lands and Forests has proved invaluable in spotting fires, especially in the new fire protection area added in the Tweed district this year.

Aside from doing much to bring the forest fire situation under control, the rain last night and today will be a great benefit to district farmers.

Grain which has lain dormant in the ground because of moisture lack will quickly sprout while pastures, meadow and new seeding will also be given a big boost.

Even city residents will reap a benefit as lawns will suddenly spring into life and backyard gardens will show results of recent evenings' work.

Recruit Training Course Will Again Operate

The recruit training program of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt. which was such a tremendous success last year will be in operation once again this summer at the Belleville armouries.

The recruit course which is approximately eight weeks duration will take place in the armouries except one week when the entire course moves to Camp Niagara with the rest of the regiment for their annual summer camp.

Officers of the unit for a specially chosen staff of officers and NCO's of the 1956 Recruit Course and it is of special note that some of this years NCO instructors are themselves graduates of last years course.

The most appealing part of the course to any young man, particularly a single seeking summer employment is the "Pay Parade."

The recruits are paid in accordance with Canadian Army Pay and Allowances Regulations, and a man may earn a minimum of $238. for his summer training.

At the completion of the course the recruit is given the alternative of turning in his gear and being discharged or of signing on with the Militia. It is very gratifying and certainly very much to the credit of last year's instructors that out of a total of sixty-five recruits some forty odd remained in the regiment.

There are at present about 40 vacancies for this year's course so all young men in the district 18 years of age or above are urged to take advantage of this training.

ROCKETS DUMPED?

LONDON (Reuters) — A Conservative member of Parliament charged Thursday that the United States Air Force is dumping rockets, many of them live, into an English river. Brian Harrison said it appeared the air force had dumped eight 5-ton tons of rockets, ammunition and explosives into the Blackwater River near a U.S. bombing range. He said rocket tail fins were catching in fishing nets and damaging them.

Graduating Class Given Awards At BCI Dinner

The course of action to become a fully recognized professional engineer was outlined to the graduating class of the Advanced Technical Engineering course at a graduation dinner and certificate presentation at BCI last night.

The speaker was Dr. G. B. Langford, head of the department of Geological Sciences at the University of Toronto and chairman of a committee for registration of engineering technicians.

Mr. Langford said that the professional engineering ranks were overwhelmed by a multiplicity of demands for their services and his committee had been formed with the objective of organizing the assistance of more than 40,000 engineering technicians.

The speaker said that this program, which is also being carried on in England and the United States, has the purpose of organizing technicians to assist the efforts of the Association of Professional Engineers and to provide the opportunity to become fully recognized engineers by passing a series of technical examinations as formulated by the association.

The new organization would legislate certain qualifying examinations to perform services to the public in the fields of estates, survey and scale of wages, public relations and disciplinary powers.

This program would be carried out on an experimental basis and when completed, the program would be sought through a separate act of the Ontario Legislature.

Technical courses in first year of college are eligible to write exams for their college engineering degree.

QUALIFICATIONS NEEDED

Qualifications to take the grade one test are grade 12 certificate; for the grade 2 test, the advanced technical certificate; for grade 3 technical certificate course, two year technical institute course, or higher technical certificate; for grade 4, 2 years university, Ryerson diploma or equivalent, or higher national certificate with endorsation; and for grade 5, intermediate certificate of A.P.E.O.

Dr. Langford said that aside from the opportunity to advance themselves professionally through technical studies and examinations, engineering technicians would also receive the benefit of recognition of the Association of Professional Engineers, establishment of a recognized procedure for advancement; and recognition by industry for employment and job evaluation.

He observed that when "funds are available the program would include publication of a register, salary surveys, employer-employee studies, and public relations.

In closing, Dr. Langford, emphasized the satisfaction of being helpful to humanity mankind and strata in society and industry.

The speaker was introduced by P. W. Harris and thanked by W. J. McCormick.

The 12 graduates of the three-year advanced Evening Technical Course presented certificates by E. A. Orr, principal of BCVI, and James Hall, Nicholas Bazuk, H. Lorne Blakely, Rodney Burr, Kurt Ferworn, Philip Harris, Jack Hawkins, Norman MacDonald, William M. McCormick, Richard W. Moore, George Mountain, and Wilfred Royle.

The instructional staff, which also included Mr. Bradford, congratulations from Brooks Allen on behalf of the B.D.H.S. Board and special note that some of this years NCO instructors are themselves graduates of last years course.

The most appealing part of the course to any young man, particularly a single seeking summer employment is the "Pay Parade."

The recruits are paid in accordance with Canadian Army Pay and Allowances Regulations, and a man may earn a minimum of $238. for his summer training.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Slaughter cattle sold actively 50-75 cents a hundredweight higher this week and were reported 81 higher in some spots at the Ontario public stockyards.

Heifers and yearlings were fully 50 cents a hundredweight higher while cows advanced in a range of 50 cents to $1. Bulls were fully steady with calves, hogs and sheep and lambs generally unchanged.

Cattle receipts increased some 500 head from last week and were down about 500 from the same week in 1956. Western cattle receipts totalled 619 head, an increase of 318 head over last week. There were 39 head of western stock calves, with two carloads shipped to eastern Canadian slaughterers. This was the last week's shipment. There were no exports reported to the United States.

In spite of the increased receipts, cattle sold at strengthened sharp gains. This was attributed to market improvements in both demand and quality.

With few exceptions cattle moved scarcely over the arrival of shortly afterward. This was noted particularly in good and choice quality steers, heifers and yearlings, which formed 47 per cent of the slaughter cattle offerings.

Cow receipts were down, making up only 24 per cent of the slaughter cattle run compared with 30 per cent last week. Bulls sold actively at firm prices.

TORONTO STOCKS

Steels were strongest among the industrials with Stelco climbing 1¼ at 68¾ and Atlas and Algoma up fractions. Trans Mountain Pipe Line recouped some of last week's loss with a jump of 3¼ at 128.

Russia and China May Unite Within Next 25 Years

SUDBURY (CP) — Russia and China will probably unite within the next 25 years, W. Harold Rea, president of Canadian Oil Companies, Ltd., told a luncheon at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce annual meeting Thursday.

Mr. Rea, who recently returned from a trip behind the Iron Curtain, said the Western world should recognize this possibility and attempt to promote exchanges of Soviet and North American students to offset it.

He said the younger people of Russia are extremely confused about what goes on outside their borders. Knowledge of the freedom enjoyed in a democracy would do much to break them away from Communist indoctrination.

He also said there was a little real knowledge of Russia in Western countries. There was no "party line" there like during his Russian tour and no interference with his conversations with Soviet citizens. Nor was there any interrogation, surveillance or interference with luggage.

Judge Anderson Submits Report On Rail Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — The three members of a conciliation board appointed by Labor Minister Gregg to recommend on a Niagara Peninsula railway-labor dispute submitted their report today. But it was announced Thursday.

The board chairman, Judge J.C. Anderson of Belleville, submitted a four-point series of recommendations in the dispute between two Canadian National Railways subsidiaries and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. About 70 employees are affected.

The subsidiaries are the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway and the Oshawa Electric Railway.

Companies nominee R. V. Hicks and Trainmen supported the views of Judge Anderson's recommendations, dissenting from the fourth, while Senator A. W. Roebuck, representing the union, made wholly different recommendations.

RECOMMENDS HOLIDAYS

Judge Anderson recommended, supported by Mr. Hicks, that the firm get the same statutory holidays as CNR employees.

Also supported by Mr. Hicks he suggested that certain categories get similar increases in hourly rates to those won by the same categories of CNR employees in their most recent contracts and the same deal for employees operating diesel engines.

He was not supported by Mr. Hicks on his fourth recommendation, that during the life of a forthcoming contract provision be made for annual increases for conductors and brakemen according to 1956 wage differentials.

Senator Roebuck's submission was a formula that worked through four stages towards full parity in railways' and subsidiaries' wages and working conditions by June 1, 1958.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 7-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds at noon today, Thursday's noon rate was 95 21-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.66 9-16 cents, down 7-16.

Marked Swing To Left Shown In British Votes

The Labor party gained a net total of 260 out of 8,400 seats and captured net control of 11 local councils.

The left-wing swing was evident in an upsurge of Socialist votes Thursday for seats in the borough councils—cities and large and small towns — in England and Wales.

CAMPAIGNED AGAINST COSTS

Labor party leaders, elated by results to date, said the trend vindicated their campaign against the Conservative government on the issues of high living costs and the threat of bigger rents.

If the increase in Labor party votes were carried over in a parliamentary by-elections, had Opposed the local elections would show that Prime Minister Macmillan's government was gaining support.

LONE COMMUNIST LOSES

LONDON (Reuters) — European shipping interests expect to send their vessels through the Suez Canal in substantial numbers soon for the first time since last fall's Middle East crisis.

After the fourth of the recent series of meetings, the 15-country council of the Suez Canal Users Association Thursday night issued a statement criticizing Egypt's plan for management of the canal. But this left the way open for individual governments to resume use of the waterway.

FRANCE STRONGLY OPPOSED

Following the SCUA statement, informed quarters here predicted a substantial return of shipping to the canal, though this is still strongly opposed by France.

There can be no largescale return of British shipping to the Suez unless the government takes steps to make currency available for meeting dues payable to Egypt.

Only France remains adamant in its refusal to use the Suez under the conditions laid down by President Nasser. The other countries, while protesting against the terms, are unwilling to carry on any canal boycott.

MUST MEET COMPETITION

A British foreign office spokesman said ships might "find it necessary to use the canal" for a variety of reasons although the government still advises its shipping not to do so. Several ships flying the British flag already have passed through Suez since it opened last month.

The London Financial Times comments that for Britain the choice lies between a boycott by a few countries or the acceptance of the present terms for the canal's operation."

"In such circumstances no great maritime power can reasonably be expected to leave the canal to its competitors."

Egypt Delays Russian Vessel

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Egyptian Suez Canal Authority held up a Soviet cargo ship for three hours Thursday night for allegedly paying tolls out of permitted accounts.

After paying cash tolls in Swiss francs, the freighter Klapeida was permitted to sail this morning from Port Said. She had already moved through the canal when officials claimed the account was overdrawn.

Another dispute over tolls today involved the 4,937-ton Norwegian freighter Fernhill. The vessel, held up since Sunday, under protest paid the transit tolls in dollars.

Nineteen ships were passing through the canal today.

They dominate the councils in Glasgow, Dundee, Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham and other municipolitan areas.

Mrs. Annie Powell, only Communist provincial borough councillor in England and Wales, lost her seat at Rhondda in Wales.

American Soldier And Canadian Feared Drowned

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—An American soldier and Canadian civilian were lost and feared drowned in Lake Superior in the capsizing of their small boat Thursday night while they were retrieving shot-down "drone" targets from army artillery practice.

The United States army, air force and coast guard today resumed a search of the waters about 50 miles from here. Ontario Provincial Police assisted.

The missing men have not been identified yet by name.

The men's 20-foot boat capsized in choppy water 200 yards from shore. The lake was so rough that a second army boat was unable to get to the immediate scene.

The two, manning a Canadian boat under a U.S. government agreement with Canada, were out to pick up radio-controlled, pilotless target planes shot down in target drill of the U.S. 8th Army aircraft artillery battalion.

CANADIAN AUTHOR'S MARKET LIMITED

Opinions expressed by that erudite and perceptive author Hugh MacLennan are seldom easily refuted.

Several newspapers, however, seem to think that Mr. McLennan stuck his neck out when he accused the Canadian public of "apathy and intellectual timidity" in their reading habits.

One of Canada's foremost creative writers who finds it necessary to lecture at McGill to augment his earnings as an author, McLennan complains "because the public gobbles reams of tripe from the United States it is impossible for a Canadian writing about Canada to make a living. If he wants to do a book about Canada he must get it published in New York before his country will accept it."

In rebuttal the Ottawa Journal counters "this is an old complaint and not too well based. It should be obvious that a Canadian writer in the English language must compete not just with other Canadian writers but with persons of his profession in the whole English world.

"Canadians must be allowed to buy and read what they want to buy and read and if they prefer a work by an Englishman or an Australian, or an American, it is nobody's business.

"There is no obligation upon the public of Canada to support a writer in his writing. A worthless book written by a Canadian remains a worthless book, as a good book is a good book whatever its origin."

The Journal's dismissal is a vast oversimplification blissfully ignoring book publishing facts recognized by every author and publisher in the country.

What are the basic business facts concerning the publishing of books on Canada by Canadians?

We had the privilege of hearing the answers from one of this country's leading publishers in Toronto replying bluntly to the challenge "Why do you not publish more Canadian books?"

"It is purely a matter of arithmetic," he said. "When we undertake the expense and responsibility of printing a book ourselves, we must sell 10,000 and up copies before the venture becomes interesting and a substantial profit point. Since a better than average Canadian novel has a sale of about 3,000, we are forced to reject at least 99 per cent of all manuscripts submitted to us."

The situation in the United States and Great Britain with their larger reading publics is, of course, entirely different.

Manuscripts on the most trivial subjects which would not even get a minute's publishing consideration in Canada are good for sales of 20,000 and up in the States. These larger printings are so profitable that they can be imported into Canada at a good discount with comparatively small risk.

A Canadian author having his book published and sold in the United States with the overrun distributed in Canada would realize infinitely greater profits than the same author finding his basic market here.

Fortunately this disparity is gradually lessening as the Canadian reading public grows and becomes more appreciative and confident of native writing talent.

The opportunities for a Canadian writer in Canada, however, will not match those of an American writer of equal ability until the markets in the countries of publication are equalized.

THEY ARE EXPENDABLE

In an exclusive story to a Toronto newspaper a few days ago, Mr. Larsen reported that several thousand Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have asked the Russian government for permission to set up colonies in the U.S.S.R.

This is the news British Columbians have waited to hear for the past seven years, since the Freedomites first gave indication of a desire to move from B.C.'s lush interior.

If the Sons of Freedom are allowed entry to Russia and are given permission to set up permanent residence there, folks in British Columbia's interior will be able to let out a sigh of relief that has long been pending.

At last the province may be getting rid of a scourge that has caused our Western friends far more trouble than any west coast Indian tribe ever did in the early days.

While Doukhobors consider themselves pacifists. If blowing up schools, bridges and roads and firing the odd farm house is any indication of their idea of peaceful co-existence, we'd hate to see them when they get riled up.

It is only fitting that the Freedomites consider moving away at this time. Next year B.C. will celebrate its centennial and, we're certain, there will be enough fireworks without them adding their two cents' worth.

All we have to say to the Sons of Freedom is bon voyage and you'd better take your clothes. It's cold in Siberia.

TOASTMASTERS

Toastmasters lead a sorry life;
To them I give my deepest pity.
While others use the fork and knife
They spend their time with the committee.

The time required to take a bow to all the guests must be extended;
And they must learn their names, somehow,
Lest one shall leave the hall offended.

The printed program short appears,
But once the program chairman stalled on;
A friend they all have known for years
Shows up and surely must be called on.

What he may say will not be long,
His speeches never has he padded;
Another sings a funny song—
'Twould help a lot if more were added.

Accidents Are Costly

Montreal Gazette

What are traffic accidents costing Canadians?

It is an interesting and pertinent question. For among the costs of living — including many which are so unfortunate as to be involved; they fall, in some measure, upon everyone. Some interesting calculations appear in the current issue of the Imperial Oil Review.

When an accident occurs — or because accidents may occur — a great many public services (for which everyone pays) have to be maintained. There are the law enforcement officers, the courts that try the cases (and traffic violations alone have become ing an extremely high proportion of these cases), the hospitals that deal with the injured and the injuries, the overhead cost of insurance.

In addition to these costs, there are also the losses that the nation as a whole suffers from those who are laid up through traffic accidents. (We last year include loss of wages due to temporary inability, or lower wages due to permanent or partial disability.

This, this of course, is heavily multiplied in the case of death. The average age persons killed in traffic accidents in Canada is 37. If we assume that the 2,799 persons killed in 1955 (the last year for which complete figures are available) would have earned an average of $60 a week from 37 until to the age of 65, the total earnings thus lost amounted to $245 million. This is equal to about one-third of the Canadian share of the Marshall Plan, so far, anyway.

Try to put it another way, it is as though Canada were to suffer the total loss of one of its communities within 1955 being injured in a traffic accident every eight minutes. And every three days someone not widely dealt on our roads.

It is a fearful record. But there is one that is worse still. The children, it is often said, are Canada's greatest wealth. They represent the future. What, then, is the cost that Canada is paying in her children?

The answer is given by Dr. C. A. Roberts, director of the Canada National Health and Welfare. Motor vehicles accidents dying between the ages of five and 19, says Dr. Roberts, one in every five is killed by a motor vehicle.

The world was roused to joy when the Salk vaccine was discovered. And yet polio, even in its worst years, never caused as much death and injury as do the traffic accidents.

Canada is paying a terrible price in traffic accidents. And everyone is paying that price, in direct tragedy, or indirect loss.

Painless Harpooning

Manchester Guardian

The technical problems encountered in the production of a painless electric harpoon for use in whaling industry have now been almost entirely overcome, but the firms responsible are having difficulty in selling the weapons.

None of the caters was equipped with the new device last season, principally, it seems, because the Norwegians preferred to stick to their own Svend Foyn guns with explosive harpoons.

In further effort to lessen the appalling cruelty of whaling, the United Australian Federation of Animal Welfare (UFAW) abandoned the ingenious spigot gun which had been developed for the organization and tried to electrify the existing Svend Foyn harpoon. This has now been done, and the manufacturers have even managed to produce a conductor of electricity which will stretch with the nylon, which is very elastic and "earth" the 300 or 400 volts used.

But the difficulty of selling it remains, and whaling is still as cruel and shameful as it was."

This last remark is expected to form the 13th annual report of the UFAW.

The whales, it is said, know they are being chased and try to escape. A wounded animal, torn internally by the explosive charge is dragged towards the ship by the harpoon rope and when the victim is a female, its uninjured male often accompanies it and is dragged in, and dies with it"

A variety of experiments and observations on the behaviour of dolphins and porpoises in captivity and whales in the open seas that these warm blooded animals possess a high degree of intelligence and sensitivity. They are probably comparable to a domestic dog intelligence between dogs and chimpanzees.

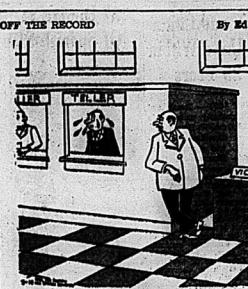
They must suffer appalling agony when they are struck.

UFAW is still optimistic about the chances of the development of option of the electric harpoon. It has been working on the idea for at least eight years, and its experiments are continuing.

Unsightly TV Aerials

Brockville Recorder and Times

Science has made wonderful strides towards a more pleasant existence for the people of the world. It has brought modern life to modern architecture and the modern trend is towards more spacious and better planned communities.



But the wonder of television has inflicted the ugliness of unsightly aerials upon the scenery of home and apartment building. What man needs now is a competent aerial which will take them away and still supply programs which can be done.

In built-up areas, virtual forests of aerials lift their ugly tentacles to the sky. Some antenna within the limits of building would eliminate this congested skyline.

It may be that the electronic experts will come up with a kind of super "rabbit ears"; surely something can be done to end a situation which mars the beauty of our modern homes, no matter how well landscaped they are.

Housing situation very bad. From our file copy at this time in 1897: The housing problem in Belleville has reached a serious stage when, we are told by reliable authority, people who would make desirable citizens have to leave here because they cannot get houses to live in. It is time for private citizens with money to untie their purse strings and help remedy the situation by building houses. By so doing they would create excellent investments for themselves.

FRIENDSHIPS

Keep watering your friendships. Let the enfeebled friendship die. The longer you live the more precious a friendship becomes. A well-nurtured friendship can never grow stale or spiritually unprofitable. It will live when many another investment, materially, dies and is gone.

Grow rich and defeated is that one who has never taken the time to form friendships with people. How very lonely are the friendless. How have cultivated undying friendships is the only enduring success. What could it profit a person to gain the whole world" only to lose his last friend!

God has given friendship to me, but His greatest blessing has been the friends that have been mine. Our genuine friends minimize discouragements, material losses and loneliness. To have friends is to live! And to have friends is to be rich indeed.

A library is rich in the silent friends that make up its total of contributors. A great book is a living thing—often passing from one generation to another. How I would like to have known personally Marcus Aurelius, Thomas Emerson, or Michael Fairless — friends for all time. When most alone I invite one of these to comfort me. I am grateful for the beauty that they add to my life.

Jesus chose for His followers those in the humbler paths of life, fishermen and their kind, through whom He wished to distribute His formula for a happy and useful life. Jesus chose them because no one who later was to betray Him. And so there you have a person who may betray us, but there will always be those who will be our friends to the end of our life lasts. That is the choice reward.

Personal Health Talks

You Gotta Have Heart

For years I have had what a heart specialist, diagnosed as angina pectoris (written at Ohio state) and it got so bad that I was afraid to walk just a short distance. Always, relief on nitroglycerin pills.

I began doing the belly-breathing exercise, taking iodin, ration, calcivatars and B-Nutron every day. My wife also takes these, just for her general well being.

Believe me, Dr. Brady, I am very grateful, am not afraid any more. I take several walks daily and seldom feel the need of a nitro pill. I have just one question to ask: Am I going right to take all of these medicines every day - - -? (R.C.A.)

What medicines?. You mention only one medicine — nitroglycerin. I suggest that one with pectoris decline should take a few nitroglycerin tablets every day. There is no cure known, save of nitroglycerin among sufferers from heart and artery troubles.

I am glad that ever convinced that a high calcium diet arrests or, in fact, reverses the progress of C V D — cardio - vascular degeneration — converting it to regeneration.

I recommend a suitable daily intake of iodin in one form or another for every man, woman or child. This is not enough, but merely one of the elements essential for good nutrition and health. It is particularly important that one with C V D get his or her iodin every day, and please remember that this is food, not medicine.

This is my advice to the poor soul who takes seriously the cruel suggestion that a daily dose of digitalis is necessary to keep his heart going:

Taper off over a period of several weeks. If you're afraid to quit abruptly in this fashion — as you are using tincture of digitalis, take your daily dose in a spoonful or two of B-Nutron syrup, and day by day or week by week, use less drop of the drug. But keep the B-nutron at the same optimal level indefinitely.

This astounding or guaranteeing anything, I merely say that, in my experience, many victims of digitalis obsession who use this tapering-off method begin to feel free of the drug. But I suspect they toss the remainder of the digitalis into the ash can and begin happily without the crutch.

THE BEST ARCHITECT

Not long ago a church badly needed more Sunday school space. High building costs and lack of land made the construction of a wing seem impossible. But a consulting architect showed church officials how their Sunday school auditorium, twenty feet high, could be remodeled into a two-storied bank of efficient class rooms. The space needed was there all the time. It took the right man to find it.

There are people who through life appear unsuccessfully with problems even though the solution is at hand. Most of us are our own worst enemies. The troubles we have are often troubles which we can cure ourselves.

Sometimes all we need to do is to face facts. Strong will power and a determination to use all our resources can help us rise beyond the reach of some of life's difficulties. But often, like the church, we need the problem in a new way, with wisdom, experience, and insight.

To obtain this someone may be a doctor or a lawyer, a friend or a good book. But the best and simplest people seek the best Helper that man has ever known. "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth."

Rhubarb Ice Cream

Juicy, cold, not-to-sweet rhubarb sauce is the best of all spring tonics; rhubarb punch is a tangy, satisfying drink; rhubarb pie rates with the best and rhubarb cobbler is probably the best pudding conceived by the mind of man.

The countryman's experiments with many varieties over the years lead him to say that two new varieties, Valentine and Macdonald, are much superior to the old Strawberry, Linnaeus and Victoria varieties. Credit goes to Macdonald College, a division of McGill University, for originating both Valentine and Macdonald.

Rhubarb has been known to the ancient Chinese 2700 BC. The plant was introduced into Europe about 1600. A Maine gardener imported some roots about 1790, and research indicates that the first rhubarb seed offered for sale was in 1828.

Irish Farmer Had Answer

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Ireland's Saturday Night tells a story about a farmer who made an appeal to many Canadian farmers.

A farmer on the shores of Lough Neagh had two hired men and a girl. He called one sleepily: "Are you awake, Jack?" and then to Kate; ask her her wages ('£3 10 and food, sir'), and then:

"Any more?" asked the inspector.

"Well, no—only the half-wit, and he gets three bob a week, a bit of bacon and his keep."

"Could I speak to him?" said the inspector.

"Well, you're speaking to him now," said the farmer.

The farmer's three bob a week is equivalent to 42 cents a week. Even the hired girl's pay is $10.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS P. LEGGAT

A parents' night was held by the 12th. St. Joseph's group on Saturday, May 4th, and from the description given by Vince Muldoon, it was a very enjoyable evening. Twenty-two Cubs were hosts to 36 parents.

Cubs are full of new ideas and it would seem as if Akela Bill Sweet and Rakshaw Edna Lalonde encourage their little men along these lines.

The Pack opened the festivities as if it were a regular Cub meeting. The ceremony is really very serious and impressive, although to the uninitiated it may seem a trifle odd. There is nothing half - hearted about their "Dib Dib Dib" and "Dob, Dob, Dob", and when they "give tongue" — well the only way you can allow them is to attend a Pack meeting. You will receive education, instruction and entertainment all in one easy lesson.

After the opening the Cubs acted stories told by their Sixers, suggested by a word given by Akela. There was a camp fire of course, and the parents joined in the singing. The meeting was closed with prayer and the Cub Prayer.

Tasty refreshments were served by the Cub mothers and a social time followed, joined in by Cubs, parents and leaders. These evenings are very instructive to parents and give a real lift to Cubs and leaders. There should be more of them.

The 12th are not a large group but very active. They have one Second Star Cub, Robert Moore, and nine First Star Cubs, Pat Glancey, Jerry Muldoon, Stephen Glancey, Jack Jury, Peter Foley, Jimmie Pointer, Rob Moore, Jimmie Orr and Paul Ford.

Out of Cub funds they donated $5.00 each to Easter Seals and the "B.P." Fund. This money was earned by the Cubs themselves. A wonderful example to other groups and another instance of Cubs doing good turns and keeping their Cub promise.

'Open House' At Hospital On Saturday

Although Quinte district residents were given the opportunity last fall at the time of the official opening to inspect the new wing at Belleville General Hospital, the opportunity will again be afforded Saturday afternoon when "open house" at the hospital will be held from 2 to 4 p.m.

The occasion is being staged in conjunction with the National Hospital Day when people all across Canada are being invited to become better acquainted with the workings of their local hospital — without going there as a patient.

Mr. Kenneth Box, administrator of Belleville General Hospital, notes that special buses will be run to the hospital every 15 minutes on Saturday afternoon to provide transportation for those not having their own conveyance.

At the hospital there will be conducted tours of the new one-and-a-quarter million dollar wing, taking in all its facilities from the modern operating rooms right down through the kitchen and dining rooms. Also on the agenda will be a tour of recently renovated section of the old hospital wing.

Following the hospital tours, members of the Hospital Auxiliary will serve tea and refreshments.

Focusing attention on Hospital Week, pupils and students at Belleville elementary and high schools have been invited to sketch posters and write essays about their hospital.

Well over 100 each posters and essays were entered in the contest and have been judged by hospital authorities.

HERMIT BELIEVES BOY MURDERED

Testifying in the investigation at Glencoe, Ont., into the death of Harold Tompkins, 13, who disappeared on Labor Day, 1954, Walter Clark, above, admitted he told people that the boy's stepfather, William Stubbs, had "done the boy in and buried him." Clark, who shaved off his beard for his appearance before a coroner's jury, was known as the hermit of Skunk's Misery, the area of Bothwell where he lived and where the boy's body was found in a shallow grave. The jury found that the boy had died either by accident or violence but could attach the blame to no one.

37 Die in Crash Of Spanish Plane

MADRID (Reuters) — All 32 passengers and five crew members of a Spanish airliner were killed Thursday night when the plane crashed and burst into flames as it came in to land at Madrid airport.

The plane appeared to be making a normal approach to the airfield, then lost speed, dived and crashed within 30 yards of farm buildings in which 50 persons were living. A two-year-old girl was splashed by blazing gasoline and suffered severe burns.

Spring Seeding Completed in Most Districts

TORONTO (CP)—Spring seeding is general in Southern Ontario, the department of agriculture said today in its weekly farm report.

Middlesex County says seeding is completed in some areas and other counties reported seeding just started or up to 75 per cent completed.

Cattle already are out on pasture in most southern counties. Waterloo County says dairy cattle went out to pasture at the earliest date in years.

Massey Opens New VON Home In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The Victorian Order of Nurses now has a permanent home in the capital.

Governor - General Massey Thursday clipped a wide, white ribbon hung across the front door of 5 Blackburn Ave., and officially opened the VON's first permanent headquarters to more than 300 visitors.

Formal opening of the three-storey, 11-room house on a treelined residential street in downcentral Ottawa climaxed the order's two-day annual meeting at which also marked the order's 60th anniversary year.

The house was a bequest to the home-nursing order made two years ago by the late Russell Blackburn, prominent Ottawa businessman created for VON nurses during the final months of his life.

Mrs. Blackburn and members of her family were among 200 nurses and officials attending the ceremony.

Mr. Massey, VON patron, said the order is "a company of able and decent nurses; they are the VON."

Mr. Massey also read a letter of congratulations from Lady Byng, last whose mother—Lady Aberdeen—founded the VON in 1897, while in office as the wife of a governor-general.

Jack Kemple of Montreal, Wednesday elected VON president succeeding E. P. Taylor of Toronto who held the post since 1952 and in his new headquarters "are all the prerequisites for the bequest was made to us as a tribute to our nurses."

Mother's Helper

WIGWAM place cards are fun for dinner to make, when there's a party coming up. Cut paper circles, crayon them in bright designs. Slit them in one spot from edge to center, roll in tepee shape, then staple the overlap. Stick a toothpick and paper name-flag in the top. Each wigwam can hide a small favor, too.

So-Ed Club Sponsors World Service Dance

A dance in aid of funds for the World Service Committee, took place on Wednesday night, at the Y.M.C.A., sponsored by the So-Ed Club.

Following this session of dancing, the group was divided into smaller groups of approximately six people each. A number of songs was played and the object of each group was to name the country from which each tune originated. The winning group was comprised of Bob Major, Madeline Pearce, Roy Naugler, John Ensombe, Bea Gaudion, and Duncan Ireson.

The refreshement period followed, after which the dancing commenced. A square was formed. The most dance numbers were: Mary Ellis and Bob Major.

A Tribute to Mother

By ARTHUR L. BURKE

There is a name we all revere,
And honor as no other,
A name that keeps the sunshine near,
The sacred name of Mother.

From helpless babe to manhood strong,
Her endless mission filling,
Teaching the right, eschewing wrong,
The plan divine instilling.

Exquisite love, unfailing, true,
No force can break apart,
A love that will a lifetime through
Be cradled in the heart.

A love that will our hopes renew,
That will our lives refine,
A love that holds and leads us to The Heavenly Shrine.

Then let us honor and revere
And cherish as no other
A name we treasure and hold dear,
The sacred name of Mother.

Wife Preserves

Even if you possess a refrigerator with automatic defrost, don't forget the refrigerator should be cleaned occasionally. Two or three tablespoons of baking soda in one quart of warm water is about the best cleaning solution.

Crisp Costume

BY ALICE ALDEN

No doubt about it—good casual or country clothes are or should be new. Here's a simple, inexpensive (using on fabric and materal) for proper identification. Samuel Roberts does a handsome job combining leather and silk-tweed in a well-fitted suit that goes to town, too. The neatly cropped leather jacket features a notched shawl collar and three-quarter-cuffed sleeves in the fabric of the tailored skirt.

Young Couple Too Interested In Own Home

During an interview, while here on a brief tour, Dr. Mead said that more persons are getting married at younger ages, and they show more tendency to restrict their ambitions to "a good family life and several well-brought-up children."

This modern trend had made marriages more companionable, she said, but one of society's "unsolved problems was "to revivify the imagination of the average well-educated citizen . . . and to help him realize the problems facing society as a whole."

RESTRICTED AIMS

A nice neat suburb with all cilities, including good schools, lives "makes little sense," if on the other side of the tracks are breeding delinquency, alcoholism and "nervous breakdowns," she said.

"We are overdoing private goals and there is a noticeable shrinking of interest in public affairs.

"As recently as 1940 going steady was for the unpopular girl. Today all youngsters have to be one of the groups—and the group goes steady.

"Sometimes it seems to me that we're rapidly going back to infant training."

There was a time, she said, when women found it hard to combine a career and a home, in her day they had to choose between the two.

CONFER ON MALTA

LONDON (Reuters)—Malta Governor Sir.—Robert Laycock conferred Wednesday with the colonial office on the threat of the Mediterranean island's premier to seek political independence instead of integration with Britain. Good Looks Not Necessary to Be Good Model

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP) — A girl doesn't need good looks to be a successful fashion model, says 20-year-old Patricia MacKinnon, one of the top models in Montreal.

Here to model a fashion show sponsored by the ladies' auxiliary of Western Memorial Hospital, she explained: "God looks help, but they're not really necessary."

More important is "good facial bone structure," Miss McKillop explained: "If your bone structure is good, proper makeup, lighting and a good photographer can bring out the more attractive features of the face."

POISED FIGURE

A former ice skater with a professional troupe, Patricia is a strikingly poised figure, five feet, 7½ inches tall, weighing 125 pounds. Most people would consider her slim, but she says she's not slim by professional standards. However, she never has to diet.

When she entered the professional modelling field—which she feels has much to offer a young girl who is careful about her appearance—Patricia took a three-month modelling course, began practising poses in front of a mirror in the Montreal attic and kept up with the fashion magazines.

She joined a modelling agency and after a year of show-room work was given more important assignments.

It was the urging of friends that got her started, she says. "Everybody kept telling me I had a perfect figure for modelling and why didn't I take up the profession? So I did."

Patricia's measurements: 34 - 24-34.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DON'T CONCENTRATE ON ANY ONE GIRL FOR AWHILE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm a fellow 19 years old and have been seeing a girl 18 almost every night for the past year.

I was sure I loved her until, a couple of months ago, she introduced me to her cousin, who is the same age as she is. Since then, I've taken the cousin out a number of times and now I believe I'm falling in love with her.

What shall I do? I can't imagine telling the first girl that I'm not in love with her any more but with her cousin. Yet it's the cousin I want to go with, instead of her. Up until now I've been taking them both out, but I realize this can't go on. — tom

Dear Tom:

I don't quite see how you've managed to keep each of these girls from knowing that you've been taking the other one out all this time. I wonder if you've really kept it as much of a secret as you think.

Certainly you shouldn't go to the limit of telling the first girl you find you don't care for her as much as you did and that you like the cousin better. Not only would that be very unkind, but for all you know you may end up with another girl before long whom you'll like even better than either of the others. Then you'd just have to go through the same routine all over again.

I'd suggest that you refrain, for awhile, from dating any girl at all that you're in love with her. If you're smart, you'll take several different girls out on dates and don't go steady with any one until you're more mature than you are now.

IF HE CARRIED OUT HIS THREAT, YOU WOULDN'T BE TO BLAME

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Recently I was introduced by some friends to a fellow of 17. I'm 16.

Since then, he has been at me constantly to go out with him, but I don't like him enough to want to go. He keeps telling me he loves me, and the other day he said that if he couldn't make me love him, he would kill himself.

As I say, I don't care for him and don't want to be bothered by him, but I'm afraid that if I don't go out with him, he'll carry out his threat. What do you think I should do? — Fiona Mc.

Dear Fiancee:

I doubt very much if you need to worry about the possibility of this boy committing suicide over you. The probability is that he's just trying to impress you and bores you into going out with him by carrying on in this dramatic fashion, but has no serious intention of doing such thing as he threatens.

There is, of course, a remote possibility that he may be an extremely unbalanced adolescent who might do something foolish on the spur of the moment. But if anything of that sort did happen you would not be in any way to blame. If he's actually in that type of perpetrate personality, he's likely to do something foolish no matter what the circumstances might be.

My advice to you is to tell him plainly that you don't want to go out with him and stop worrying about any threats he may make. If he continues to bother you, ask your parents to take a hand in settling the thing.

A SECRET MARRIAGE WOULD BE MOST UNWISE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm engaged to a fellow, 22, but my parents tell me they won't give me permission to marry because his religious beliefs are different from ours.

I'm very much in love with this fellow and we want to get married soon. Since I'm of legal age is marry without my parents' consent—I'm 21—I'm thinking of marrying him secretly and not letting my parents know until we have to.

Do you think this would be very wrong? I can't bear to give him up. — S.W.

Dear S.W.:

I think that any secret marriage between yourself and this young man would be very unwise for a great many reasons. If you did any such thing, I'm sure you would quickly find yourself with far more problems than you now have.

It doesn't seem to me, however, that your only alternative is to give up any thought of eventually marrying this young man. If you can be patient enough to wait awhile, and both of you keep trying in a tactful way to win your parents over, in time you may find them becoming more tolerant.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

CHARM IS THE REAL KEY TO POPULARITY

A ready smile attracts friends, is a real charm asset.

Many girls, especially those in their teens, feel that, because Mother Nature didn't bless them with perfect features and a divine figure, they don't stand a chance in the popularity sweepstakes. Nothing could be further from the truth. Beauty is a wonderful asset to any girl, but true, lasting beauty alone never won friends—or a husband, girl, that is the highest in "making friends and influencing people" is the girl who has charm. And, contrary to the opinions of some, charm can be acquired. It's largely a matter of disposition—kindness, thoughtfulness, vivacity, interest in others, poise in charm, of course, include a few "don'ts," so for those of you teen-agers and adults, too, in fact—who yearn to be more popular, we'll list a few of them here.

1. Never neglect your appearance. Always remember that first impressions are based on your neatness, good grooming and crisp freshness.

2. Don't let your mind go "static." Keep up with things in news, plays, books, movies, sports. It's one sure way of becoming an interesting conversationalist.

3. And, speaking of conversation, never monopolize one. Learn to be a good listener—especially when talking to men. They love the gal who hangs on their every word.

4. In conversation, too, remember never to interrupt. It's an extremely annoying habit and very bad manners, too. Wait until others have finished speaking before you put in your "two cents' worth."

5. Never gossip. Men in particular dislike, and rightly so, frequently distrust, "catty" women.

6. Don't be a chronic complainer. Everyone has enough problems without listening to yours.

7. Don't be stand-offish if you happen to be in a new group even if you're on the shy side. It's a social obligation to your hostess to mix and mingle. So try to be friendly. If you're at a party and know practically no one there, pick out someone who seems to be as quiet and shy as you are; then start a conversation. You'll both feel better for it and, together, it will be easier to mingle with the crowd.

8. Never speak in a loud, rasping voice. Try to cultivate pleasant speaking tones. The "loud-mouth" is never popular.

9. Avoid nervous mannerisms—swinging your feet. Such habits are irritating and detract from charm.

10. Don't go around with a "long face." It's the gal with a smile who's the real honey-pot. People are repelled by the grim poker-face, are instantly attracted to the girl who has a friendly smile.

If this shouldn't happen, though, then I think you'd have a perfect right eventually to make your own decision, not marrying secretly, but simply telling your parents that you feel you've done your best to make them understand, but that since they refuse to do so, you'll have to assert your right to do as you think best.

In any event, I urge you not to lose sight of the fact that there are a great many complicated problems to work out in any marriage between two people of different faiths, and these should be thoroughly discussed between the two of you, in advance of marriage, to make certain that you can arrive at some workable understanding and agreement on the points on which you differ.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TODAY'S WISE TIP: DON'T MAIL AN ANGRY LETTER

If you just must write a letter when you are angry, go ahead and write it. But don't mail it. Keep it until you've cooled off, then tear it up . . . and tear up your anger with it. An excellent way to save yourself a world of regret, a shadow that may never lift.

BRIDESMAID'S MOTHER UNCERTAIN ABOUT SHOWER-PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) My daughter is to be a bridesmaid for one of her friends in June. Very soon it is to give a shower for the bride-to-be. In our house, should I be hostess at this shower? Or should I leave the house during the party? I've never met the mother of the bride-to-be.

(2) If I am to be hostess, should I send an invitation to the wedding? — C.

(1) Your daughter is actually the hostess at the shower, and she is the one who decides about all the arrangements. If she is to invite only girls of her and the guest of honor's age, she undoubtedly would not want you as hostess; but if she is to invite friends of the mother of the prospective bride and groom) I am sure she would expect you to assist in the entertaining. In any case I don't think you should leave during the party . . . you might greet the guests, and then, if you aren't to be a hostess, you might be more or less behind the scene, available to help.

(2) Whether or not you receive an invitation depends on the size of the wedding, the number of girls in the shower, etc. In a large or even a medium-size wedding, customarily the parents of the attendants are invited. (But it doesn't at all depend on whether or not you were a hostess at the shower.)

ATTIRE FOR GROOM'S FATHER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My grandson's wedding is to be an evening wedding in July. The groom and the other men in the wedding party will wear white dinner jackets. (The bride's mother and the groom's mother will wear floor-length dress.) My son, the groom's father, would like to know if he may also wear a dinner jacket, or if he must wear a business suit. — Grandmother

It is customary, and the best taste in the interest of uniformity, for the bride's father (who is the host of the wedding) and the groom's father (who will be the host at a dinner in honor of the wedding) to wear the same type of attire worn by the men in the wedding party. Therefore I am sure it will please the groom (the bride too) if the groom's father plans to wear a dinner jacket (if possible, a white dinner jacket, as to be worn by the other men in the wedding party).

The Experts Say

Asparagus Decidedly Elegant Dish at This Time of Year

OTTAWA (CP) — A treat for Canadian tables is just around the corner, say experts in Canada's Kitchen.

And under asparagus fresh from Canadian gardens will be at its best for eating, freezing or canning around the end of this month and early in June, Miss Pepper said in an interview.

Canadians have found many ways to dress up asparagus and serve it with elegance. The ancient Romans weren't culinary slouches either, when it came to asparagus.

FROZEN IN ALPS

The Roman historian Cato once wrote that asparagus picked on the banks of the Tiber was rushed by chariot and runner to the snowy Alps for preservation.

About six months later, the frozen asparagus was rushed back to Rome for a special treat at the feast of the philosopher Epicurus.

Today there's no need to rush set to the Alps to freeze asparagus.

Using thoroughly-washed young asparagus stalks cut into uniform lengths, simply blanch the stalks three or four minutes, depending on their size. Cool the stalks quickly in ice water, drain and freeze.

The experts say fresh asparagus should have tightly-closed buds and firm, bright green stalks.

EASILY COOKED

Best way to cook asparagus is to tie stalks into a bunch and stand the bunch tips-up in about an inch of salted water. Cover the cooking pot, bring the water to a boil and allow 10 to 20 minutes cooking time according to whether the stalks are slim or large.

Asparagus can be served hot with salt, pepper and melted butter, with ingredients such as a drop of lemon juice, sauté mushrooms, toasted chopped almonds or crumbled blue cheese added to the butter.

This delicious plant also is a tasty lunch or supper dish on buttered toast with eggs or sauces. Cold asparagus may be used as a salad ingredient or in rolled sandwiches.

Club Activities

COUPLES' CLUB

WELLINGTON — The regular meeting of Wellington's Couples' Club was held recently in the town hall. Mr. Bryan Crook, the president, was in the chair.

After Mr. Arnold Foster read the minutes of the previous meeting. Business was discussed. For recreation in May the club will meet at the church and go to the Junior Farmers' dance at Picton.

The devotional period was given by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nash, who chose as their topic "Growth."

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith prepared the program. All divided into two teams to answer "20 Questions," which proved interesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cleave had two games for the recreational period.

Refreshments were served in the United Church Sunday School rooms and a social half hour was enjoyed.

The next regular meeting will be May 27th.

FRENCH INFLUENCE

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

In the stores and specialty shops now, are adaptations from the Paris spring showings. One such is this bodice in a new fabric, a wool and cotton blend with a linen look. Flopped pockets placed below the waistline draw attention to the impressive, tailored belt. The sleeves are the same length as the jacket. The wide open collar is nice for fill-in scarfs and the whole thing adds up to a suit for spectator sports or town.

ANSWER

Welcome to a Canadian newspaper Jean. I'll try to clarify the Chicago Pot Roast puzzle: What my brother Will tasted was his idea of a beef roast, combined, exceptionally tender pot roast. The vinegar flavor was not evident. In sauerbraten it definitely is. It was the Chicago chef's successful effort to make a pot roast to resemble and to go back to Chicago for! He borrowed a soupcon of this and a whiff of that from sauerbraten to accentuate the best characteristics of pot roast. Thank you for a refreshing letter. If any of us up here can help you at any time write again in care of this newspaper.

QUESTION

Would you have a recipe for Spruce Beer . . . I think made from the bud or new growth of the spruce tree . . . it can be bought at roadside stands throughout Quebec province in May and June but owners will never divulge the recipe . . . F. A.

Answer to F. A. and Mrs. N. L. I have never made spruce beer but beside me are books containing 19 formulas for it. They call for liquid yeast and spruce essence or just plain "yeast." If none of these one will quickly write and tell us now and when to collect from the summer growth we might be in business. This is a typical recipe:

HOMEMADE SPRUCE BEER

Sugar, 1 lb., essence of spruce 1½ oz., boiling water 1 gallon; mix well and when nearly cold add ½ (disintegrated) yeast; next day bottle like ginger beer . . . this is diuretic and antiscorbutic . . . agreeable summer drink and useful during long sea voyages." Sounds as if it contains Vitamins C. Would readers who have experience making Spruce Beer please share it with us?

LETTER

Evanston, where I live, is the largest suburb of Chicago, where my brother attended the convention that started you off on pot roast . . . don't profess to be an expert cook but yours sounded like sauerbraten . . . local "luxembourgers" around here would turn over in their graves if it was called pot roast . . . pot roast is not marinated . . . sauerbraten is for several days and more vinegar is used than in yours . . . please take my remarks kindly but you mentioned that you would like to hear from readers on it . . . continued success . . . 'Good Fences Make Good Neighbors'

Tom Sawyer Styles Are Now Old Hat

You can build fences these days that express the nicest feelings you may have toward any neighbor. In fact, fences have come a long way since Tom Sawyer figured out how to whitewash one without doing any work.

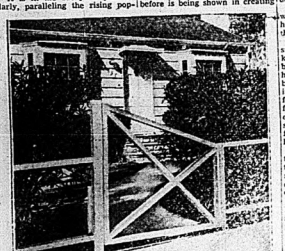
In Tom's day it was easy enough to count the kinds of fences on the fingers of one hand. There was the picket fence, and the split rail, and the plain old highboard—and that was about all.

Today the big news about fences is the great variety of designs and the ease with which you can build them out of stock lumber available at any lumber yard.

In fact, the Western Pine Association points out, there are practically as many individual design possibilities as there are people.

BOUNDARY vs. PRIVACY

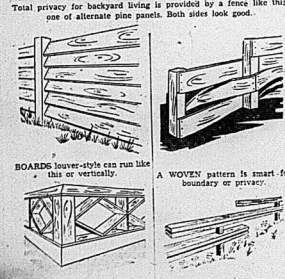
There are boundary fences which tell mark the property line and at the same time accent a home with a touch of individuality. There are privacy fences which will make a family empire out of any backyard, yet without the dungeon and hemmed-in feeling of the old board fence.



It is in the backyard particularly, paralleling the rising popularity of outdoor living, that new fence designs are coming into their own. One of the features of many of those designs is that they are as attractive on one side as the other, thus promoting good relations with the neighbors. Another is that they should be becoming more and more an outside living room, leading to the use of such things as panels of pine to make enclosures knotty pine to make enclosures which may be classed more as free-standing "walls" than as fences.

Diagram showing how fence post should be sunk one-third of its length.

WIDE SCOPE OF IDEAS



More imagination than ever before is being shown in creating Simplicity distinguishes this smart boundary fence. Easy to build, it is framed with 2 by 4s between 4 by 4 posts.

Total privacy for backyard living is provided by a fence like this one of alternate pine panels. Both sides look good.

BOARDS louver-style can run like this or vertically.

A WOVEN pattern is smart for boundary or privacy.

Bill Doyle Links John Lewis Co. Past and Future

W. R. "Bill" Doyle, president of John Lewis Co. Ltd., 282 Front Street, can trace a century of growth in the heating, plumbing and appliance business throughout this district.

The ability of the 35-year-old company owner to trace the course of progress since the business was founded in 1849 by John Lewis is due to the fact that his forbears have been associated with the firm in those early days.

Bill's grandfather, M. R. Doyle entered the business with John Lewis in 1863 ultimately taking over direction. M. R. Doyle was assisted by his son (Bill's father) W. J. Doyle. The firm was incorporated as a limited company in 1917 with grandfather M. R. Doyle still active until the time of his death in 1932.

Bill Doyle became president when his father died in 1944 and has served in that capacity since then.

This busy executive's vision swings back to the days when the kitchen stove or the box or log burner were the only means of heating. He also recalls his forbears telling him of the installation of the first water furnaces in 1855. The John Lewis firm in fact did practically all the original heating in the old homesteads and was known as a school for plumbers and steam fitters to learn the trade.

The firm is particularly proud of the fact it was able to mark a century of progress by installing the most modern heating unit in the district's oldest home — the Manor of Wellington, built in 1770.

Old in traditions, John Lewis Co. Ltd. is a pacesetter of the future in the matter of modern bathroom plumbing and heating facilities continually recording new and startling advances.

Combination forced warm air furnaces and air conditions, automatic, compact and silent, set the heating trend. Since only 43% per cent of homes now benefit from automatic heating this is one of the most important aspects of the John Lewis Co. Ltd.'s business.

These automatic heaters and humidifiers are convertible to natural gas when it is available via Trans Canada pipe line.

Latest of the never ending improvements of gas and electric ranges is the application of thermostat control which enables the average hardworking housewife to discuss the weather with a friend for a few hours then to find the carrots unburned when she suddenly remembers her husband's dinner.

In rural areas, the John Lewis company specializes in the installation of septic tanks, disposal fields and rural plumbing systems.

Despite almost revolutionary changes, the old fashioned open fireplace is growing in popularity. In this regard, the John Lewis Co. Ltd. is one of the best equipped with the most elaborate display of fenders, spark guards, baskets etc. in Eastern Ontario.

Now You Can Install Own Radio Garage Door

Radio controlled garage door opening equipment for do-it-yourself handymen to install is now available through building supply houses. Operated by a pushbutton on the instrument panel of your automobile, a ¼-horsepower electric motor opens the door whether it is of the solid swing or sectional overhead type.

Made by famous tool manufacturers this equipment is said to open a garage door in five seconds on a signal from the car up to 85 feet away. As the door opens, the garage is lighted.

A small transmitter under the hood of the car sends the signal when the driver presses the button. The transmitter is powered by the car battery. The signal it sends out will not interfere with radio or television reception and signals from other sources, such as a taxi or short wave stations, will not open the door accidentally.

The motor is a plug-in unit like any electrical appliance so no extra wiring is needed. With a helper to hold the motor in place, one man can install the device. Only eight bolts are used.

In the event of a power failure in a storm, the door can still be opened manually.

Grow Your Own Vitamins Following This Easy Plan

Measure straight lines for best seed sowing results.

Because your rows of seedlings should run north and south to get the sunlight's even distribution, the ideal garden shape is oblong, with the short side also running north and south.

With short rows, the gardener isn't tempted to sow more of any one vegetable than his family and friends can use. Short rows are easy to cultivate by hand and also save time in dividing the plot among different crops.

Square up the corners of the boundary line and make the rows exactly parallel with the sides. An exception to the rule for straight rows may be made in hilly country, where the wash of soil may be checked by contour planting. Here rows should run at right angles to the slope, but they should still be parallel, though the rounded slopes they will be curved.

Winding and uneven rows will double the gardener's work in cultivating the plants and also make the plot look sloppy.

Two factors should influence the spacing of the rows — the needs of the crop and the convenience of cultivation. In rich soil, vegetables can be spaced closer than they would be in poorer soil. When placed too close, however, it is difficult to cultivate between the rows.

For plants growing twelve inches tall or less, rows may be spaced ten inches to a foot apart and cultivated with hand tools. For cultivation with a wheel hoe, eighteen inches is likely to be found a minimum distance, since it is necessary to avoid disturbing the roots of the vegetables, whatever tool is used.

Taller vegetables, and those that make vines, large bushes or have a sprawling habit, must be given more distance between rows. In small gardens, four feet will usually be the maximum distance, given only for such crops as bush squash and cucumbers.

First, decide on the crops you will grow, which should be those that your family favors, or needs for good health. Next, determine the quantity your needs—including what you will eat during the season and what you will preserve for next winter. In this way you won't overproduce—and, everyone in the family will get a fair share of his favorite vegetable while it is still crisp and delicious, fresh from the soil.

Location Looms Large When Buying or Building Home

In building or buying a home, the "where" is every bit as important as the "what". Location looms large indeed among the factors which will determine the satisfaction you and your family will derive from your home.

First of all, consider the neighborhood in general and the type of people who will be your nearest neighbors. Are they the sort likely to prove congenial to you and your family? Would you welcome their children as playmates for yours?

Take a careful look at the homes in the immediate vicinity. Are they commensurate in value with one which you intend to build or buy? It is well to remember that a home out of character, price-wise, with its neighbors can often present a difficult re-sale problem.

Look into the transportation schedules of any bus line or railroad that you or your family will use frequently. Consider, as well, distance to the nearest bus stop or railroad station.

If you have children, the character and location of the schools they will use are important points to check. Is it necessary to cross major traffic arteries in order to reach the schools?

Find out if there are churches of your domination within reasonable distance.

Check the nearest shopping center, both as to its scope and accessibility.

Look into the matter of nearby recreational facilities for all members of your family.

See if all improvements (water mains, paving, curbing, etc.) are in and paid for. Ascertain what, if any, assessments against your property may be expected in the future?

Investigate public utility and taxation rates. Are they in line with those prevailing in comparable communities? Check into such civic services as police and fire protection, garbage disposal, etc.

Last, but by no means least, get very specific information on the matter of zoning restrictions. Are they such as to adequately and permanently protect the residential character of the neighborhood in which you are planning to build or buy?

COLOR CLUES OFFER GUIDE TO HAPPIER HOME DECORATION

In planning the interior decoration of your home, it is well to keep in mind that different colors do different things to your room . . . and to you.

Blues, greens and blue-greens are cool and restful. They are generally considered receding colors that "push" walls back, making rooms appear to be larger.

Warm colors like red, red-orange, yellow-orange and yellow are cheerful and warm. They are considered advancing colors that can make your walls seem closer and rooms appear smaller.

Paint Brings New Beauty To Old Rooms

The next best thing to building a new home is decorating an old one. New paint can make old rooms look bigger, cheer up dark corners, lend fresh life to furniture, draperies and rugs.

Surveys indicate that more than sixty per cent of all families have become "week-end decorators", doing all or part of their home painting themselves.

The clue to the lift you get from a room you've painted comes from the colors you selected. The right colors can bring restfulness to bedrooms, sparkling freshness to kitchens and new beauty to dreary rooms.

As a general rule-of -thumb, plan your color combinations around some tinted group of colors. If yellow makes you feel cheerful, use it for your main room treatment, and add variety and interest with yellow-orange and yellow-green, either as contrasting colors on one wall or in other draperies or on wood trim.

Most paint manufacturers have color booklets available that will give you basic color schemes in sufficient variety to suit your own taste. With these modern paint color systems, you can get any one of hundreds of tints and deep colors from your paint dealer.

It's fun to be a "weekend decorator" and easy, too, because modern paints have painting skill "built-in".

If you follow a few basic steps, the job of wall painting can be done correctly and in a surprisingly short time.

First, cover the floors with newspapers or drop cloth. Then remove all electrical switches and outlet plates. Start with the trim around the doors and windows. For protection, speed and efficiency, use either masking tape or trim guard.

Whether you use a roller or a brush (4 or 5-inch) spread your paint on evenly, with sweeping to-and-fro strokes. Start each stroke where the paint is dry and work toward and into wet areas.

Start at an upper corner of the wall and paint an easy arm's length across, parallel to the ceiling. Then work down from ceiling to baseboard. Continue the same method across the wall, working in strips a yard wide, so that you can come back and paint into an area you've just painted.

For baseboards, begin in a corner of the room. First apply paint to the centre of the board, then work toward the edges.

When you paint the ceiling, paint in stripes—the width, not the long way of the room. This allows you to join the next strip with the last one before the paint is started to set. Keep the strips narrow. Paint toward the light wherever possible.

How to Clean Hardwood Floors

Hardwood floors normally should never be cleaned with water, says the Maple Flooring Manufacturers Assn. Dust clean them with a soft brush, dry mop or cloth.

If the floor is soiled or spot stained, rub it with a mop or cloth moistened slightly with penetrating sealer, turpentine or furniture polish. This treatment is especially effective on light-grained hardwoods such as maple and birch.

Canadian Garden Service

BY GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Big showy shrubs—of particular advantage to the person with a large new garden or one with a large area to landscape, are the big showy, quick growing annuals. These can be used in the place of permanent shrubbery which will not be full grown for several years. They also have a real place of their own in large gardens for background. for the rear of large flower beds and for big showy beds of their own at the side and rear of large lawns.

There is much material from which to choose and a wide range of color. Heights run from four feet to over twelve and widths in circumference in proportion, where soil conditions are good and the climate moderate. Growth is amazingly fast.

Canadian seed catalogues always list the height of flowers and this with the time and color of bloom are the essential facts necessary in selecting the big showy annuals. Some of the best are as follows: Fig leaf hollyhock or Althaea ficifolia, height 5-6 feet with yellow and orange flowers starting in late June; Spider plant, cleome, 3-4 feet, flowering from late July or early August, pink, white and greenish yellow; cosmos, pink to orange, white and crimson, 3-5 feet, from late July to frost; garden sunflower, 10-12 feet, yellow, bronze, August to November; mallow, 6 feet, big rose red flowers, large leaves, July to September; castor bean, 10 - 12 feet, huge leaves, purple maroon flowers, June to September; giant salvia, 6 feet, July to frost, the brilliant red.

If you are in a hurry — the average person does not need any encouragement about rushing the season. Most of them are far too inclined to leap out the first fine day and plant every single flower and vegetable seed they have purchased. Sometimes they even plant in the rain and worry about how long the soil is really fit to work. The experienced gardener, however, knows that there are safe ways of rushing the season, little tricks that will persuade flowers and vegetables to bang a week or ten days ahead of the fellow next door. But they don't get these early things simply by going out and planting too soon and in the mud. They practise approved short cuts.

Take such really warm weather things as tomatoes, melons or cucumbers among the vegetables or some of the more tender flowers. The experienced gardeners will risk a small planting of these extra early, perhaps ten days or two weeks before the frosts are finished. But these early rows or plants will be protected for the first weeks when there is danger of late frost. They will be covered with special wax paper covers, or pans of glass or perhaps if one doesn't mind extra trouble simply covered loosely with newspapers at night.

Then too, we may hurry growth with extra fertilizer or with special prepared soil or for a few extra early tomatoes or petunias we may get soil or box starter plants and for the first few weeks keep protected.

Long rooted vegetables — carrots, parsnips and other deep rooted vegetables often have a tough time getting down deep into the soil, especially in heavy clay, and in trying to do so they become twisted and branched. When we go to pull them we too may have a tough time and leave about as many roots in the ground with the tops twisted off as we actually harvest. The wise gardener prevents all this fuss and loss by planting these deep rooted vegetables in a trench filled with loose, sandy soil mixed with compost. In such a mixture seed germinates more quickly, the young plants are easily thinned and when we go to harvest there is no trouble in pulling, as a mere shake will loosen them from the soil.

Next Week — Special tools.

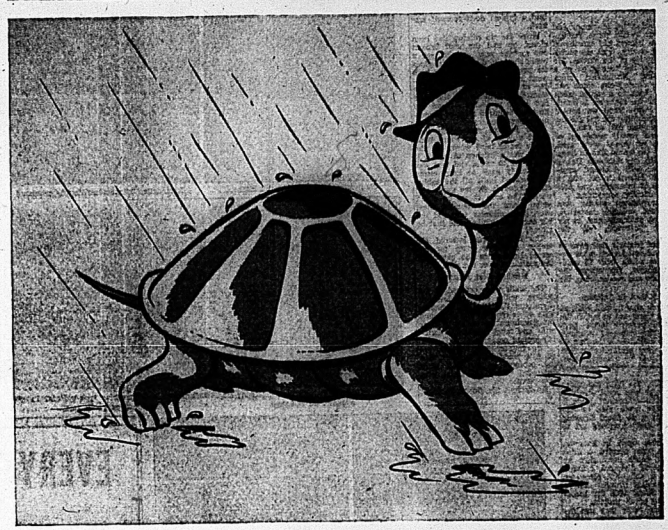
Built-in Storage Space for Family

To obtain maximum storage space, while sacrificing a minimum of living area, consider the use of built-in cabinets. They can fill spaces that would otherwise be wasted and can be designed to store almost any item or combination of items.

Strategically located to store equipment in the area where it is used, they can do much to save steps and at the same time reduce room clutter.

Two-Headed Nails Are Saving Lumber

Two-headed scaffolding nails have settled a feud between the turpentine and lumber industries. Workers who nailed metal spreads on pine trees to direct the flow of gum for turpentine used to leave the nails and spouts in the trees. Lumberjacks then had to leave stumps of 1 to 3 feet of the best part of the log because that much lumber was not worth the damage the nails caused to saws in the mills.



Between 1,500 and 2,000 kegs of two-headed nails are now being used yearly by turpentine farmers. Driven in snugly to the first head, the nail holds the spout, still is easy to remove by its second head.

GUARD AGAINST TERMITES

Guard against these destroyers when you build. Proper construction methods and the use of wood treated under pressure with a good preservative will often obviate the need for costly repairs later.

Wife Is First Mate in Remodeling

Job Becomes Way of Life

(The remodeling story is usually told by men about men's work. But the housewife is a vital part of the operation. She plans, paints, cleans up, does minor first aid—and appreciates. Here's one wife's account of the travail and triumph involved in bringing back to life a rundown house in Westchester County, N. Y.)

By MIRIAM CARLSON

When we brought a 25-year-old house that was fundamentally sound but woefully neglected, we not only acquired a new address but a whole new way of life.

For the next eight years we were either in the middle of a remodeling or decorating project, or planning a new one. It was hard work, but it was creative too.

We saved a lot of money and spent some in odd ways. For example we needed old weathered stone for a dry wall, to match one along side of the garden. We found it in the foundation of a 100-year-old abandoned cider mill. We carried the stone out, piece by piece, to a rented truck parked on the highway a hundred feet away. Then we hauled it home. Including the $10 for the truck, the stone cost us $30.

Our ideas mostly came out of discussion of things we'd seen, and what we would like to have. Fortunately, my husband Hal, a mechanical and electrical engineer with inborn talent and a great deal of ingenuity, was able to do practically everything.

My contribution mostly was locating and ordering materials, cleaning up endlessly, and, as my technique improved, all the painting.

The three projects that gave us the greatest satisfaction were enclosing the porch with 18 casement windows, renovating the living room, and modernizing the kitchen.

Porch Cool in Summer

The porch was framed finished with wide clapboard to match the house and paneled inside with plywood. The casement windows and combination door leading to the yard were prefabricated, but they needed to be trimmed to fit and equipped with operating hardware.

In winter, the dead air space of the porch was most effective as insulation—important since it was on the north side of the house. Two wide doors flanking the living room fireplace led to the porch.

With these open in summer, the living room seemed a third larger, and much more airy. As an unexpected dividend, I found the porch a delightful place for sleeping on hot summer nights. We spent about $400 for materials on the porch project.

The living room was my favorite remodeling project and it turned out better than we had hoped.

Fireplace Rebuilt

Set in the long wall opposite the front door, the fireplace was the natural focal point for the room. But it was too high, out of proportion and it smoked.

We found a picture of an old colonial fireplace in one of our magazines, and nothing would do but a copy of it. It meant removing the top four rows of bricks, and snaffling some of them for a row at the top of the opening, to properly proportion it. The added bricks didn't match those surrounding them of course. A mixture of shellac and fireplace ashes, dabbed on with a stiff brush, made a perfect color match of the brick and the mortar.

We were able to buy some of the moulding trim for the mantel, but the fluted columns for each side were done on the drill press, with a routing bit. I helped support the long boards while my husband fed them through, muttering that the job would be ruined if I moved.

Room in Blue

The rear wall of the living room was uninteresting, its monotony relieved only by a single window over an old fashioned radiator. We finished the wall in bookshelves, and replaced the unsightly radiator with a much more efficient convector type hidden in a window seat.

By placing the inner vertical boards of the bookshelves in line with the window seat, we managed to create the illusion of a larger window without disturbing the original frame.

The room was painted in light blue, with very light blue ceiling. All wood trim was white. The overall effect was comfortably colonial, and it blended well with the Dutch colonial architecture of the house.

The cost of remodeling the living room was about right for us: $600. We furnished the labor, of course.

Because of postwar shortages, we put off the kitchen until last.

The rear wall sported a small window. In its stead we wanted a large double casement, centered over the sink. Here we ran into a typical do-it-yourself setback.

After the old window had been closed up and the wall broken out for the new one, it was a bit of shock to discover that pipes for part of the second floor bath went right up through the middle of the opening where we wanted the window. So the pipes had to be re-routed — and my husband acquired a lot of plumbing experience.

The kitchen remodeling took about a year of our spare time, and a lot of hard work, but the result was a kitchen in which it was a joy to work, and that was remarkably easy to keep clean. My husband built all the cabinets, tailored to fit the space and needs. The only things he didn't make were the stainless steel sink, the ventilator fan, and the big casement window and that he glazed.

The ceiling was lowered six inches, providing space for recessed lighting in the center of the room and over the sink.

Kitchen Cost $970.37

The walls were covered to the ceiling with soft apple-green aluminum tile. We experimented with other types of tile but found the aluminum the easiest to work with and much better for forming around corners.

The counter tops were covered with linen color formica, and the cabinets of plywood were enameled white. All metal trim was chrome.

An asphalt tile floor completed the job. If we were to do it again, we would use vinyl tile that is not affected by grease or oil.

Cost records on the kitchen job reveal that we paid $970.37 for materials. A kitchen similarly done professionally in a friend's home cost almost $3,000.

Neglected house in lower Westchester County, N.Y., offers remodelling challenge to do-it-yourself Carlson family.

Enclosed with 18 casement windows, rebuilt porch is finished in wide clapboard, paneled inside with plywood.

No homemaker's dream is this kitchen.

Remodelled kitchen has double casement.

Window seat perks up wall.

Smoking fireplace is ill-proportioned.

Remodeled, it's copy of old colonial fireplace.

Plan Hunting Is Much Like House Hunt

Plan hunting is much like house hunting. In both cases you are looking for a suitable home for your family. The type of plan you are looking for will depend on your building budget, family needs and your lot.

Early in your search you must decide on the general arrangements number of bedrooms required, whether or not you will want separate dining room, breezeway and attached garage. This will narrow the field and reduce the number of plans you will want to study.

In any house certain fundamental principles will make the operation of a household simpler and easier. Foremost of these is free circulation between rooms, the ability to reach any room without first passing through another room. This may call for a little more hall, but is well worth it.

The kitchen, if properly planned, is the place where most of the drudgery of housekeeping can be eliminated. Refrigerator, sink and range should be located so a natural sequence is set up in the movement of food from storage to preparation to cooking. Space for eating in the kitchen is a must.

A small bathroom is normal for a small house but a recessed tub, away from the window, is a most desirable feature.

Bedroom sizes depend on personal preference and the amount of furniture to be used. Check wall space for beds. You may want two possible bed-walls to provide for the almost inevitable shifting of furniture.

The success of a plan depends a great deal on the closet space available; "a place to put things". One of the most important closets is one near the side or rear entrance where family traffic is heaviest. Do not overlook linen, storage and bedroom closets.

Use of picture window, or window wall, depends on the degree of privacy you want and the location or facing of your lot. Your living room should comfortably care for family and guests. Be sure to consider the idea of including a fireplace. It adds much to the livability of your room at relatively small cost.

Choose your plan carefully. You may have to live with it a long time.

LIGHT YOUR ENTRANCE

Proper lighting at the entrance of the home is an important safety consideration.

Balanced plant food mixtures, either organic or chemical, will feed all plants. It is not necessary to have a different mixture for each flower or vegetable.

Build Yourself a Car-Top Sabot For Sailboat Fun at the Shore

"This is the first in a series on how to build an eight-foot sailing dinghy. Save this article and in part two transoms and assembly will be given.

HERE ARE MATERIALS NEEDED FOR A SABOT

By HARRY FURNISS

Materials — Planking, two 4x8 foot sheets of quarter inch waterproof glue fir plywood; transoms, 4x4 foot sheet of half-inch fir plywood; keelson, 9x12 inch by 8 feet spruce, pine or yellow cedar; keel, 9x12 inch by 8 feet; oak; chine stringers, one piece 1x3 inch spruce, pine or yellow cedar; gunwale stringers, one piece 1x1 inch by 8 feet spruce, pine or yellow cedar. Fastening, two gross ¾ inch No. 6 brass r.h. wood screws for planking, etc., three dozen 1 inch No. 6 for frames, etc., three dozen 1¼ inch No. 8 for outer keel, etc.

Marine grade fir plywood is made especially for boat and hull planking, however the waterproof glue bond of regular grade fir plywood will ensure a sound dependable Sabot.

So you want to build a dinghy. Naturally you want one that will sail like a dream, be light as a feather for cartop transportation, will hold two fishermen and even take a tiny two horsepower outboard.

This time I'm ready for you. The answer is Sabot, one of the sweetest little prams to be seen on the water. You can see many of them today; fleets of these trim craft sail on weekends weather permitting.

SOUND DESIGN

Sabot's performance is proven; her design is well founded. While she's not as easy to build as a flat-bottomed punt, even a humbling amateur like me can do a creditable job, with waterproof glue fir plywood. In a series of six articles I'm going to tell you how to do it. With or without sail she's a versatile little craft and a joy to build and own.

So, with a bow to the Rudder Publishing Company, from whom I obtained permission to copy her lines, down to the basement lads and let's get busy. Incidentally, if you are looking for other plywood boats, including a strictly non-sailing car-top pram, several are available without cost from transoms and assembly, your plywood dealer.

MATERIAL NEEDED

Materials for building Sabot are listed in an adjoining box. Her cost is what you make it, but can be kept to a minimum, if you're careful, including homemade sail.

But before you do any work on Sabot, spend some time studying the plans. At first you'll wonder how this or that piece fits — or what certain measurements are, but a careful perusal of the plans will reveal all the necessary details. Remember, all measurements of the lines are to the outside of the planking.

In Part II we will show you how to get started on the mould.

INCOMPATIBLE PAINTS

CLOSET ROOM? They've Got It!

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

You can have too much of a good thing, is an old saying that doesn't apply to closets. The more a home has, the better it is.

That's why today's plans are special. The architects who designed them were closet-conscious, which should rate a big nod of approval from home makers.

EIGHT BEDROOM CLOSETS

Begin with plan K-440-KF. In the bedroom, wing alone are eight closets.

The master bedroom which has its own private bath, has a trio of them along one wall, a large walk-in closet on another wall. There are two closets in the adjacent bedroom and, in the back bedroom, another walk-in closet.

Outside the main bath, a long closet is planned for linen.

COUNTLESS CABINETS

The kitchen, a 20-foot long area with a round breakfast table, has countless cabinets and counters as well as a closet for brooms and work equipment. It runs into a laundry area which has access to the basement stairway, and a side door.

From the kitchen, step out on a dining porch, also accessible from the combination living-dining rooms, an area over 28-feet long that sweeps across the back of the house, has a bay-window view of the pool and garden as as well as a picture window view of the front yard. A special feature of the room is the fireplace wall with built-in shelves.

ENTRANCE FOYER

Plan K-440-KF with an attached garage comprises 27,267 cubic feet.

SIX CLOSETS

The master bedroom, reached through a dressing room, has six closets, plus a private bath. Each of the other two bedrooms has three closets. An enormous linen closet is in the hall.

At back, living and dining room merge to make an area over 31 feet long that opens on a covered porch, also accessible from master bedroom and garage. A log-burning fireplace highlights the living room and, for storage, the dining area has a built-in china cabinet.

At front, the kitchen is a room of many counters and cabinets. Space for a breakfast table has been provided in one corner.

There's even a storage closet in the garage of K-546-KF, a plan which comprises 26,856 cubic feet.

Shuttered windows, a planting trellis and planting boxes keep the exterior of K-546-KF from appearing severe. The home is modest in size and has an attached garage. At right, a floor plan shows how rooms are set up; three bedrooms with exceptional closet facilities at left and living room, dining room and kitchen.

Home Owners Now Easily Finish Floors

Floor finishing, heretofore largely in the province of the professional, is fast becoming one of the most popular do-it-yourself projects.

Unless the floors are warped or buckled or the old finish is extremely dark and thick, the homeowner can refinish his own floors successfully with the new floor finishes.

The first step is the proper preparation of the wood surface. All previous finishes must be completely removed and the surface must be bare, clean, smooth, dustfree and dry.

Power sanding is by far the most widely used method of preparing wood floors. Many dealers are prepared to rent a sander in good operating condition, along with an ample supply of sandpaper and instructions for use.

Old floors require three sandings with sandpapers of progressive degrees of fineness. After sanding, it is important to remove all dust from floor with a vacuum cleaner, dry cloth, or dry mop.

When the floor surface has been prepared, 90 percent of the operation has been completed. The modern surface coating flows over the pre-sanded surface and requires no wood filler.

Within one hour after applying, the first coat is dry. The floor should then be hand sanded before the second and final coat is applied.

If a brilliant high gloss is desired, a third coat can be applied, after allowing the second to dry at least four hours, preferably overnight.

LIABILITY INSURANCE

Every home owner's insurance program should include comprehensive personal liability insurance. If you are building, you should obtain this coverage as soon as you buy your lot.

All spring planting should be timed according to the date when killing frost ends in your locality. Veteran gardeners can tell you this, better than the weather bureau.

Painting a Ceiling Without Lap Marks

In painting a ceiling you can go to town with a roller if you paint the edge first with a two-inch brush. Experts recommend rolling forward and back, overlapping the strip you have painted with a brush. Roll a second and third strip in the same way, overlapping each strip slightly. Then to level the paint, roll across the strips. Continue over the ceiling in this manner, but be sure to do the entire ceiling at one session. This will prevent lap marks from showing.

Window Walls Loom Large on Home Scene

Windows walls, extending from floor to ceiling, are no longer a monopoly of the wintertime South. Even in snow country, double-glazing will guard against frost-ed glass and cold.

Large glass areas make a small room look larger and bring inside and outside into close relationship.

Asparagus beds started from seed will begin producing well almost as soon as a bed started from roots. A bed in good soil will last a lifetime.

Good Ideas Solve Problems Of Hot Air Ducts and Posts

The man who tackles the job of building a room in the basement will usually encounter the problem of what to do with hot air ducts.

Shown here is one method of framing air ducts in preparation for panelling a basement room with fir plywood. Also shown are three ideas for making use of posts that are often awkwardly located in basement rooms.

The idea, or course, is to feature the posts as integral parts of the fir plywood built-ins attached to them. Possibilities for originality here are limitless and any number of built-ins as good as the ones suggested above can be developed.

Framing for the hot air pipe is detailed in the illustration. The rest of the framing of the room is standard stud construction with studs placed every 16 inches, centre to centre. Blocking is needed where shown so that a nailing surface for edges of the fir plywood paneling will be provided.

If you are planning to build a room in the basement and are a little doubtful about how to proceed, your lumber dealer can help you. He can supply the lumber and plywood and provide you with a wide variety of hints on how to panel basement rooms with fir plywood.

Large Glass Areas Call For Clear Vision Plate

Quality glass without imperfections that cause distortions in a view is becoming more important as the size of glass panels increases. The value of a picture window or window wall can be seriously impaired if warpage in the glass makes a tree trunk swell and shrink and gives you a feeling of seasickness as you move past the window.

New developments in glass making have resulted in plates so near perfect that it is difficult to tell that the glass exists. Clarity of vision and reduction of reflections have been advanced to a high point.

Parallel grinding of both sides of plate glass at one time is one of the latest methods used in the production of the best glass. Formerly one side of a sheet of glass was ground and polished and then the plate was turned over for the finishing of the other side. Under the new process both sides are finished at the same time to eliminate irregularities that are unnoticed and unmeasurable until the glass is looked through from all angles.

Modern windows and sliding glass doors need as fine a grade of plate glass as is used for the most perfect mirrors. Since such glass features in a house are essentially in the luxury class to begin with, it is not logical to compromise on the little difference in cost between ordinary and high quality plate glass.

Plenty of Hurdles Before Person Can Get in Fight as Candidate In Coming Federal Election

RADIATION HERMIT

Del James Norbury, 5, plays with his dog in Houston, Tex., where he has been shunned by his playmates since March 15 when his father was contaminated by disintegrating radioactive pellets. The boy's father says, "It has gotten us so no one will come visit us." He has lost his job at the nuclear products division of a Houston company and fears he may not be able to sell his home because people don't want a house "which might have radioactivity."

Bill Approved To Spend More On Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to authorize a $35,000,000 increase in the United States share of St. Lawrence seaway costs was approved by the House of Representatives public works committee Thursday.

The bill would allow the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation to increase its borrowings from the treasury department from $105,000,000 to $140,000,000.

The measure would provide also that interest on the borrowings be deferred during construction of the seaway.

The corporation — the agency created by Congress to construct and maintain the American section of the 27-foot-deep international waterway—will begin repaying the money as soon as the seaway starts producing tolls or revenues, expected sometime in early 1959.

Gospel of John Most Accurate

TORONTO (CP) — A theologian has suggested gospel of John is the most accurate of the Dead Sea scrolls, found in caves by the Dead Sea in Jordan.

The scrolls, written by a community known as the Essenes, contained a section of the Book of Psalms, the Book of Leviticus, a paraphrase of the Book of Job, in Aramaic, an ancient Semitic language, and extracts possibly from the works of minor prophets.

Professor Mullenberg said the similarity between the writings on the scrolls and the New Testament gospel indicated the gospel of John is perhaps the most historically accurate of the four works.

"It is possible and quite probable that John was actually a member of the community of Essenes," he said.

The astonishing thing about the scrolls, Professor Mullenberg said, was the extent of which "our texts" agreed with the more ancient writings.

"There is a variance," he said. "But not as great as we expected."

NO SURPRISE

NEW YORK (AP)—Nearly three times as many persons saw movies in United States drive-in theatres last year as in regular houses, the 1957 Film Daily Year Book of Motion Pictures reports. The year book, published by the Film Daily of New York, says the drive-ins attracted an average of 34,821,000 Americans weekly last year. Average weekly attendance at standard theatres was put at 11,099,000.

725 Candidates Nominated for General Election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Number of candidates for the June 10 Dominion election reached 725 Thursday, according to a compilation by The Canadian Press. Indications are the final total will be about 850.

Analysis of nominations so far indicates the field will be smaller than in the 1953 election when 896 names went on the ballots for the 265 House of Commons seats. The record high was 954 for 245 seats in 1945. The 1949 total was 848 for 262 seats.

Nominations close Monday, May 27, two weeks before voting day in 242 constituencies, two of which elect two members apiece. They close next Monday in 21 large, scattered constituencies where Prime Minister Harris is expected to be nominated. Both nominations will be held for a few days.

TO CONTEST ALL

The Progressive Conservatives, who expect to run in all 265 seats, have 220 candidates in the field. They have a full slate in New Edward Island's four seats, New Brunswick's 10 and Manitoba's 14. They are contesting all but one seat in two of Newfoundland's seven, two of Nova Scotia's 12, 34 of Quebec's 75, one of Ontario's 85, three of Saskatchewan's 17, two of Alberta's 17 and two of British Columbia's 22. They have candidates in each of the two northern constituencies of Yukon and Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

The CCF, which expects to field 160 to 170 candidates, now has 125. The biggest group 53, is in Ontario where the final-total is likely to be about 61. It has a full slate of 17 in Saskatchewan and has only vacancies in the Quebec and two western provinces.

Social Credit, which indicated earlier it would have about 150 candidates, has 88 nominated. It is contesting all Alberta seats and has only vacancy in British Columbia, five in Saskatchewan and three in Manitoba. It has 22 candidates in Ontario, where its final total is not likely to be more than 30. In Quebec, where it plans about 15, it also has two in New Brunswick.

COMMUNISTS FEWER

The Communist Labor-Progressives party will contest 100 candidates in 1953, has only four in Ontario and 14 in Quebec. Leaders in Toronto said an announcement on candidates will be made after a May 26 meeting. It ran 19 candidates in 1949 and 68 in 1945.

Two parties, Liberal, 12 of them Independent Liberals of whom eight are in Quebec.

Labor, with the Canadian Democrats, has three candidates in B.C. and expects to run more.

The remaining pace has been set by candidates in B.C., where 88 candidates have been named for the 22 seats. Liberals will contest 20 seats of any province with its 85, has the largest number of candidates 247. The pace has been slowest in Quebec with 140 candidates for its 75 seats.

Three Fishermen Pay $1,248 in Poaching Fines

Their catch of about 6,000 pounds of fish, mostly blue pike, was confiscated.

They were arrested Wednesday, convicted of fishing without license and fined $250 each, plus $248 and half the U.S. Coast Guard Station crew's outfit money for their fines arrived.

They are George E. Jackson, 21, Hamilton, and William A. McDonald, 29, and James V. Greenside, 28, both of Port Dover.

MOTHER OF 1957

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Hazel Henning Abel of Lincoln, Neb., 68-year-old mother of five, former United States senator and construction company president, Tuesday was named American mother of 1957. The announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers Committee, Inc., at the opening of the group's annual mother's conference.

Angry Residents Force Showdown

PORT BURWELL, (CP)—Angry residents in this Elgin County village 22 miles southeast of St. Thomas forced a showdown with the village council to have a dusty street repaired by setting up a roadblock Thursday at the entrance to the west side harbor installations.

One of the residents Thursday parked his tractor-trailer across the road. By noon a line of 21-ton coal transport trucks was held up on both sides of the road block.

The block was removed after council held an emergency meeting and had a bulldozer brought in to smooth the route and an oil sprayer to spray the dust.

One resident and council promised to fix the road three years ago.

Low Repudiates St. Laurent's Charge of Lying

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Social Credit Leader Low Thursday charged the Canadian government's role in the Suez crisis last fall paved the way for a further Russian build-up in the Middle East.

In a sharp attack on the government's foreign policy, he said a telegram from Prime Minister St. Laurent to former prime minister Eden last November told Eden "more than anything else" to ensure Britain and France to pull their troops out of Egypt.

He demanded that the prime minister disclose the contents of the telegram and apologize "for publicly calling me a liar."

The 37-year-old Social Credit leader made the charges at nominating convention. He was replying to a statement Wednesday by the prime minister that Mr. Low told a "downright lie" about Canada's role in Suez at a press conference in Montreal April 6.

SAYS REPORTS WRONG

He said press reports, which quoted him as saying that the Canadian government threatened to withdraw its withdrawal from the Commonwealth if British troops were not removed from the canal zone, were incorrect. What the prime minister "should carefully have checked were the sources of his information first."

Accusing the prime minister of avoiding the issue in the election campaign, he said, "He (Mr. St. Laurent) and his colleagues were very touchy about the role they played in destroying Anglo-Canada-American unity at the height of the Suez crisis."

Mr. Low said probably he said that the critical stand of the government of Canada against Britain and France "played into the hands of the Communists and actually helped to pave the way for Russia's buildup in the Middle East," he said.

He said he had made it "abundantly" clear at the press conference that he was referring to a broadcast by Yale Newman, manager of the Associated Broadcasting Company in London, carried over the CBC Feb. 10, but added:

"I did say, and I repeat, that it was a telegram from Mr. St. Laurent to prime minister which more than anything else caused Britain and France to terminate their activities in Egypt and that the prime minister could easily set the minds of the Canadian people at rest on this "whole matter by disclosing the contents of that telegram to Prime Minister Eden."

MADE NO THREAT

Mr. Low also told reporters Wednesday he had said in the commons a week earlier that he had "never made any threat what-soever" in correspondence with Premier Diefenbaker to the effect Canada would secede from the Commonwealth.

He said Mr. Low co 'd name any Privy Council member he liked and Mr. St. Laurent would back him up. Open line shows are also a feature more than it was under it"—and thereby set the Canadian people at least on their feet.

The biggest ouananiche reported by Field and Stream magazine, recognized angling authority, was 22½ pounds, caught from Sebago Lake in Maine, but British Columbia's Mowat Bay is still the record holder.

TROLL STREAMER FLIES

Ward writes that catches in Canada nowadays run to 12 pounds. He says one Trout Lake enthusiast claims that a Maine guide it was doubtful whether an ouananiche of more than seven pounds could be taken on the light fly tackle needed to book them.

Miller and most of the Trout Lake regulars troll streamer flies but Miller has had success using three or four miles an hour. His favorite fly is a Mickey Finn streamer, a combination of deer hair, feathers and polar bear hair mounted on hooks.

It can be a frustrating business because ouananiche is moody. They are slow to strike and quick to throw the hook once they start jumping.

But Miller says the hours of trolling are worth the excitement created for. There was the time he hooked the big one, for instance. "I don't think words can describe it," he says. "But I don't suppose I'll ever feel like that again unless I get to heaven."

Montreal Painter Would Rather Look at Works Than Sell Them

HUNDREDS OF PAINTINGS

Michael Rostand, 62-year-old Montreal artist, gave up his Paris law practice 10 years ago, painted in Nice for a time and came to Montreal five years ago. He recently had one of his paintings shipped to Paris and presented to Queen Elizabeth when she visited France during her state visit. (CP Photo).

By JANE BECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Michel Rostand is an artist who would rather look at his paintings than sell them.

In his Montreal apartment, the 62-year-old painter has scrapped furniture and normal fillings to hang or stack several hundred of his pictures.

"Selling one or two paintings a month gives me enough to live on," Mr. Rostand said in an interview. "I would rather have the rest of them with me even though it means I am not as well-to-do as I could be. I hope one may some day hang in the Louvre."

Mr. Rostand, who 10 years ago gave up his Paris law practice to paint at Nice, believes he could "easily sell" more paintings if he wished. Most of his works are street scenes of places where he has lived—Nice, Montreal, Quebec, Washington and New York—painted in soft colors, full of lights and shadows, in a clearly-defined style.

When he dispenses of a painting, he makes it significant.

"President Eisenhower, when a general in Europe in 1942, saw me painting the Promenade des Anglaises in Nice and asked the price," Mr. Rostand said. "I told him it was not for sale. But 11 years later, when he was president, I was pleased to send it to him."

His latest gift was a painting called "Bal d'Opera," which he shipped to Paris and arranged to have presented to Queen Elizabeth on her recent state visit. He later had an official acknowledgement from Buckingham Palace.

His "masterpiece" is a small, still-life of a pitcher, glass and fruit. He did it in Nice 25 years ago while he was still a "Sunday painter" and he says he will never part with it.

He left Paris after coming to live in Montreal five years ago. He painted hundreds of pictures in a clear and definite style. Then, two years ago, "IF" says he felt the beginnings of a new style.

Since then his work has been radically different. It is "impressionistic" and he says he will never part with it.

His father, and after coming to live in Montreal five years ago, he

Diefenbaker Says Party to Reduce Excise Auto Tax

Only Liberals Can Win Vote Says St. Laurent

WINDSOR (CP)—John Diefenbaker promises that if the Progressive Conservatives are elected June 10 they will reduce the excise tax on new automobiles.

In a campaign address in this auto-manufacturing centre, the Progressive Conservative leader Thursday night criticized the present 10-per-cent tax on cars as "scandalous and discriminatory."

He said a PC government would remove "a portion of the load" which rests unjustifi"bly" on car buyers.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in the third day of a tour of Southern Ontario, was scheduled to visit Barrie, Midland and Parry Sound today, covering the Simcoe East, Simcoe North and Parry Sound-Muskoka constituencies.

Some 450 persons turned out in a Windsor Collegiate gymnasium in which seats had been set for 600 Thursday night to hear Mr. Diefenbaker.

CLAIMS OMISSION

Reviewing his party's platform on labor matters, he said the Liberal government has made a regrettable omission in not appointing a labor representative to the recently-formed Canada Council, established to encourage cultural development.

Earlier, at an election meeting in Wallaceburg, 60 miles northeast of here, he criticized a report U.S. government plan to underwrite exports of fruits and vegetables, saying that such a plan would mean "even more overwhelming" difficulties for the Canadian farmer.

His attack on the agricultural policies of both the Liberal government and the U.S. administration followed a statement issued aboard his campaign train on the Conservative party's farm policies.

In his statement he promised that if elected a PC government would set up a royal commission to investigate price spreads between the farm and the consumer.

Some 200 persons were in a 560-seat movie theatre at Wallaceburg following a brief rainstorm. The town is the main centre of Lambton-Kent, a predominantly rural constituency held by Liberal Hugh A. Mackenzie since 1940.

He said the United States has been "dumping farm products all over the world," signing up foreign countries to buy American produce for years ahead, and dumping huge amounts of farm products in Canada.

He said the Canadian government is doing nothing to enforce anti-dumping laws.

The plan reported under consideration by the U.S. government would provide for export, in exchange for foreign currencies, of farm commodities not covered by U.S. government price supports. This would include fruits and vegetables and hit hardest at farmers in Southern Ontario and British Columbia, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

He took issue with what he said was Agriculture Minister Gardiner's statement that everything is well with the farmers.

"Ask the farmers whether they are in a position of even moderate prosperity?" The answer, he feasible."

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent's major pitch for western votes was based on the contention that only the Liberals have sufficient national power to win the June 10 election.

He argued this in quiet courtroom style in seven formal addresses in the four western provinces, and repeated it less formally at most of 16 "whistle" stops.

His campaign was mostly a repetition of the 1953 technique. He made no sensational or elaborate promises. But during his 12-day tour by plane, train, automobile and ship, he pointed to the Liberal record and Canada's years of prosperity, and predicted "the best is yet to be."

The CCF and Social Credit parties, which in the last Parliament had their main strength in the West, have no chance of even forming a government, the Quebec corporation lawyer maintained. If the result wanted a voice in directing the affairs of a bigger and better Canada, it had better climb on the Liberal bandwagon.

He made only one firm pledge: To help harness British Columbia's Columbia River for power. For the rest, he promised only to do his best.

He predicted the huge prairie wheat surplus will eventually be sold, though he didn't say how soon. He said he would keep studying the proposed South Saskatchewan irrigation and power project to see if federal help can be provided and held out hope that eventually the project may be started.

He made no bitter attacks and no emotional appeals. He treated opposition charges in an off-hand way.

The Progressive Conservative and CCF parties concentrated first on last year's gas pipeline debate and the way the Liberal government handled parliamentary procedure. In Mr. St. Laurent's opening speech at Winnipeg April 29, he described the debate as "full of another kind of natural gas."

said, would be that the government had turned its back on farmers. Producers were caught in a cost-price squeeze.

In outline of Conservative farm policy issued on the campaign train contained three points which the party leader had not raised earlier in the campaign:

1. Federal treasury aid to help Prairie farmers carry the cost burden if wheat is exported at below domestic prices to "good customers" in the Commonwealth and elsewhere.

2. Cash advances on farm-stored prairie wheat.

3. "A more realistic crop insurance plan" on the Prairies in cooperation with the prairie province governments.

Mr. Diefenbaker added a further point at a press conference on board the train as it moved west from Brantford. He said his party has supported the South Saskatchewan River power-irrigation project ever since 1949.

The party had an engineering firm review the question and it had reported the project was economically possible and "entirely feasible."

Greener Thumbs

Flowers of annuals such as pansies, petunias etc. should be cut constantly so plants will produce more blooms, and for longer period. If any blossoms ripen, be sure to cut dead flower. These go to seed if left, taking energy from plant that otherwise goes into new bloom.

Sunday School Lesson

God Is Looking for Men

By ROY L. SMITH

Within recent years a long list of books have come from the press bearing titles which have suggested that there was some way by which a man could find God. And many of them make very valuable and helpful reading.

But the Old Testament, as well as the New, emphasizes the fact that God is looking for man. It is not that the Divine is some kind of an elusive being who is always playing hide – and – seek with men, and taking delight in the fact that He is able because of superior wisdom and cleverness to keep himself hidden from human eyes and consciousness.

THE MAN ABRAHAM

The historians have given all too little attention to Abraham, the progenitor of the Hebrew people, but no one could possibly have dreamed of the enormous consequences that have flowed from the fact that he pulled up his roots from Ur of Chaldea, and set off on an unknown destination because of a profound inner urge.

From his family line there came in time a nation, and from that nation there has come a stream of influence that has changed the face and character of all history. Today, in every field of human endeavor, the Jews (as descendants of Abraham) are making contributions of amazing dimensions.

This week's Sunday school lesson includes the statement that "God appeared to Abram." Greater in its importance in world affairs than any military victory or royal coronation, is the fact that the Divine suddenly appeared over the horizon to such a man as Abraham. There was more destiny in that appearance than in any twenty of the diplomats we have written.

THE CALL OF GOD

There has been much fuzzy thinking about the subject of God's calls. Many have assumed there was something magical or mysterious about it. Others have been those occasional individuals who have talked much about letters of fire, and inner voices. The simple fact is, however, that every man at some times of his life under some call from God.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 12: "Abraham and his God." Genesis 12:1-9 — 17:22

Every man with a sense of duty, a vision of opportunity, or a feeling of obligation can be said to be called of God.

There can be no doubt but that Woodrow Wilson, for example, felt himself moved upon by some Divine Force to launch the league of Nations, and to that cause he gave his life. Winston Churchill, during World War II, privately assured some of his friends that he felt himself under a sober obligation to save England, and in this duty he has made himself one of the immortals.

Many another man, in a less conspicuous spot, has been called to less conspicuous services, but in the divine element in the call has been the same.

And, interestingly enough, the call of God comes to men who do not lay claim to and grasp religious interest. But they do have a profound sense of duty, and a keen sensitivity which enables them to discover their personal responsibility. After that, they have a loyalty to righteousness that holds them to their task through thick and thin.

More than one man, responsible for the employment of other men, has suffered like a martyr in his effort to keep the business afloat because he has felt responsible for the welfare of the families of his workers. And that too is a call of God.

No man ever enjoys anything more than men when his life is invested with a sense of divine destiny. To feel necessary is to feel the touch of God. A sense of duty can very easily become an awareness of the Divine.

CARGO FOR ISRAEL

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—The 2,734-ton Danish freighter Jens Toft, carrying a cargo of coal for Israel, was reported here Friday to have been given orders to sail through the Suez Canal. She is thought to be the first vessel to attempt to pass through the canal with a cargo for Israel since the waterway was reopened last month.

CINDERELLA TEAM GETS ROYAL HOMECOMING

A gala parade, with bands and 65 floats winding for three blocks, was only the beginning of Whitby's warm welcome home to their Allan Cup champion heroes. Festivities will continue for weeks to come, allowing townsfolk to show their pride in the Whitby Dunlops, who won the national senior puck title in their first year of Senior "A" competition. This is the float donated by the neighboring city of Oshawa. More than 30,000 people almost tripled Whitby's population to see the parade.

Carmel

IMPRESSIVE MORNING MESSAGE

CARMEL — Mr. Douglas Ross, on Sunday morning at Carmel church, gave an impressive message to a large congregation. Mr. Ross is to be ordained shortly into a life work for the Master, and it is the prayer of all that he will be instrumental in winning many souls for the Kingdom. He has always been interested in church and Sunday School work, and all works of help and interest to his fellow men.

His text on Sunday morning was "Ye shall be witnesses in Jerusalem and Judea and to the uttermost parts of the earth." All are happy that he is coming back to the circuit, and that Mrs. Ross also is a great help to her husband, will be one of the community.

The junior choir, which filled the choir loft, was a delight to hear with Mrs. Robinson, as pianist. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McCrea were also present; they will be soon taking a trip to their homeland, with Kathleen. All wish them a safe journey and an equally safe return.

Others present at church in the morning were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Boldrick and Maria, who spent the dinner hour with Mrs. J. Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. Bridges and sons, of Eggleton.

The young people are putting on two one-act plays on the 23rd of May in the church hall.

The W.M.S. was held this week at the home of Mrs. Urch, at Carmel, with a good attendance present. The program, put on by the president and group leader, Mrs. S. Homan, and her helpers, was most interesting.

A number of women enjoyed the meeting at Cannilton on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Chatten was home for the weekend, and spent Friday evening at Mr. and Mrs. H. Marshall's at Wallbridge.

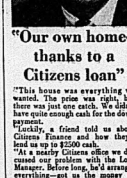
New neighbors are moving into the community, and houses are being built on the line.

Miss Susan Leighton spent the weekend with Miss Kay Homan. She will be returning to Montreal on Tuesday, sailing back to her home in Kent, England.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma went downtown shopping, and after dinner she said to pop, it's pitiful. Willyum, to think what lengths and extremes some people have to resort to in their natural desire to make a living.

There's an old but true saying. Let the buyer beware, pop said. I believe it comes from the Latin, but it's very appropriate in the English, he said, and ma said. Anyway, I ran across a striking example in Hookbinders millinery department this afternoon. I was browsing around, more from curiosity than necessity, and Mrs. Vanlacey, the head of the department, induced me to try on a little hat that I was casually inspecting, she said.



How little was it? pop said, and ma said, Well, it was a good size hat that I was casually inspecting, she said.

How little was it? pop said, and ma said, Well it was a good size hat, actually. Well my dear, the moment it was on my head I realized it was a hat for a much younger woman, so I just smiled indulgently when Mrs. Delaney and 3 of her salesgerls gathered around me and went into a perfect chorus of raptures on the subject of how mutch the hat did for me.

Of course you saw through that old game, pop said, and ma said, Well naturelly, but still, Willum, I didn't have the heart to see all that good natured effort go to waist, so I bought the hat to humor them, and do you know, Willum, I think I'm going to like it. So after all, there must be some truth in the old saying that where there's so mutch smoke there must be some fire, she said.

It's also true that it's a woman's werld, pop said.

Which maybe it is.

"Our own home—thanks to a Citizens loan"

"This house was everything we wanted. The price was right, but there was just one catch. We didn't have quite enough cash for the down payment.

"Luckily, a friend told us about Citizens Finance and how they'd lend us up to $2500 cash.

"At a nearby Citizens office we discussed our problem with the Loan Manager. Before long, he'd arranged everything—got us the money we needed and fixed up a repayment plan that we could handle easily."

Burke, Furgol Top Field in Open Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Jackie Burke of Kiamesha, N.Y., suffered a lapse in his putting on the second nine Thursday and as a result was tied with Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., as the second round of the Hot Springs open golf tournament began today.

Burke shot a 32 on the front nine, and finished with a four-under-par 68.

Furgol, who appeared unaffected by a pinched nerve in his side, shot a 33 on the back nine to tie Burke.

Nearly 100 pros plus a sprinkling of amateurs are entered in the $20,000 tournament.

Plans for Big Stadium Reach Higher Stage

MONTREAL (CP) — Tentative plans aimed at construction of a big sports stadium at the University of Montreal have advanced another step through a conference of the interested parties.

President Leo Dandurand of Montreal Alouettes football club, representative of a group of sportsmen and business men, talked over suggested plans of the group's engineers at the university Wednesday on an unofficial basis.

It is believed it will be at least three weeks before more definite steps are taken.

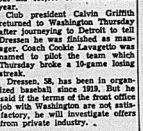
Tentative plans — first made known May 1—call for a 45,000-seat stadium suitable for football, baseball and other sports. The university would construct the stadium on university-owned land and lease it to the sportsmen's group headed by Dandurand. Alouettes now play their home football games at the 23,000-seat McGill University Stadium.

It was understood there has been discussion over the possibility of covering the proposed new stadium entirely with a plastic dome.

Dressen to Decide Today

WASHINGTON (CP) — Charlie Dressen meets with the brass of the Washington Senators today to determine whether he will accept a front office job with the ball club.

Dressen, tossed out as manager three days ago, has been offered the upstairs position of "coordinator of player personnel." In this job, he would be expected to scout talent and help rebuild the team that is now in last place in the American League.



Before he decides, Dressen said, he wants to learn more from the Senators' board of directors about what the proposed new job entails.

STILL OBLIGATED

If he decides to reject the offer, the club still is obligated to pay out his $35,000 contract for this year.

Club president Calvin Griffith returned to Washington Thursday after journeying to Detroit to tell Dressen he was finished as manager. Coach Cookie Lavagetto was named to pilot the team which Thursday broke a 10-game losing streak.

Dressen, 58, has been in organized baseball since 1919. But he said if the terms of the front office job with Washington are not satisfactory, he will investigate offers from private industry.

Those days most people work under pressure, worry more than usual, lose sleep, drink an body and brain receive physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's fatter living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys put out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backaches, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follows. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Fullmer Meets Tiger Jones

NEW YORK (AP) — Former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer signed Thursday to meet contender Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., for a 10-round bout at Chicago Stadium June 7.

President James Norris of the International Boxing Club made the match after unsuccessful attempts to line up a championship fight for the date.

It will be a return bout for the two 160-pounders. Fullmer, who lost his crown to Sugar Ray Robinson at Chicago May 1, won a close decision over Jones April 20, 1956.

Jones, 29, has been striving for a title fight ever since he upset Robinson by a decision Jan. 19, 1955.

LEGEND OF THE BAT

A nearby field mouse climbed the tree sheltering the boy and gnawed down branches to conceal him. He escaped his enemies and the Good Spirits rewarded the field mouse by giving him wings—hence the origin of the bat.

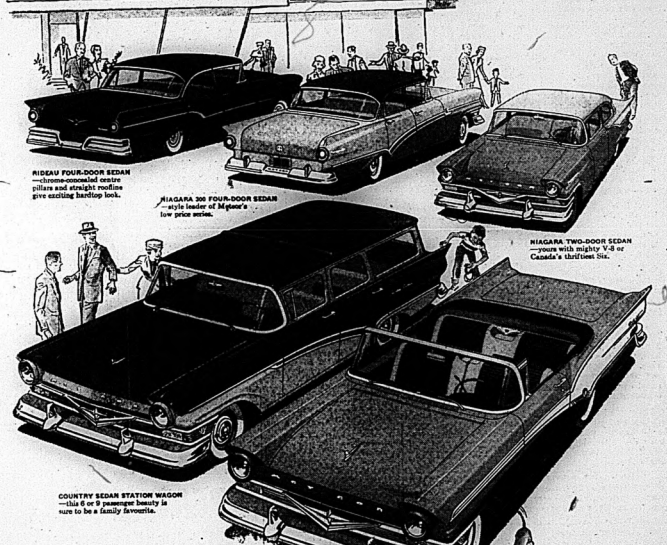
Must Explain Amateur Status

NEW YORK (AP) — Amateur champion Harvie Ward of San Francisco will face the executive committee of the United States Golf Association in Chicago June 7 to explain his questioned amateur status, says the USGA.



The question of Ward's amateur standing arose last Monday when his employer, San Francisco automobile dealer Eddie Lowery, said he had paid Ward's expenses to the Canadian and United States amateur championships in 1954. Lowery's statement was made to a grand jury in connection with income tax evasion charges.

The USGA said Thursday it had communicated with Ward in an effort to ascertain whether he has accepted expenses for tournaments in violation of the USGA rules of amateur status. Upon receiving Ward's telegraphed replies to questions, the association invited him to amplify his replies in person at the next regular executive committee meeting. He accepted.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

"Like the Irisher said when he saw his first giraffe, 'It's a dam lie, there's no such thing,'" said Long Tom Hooking.

The elongated Thomas was referring to the rumor which lately has become persistent that his Beacons entry in the Belleville District Softball League was fading out of the picture, being disbanded or just thrown to the wolves.

"There is absolutely no truth in the story, wherever it started," said Tom. "The Beacons are in — and in to stay. There never was any idea of dropping out of the league."

"Some Joliks are trying to discombobulate the morality of the squad," commented Art Peever in his simulated Brooklyn-ese. "Yes sir, but the Beaks will be in at the finish.

Hooking has the nucelus of a good squad, one which has a decided Goyer flavor. Leo is the coach of the team and may do a spot of catching or playing in the outfield. Gerry is solid at second base while Garry also will be around. Big Vern may or may not come out with the team. He worked out with them the other night and was lambasting the ball with all the old power.

The Beacons have Lum Carson, Davy Feeney and a chap named Tommy Thompson in the mound corps. Thompson is an ale force ladybuck and is said to be a harler of more than passing ability. The name of Al Adams has been mentioned but nothing is definite.

Jim McDonald will be seen in an infield position as will Doug Armstrong. Wayne Bovay will hold down the first base spot.

Other players connected with the club are Peever, "Wes" Kellett, Bob Brooks and Don Dolan. Others will report to the club in the immediate future.

The way things are shaping up there should be a merry old battle in the "A" department of the league with the Bobcats, Merchants and Beacons lined up in the same classification. Point Anne will go into the "A" department and appear to be the team to beat for the league championship. However, with the unexpected aid of getting Danny Gannon's Underwood pepper into the Ox pointers must look for assistance in the hurling department. The veteran Pat Maracle cannot be expected to carry the brunt of the duties during the season.

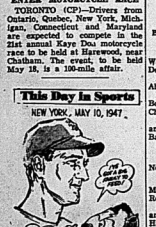
The Merchants unclimped by players of the McFarlands senior hockey club, have come up with a club that on paper shows surprising strength. They defeated the Bobcats in an exhibition tilt the other night with Bep Guidolin, Bobby Hannon and Bobby Green dividing the nine-innings pitching duties. They have a strong infield and should prove a decided threat to the Bobs and Beacons in the drive for the "AA" representation.

It is not likely, however, that the Merchants will go into the OASA "AA" playdowns in the event they qualify for that honor. Guidolin said the other night that the team was formed mainly to keep the puck-chasers together and in shape for the sterner hockey wars that lie ahead. After all, the ice will likely go into the arena around the latter part of September.

Not much is known at the moment about the Frankford squad. Last year's all-Ontario intermediate "B" champions, however, will likely come up again with a tough, hard-fighting team, which should give the Point Anners a run for their money.

The league pries the lid off the season's activities on Monday, May 20, with the Ox Pointers clashing with the Merchants on the Point Anne diamond. And from what we hear, the season down there will be ushered in with a bang. There will be a monster fireworks display, gate prizes and whatnot. Westerly, the Beacons take on the Trenton squad on the latter's diamond. Time of the games will be announced later.

Pre-season indications point to the league being one of the best in years insofar as equality of strength is concerned. The three city squads with Point Anne and Frankford should stage some stern diamond battles before playoff time and the softball faithful, it appears, are in for one of the best seasons in some time.



Incidentally, all Belleville games will be payed on the CNRAA Recreation Park. The schedule calls for games every night in the week with the exception of Saturday and Sunday. The top four clubs will qualify for the league playoffs.

ENTER MOTORCYCLE RACE

Bat Average Lowest in Loop, Pitching Snaps Loss String With 2-0 Win Over Red Sox

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago White Sox are back in first place in the American League today—tied with New York Yankees—but manager Al Lopez isn't kidding himself: He knows the team, the way it stands, is not of championship calibre.

In the little over three weeks Lopez has been directing the club, his worst fears have been realized. He knew before he even consented to take over the club that it had speed, defence and pretty good pitching. What concerned him was the hitting—or lack of it.

Nothing has happened to allay his fears. In fact, it's even worse than he thought.

Including Thursday's game, won over Boston 2-0, White Sox own a team batting average of .233, lowest in the league. They've hit only two triples and 10 home runs. Only Cleveland, with one, has hit fewer triples, and only Baltimore and Washington, with nine, have hit fewer home runs. The Sox' 46 extra base hits are exceeded by six others.

ONLY FIVE HITS

It took a sterling pitching performance by Jim Wilson to snap the White Sox five-game losing streak. The hitters didn't help much as they collected only five hits, including doubles by Larry Doby and Jim Landis. That gave the White Sox a total of 39 hits in their last six games and for an average of less than two runs per game. It is also about pitching to win such games.

In the only other major league game played Thursday, Washington Senators broke their 10-game losing streak. They battered last year's 21-game winner, Frank Lary, for nine of their 13 hits to defeat Detroit Tigers 8-5.

Wilson permitted only five hits but he struck out nine to snap Boston's four - game winning streak. The big righthander, who posted his third victory against one defeat, also cooled off the sizzling Ted Williams, preventing him from getting the ball out of the infield in four trips to the plate.

DROPS 21 POINTS

Williams, entering the game with a .474 batting average, fouled out, bounced out to first, rolled out to the pitcher and struck out. Ted dropped 21 percentage points, his batting mark now .453, batting lead at .443.

The win was Dean Stone, who was nicked for both White Sox runs and all five hits in the 3 2-3 innings he pitched. The former Senator southpaw suffered his second defeat against no victories.

Lopez, still searching for a clean-up hitter, had Landis, his rookie outfielder, at the No. 4 spot Thursday. Previously, he had Sherman Lollar there for 10 games, Doby for two and Walter Dropo for one. Landis drove in a run. Dropo the other.

Camilio Pascual went all the way in Washington's first triumph in almost two weeks although he yielded 11 hits. The Cuban righthander received good batting support from his mates, especially Eddie Yost and Roy Sievers. Yost rapped four singles in four times at bat. Sievers drove in three runs with a double and a home run. He now has hit six of his team's nine four-baggers. The loss of RBI's increased Roy's league leading total to 24.

Pascual struck out five in registering his second victory against three losses. Lary has an identical record.

ISSUE CHALLENGE

LONDON (AP) — The Royal Yacht Squadron will challenge the New York Yacht Club to a series of races for the American Cup—last competed for in 1937—it was announced Thursday night.

The match will be a best-of-seven series with competition starting September 20, 1958.

The races are to start and finish at a point off Newport, R.I., and will be over courses of about 24 nautical miles.

Marlins Stretch League Lead; Toronto Idle

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Marlins are on a six-game winning streak and have a 2½-game lead in the International League—but nobody wants them, apparently.

While Marlins were knocking off Rochester 6-2 Thursday night on Larry Novak's first home run of the season—a grand slam affair in the seventh—club vice-president Keith Kiggins announced team officials were "wondering if the city of Miami wouldn't want to buy the ball club."

Kiggins' query came as Miami Stadium, scene of games to purchase Miami Stadium, the Marlins' home park, was closed from Jose Aleman. The city said "no thanks," with the comment that it spent "$31,000 for taxpayers' money to subsidize the team last year. That's too much."

STILL LOST $150,000

Kiggins added that even with the city's financial aid, the club lost $150,000 last year.

City and club officials are to meet again in an effort to work out details for a home for the Marlins—perhaps even building a smaller park or less than Aleman's 32,000 seats.

Marlins' victory at Rochester Thursday night was one of two games played in the league. Buffalo defeated Havana 7-3 in the other game. Toronto is out Columbus at Montreal and Richmond at Toronto.

Righthander Bob Conley gained a 4-0 record with a three-strikeout, nine-hitter, walking romp, as the Marlins picked up a half game on second place Richmond. Lynn Lovenguth, who led the league with a 36-12 record at Toronto last season, took his fifth defeat in six decisions.

Luke Easter took over the undisputed home run lead with his sixth of the season—a drive that was good for three runs as Buffalo bounced Sugar Kinga with a five-run fourth-inning. Lefthander Walt Craddock picked up his third victory, giving up just five hits.

Battle to Draw

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Italy's Paolo Rosi and underdog Filipino ex-Alcatraz jailed to a bloody 10-round draw at the San Francisco Cow Palace Thursday night. Each got two votes from the three judges.

Rosi outboxed his lightweight foe but the 26-year-old Ahonza evened things by scoring knockdowns both in the short counts, in the sixth and ninth rounds.

Alonzo, who won the Orient light welterweight championship before coming to the United States last fall, entered the ring a 7-to-5 underdog. Rosi is the seventh ranked lightweight challenger in NBA ratings.

Smythe Plans Major Shake-Up Before Stepping Down As Leafian Boss

Will Hand Ready-Made Club To New 7-Man Committee; Billy Reay May Be New Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe promises to shipwreck a major shakeup of Toronto Maple Leafs before he steps down after 30 years as boss of the National Hockey League team.

Smythe announced Thursday he will cut all ties with the club Sept. 1. But he'll go out in style with a housecleaning and renovating program that may change the face of the Leafs. One of the changes may be appointment of Billy Reay of Montreal Canadiens' organization as coach.

First step of the program was announced Thursday. A seven-man committee has been formed to operate the team. Stanley Smythe, turns over the keys, however, he will hire a general manager, a coach, and all the players.

The new bosses will get a ready-made team, but they will be free to hire, fire and make whatever changes they see fit if the team does not meet with their approval" Smythe said.

INCLUDES SON

Members of the committee are Maple Leaf Gardens directors Stafford Smythe, Conn's son, Bric, Ian Johnston, and John Bassett, Jr., and George Mara, William Hatch, Jack Amell and George Gardiner. Smythe will remain as Gardens president.

He may further rock the Leaf foundations by hiring Reay to coach the team. Reay spent most of his professional career with Montreal Canadiens. Last season he coached the American Hockey League's newest entry, Rochester Americans, to a third-place finish after a slow start, and to the Calder Cup finals. The team was jointly operated by Leafs and Canadiens.

Smythe said he has permission from Canadiens to interview Reay "He is a definite candidate. It might be a good idea to bring in an outside man but I don't know if Reay is interested."

Leaf policy has been to hire coaches and other officials from the organization.

Howie Meeker, who coached Leafs last year, "will be in our organization" Smythe said, though he declined to say in what capacity. It has been rumored Meeker will be promoted to general manager, succeeding Hap Day who resigned last month.

TURNED IT DOWN

Harold Ballard, president of the Junior. A T o r o n t o Marlboros, turned down the managerial job "for business reasons." He and Stafford Smythe will continue to operate Marlboros.

Stafford said he would accept chairmanship of the new Leaf committee "if it is offered to me."

After Sept. 1, Symthe said, "I won't know anything about the hockey team." He resigned three years ago as manager, but since then has guided the club as president.

He also announced that winger Gerry James, who was lured away from professional football by Leafs two years ago, has returned his new contract unsigned. James said in Winnipeg he expects to sign with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

"I'm disappointed at James' decision but I have hopes he may change his mind under the new setup," Smythe said.

He said he will interview coaching aid on a n a g i n g candidates either this weekend or next week.

PLAYED EIGHT YEARS

Reay went to Canadiens from Detroit Red Wings in 1945 and played eight years there as great scorer, he was a plucky centre who was one of the team's mainstays over that period.

He was rewarded with a coaching job at Victoria of the Western League when he retired in 1953.

Last year he took over at Rochester. Canadiens' officials had high praise for his work with the rookie team has won the praise of hockey people everywhere.

Also mentioned as possible Leaf coaches are Turk Broda, long an outstanding Leaf goalie and now with Canadiens' organization, Alf Pike coach of Winnipeg Warriors.

In Winnipeg, James said he enjoyed his stay with Leafs but he didn't think he was helping the team as much as he would have liked. He remarked that they didn't play his style of hockey.

THINGS OUTDATED

"I have no fault with the Toronto management," he said. "But I think their system was out of date. They admitted it themselves at the end of the season. I don't think I could ever learn to play their way. I could probably make the team but if they carried 16 players, I would probably be the 16th."

Advised that Leafs might revise their system, presumably abandoning their emphasis on position hockey, next season and that Smythe had declared James could be reconsider, Gerry replied that he didn't think it was likely.

"I don't think it will make any difference to me now; not unless they make me a terrific offer."

Bud Grant, Winnipeg coach, said he was happy to learn of James' decision.

"This solves a lot of our backfield problems" he said. "I don't think the loss of a year will affect James at his age. He won't burn up the training camp but will be all right."

James was voted for "outstanding Canadian football player" as a member of Blue Bombers before he switched to hockey with the Leafs. Earlier this year New York Giants of the National Football League bid for James' services and at that time James said he had not made up his mind what sport to play next year.

Score Will Be Out of Action For a Month

CLEVELAND (AP)—The extent of the injury to Herb Score's right eye had not been determined today, but he will be out of action at least a month.

The Cleveland I n d i a n s' ace left-hander, who was hit by a line drive off the bat of New York's Gil McDougald here Tuesday night was placed on the disabled list by Indians Thursday. This means he cannot be used in an American League game for 30 days.

Doctors tell us that even should Score continue to improve as he has in the past two days since his injury, he will be unable to pitch for at least three weeks," said general m a n a g e r Hank Greenberg.

PLENTY OF TIME

"Although he possibly might pitch or be able to pitch before 30 days, we believe it best to give him plenty of time to recover from his injury, even at the risk of losing his services in one or two games. In this instance we cannot think of one or two ball games. We think of the future health and welfare of one of baseball's best pitchers."

Score continued to improve Thursday and reports so far indicate he will be able to see out of the injured eye, but the question mark remains.

Dr. Charles I. Thomas, an eye specialist, said as soon as he could see the retina clearly he could tell "pretty much what the prognosis (medical forecast) will be."

X-RAYS POSTPONED

A report issued by Dr. Thomas and Dr. Don Kelly, team physician, said x-rays would "be postponed for the next day or so."

The report, said that the swelling around Score's injured eye and his broken nose "has been reduced and in general he looks better." It added that his condition is "slightly improved."

Dr. Thomas continued their novisitors ban, but it was lifted temporarily for a brief visit Thursday night by Score's fiancee, Nancy McNamara, and earlier visits by the pitcher's parents, Arthur Flood, and by Greenberg.

Miss McNamara arrived by Indians' plane Monday night, where she is a senior at St. Mary's College, and went directly to the hospital with Flood.

Score and Miss McNamara, his high school sweetheart ex Lake Worth, Fla., plan to be married in the fall.

SUSPENDS SENTENCE

TORONTO (CP) — Harvey (Bushey) Jackson, once an outstanding player with the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, appeared in court here Thursday for a breaking and entering and was ordered by Magistrate J. A. Prentice to leave his wife alone.

The magistrate suspended sentence and ordered Jackson to keep the peace for a year. The couple separated last December.

Jack Mehlenbacher Happy To Quit NHL Refereeing Staff

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Mehlenbacher's conversation overheard through an open transom convinced Jack Mehlenbacher that he should get out of the business of refereeing National Hockey League games. It appears that his name was somewhat more than prominent in the discussion.

"Jack got out fast and he's glad" he did, NHL officials will tell you that Mehlenbacher wasn't invited back," but what ever happened, he made a clean break from his profession after his 1953-54 season.

There are still reports that Mehlenbacher was too independent, that he wouldn't take any guff from club owners. In one hassle with Conn Smythe, Toronto Maple Leaf president, the referee told him: "You need me more than I need you." Exit Mr. Mehlenbacher.

Mehlenbacher didn't suffer financially. He was in the harness horse-racing business when he joined the NHL and now he's back in it again, and doing quite well.

STILL BRISTLING

He still bristles about the NHL. "The league will be able to see out of the injured eye, but the question is how well."

Dr. Charles I. Thomas, an eye specialist, said as soon as he could see the retina clearly he could tell "pretty much what the prognosis (medical forecast) will be."

'Iron Liege' Will Wait For Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kentucky Derby winner Iron Liege, considered by trainer Jimmy Jones to be "its enough to run to the Rocky Mountains," will pass up Monday's $6,000 Preakness Prep and wait for the big race May 18.

But the status of Iron Duke, regarded more highly than Iron Liege by their Calumet handlers, was still uncertain.

"His status in the Preakness," said Jones, "is that he will have to show me next week that he is ready to run."

Jones made the statement after examining Gen-Duke's foot injury which caused his withdrawal from the Derby a few hours before post-time, and walking him around the Pimlico track.

Now, the big horse in Monday's buildup race figures to be Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler.

Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons said Bold Ruler is a 5-1 favorite which finished fourth in the Derby, will be vanned down from New York Saturday.

Fitzsimmons said the Wheatley runner will wear blinkers for the first time in his 17 starts. The new equipment was tried in a workout Thursday and the veteran trainer was pleased with the results.

Also headed for Pimlico was Federal Hill, the early leader and Derby place finisher at Churchill Downs.

Still to be decided is whether Gallant Man, runner-up to Iron Liege by a nose in the Kentucky race, will try again in the Preakness or wait until the Belmont Stakes.

Aces Win Edinburgh Trophy Defeat Regals in Sixth Game

By TOM MITCHELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Formula for winning the Edinburgh Trophy: Stretch while one of your men is in the penalty box.

It worked twice for Quebec Aces Thursday night as they defeated Brandon Regals 4-2 and took the 1957 championship trophy series 5-1.

Marcel Bonin and Bob Beckett scored for the Quebec Hockey League titleholders when Brandon had a man in the stretch. Dick Gamble and Orval Tessier netted the other goals for the winning club coach Don Raleigh counted for the losers.

A crowd of 6,251 saw Bucyk open the scoring for Regals at 17:10 in the first period with a screened slap shot from just inside the blueline that goalie Al Millar never saw.

Ten seconds later Aces' Brent Macnab went off for tripping and defenceman Joe Crozier drove a long shot toward the Regal net which flicked off Bonin's stick to even the count.

A high-sticking penalty to Bucyk at 4:29 of the second period set the stage for Gamble's tally. The rangy left winger was in close when a shot by Crozier rebounded off the back boards and he batted it past Brandon petminder Lucien Deschenes at 8:08.

Just over two minutes later Beckett got the goal that proved to be the winner. Quebec centre Gene Achtymichuk was sitting out an elbowing penalty when Beckett stole the puck at his own blueline. He went all the way in to beat Deschenes.

Brandon came close to narrowing the margin at the nine-minute mark but Millar was able to smother the puck and end a wild scramble.

It came at 15:21 when Tessier, who scored in the 3rd during the season, flicked the puck in from five feet out for his ninth goal of the series.

In the last minute of play Regals finally broke Quebec penalty into a marker. Bonin was off for tripping when Vic Lynn set Ralph Backstrom up with a pass from the corner.

Defence Georges Gravel issued 15 minor penalties—nine of them to the winners. Dechene posted 20 stops while Millar blocked 17.

It was the second Edinburgh appearance for the Quebecers who dropped their 1954 series against Calgary Stampeders in the West final en route to the trophy was up for competition. It now has been won twice by the East and West. No visiting team has been able to take the trophy home.

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts defeated Edmonton Flyers in the 1955 series and Winnipeg Warriors kept it in the West last year by knocking off Montreal Royals.

TV Has Tried to Manufacture Comedians too Fast-Youngman

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Henny Youngman wants to know what's all this talk about sad comedians.

"If they're sad, it's only because they're not comedians," says Youngman, a comedian himself—and not the least bit sad.

There certainly has been a lot of talk recently about unhappy television comedians. Just the other day a fellow claimed that the majority of the best-known comics either have been or now are making regular visits to psychiatrists—which can be taken as a symptom of personal unhappiness.

"So they go to psychiatrists," said Youngman. "Why not? What are they going to do with all the money they're making?"

Youngman sees it this way:

"You're either a funny man or you're not. . . A guy who claims to be a funny man and is sad isn't really a comedian in his heart. He's a manufactured comedian."

Television has tried to manufacture a few too quickly, Youngman believes.

"Some of the new ones just haven't had the seasoning of years in show business. They don't know what it is to compete for a spot on a stage. They've learned one routine—and that's all. It's not enough.

"They've found success too soon. They become important people through a freak. And then they're slighted. It hurts 'em. A big fuss—and then a big brush."

Youngman feels that there is plenty of comedy talent, both in performers and writers. "And there's a colossal need for laughter today. People want to laugh."

Many of the woes of television comics can be traced to the rating wars, he believes.

"Take Sid Caesar, a hilarious guy who puts on a beautifully-staged show. Now it looks as if he won't be on NBC regularly next season. But he's better than ever. He's a victim of nothing but Lawrence Welk who's opposite him on ABC. So he can't get a sponsor.

"He's one real comedian you can't blame for feeling a little sad. I'm surprised that the television industry can afford to let a guy like Caesar get unhappy."

The bidding in room one stretched out like this:

North	South
1 C	1 H
2 C	2 D
2 NT	3 D
3 NT	4 D
4 H	Pass

By this time west decided the opponents were in trouble and he doubled for penalty the four heart bid. The contract went down three tricks for a loss of 500 points.

Having done his partner wrong by showing his shorter suit first, south should have closed his trap at an early age. It was too late to remedy the impression he had already given his north partner. The bidding in room two took this snappy course:

North	East	South	West
1 C	Pass	1 D	Dbl
3 C	4 S	All Pass

Four spades went down two tricks, as it deserved. With only four tricks, east lacks enough for a bop to Three spades would be correct. This he can make if he knows how.

With any south lead, declarer can cash his four red tops and ace of trump. He then leads the third heart. It matters not whether south wins or north ruffs. Only four tricks need be lost.

Masters in a bridge game are in a sorry plight. There may be something else at which they sometimes could be right.

Lila Lee, Back in Hollywood, Having Time of Her Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Her career perking again, Lila Lee is back in Hollywood after a long absence and having the time of her life.

"I haven't seen this place in a long, long time," she said as she told of the exciting things that have been happening to her.

It all started two weeks ago when the veteran actress came here from her New York home with her long-time pal, Patsy Ruth Miller. It was strictly a pleasure jaunt at Miss Miller's suggestion. When they arrived, Lila couldn't figure out why their dates were limited to the Beverly Hills Hotel where they were staying.

On Wednesday night she found out. She was the star of Ralph Edwards' This is Your Life.

PRISONER IN HOTEL

"I was a prisoner in the hotel and didn't know it," she remarked. "I guess they didn't want me bumping into my son and others who had been brought to town."

As part of her payoff for enduring the show she was given some roles in TV shows. She finished a filmed drama for Dazie and is doing a Matinee Theatre at NBC this week. Does this mean she'll resume acting full-time?

"We'll wait and see what happens," she replied. "Luckily I don't need it; I saved enough to live comfortably. But it would be fun. I live alone, and a person has to do something to keep busy."

At 51 Lila still has the dark-eyed beauty that endeared her to movie audiences from the silent days to the talkies. Her movie career goes all the way back to Male and Female (1919) and Blood and Sand (1922), which she considers the best of her early career.

TO BROADWAY IN 1940

Lila left Hollywood in 1940 for a Broadway role and stayed in the east to concentrate on her stage career. I pondered about what happens to film careers like hers.

"In my case, ill health played a big role in keeping me out of circulation," she remarked. "It was my own fault, I guess, in allowing myself to work so hard. In one year at Warner Brothers, I made eight pictures.

"From 1944 to 1946, I was at Saranac (N.Y.) recovering from TB. It was the kind of TB that spread, and the treatment was long and tedious."

Since her recovery, she has done some stage roles and a little television. Now her career may really take off again.

Austria Seeking Homes for 1,500 Young Hungarians

VIENNA (AP)—Austrian refugee authorities are looking for homes in the country for some 1,500 Hungarian teen-agers.

They pose a tough legal problem for Austrian authorities. Largely between 14 and 18, they are, under international law, charges of their parents in Hungary, who could demand their forcible return.

CAN'T LEGALLY APPLY

The teen-agers cannot legally apply for emigration in the West without permission of their parents, mostly prisoners or dead.

While the Austrians are bound by international agreement to send the children back, they know each youngster who returns is immediately picked up by Hungarian security police and sent to a special concentration camp. Only a few teen-agers from these camps have been released or escaped from this detention, usually to warn their friends in Austria.

The Austrians thus far have found sufficient loopholes to avoid forcible return of any of the young Hungarians. How many have gone back voluntarily has not been disclosed.

Authorities are slowly making it possible for the youngsters to emigrate elsewhere. Experts have discovered that a child of 14 and over may request a guardian under Austrian legal procedure, which may then permit emigration.

Some Austrian social workers have become "guardians" to 50 and more Hungarian teen-agers at a time.

Because they have living parents, such Hungarian children are not eligible for adoption in the West, a fact which delays many families from taking them in.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking to herself sad, and she said to pop. Honestly, William, I wonder sometimes if we would be a diffrent world if people would only come right out with the simple truth instead of beeting around the bush.

Well, perhaps, pop said. Still, if my parents hadn't beet around the bush by boasting about my bewtiful shining hair when I was a child, instead of telling me I was doomed to inherit my father's bewtiful shining bald head, I might never of developed the strong wrists and fingers I got from massaging the top of my head so many thousands of times, he said.

Just the same, people can do a lot of harm by distoring simple facts, and this broken sale on my finger is a glaring proof of it, ma said, and pop said, Do you mean you actually attacked some bush beetler with such ferocity that you fractured a finger nale?

I knowingly insisted the falts directions on a box of Soddin Suds when I tried to open it, ma said. The directions said, Press Here, and my finger met sutch an iron resistanse that the tip of my sale broke off. I finely had to,take a knife and cut along the dotted line, and that's what the directions should of had the manhood to tell me: I think I'll sit right down and write them a letter, she said, and pop said, Dont even wait to sit down, or you'll get it off.

The result being ma put it off.

Strawberries On Plum Tree Prove Puzzling

MANOSQUE, France (Reuters) — A gardener here is trying to find out why his plum tree, which refuses to grow plums, is growing strawberries.

When the first strawberry appeared he called his wife out to confirm that he was not "seeing things," the also pronounced the fruit a strawberry.

An expert noted that the tree was growing in a strawberry bed but could give no explanation other than that it is "a phenomenon certainly unique in the annals of agriculture."

BEEF OF SOCIAL

In Brandon, Man., Thursday night Social Credit Leader Solon Low told an election meeting that a telegram from the Canadian prime minister "more than anything else" caused Britain and France to end their activities in Egypt.

Mr. St. Laurent had no immediate reply. He was in Ottawa and when word of Mr. Low's remarks reached there, it was bedtime. But the prime minister only Wednesday night vehemently denied that there was "any threat whatsoever" in his correspondence with Sir Anthony.

PROVIDES TWIST

The Low-St. Laurent row developing provides an unexpected twist to the election campaign. To date the 1956 Commons pipeline debate, social welfare measures, hospital insurance, the government's tight - money policy, agriculture and resources development in certain areas have been main talking points.

Elsewhere, Thursday was relatively quiet on the election front.

From Ottawa, Resources Minister Lesage in a French-language CBC television broadcast predicted the Liberals will make more gains on the Prairies in the June 10 voting.

Over a CBC English-language radio network, George Nowlan, former president of the PC National Association and trying for re-election to the Nova Scotia constituency of Digby - Annapolis-Kings, forecast that his party will be elected over the Liberals.

He said Maritime interest in the Conservatives is more enthusiastic than in previous elections. Meetings held during party leader John Diefenbaker's recent Maritime tour had drawn greater crowds than Health Minister Martin and other ministers in the Liberal federal government.

CLAIMS EASIER

In the last two election campaigns it had been difficult to find men to run as Conservative candidates. But in this campaign, outstanding men had come forward to volunteer as candidates under Mr. Diefenbaker.

Ontario CCF Leader MacDonald told a CCF federal nominating meeting at Guelph that Conservatives in the central province are determined to collect the burden of taxes from the "rank and file" rather than from "among the Conservative party's political friends in the big corporations."

In Calgary Douglas Harkness brought up the question of Mr. St. Laurent's age—which is 75. The Conservative candidate seeking re-election in Calgary North said in a local radio broadcast "It is apparent he cannot continue in office much longer so the choice with which you are faced is a Diefenbaker government or a question-mark government."

Also in Calgary, George Hees, Progressive Conservative member in the last Parliament for Toronto - Broadview, described federal government credit restriction measures as "the height of folly." He called for a positive approach to the problem of inflation: "a program of increasing the volume of goods to equal volume of money rather than reducing available money to the level of volume of goods.

ACTOR INJURED

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Peter Lawford has suffered a back injury which will prevent him from starring in the CBS television program Climax next Thursday, producer Edgar Peterson said today. Lawford incurred a sacroiliac displacement Tuesday night when he stepped from his car at his home. Peterson said he is looking for a replacement so the show will not have to be cancelled.

Little Benny's Notebook

I've been reeding about the planets in my Junior Treasury of Nolledge, and after dinner I said to ma, Hay ma, what's the smallest planet?

Ask your father, ma said, and I said, I dont have to ask him. It's Pluto. Nobody has ever even saw it except through a telescope, I said.

Poor little thing, pop said, and I said, Jupiter is the biggest planet, it's 3 times bigger than we are, and it takes more than eleven years to go around the sun.

Yee gods, this is the beginning of the end, we've got a genius in the family, pop said. The first thing we know he'll be going on quizz shows, and millions of people will hear him correctly divide the altitude of light by the multitude of sound, and he'll win a quarter of a million dollers in prizes, and we'll be his poor relations, he said.

Me thinking, Oh boy, a quarter of a million dollers, and ma said, Oh dear, what a gastly future for us. We'll have to ask him if we can have a 2nd helping of cake, instead of him asking us, she said.

Sounding like a swell future for me, and pop said, He'll start to skip grades in school and be in college before he's 12, and he'll have so much home-work to do we'll practically never see him.

I hope he'll let us know if he gets violent headakes, ma said.

Sounding like the beginning of the sad part, and I said, Hay, I dont want to be on any quizz shows.

Which I dont and which I probably won't be.

Adenauer Urges Atomic Tests End For Limited Time

West German Lower House Pleads With Atomic Powers

LONDON (CP) — West Germany's lower house has called on the atomic powers to suspend nuclear weapons tests for a "limited time" as a pledge of their intent to achieve a general controlled disarmament."

The resolution, presented in Bonn Friday night by Chancellor Adenauer's Christian Democratic, marked one of the few times the West German leader has differed with the United States on a major international issue. President Eisenhower has contended that the tests must go on as long as Russia refuses to agree to international inspection.

The German resolution followed a new Russian proposal by Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko for an agreement to end the nuclear tests, but press comment here followed the line that the Russian position was to be expected.

DOUBTS SINCERITY

The Daily Telegraph says each new Soviet statement on disarmament makes it more and more difficult to believe that Moscow is seriously interested in agreements that the West could seriously expect."

Commenting on Gromkyo's latest proposals an editorial says:

"Encouraged as they will be by the truly remarkable gullibility of great sections of Western public opinion, Mr. Bulganin has invited the Russian offer to ban all further H-bomb tests adding for good measure that until this offer was accepted the Soviet Union would press on with better and better H-bombs.

FANCIFUL PICTURE

"The picture which Mr. Gromyko paints—a pacific Soviet Union being forced against her will to go ahead with thermonuclear experiments—is totally fanciful. Since it is possible to explode these bombs without detection, any international ban must depend for its efficacy on rigorous control and inspection.

"To space this requirement—as the Russians persistently do—is political wishful warfare, not negotiating nuclear disarmament."

Adenauer told the West German deputies he still shared the American view that the prime way to achieve peace was through general controlled disarmament.

His party declared that the U.S., Britain and Russia should suspend the tests to demonstrate their "will to a general controlled disarmament." It gave no time limit for the suspension.

SOUGHT STRONGER MEASURE

The opposition Socialists opposed the resolution on grounds it was not strong enough and tried unsuccessfully to get through a resolution saying nuclear weapons tests should be stopped immediately.

The Socialist measure was defeated, 223 to 134. It was linked with another proposal that the government promise not to equip the new West German army with atomic weapons.

The house also killed a Socialist motion that would have required the government to ban equipment of West German armed forces with atomic weapons and to prevent stocking of such weapons on German soil by the United States and other Western allies.

Defence Minister Franz Josef Strauss said the West would risk Soviet aggression if Germany denied the allies the right to equip with weapons as powerful as those used by the Russians.

U.S. GOING AHEAD

In the U.S., the Atomic Energy Commission went ahead today with plans for tests in Nevada next year.

It said it will invite representatives of 47 countries to observe some of the blasts in a series which begins May 27. This year's test explosions will have relatively low force. No representatives of Communist countries will be invited.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis

Colder air has moved southward into the Lower Great Lakes area, dropping temperatures to the low 40s.

Clear skies cover Northern Ontario.

Indications are that more disturbances moving along the same paths, will bring showers to the lower Great Lakes area.

Profits Placed Ahead of People Coldwell Says

TIMMINS (CP)—Private enterprise has a big role in Canada's future but must watch its step, says Socialist Leader M. J. Coldwell.

The CCF leader, after recounting some sins of corporations, told an election campaign audience Friday night that he does not oppose private enterprise as such, so long as it behaves itself.

However, he charged the Liberal government with fostering corporations as against the people and allowing business to pile up excessive corporate profits.

His main private enterprise target was Trans-Canada Pipe Line Ltd., the $375,000,000 company building a natural gas line from Alberta to the east, and he said United States - owned companies promoting the line already have made "unusual" profits on paper profits on stock before gas has begun to move.

The 2,200-mile line from Alberta to the East is to be completed next year. It has had federal loan assistance in the West, and the Dominion and Ontario governments are joining to build a Northern Ontario section that passes near here.

Mr. Coldwell said there—between a "shameful subsidy" to private interests" in connection with Trans-Canada and added that the rights of Parliament were trampled on in the Commons fight last year in which the government pushed through legislation to help the company get financing.

"Was there ever a slicker deal?" he asked of the transaction whereby the federal and Ontario governments jointly will build the $118,000,000 Northern Ontario section of the line and lease it to Trans-Canada with a purchase option for the company.

Windsor Bandits Flee With $1,800

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two masked men Friday night escaped with $1,800 after holding two employees of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway 62, had driven to the Mill Street ticket office to meet Ralph Bondy, 30, of No. 30, a cashier, and they were leaving the office when the men appeared.

Their faces masked by handkerchiefs and one holding a gun, the men ordered Mr. Osborne and Mrs. Lappan into Mr. Osborne's car and then drove to the town limits.

There the employees were forced to the floor of the car and had their wrists and ankles bound with tape. The men left them with a satchel and box containing the money.

TO WITHDRAW TROOPS

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Army garrison in Bermuda will be withdrawn May 31 and will not be replaced, the war office announced Friday night. Reasons are "the reduction of the army strength".

Argue Dares Gardiner to Debate Policy

COLGATE, Sask. (CP)—Hazen Argue, CCF candidate for the Assiniboia constituency in the June 10 federal election, Friday challenged Agriculture Minister Gardiner to a verbal duel on the country's farm problems.

Mr. Argue issued the challenge Friday night in a 60-minute address to about 50 people in the community hall of this hamlet, 75 miles southeast of Regina, as he continued his campaign to keep the riding he has represented in the House for 12 years.

"I challenge Jimmy Gardiner," he said, "to appear with me on a public platform anywhere in Saskatchewan under the sponsorship of the Saskatchewan Farmers Union to debate and discuss his farm policy."

'Four Little Men Dressed in Grey' From Flying Saucer Attack Refugee

AMIENS, France (Reuters)—A Hungarian refugee claimed today that he was violently attacked by "four little men dressed in grey" who landed in a flying saucer.

His story of the men and saucer was backed by six residents of Beaucourt-sur-Lanche.

Gendarmes investigated tracks found on a road near the village and said they found lumps of a black, lava-like substance.

Michel Sekelec, 29-year-old Hungarian refugee, told police he sighted the saucer just after midnight as he was cycling home. He said he was "dazzled by a strange brightness," hid behind a telegraph pole and saw "four little men" walking along the road.

"The four little men came to-ward me. I was violently attacked by her." Sekele claimed. He climbed on his bicycle and pedalled as fast as he could toward the local railroad station.

"Let me talk quickly," he shouted at the watchman. "A flying saucer has landed and I am being attacked."

Six persons, including the station watchman and his wife, said they saw the saucer and the little men. They said the saucer was a reddish color and that after it took off it hovered for several minutes above the village before disappearing.

FREE ELECTIONS PROMISED NEXT YEAR IN COLOMBIA

Military Junta Operates Until Order Restored

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) Colombia's new military junta has promised to restore order to the country, restore political and press freedom and step down next year in favor of a freely elected civilian government.

This South American capital took on a holiday atmosphere today as Colombians celebrated the collapse of Gustavo Rojas Pinilla's four-year dictatorship.

Leaders of the Liberals and Conservatives—the country's two traditional political parties, whose opposition bolstered the strikes and demonstrations that brought down Rojas — Friday night announced support of interim rule by the junta they helped by radio for prudence, calmness and return to normal conditions.

TOTAL CASUALTIES

Relaxation of censorship permitted a tally of those killed in the last week of unrest in Colombia. There were at least 141 reported dead—including 20 caught in a stampede when troops tried to clear looters from Bogota's Plaza Bolivar after Rojas resigned the presidency Thursday.

Gen. Gabriel Paris Gomendio says police fired on another crowd celebrating the fall of Medellin, killing nine persons. An estimated 100 were killed during the week in Colombia's fourth largest city, many by police bullets. Tear gas and rifle volleys broke up a quell anti - Rojas demonstrators killed two youths in Bogota last Sunday.

Rojas, 56-year-old former army chief who seized power in a bloodless coup in June, 1953, was reported flown from Bogota's Tunja tanks and armored cars guarding the local airport barred reporters.

LISTEN TO BOGOTAN

Maj.-Gen. Gabriel Paris, 47-year-old president of the five-man junta which replaced Rojas, listed a 14-point program he said the military regime will carry out.

The first point was a promise that the junta will remain in power only until Aug. 7, 1958, when a new presidential term is to begin.

Paris said elections will be held for a successor government. Other points included formation of a cabinet including representatives of constitutional parties, restoration of freedom of the press, independence of the judiciary, purges in the government and maintenance of "normal peaceful relations between management and labor."

Party Leaders Ease up Little After Hard Week on Hustings

By CP STAFF WRITER

The voices of the men campaigning for the right to administer the affairs of Canadians for the next four years were widely heard Friday. Their topics were as widely diversified.

In Timmins, it was CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and the Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline — source of bitter Commons controversy last year.

Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, travelling Ontario with Provincial Premier Frost, dwelt on the faults they see in the Liberal federal government's tax-sharing arrangement with the provinces.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low told a Winnipeg audience that unless the June 10 vote brings a change in the federal government and its tight-money policy, living costs in the next six months will increase sharply.

Meantime, Prime Minister St. Laurent was locking to a quiet weekend at home in Quebec City before going forth again to campaign battle with a speech there Monday night.

For Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Low the weekend would also be a time for easing up a little before further vote-seeking onslaughts. Only for both Conservative party leaders, was on the road today.

Mr. Coldwell told his Timmins audience that United States-owned companies promoting the pipeline have made "unusual" stock profits of more than $26,000,000 even before western gas has begun to move eastward. It's due in Montreal in 1958.

Both he and Mr. Diefenbaker criticized the federal - provincial tax arrangements as niggardly and unfair.

Along the lower echelons, Ontario CCF Leader MacDonald told an Orono, Ont., meeting Liberal and Conservative agricultural policy is a "political tranquillizer, designed to dull the pain, but offering no real solutions."

At St. Laurent, Man., an apt location, Jean-Paul St. Laurent, the prime minister's son, said he has told voters they should vote Conservative if they can't support the Liberals. He told an interviewer he is trying to get rid of the "splinter parties."

Canada needs a national highway now and it is to make full use of its vast natural resources, George Hees, former national PC Association President seeking re-election in Toronto Broadview told a Peace River, Alta., meeting.

Labor Minister Gregg, at suspiproducing Oshawa, accused Mr. Diefenbaker of promised of "saying ever the demand is in a particular part of the country." He found it hard to see what is the part of the city of the Conservative party."

Health Minister Paul Martin said at Tillsonburg that the last session of Parliament will at least be noted for introducing a national hospital insurance scheme. He was speaking at a Liberal rally on behalf of Bruce McCall, Liberal candidate for Oxford in the June 10 elections.

Think Sudbury District Fire Caused by Survey Party

SUDBURY (CP)—A forest fire which roared through 8,000 acres of bush and devastated the little village of Skead, 20 miles north of here, has been blamed on a line-cutting crew working ahead of a survey party.

Cpl. Dave Leclair, in charge of a Neelon-Garson Township police investigation into the fire, said Friday the men he suspected were responsible for the fire were sisted by a line foreman from a survey party engaged by a mining firm.

"We can't release names just now, but everything points that way," he said. "Everything seems to be consistent. They had no fire-fighting equipment, no knowledge of law, and they had no work permit.

"Working in the bush like that, they should have a work permit," he explained. "With it would be included a permit to travel in the bush and to light fires.

"These fellows are axe-men. They have no machines of any kind, so if they are responsible for the fire, it was likely started by a camp fire or cigarette."

The surveyors are running a line which will cut across Garson Lake. During the course of the fire which started Tuesday, 20 homes which make up Skead became blackened ruins. Destitute families stayed with friends or moved into bunkhouses of the Polypore Lumber Company. Damage is estimated at $200,000 by the survey, with tools and building supplies destroyed.

On the shores of Lake Wanapitae, which was in the path of the flames, scores of cottages—with the exception of two in Bolands Bay, another ravaged community — miraculously escaped destruction. The fire now is being held.

All other forest fires in Canada are under control, Ontario and Ontario department of lands and forests reported 46 fires burning in the province, but none was considered out of hand.

Trial of Britons Resumes in Cairo

CAIRO (Reuters)—The trial of four Britons accused of spying against Egypt resumed here today after nearly a month's recess.

The four are James Swinburne, 51, Cairo manager of the Arab News Agency; Charles Pilluck, 45, of the Marconi Radio Telegraph Company of Egypt; James Zarb, 37, a Maltese businessman; and John Thornton Stanley, 40, of the Prudential Assurance Company.

SHOWERS REDUCE BUSH FIRE CRISIS IN NEW ENGLAND

Aid Just Temporary, Plan to 'Seed' Clouds

BOSTON (AP)—Cooling showers have eased—but not ended—the forest fire crisis in much of the parched New England states.

Light rain dampened most of New York State and Massachusetts Friday night, thunderstorms drenched Pennsylvania and scattered showers hit Maine, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

But they only offered temporary aid against the flames which have destroyed many thousands of acres of timber, causing damage totalling millions of dollars.

The situation Friday:

Massachusetts — The most serious blaze at Plymouth, Athol and Montague were reported under control, but Governor Foster Furcolo said the national guard would attempt flood-controlling today to coax heavy rain from skies in four areas of the state.

New York—Five new fires, all small, reported. Showers helped slow down fires still burning and prevented new ones from starting. In the last two weeks about 1,000 fires have been reported in the state.

Pennsylvania — Thundershowers dumped .64 of an inch of rain on the north central part of the state. A new fire burned 200 acres of land at a YMCA camp in the Bushkill area in the eastern area.

HOSPITALS

Flames approached two hospitals Friday before being turned back.

At Plymouth, Mass., a fire swept to within a few hundred yards of Jordan Hospital. An army of 2,000 firefighters contained the flames.

In New Jersey nearly 200 patients were evacuated from a tuberculosis sanitarium for children when smoke surrounded the building. Firefighters checked the blaze short of the hospital.

Three Killed Near Brantford

BRANTFORD (CP)—Two men and a woman were killed Friday night when their car struck a truck carrying 16 tons of sugar in nearby Burford, Ont.

Dead are Milton Lickers, 52, Arthur Howie, 70, and an unidentified woman, both of nearby Paris. Police said they did not know who the woman was.

Police said the car was hit as it pulled out onto highway 24 from a side street. Both car and truck went out of control after the crash and overturned in a cemetery.

FREED OF CHARGE

MONTREAL (CP) — Donald Tolbush, 34, was freed Friday of an attempted murder charge after the prosecution called up trying to force witnesses to testify against him at his preliminary hearing. Tolbush was accused of shooting 42 - year - old restaurant operator Douglas Wright in an east-end cafe Feb. 21.

U.K. May Allow British Ships To Use Suez Canal

Some M.P.'s May Withdraw Support From Government

LONDON (Reuters) — The government was reported to have reached a decision today on allowing British ships to use the Suez Canal, despite rumblings of a new "rebellion" from some of its own parliamentary supporters.

The nature of the decision taken at a cabinet meeting Friday will not be announced until next week in the House of Commons. It is considered too much of a "climb-down" to Egypt's terms, some Conservative members of Parliament may withdraw their support from the government.

Egypt has rejected all Western moves for international management of the canal and insists on operating it herself. On Thursday, the 15-nation Suez Canal Users Association criticized Egypt's stand but left the way open for individual governments to resume use of the canal.

WANTS TEST

(At Wareham, England, Viscount Hinchinbrooke, a Conservative, suggested that British and France each send two warships through the canal as a test case, paying dues to the United Nations Suez Canal Company.

If Egyptian President Nasser intervened, he said, "we would have a perfect right . . . to send a frigate or a cruiser down the canal."

The viscount is the sponsor of a House of Commons motion, supported by 32 other Conservative members, which opposes the return of the Suez Canal to Egypt's unfettered control.

U.S. Will Not Launch Satellite In Secret Manner

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There will be no secret launching of artificial satellites by the United States, and Washington expects Russia to hold to the same open policy in the international scientific undertaking.

"We will not launch a satellite until the plans have been announced in advance and until the other nations co-operating in the International Geophysical Year have been officially notified," Dr. Joseph Kaplan told reporters Friday night. He heads the U.S. committee for the IGY.

There was some nebulous rumors that satellites already may have been shot into the air; that Russia may "jump the gun" and launch one or more ahead of the IGY schedule, and that private interests have been toying with the idea of trying to get one into the skies independently. None of these has yielded any substantial fact.

THE WORKER'S STATE

MOSCOW (Reuters)—A system of on-the-spot fines for negligent workers was suggested today by Nikita Khrushchev. It may be considered by the Communist Party leader told the Supreme Soviet, to institute a system of fines for workers responsible for production losses.

Thirteen Canadian Cities Wiped Out In First Day of Mock Atomic War

ARNPRIOR (CP) — Canada reeled — hypothetically — early today under a wave of imaginary nuclear bombings that "obliterated" 13 centres across the country. A second onslaught was reported en route from the north.

Imaginary casualties already were in the millions. Civil Defence Exercise Co - operation I, in which more than 3,000 personnel and volunteers of civil defence workers in all provinces but Newfoundland and Labrador are tested, was in full swing. In Manitoba and Quebec, participation is largely military.

Montreal and Toronto "disappeared" under imaginary nuclear attack at 1:15 a.m. EDT and Ottawa blew apart five minutes later. Manufacturing and industrial centres when at 2 a.m. a following wave of imaginary enemy bombers was reported by the DEW (distant early warning) line.

Like the first "invaders" they were flying in two parallel formations several hundred miles apart and were expected over possible target areas 3½ hours later.

Queen, Philip Will Visit U.S. in Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip are due to visit the United States for about 10 days in early October, according to plans which have been worked out between Washington and London.

Persons close to the negotiations reported today that the Queen's formal acceptance to an invitation from President Eisenhower to come to Washington probably will be received here in two to three weeks. It has been pending for months while officials worked out details.

Queen Elizabeth and Philip are expected to visit places other than Washington. Plans already said they did not know what towns and cities will be on the itinerary except that it seems certain Jamestown, Va., would be included. It was an invitation to the Queen was started originally to commemorate this year's celebration of Jamestown's historic past.

So far all exchanges between Washington and London on the Queen's projected visit have been handled primarily by the U.S. Embassy in the British capital and have been covered with as much official secrecy as the authorities could muster. This is typical in the case of an invitation by the president to the chief of another state.

Nevertheless word usually gets around and reports have been current for about a year that the president would like to invite Elizabeth and Philip to Washington and that she would accept.

Legion Passes Membership Mark Of Last Year

The Belleville branch of the Canadian Legion have announced that they have now passed their 1956 membership mark and are going all out in the National membership drive to duplicate their membership by 1958. The slogan of the campaign is "Duplicate by 58".

A special initiation ceremony is being held in the Canadian Legion Hall on Pinnacle Street on Tuesday night, under the direction of the Tweed initiating team. This team has conducted initiations on a District, Zone and Branch level and the initiation of new members into the Legion becomes more impressive under their guidance.

The Canadian Legion is constantly working for and contributing to the betterment of conditions for thousands of fellow Canadians whose lives have been affected by war. Not only does the Canadian Legion act as the Veteran's spokesman, but it takes direct action in a number of ways, such as scholarships, citizenship programs, cadet corps sponsorship, children's programs, minor sports, charitable donations, and other examples of community leadership. All these are expressions of what the Legion does.

Most private citizens are interested in these subjects. By belonging to the Canadian Legion you are assured of a new and more effective outlet for your interests.

In a recent issue of the Liberty magazine, several pages were devoted to the work of the Canadian Legion. It is interesting and enlightening reading, and shows to what lengths the Canadian Legion is going to serve in peace as it did in war.

Short Putts—

From the Country Club
By DOUG GRANT

It is a lively weekend at the club with the Ladies Opening Field day in full swing today and the men digot digging in the Presidents vs Vice-Presidents match starting tomorrow with the birdies (we hope) at 8.30 a.m.

A vote of thanks to Hugh Sullivan and his house committee for the new dining room facilities. The club is fortunate in having the services of such an experienced caterer as Harry and Mrs. Hunter formerly of the Penguin and now owners of Murray's Sea Food. Tea-time steaks are served every day from 12-2 and 5-9. Specials on Sundays feature fast orders on a specialty such as turkey, roast beef etc. Towards the end of May when volume warrants Smorgasbord will a weekend feature. Members who have not yet seen the new dining room will like both the decor and the food. Dinner guests too will enjoy these ideal surroundings.

Although it is not always appreciated condition, resting and acting comments on tournaments set the trend of any sport. Daily reports of the American pro golf tournament is a tenure for golf and elevated it in the public mind.

Golfers like Stan Leonard, Al Balding and Marilyn Stewart, in conquering the world's best for major victories, not only bring honor to themselves but by their encouragement and confidence to every Canadian golfer "whether he or she be a tournament contender or a beginner. The magnificent performances of Leonard-Balding in leading Hogan-Snead golf tournaments in the Canada cup match last year marked the advent of this country as a major golfing nation.

Leonard deserves particular credit for his fine all-round finishing himself as a consistent money winner on the iron-hard American circuit where golfer can easily lose a lot of money fast if he fails to place. Al Balding's performance just how tough this competition is a few years ago when he took a short course in the Canada cup match last year marked the advent of this country as a major golfing nation.

The Vancouver belter finally got the support he deserved when Gilbert Ayres, owner of the Lachute Golf Club, gave him a retainer of $10,000 to represent his club on the circuit. Leonard picked up approximately $25,000 per circuit last year to justify the dedication and strain of—hitching strokes with the worst of 'em. The only time Stan goes near Mr. Ayres' club is when he competes for his sponsor's money at the Lachute Open. Mr. Ayres' big line, gilladelic when he competes because of Canadian golf generally.

During the years I lived in Montreal I had the opportunity to walk around with quite a few in Canada Cup and Canadian Open tournaments. During the tense moments he chats informally and smokes incessantly. Built like a middleweight Balding is a blackhaired smith forearms he knocks the ball out of sight. Like Stanley Doug Ford in one hi... these matches, Ayres outdrove the American circuit leader by twenty yards on every hole.

I can see him now at first tee here lighting a cigaret, throwing it away, hanging his jacket on a tree where near the pin with a two or three iron, and striking a new smoke as he chats casually about almost anything but golf on the way to the next shot.

Like time professional golf competition is a nerve searing gamble. Ayres owes a vote of thanks to the golfers who have what it takes to maintain her links prestige in this remorseless, razor sharp competition.

Minor Baseball Attracts Record Number of Boys

President of the Belleville Minor Baseball Association, Jack Brennan, reports that upwards of 500 boys will be participating in the minor baseball setup in the BMBA this year. The highest registration on record consists of over 300 Pee Wees, (9-12 years old); 100 Bantams (13-14 years old) and 30 Midget (15-16 years old) and a single juvenile entry. The latter will be entered in the Belleville and District Baseball League.

League will be made up of 8 teams in the Pee Wee division, 4 in the bantam division and 4 in the midget division. Because of the large number of registrations in the pee wee division a large number of boys will be assigned to each team, with the net result that by the time the league starts under-sized boys will be cut to the regular number of players. However, if more sponsors take part extra teams will be made up in each division.

A number of sponsors have already agreed to participate but more are still required reports treasurer W. G. Hurst. To sponsor a team a fee of $100 is required to outfit them in sweaters, caps, to equipment, bats and balls, the team with sweaters, catcher's equipment and bats and balls for the full season. Coaches are also needed and any persons wishing to coach may get a team by calling the Recreation Office, WO 2-1403.

All boys who wish to play baseball in the midget and juvenile leagues for the Belleville Minor Baseball Association must report to the fairgrounds Tuesday, May 14th, at 6.30 p.m.

The midget division will consist of 4 teams which will operate within the city and the winner of the league advancing into the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns.

The lone juvenile entry will operate in the Belleville and District Baseball League advancing with a bye into the Ontario Baseball Association playdowns.

London Man Says Son Died Result Of Radiation

LONDON (AP)—David Morbin, a London grocer, was quoted today as saying a doctor told him his 22-year-old son died of Leukemia resulting from atomic radiation in Nevada's air.

The Daily Herald says Morbin said doctors told him his son's symptoms were similar to those of victims of the Hiroshima atomic blast.

The Herald is a strong supporter of the Labor party line urging postponement of British H-bomb tests this summer. Leukemia, or cancer of the blood, is not necessarily caused by radiation.

The Herald account says Morbin claimed one of the doctors attending his son told him, "The air over London is full of atomic radiation. Your boy is suffering from radiation."

It says the secretary of London's

'Save a Life' Classes Will Be Given Free

St. John Ambulance today announced that any person or any group wishing to learn artificial respiration could do so free during the week of May 13 to 18. Classes will also be continued into the following month if necessary.

During this period, known as St. John "Save A Life Week," two-hour classes will be provided free for those wishing to learn this life-saving technique.

In announcing the classes, Mrs. Edith Anderson, Supt. of St. John Ambulance Nursing Division No. 15, said: "These classes are especially valuable for those planning to spend their vacation near the water. St. John will also be glad to provide instructors to teach the two-hour course to groups such as service clubs, home and school organizations, women's clubs, school classes or neighborhood groups."

Between 900 to 1,000 people in Canada lose their lives each year in drowning accidents, Mrs. Anderson pointed out, while many more die from asphyxiation due to electric shock, poisons or poison gases. Many of these lives could be saved if more people knew artificial respiration, she said.

The classes are also useful as refresher courses for people who have learned the method before.

Those wishing to take a two-hour class may register by phoning WO 2-3035 or writing St. John Ambulance, 294 Front Street, Belleville.

Vatican Paper Raps Viscount's Reply to Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano Friday rapped Viscount Cherwell, British scientist who told the House of Lords two days ago that the Pope had fallen for the propaganda of Russian "peace."

Viscount Cherwell, wartime assistant to Sir Winston Churchill, said the Pope and Dr. Albert Schweitzer, whom he described as "both without scientific knowledge," had been "taken in by inaccurate propaganda of the friends of Russia."

He said arguments that nuclear tests endanger mankind are "unmitigated nonsense." He added that "thousands of people die every year as a result of accidents getting in and out of their baths," but that "no one suggests that we should stop having baths."

The Vatican newspaper described the bath comparison as "nonsense."

A Lift for Living

Time of Spiritual Overhauling

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

No doubt, most persons reading these lines would call themselves normal human beings. At least, we hate to be called abnormal. But what is it to be normal?

The late Prof. Karl Stolz of Hartford Seminary listed the fundamental characteristics of a normal person. First, he is engaged in a socially useful occupation. Second, he is wholesomely related to other people. Third, he is honest and capable enough to examine and improve himself. Fourth, he has a sympathetic understanding of others' situations. Fifth, he cultivates a tension-reducer in the form of an avocation or hobby. And sixth, he has a sound philosophy of life which gives meaning to his world and support to his morale.

These attributes might be called the six cylinders on which a normal person runs. But man is such a delicate mechanism one or more of these six may get out of order without his detecting it.

When our motorcars are not hitting on all cylinders, we soon discover it by the noise or lack of power. When our bodily organs are not functioning properly, we are usually made aware of it by pain; yet even in the care of our bodies we have learned disorders are often so subtle in their beginnings that many of us commit doctors occasionally to check up on trends and symptoms.

MINDS ARE DELICATE

But our minds are much more delicate than our bodies and their disorders are much more difficult to detect. A diseased tooth reveals itself by its ache, but a diseased mind may deceive us by a false comfort. A broken bone sends us to a surgeon, but a broken commandment may not even pain our conscience.

This spring season should be a time of spiritual overhauling when the great Physician of Nazareth examines these six cylinders of our spirits to see if they are normal. Let us just run over the six again with Him.

"First, are we engaged in an occupation which He would call socially useful according to His high standards of service? Are we helping to make human values as well as money and things?

Second, are we wholesomely related to other persons, or have we allowed some of our intimacies to become irritating and some of our social contacts to become sterile, even unhealthy? As we look over our friendships, we know when we have lost a loved one, but we are not always aware when we have lost our own loveliness. Christ can tell us.

Third, are we sufficiently honest and capable to examine and improve ourselves, or have we slipped into wishful thinking? Are we seeing ourselves through a glass darkly and not face to face? Have we been so constantly looking for Number One that we have failed to look at Number One? We need Christ to correct our view of ourselves.

ARE WE UNDERSTANDING

Fourth, how about our sympathetic understanding of others? Are the troubles of the time making us more tender or more callous? We often hear love is blind but in these days of bitterness we are more prone to be blinded by hatred than by love. How do our sympathies look in the light of Him who told the story of the Good Samaritan and commended to love our enemies? It requires prayerful imagination to understand what we would want done to us if we were in the places of those whose creed and culture differ from ours.

Fifth, what about these tension-reducers which relieve the strain of living? Hard-driven by our duties and harassed by our cares, have we learned the secret of Him who said, "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy-laden and I will give you rest"? We need the eight-hour day and the five-day week. That leaves 128 hours a week for rest and recreation. But are we using our leisure to recreate ourselves both in body and mind? There are four things we live by: work, play, love, worship. Are we attending to these in the right proportion?

And that sixth cylinder, a sound philosophy of life—who does not need God to help him put together the jigsaw puzzle into which recent events have ripped our world? Wars have changed the maps of the world; they have not changed the goals and purposes of life. We may not know where we shall be a year from now, but we all should know what kind of person we want to be a year from now or ten years from now. A normal person is "steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord knowing that as he knows that his labor is not in vain in the Lord."

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Mother's Day Ends Family Week

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, May 12 — Today in the national calendar of the United States is Mother's Day, officially proclaimed each year. The day is also celebrated in Canada and Mexico, and a few other countries, but without governmental sponsorship.

To the member denominations of the National Council of Churches, however, the emphasis will be on the whole family, not on Mother alone. The past week has been observed as National Family Week. Today the week is brought to its climax in the Festival of the Christian Home. Mothers will, of course, be honored, but the real point of the day is not just to pay a sentimental, tribute. The idea is rather to focus attention on the joint responsibility of church and home to maintain the spiritual health and welfare of the entire family.

This displacement of Mother as the chief feature of the day is not something forced by clergy and church authorities. It was the women's own ideas. The Festival of the Christian Home is sponsored by United Church Women.

AMERICA'S BIRTHDAY

Monday, May 13 — The Jamestown Festival, which began at Jamestown, Va., in April and will continue through November, is popularly called the celebration of the 350th birthday of America, because it commemorates the establishment, in 1607, of the first permanent community on this continent. The focal point of the eight-month festival is, of course, the anniversary of the actual landing, and that anniversary is today.

It is impossible to examine the details of this historic event without seeing that its religious significance far outweighs the political importance that will be stressed throughout the festival.

For here 13 years before the Pilgrims came to New England seeking religious liberty, there landed three boatloads of British pioneers whose stated purpose was . . . "the glory of God and the propagation of the Christian faith among them that sit in darkness."

These first American settlers were staunch and satisfied members of the Church of England. They were not rebelling against or fleeing from any worries about ecclesiastical tyranny at home. They were missionaries, bringing their traditional faith to the people of the unexplored new continent. Their intention is clearly seen in their first act on reaching the shore: the planting of a cross on the beach.

ROOTS OF THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Because these people were members of the Church of England, the Jamestown Festival is a matter of particular interest and pride to Episcopalians, who see their own historic roots in this first planting of organized religion in the New World. The Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, representing the "mother" and "daughter" churches, were at Jamestown to take part in the official opening of the Festival.

On June 16 the Bishop of London will be there to commemorate the first service of Holy Communion ever conducted on this continent. And sometime during the summer some member of the British royal family will be present, representing the Queen, who is the secular head of the Church of England.

The vast political consequences of the Jamestown landing should be minimized, but in those times church and state were not separated as they are in America today, and the ecclesiastical and political history of Jamestown cannot be considered as two distinct streams.

The pattern is not familiar to us in these times, but our pattern would have been just as strange to the Jamestown colonists. It was quite natural that when, in 1619, the New World's first legislative assembly met, the meeting place was Jamestown church.

HAND-MADE CIGARETS BEST IN NORTH

Northern Ontario has had an early taste of its annual ordeal by fire, as the result of an extremely dry spring.

The London Free Press, noting that the first bush fire of the year in the Sudbury district has been blamed on "an unknown rogue" who flipped the butt of his cigaret through a window, declares that "the cigaret is so great a menace to the forests of Northern Ontario that it is not unreasonable to suggest that everyone going into the bushland in summer be searched for cigarets."

What is true of Northern Ontario holds good, also, for the northern section of our own county. The Tweed office of the Department of Lands and Forests reports that 25 fires were reported and extinguished in the district last week, with eleven of these being blamed on carelessness by bush travellers and fishermen, who failed to extinguish their smokes. One would be safe in presuming that most, if not all, of these eleven fires were caused by "tailor-made" cigarets.

A ban on cigarets in bush country would be difficult to enforce. But if "hand-made" cigarets are substituted for the "tailor-made" variety, the danger is greatly decreased. Most smokers have, at one time or another, rolled their own cigarets, either by hand or by one of the ingenious little machines which were so popular during the war years, when cigaret taxes were first increased. These smokers know by experience that a home-made cigaret has a tendency to go out easily. Unless one keeps puffing, it will require almost as many matches to keep alight as will a pipeful of tobacco.

Not everybody can roll a cigaret by hand; not everybody has a machine for doing the chore. But it should be possible to duplicate the process in a factory; quite possibly all that is required is the use of a different kind of paper from that in the present factory-made brands, or the omission of a process designed to keep them burning evenly. Then legislation could be passed making it illegal to smoke the free-burning brands in the bush, and possibly prohibiting their sale in northern districts. This would be much easier, and probably almost as effective, as endeavoring to enforce the outright ban on cigarets which the London Free Press suggests.

TV MAY BECOME STEREOTYPED

Television executives are shuffling the pack and nobody seems to know exactly what kind of a hand TV viewers will be dealt next fall.

There are certain to be many changes, though. A number of shows which have failed to stack up well in the ratings are headed for the ash-can. These are said to include such widely different offerings as "Hey, Jeannie," "Noah's Ark," "The Buccaneers," "Bengal Lancers" and "On Trial."

Perhaps none of these shows attracted big audiences, but all of them won loyal followers who will be greatly disappointed at their disappearance.

If all TV shows are to be designed to attract the largest number of listeners, will there not come a time when they are all very much alike? Is there no way in which TV, like newspapers and magazines, can offer something for everybody?

Restaurants unquestionably have a greater demand for roast beef than for oysters or chop suey, but if roast beef were the only thing on the menu there would be a lot of unhappy people. The same will be true if all TV shows are cast in the same mold.

NEW YORK TIMES SCORES AGAIN

Additional proof of that fact, if such were needed, has been called to our attention by the Cornwall Standard Freeholder.

"On the whole," admits the Standard Freeholder, "this is exceptionally well done."

Then, a couple of paragraphs later, it complains: "As often happens in publicity issued by the province, the impression is that Ontario ends around Belleville."

Yes, sir!

And starts here, too.

CANADIAN FISH EXPORTS

Sales of Canadian fish to 80 foreign countries reached a record $133.7 million last year, despite a smaller salmon pack and a drop in shipments of salt fish. As usual, the United States took about half the output, but the quantities shipped to Europe and the Caribbean area decreased. Sales abroad of fresh and frozen fish, fishmeal, canned lobster and canned sardines gained. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

EXAMPLE

I do not ask through life to be
From every care and burden free.
I'll be content if Time will tell
That I have tried to bear them well.

Since no instructions come with birth,
I had to learn the way to worth
From other's deeds, since I was free
To choose what seemed the best for me.

To many credit I must give
For teaching me the way to live
And letting it be plainly seen
How much both faith and courage mean.

I wonder is it God's design
That many lives should blend with mine,
That I should try my whole life through
As other men have done, to do?

Their Talk Not Scandal

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Two women were in conversation the other day in Grand Rapids, Michigan when one end of the line seemed to go dead. From the efforts by the women at the other end of the line failed to get any response.

She rushed out to the nearest street corner and told the patrolman on duty that her party line had perished.

Patrolman Delbert Mehrley reported that when he went to the home of the other woman he found the receiver off the telephone.

Mrs. Roland B. Urban, the woman who reported the incident, was apparently doing most of the talking. But when her friend Mrs. Nancy A. Scott failed to respond to questions, she became alarmed.

What they were discussing is the lengthy conversation has not been disclosed, but it is quite evident that it was not of a sordid scandal or the other woman wouldn't have gone to sleep.

Interest Is Interesting

Christian Science Monitor

Most consumers have some idea of what they are paying for most of the things they buy—food, gasoline, movie tickets, or electric light bills—but few buyers have much attention to what they pay for credit. And in the budget of the average American family these days of buying cars, refrigerators, washing machines, sewing machines, clothing, and vacation trips on the installment plan, the interest charge is no longer a negligible item.

The report of 311 families in an Illinois community recently it was found that two out of three did not know the annual finance charges they were paying, either in dollars or percentage, on their latest installment purchases. The staff of the Federal Reserve Board found the indifference is widespread, but believes part of the confusion is due to a variety of methods of calculating charges or discounts.

The new York State Legislature has enacted a law which requires sellers on all installment or credit purchases to itemize the finance charges, to list separately the insurance or other charges, and to show the rate in terms of dollars per $100 per year — in other words, percentage. Limits also are set on the interest cost. The law exempts lending agencies, credit accounts at department stores, and purchases made by small-loan companies. On these the interest is stated on a monthly basis, and may range up to 1½ per cent a month (equal to 18 per cent a year) on the unpaid balance.

One point not always remembered by installment plan buyers is that if interest is figured on the amount borrowed, that amount is reduced by each regular payments. Hence the average amount outstanding for the year is less than one half the original sum; and what may be quoted as 6 per cent interest on the purchase price amounts to 12 per cent on the average outstanding balance. The simple way to determine the rate in such cases is to divide the finance charge by half the amount that is financed or borrowed.

Tax Collector Is Big Loser

Montreal Gazette

Robert Strom, 10, of the Bronx, has quit the tax collecting business after winning the highest prize total in broadcasting history, $192,000. If he had accepted just another $64,000 "plateau" he would not have risked losing it, but his parents persuaded him to quit. The strain was too much—for the parents, for them.

"There was no effect on Rob," said his father, a vocational school teacher, "but his mother and I were feeling a strain because we had to try each week to prepare him for the possibility of losing."

"Well," sighed Rob, "what can you do with parents?"

Perhaps the story should end right there, leaving the whole family in a welter of unhappy possibilities. It could end in the favorite style of the soap-operas announcer:

"Will Rob try to do something with parents? Will Rob's parents try to do something with him? Listen again tomorrow for the next exciting chapter of 'The Winners Always Lose'."

Parents of prodigy children will shed no tears; child prodigies are usually a disappointment later, until they become middle-aged mediocrities—and, astonishingly, marry someone who doesn't appreciate them.

Anyway, even if Rob had won the other $64,000 he would only have been able to keep a third of it. The real weepers at Rob's decision are the Internal Revenue boys; they would have collected another $25,000 or so to add to the $108,576 that Rob already owes them.

Politicians In TV Roles

Ottawa Journal

Last week Canadians had an opportunity of seeing and observing two party leaders — Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mr. Diefenbaker — electioneering on TV.

It was an interesting study.

The speaking techniques of TV and the platform are entirely apart.

On the platform, what is called the hustings, the "art of persuasion" permits of all sorts of antics; the ruling rhetorical passage, the epigram, the trick of refuting with a nod, damning with an inflection. The orator may "let himself go".

With TV it is different; the speaker is now entering a home, and if he is to get a hearing and make the right impression he must enter it with grace and good manners. People sitting by their fireides do not want to be treated as a public meeting.

Mr. St. Laurent understands this. Never at any time a stormy orator, he attunes himself to TV. He sits by his desk as though he were addressing a few people who had dropped in to see him in his office. He would be better, perhaps, if he did not stick so closely to his manuscript and permitted (which he refuses) some of his "make-up" technicians—who almost always insist on. But all in all Mr. St. Laurent is good; not a TV "star" but a TV speaker but competent.

Mr. Diefenbaker is a TV "natural"; relaxed, soft-spoken, yet always with a touch of the actor. On the platform Mr. Diefenbaker is tempestuous, evangelical, rhetorical, the fiery leader. On TV he is the man who has just dropped in for a quiet chat with his neighbor, politely persuasive, gracefully earnest, forgetting about notes or manuscript, and occasionally reclining against the table in a casual folksy way.

But the Journal, never much for election gadgets, would advise the Liberals that they, as well as Mr. St. Laurent for their TV uses, find the Conservatives to Mr. Diefenbaker.

For we have seen on other TV users of both parties who seem to say the least, pretty terrible.

Politics No Sideline

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

One of Canada's ablest parliamentarians, Senator Arthur Roy ("Chubby") Power, the wartime Minister of National Defence for Air and pre-eminently a child of the House of Commons, has written some words of great wisdom on the subject. In the Queen's Quarterly, he has compared what has suitable to a man's life in boyhood days and what is required today.

It was good enough 50 years ago, he says, for a constituency to elect a fine gentleman as its squire, a part-time political amateur who would spend one month of months in Ottawa each year, make a speech or two—and then forget about the constituency until this is not good enough in this day when public business cannot be understood, much less managed, by ignorant amateurs as a sideline. He says that men who can hardly manage their own business affairs are being authorized to decide on a national budget running into billions.

This is his advice to the electors: "The selection of a representative should be made on account of the competence of the applicant and his full understanding of the whole problem of government, not because he is a leader of clubs and lodges, a bell-ringer, a constant attendant at civic receptions and a front-rank member at funerals. The position of M.P. has ceased to be an honorary one; it is a worker's job."

RELIGION IS PRACTICAL

Religion to have any value must be practical. But what is practical? Many think about God and His relationship to the world, it does us no good whatsoever unless we trust Him in our personal lives and adhere to His principles in accordance with our fellows.

Some people keep their religion in a tight compartment separated from all the practical circumstances of their lives. They regard religion as one of life's embellishments. It is something to which they give their attention on Sunday, it is associated with a book written thousands of years ago and called the Bible. But it has nothing to do, apparently, with their business dealings, their social life, their friendships, or their politics.

It was said of one great religious leader who organized the political and social life of his community, that he was as much interested in plumbing as he was in preaching. He believed that religion

Who Would Pay For An Ounce of Prevention?

Having studied health exclusively for more than half of my life time, I believe I qualify as an expert on health. I do not imply that when it comes to a question of health or hygiene that I'm all out of step but me.

In my long career as a P.H.D. (Doctor of Personal Health), a degree I invented for myself, I have devised several systems for the prevention of, or cure of, what I call chronic joint disability — the degeneration I call rheumatism and the businessmen of medicine call "arthritis"!

Unfortunately, these techniques or remedies which I recommend are not medicine at all. Can't expect to derive any benefit from them if you try them in a few weeks and then discontinue as you might do with medicine. You must continue taking them for the rest of your life.

It seems easier to sell the Yankee public a carload of tranquilizers or a barrel of barbiturates than it is for a physician to accept an ounce of prevention.

I'm pretty sure no reputable physician will say that any drug or medicine will do so. For instance, has any of the endless succession of wonder drugs which the trick specialists and "clinick" racketeers feed their paying customers from a single case of acute or chronic joint disability — the degeneration I call rheumatism and the businessmen of medicine call "arthritis"?

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FOR THE DAY ONLY

Why do we borrow the troubles and problems of tomorrow, or all of tomorrow now, when we all know they may be settled right on today—if we will but try and determination to work and turn to faith. Dr. Coler puts it this way: "It is the practice of living for the day only, and for the day's work, like a day-light compartments."

Our only definite assurance we have is this day. How important, then, it is for each one of us to live the best "in the best way we know, and let Tomorrow take care of itself. Most of us anticipate too much—like Micawber, the Dickens character, who thinks that something good will turn up for us. Mostly the worries of today never occur tomorrow.

Carlyle put it this way: "Our main business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand." There may never be a tomorrow! It is a "out to do!

comforting thought for us to feel as we live and love happily and sincerely—today. To do so is to set before us the opportunity for a habit that may never leave us stranded and alone.

By concentrating upon a clear and inspiring way of life, we set up a program that will bless all our future acts and achievements.

No need for worries, either, for with the best in us there is room to let them in! Worries are too unimportant. The only way tomorrow is a truly constructive way of life, a way that can be a pattern for others, outside ourselves.

Every morning, upon awakening, determine to let the idea of living the day only, allowing no one to divert you from your decision to make each day notable and complete in itself. Blessings that will flow from this, and the zest for life will result, and give you pride in all that you set out to do!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When the tragic is elusive and hard to define, it is somehow more revealing than plain cut-and-out tragedy that is over and done with in full view and in simple terms. One of the elusive tragedies of our present time is that involving the whooping crane. There were twenty-four of them left in the whole world, one of the most countless that they bewildered the human mind. Nuttall, in 1811, described their migration in the Mississippi Valley, "the bustle and passage of the feathered armies struck the mind with wonder."

They are a tall and spectacular bird, five feet in height, snow white, and the clangor of their voices can be heard often as high as to be hardly visible, was a sound the pioneers knew better than the pioneers know the twittering of the wild geese that remain. Most redeeming of all you to suppose they were a western bird. But the first settlers along the Atlantic coast reported them in great multitude, and slaughtered them because they ate the corn. They were easy targets, despite their wariness. When the West opened up, no one seemed believed that the whooping crane would be diminished in less extermination, so vast was their number. Cultivation of the land and draining of swamps is believed to be the reason for their decline. But that must be other factors.

Today, twenty-four of them, carefully counted, remain, and the elusive tragic quality of their story now begins to emerge. These birds get the name in newspapers and magazines and radio that you would expect of royalty or movie stars. Every precaution known to the continent is intensely interested in every scrap of news about them. They were yearly from Aransas, Texas to their nesting ground in northwestern Canada and the Territory. Laws have been passed to protect them, special associations and commissions have been organized to study them and help them, and the end of it all would fail to print a news item on them, photographs of them who printed, and a special postage stamp was dedicated to them.

The big battle in scientific circles is whether to let this last flock of them take the back of nature or to trap them and offer them at the zoos and breeding and hatching them and multiplying them, in captivity.

Despite all this excitement, the vast majority of the public knows little and cares less about the whooping crane. It is another little novelty of the news. Public consciousness is not touched, much less aroused. Where is the tragedy? Is it the drama, or man's?

The Face on the Stamp

Pioneer in Field of Modern Science

by Nicholas Mika

Believe it or not, but four hundred years ago everyone, including scientists, thought that the earth was the centre of the universe. And what more, they were convinced that evolution was only possible on the earth and that the rest of the universe was unchangeable and perfect as it was created by God. Well, but there was a young Italian in Padua, who simply disbelieved what the professors taught him and was bold enough to tell them so. He also said that for a thousand years people had been misled by their searching for truth, he broke the old theory that the speed of a falling body is in direct ratio to its weight. He claimed that it was not true that a body which weighs a hundred pounds will fall a hundred times faster than a body weighing one pound. It sounded logical though. According to his theory it was far from reality. To prove that he was right, he gave a public demonstration from the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Curious and sceptical spectators gathered to watch this man, who was either a complete fool or a genius, dropping a hundred pound weight and a one pound weight from the tower.

He is crazy! exclaimed the professors as they stood among the students to watch his defeat. But only seconds later they were full of speechless, when they saw the two weights reaching the ground simultaneously. It was a brilliant triumph that not only changed the fundamental of the law of gravity but established the young man's reputation as one of the greatest scientists.

UNUSUAL MAN

He was indeed a very unusual man. With his achievements and discoveries as mathematician, astronomer and physicist he paved the way to modern science. His most magnificent discovery was his argument that not the sun was moving around the earth, but that the earth itself was moving.

To penetrate the endless space, he built the first telescope one night after night studied the stars and planets. A few months later he made another sensational discovery. He prophesied the birth of a new star and also the time when it would vanish from the sky into obscurity. . . The Milky Way shining brightly on the dark sky he proved for the first time to be composed of many individual stars. He also was the first man who with his most primitive telescope investigated the moon and came to the conclusion that the moon had mountains and seas just like the earth. Some stars we see, he said, are actually gone and what we see with our eye are only traces of their light.

Two of his telescopes that opened for the first time the skies to the eye of man, are still to be seen in a museum in Florence in Italy. Compared with modern telescopes they seem almost useless, but in his time people travelled hundreds of miles to see this marvellous instrument and gaze at the stars.

To the science of medicine he gave the thermometer and an instrument to measure the beat of the pulse. He lectured for nearly twenty years at the university of Padua and enjoyed the reputation of being a brilliant conversationalist and a friendly man whose house was always open to students.

All his marvellous discoveries brought him fame, but also dangerous conflicts with authorities who took his teachings as a sin and offense against religious beliefs. Dragged before the Inquisition as an heretic, he tried to defend his theories, but the fear of dreadful punishment crushed his will. With trembling lips he denied his statement that the earth was moving around he sun. He was humiliated. His spirit never recovered. A few years later one of the greatest scientists died. BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

BIRDS AND WEATHER

The most important, and sometimes the most devastating factor in bird migration is weather. Storms of spring and fall take an enormous toll. It was the extreme cold of April and May 1956 that proved to be absolutely disastrous, ruining the food supply of birds, and destroying insects that depend upon flying insects for their existence.

A cold air mass from the Polar regions spread down over eastern Canada and the U.S., almost as far as the Gulf of Mexico. There it lay at the very period when the early migrants, always eager to keep their appointments, were on their way. Authorities state that birds are aware of on-coming storms before we are, and take refuge wherever it is immediately possible. But this time they were caught before they got to shelter. Worse than that, for birds are able to withstand quite low temperatures, none of this sort was available.

Late spring frosts and record lows delayed the leafing out of trees and shrubs. This took the leaves and the intense cold either killed the larvae or kept insects from developing. Songbirds were arriving in vast numbers — but there was nothing for flycatchers to eat. Reports from bird watchers poured into the offices of the bird societies throughout a wide area.

MANY STARVED

Scarlet tanagers, birds of the treetops, were found in New York stores and apartment houses trying to pick up crumbs, because there were no wasps, caterpillars, beetles, bugs, or moths. In the Chicago district, Baltimore orioles, warblers, and vireos were seen feeding on anything edible they could find, even suet put out for rose-breasted grosbeaks and indigo buntings were scattered on highway surfaced. Purple martins returned to their own private apartment houses in Canada only to discover that there were no flying insects; so they, too, starved to death. Large flocks of barn swallows, no better off, tried to perch under porch roofs, but perished from starvation. Blackburnian warblers, ordinarily singing from the tops of the tallest trees, hopped on the ground in their Laurentian homeland, doing their best to find some insects there, as there were none higher up.

In short, the dearth of insects was responsible for the death of multitudes of small birds. This, in turn, resulted in fewer families. The drop in numbers leaving Canada in the autumn was very apparent, from western Ontario to the Atlantic. Authorities tell us it may take three years for some of the species to recover fully.

Police Blotter

A smooth working thief last night picked the lock of an Albert street home and escaped with a diamond ring and $28 in cash.

Police said that the occupant of the home had locked the door leaving the key half turned in the lock before retiring for the night. It is believed the thief in some manner shoved the key out of the door then used his own key to open the door. Value of the diamond ring was not estimated for police.

Others on both city and provincial police reported a quiet night and even the, customary Friday evening imbibers were conspicuous by their absence. Neither provincial nor city police reported any motor accidents.

Bad Compression May Be Cause of Engine Trouble

By EUGENE MILMOE

Faulty compression may be the right diagnosis if, despite tune-ups, your engine remains lazy, rough and hard on gas and oil. The idea is to find out where and why compression is poor.

A quick test by your service station will turn up the cylinder(s) with abnormally low pressure. The more notorious causes are worn valves and piston rings: valves don't seat tightly or rings no longer seal as they should. Sometimes, defective valve springs are guilty.

If neither valve nor ring trouble is indicated, the mechanic will be on the lookout for such things as damaged cylinder head and spark plug gaskets, and loose cylinder head bolts.

An increase in compression can also signal poor engine health. Heavy carbon deposits will bring on the trouble.

B.E. asks: "Two months ago, shortly after I bought a used 1953 sedan, I began to hear a growling sound from the rear and whenever I made a left turn. Then it began on right turns. What do you think it is?"

It's differential trouble. Better have your repair station check it.

V.H. writes: "My car trouble is a very peculiar one. It starts with one cylinder and more shotgun noises from the muffler one day. After that everything went OK, then last weekend it happened again three or four times. We inspected the ignition system and cleaned up the plugs., but yesterday there were a few more explosions. What sets this car?"

(A) Muffler explosions can occur at irregular intervals if the condenser is beginning to give way. Try a replacement or have your present condenser tested and its lead wire checked.

From S.L.: "My 1953 hardtop was the liveliest car on the road at one time. Now the engine seems to hit a flat spot and just won't respond like it used'to. If I jam down on the throttle, it lags before gradually picking up speed. The fuel pump has only been on the car about four months now, so I'm sure the pressure is all right. A station attendant told me to have the carburetor checked over. Do you suppose it is the carburetor?"

(A) The carburetor is probably the leading offender where such troubles are concerned. Have your mechanic check it, especially the float level and accelerator pump action.

L.Z. writes: "I own a 1956 two-door model which comes with power transmission. Ever since I got the car three months ago, the transmission seems to take hold very suddenly and roughly when the car starts from a standstill. Otherwise, it works well and has lots of steady power. Can anything be done about this or should I forget it?"

(A) This can happen when the engine idle speed is too high. Why not have it double-checked?

SAFETY IS NO ACCIDENT

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Retirement Can Be Happy, Fruitful Rather Than an Insecure Survival

By THOMAS COLLINS

Here is a retirement problem that has been posed by a reasonably successful United States businessman and his wife:

The man will retire next Sept. 1 at age 65 — It's compulsory. His pension and the combined Social Security he and his wife will get will total $227.50 a month. This is considerably more than most people get, yet this man's problem is about the same as that of the man who gets $125.

His resources are just under $1,400 in savings bonds, $2,800 in cash value on his life insurance, and a house with "a lot of mortgage on it." A lot to him is $4,187.

"I think what we own is considerable," he says. "All these people who talk about having more are trying to kid somebody — or else they're mighty lucky."

He thinks he can refinance his $4,187 mortgage so he can pay it at the rate of $50 a month, including taxes. He reasons that is cheap housing, and it will leave him enough left for a margin. With a pension, he believes he and his wife can see themselves through on it. It's his problem, but it's complex. A hospitalization insurance policy and a $5,000 life insurance policy which he has through his company will expire the day he retires. He is worried also—and this is his big problem — about retiring to "a mere existence."

"There are no Golden Years in mere survival," he says. "So what can we do with it? I do not contend that will make our lives fruitful and joyful but that will release us from the fear of getting sick?"

UNIVERSAL PROBLEM

Here is the universal problem of retirement in 1957 America and Canada. It's no longer food and clothing, shelter and government care of those. It's what to do. It's what to do on restricted income, and in the face of all sorts of prejudices against people past 65.

There is no pat answer, because the talents of each retired person are different. But for this businessman and for the rest of you facing over his same problem, here are some suggestions:

1. Go to your insurance company and see if you can get a "$50 Deductible" major medical policy, like the collision policy on your car. You can afford that.

2. Decide what productive work you love best. Everybody loves something — pictures, gardening, raising flowers, adding figures, making clay ash trays, selling, tinkering with mechanical things, making music, or something. Turn this thing, whatever it is, into a business. Don't mess around with a hobby.

From the U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D.C., and from your local library you can get a million dollars' worth of free advice on how to make money from this or that thing. It may be a mail-order business. It may be a franchise deal. It may be the supplying of a product or a service to a business house, a garage, or a grocery in a Canadian town.

And if it is something you real-

Drivers Given Annual Awards For Safe Driving

The employees of Direct-Winters Transport Limited, in city and colbourne branches gathered recently at Lattimer's Town Room for their annual dinner and representation of driving awards.

Representatives of the Company, the Traffic Safety Association of the Workmens' Compensation Board and Markel Services of Canada, were on hand to extend their congratulations to the individual drivers on completion of one to eleven years of non-accident driving, while engaged in both city and highway driving. In various short addresses to the men the emphasis was placed on their contribution over the years to the campaign for more safety on the highways to cut down the ever mounting toll of accidents, so many of which are caused by lack of courtesy and lack of consideration.

The awards consist of buttons denoting the number of years of accident-free driving. After the second year they feature radios, electrical appliances and items which can be used in the home by the family. Markel Services also donated a gold wrist bracelet for the wives of men without accident for five years. It is hoped that they contribute much to the effort of the individual driver.

Awards were presented to Belleville drivers, J. R. Downey 9, W. H. Denyes 11, S. B. Wright 11, Gordon 5, E. Christopher 5, E. Fitzgibbon 5, G. Lewis 4, F. Heffernan 4, G. Proctor 2, and H. Dovey 1 year. To Cobourg drivers, B. McIntee 10, J. Grieve 5, H. Nixon 3, and J. Raiborn 2 years.

Representing 86 percent of eligible employees, the men have an enviable reputation, one of which they and their employers are justly proud.

Garden Notes

Well Planned Garden Pays Dividends

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A well-planned garden pays off in cash and health dividends. With good planning you can harvest vegetables every month of the growing season, not just lettuce in May and tomatoes and corn in August.

Planning can save you money by insuring you against planting too much of one thing. Your family can use just so much. The excess goes to waste, and is using land that could be used for other vegetables which would afford greater variety in your meals. Much of what you plant depends, of course, on what your family likes. Then too garden fresh vegetables may be up to 50 percent higher in nutrition than those bought in store or market.

If you have a small garden 20x 25 feet, or as an average city plot, here is a suggested plan. This layout will give you a good variety of vegetables throughout the whole season. You can modify this to suit yourself by planning more of the ones you like and leaving out the one you dislike.

Notice sweet corn is not included. It takes up a good deal of space, if you plan to leave six feet between the rows with each plant eight inches apart in the row. If you like squash plant it with the corn. It can ramble around between the rows.

One packet of each of the direct seeded vegetables will be enough for this size garden. Buy tomatoes, broccoli, cabbage, and pepper plants from the market, or greenhouse. If this is your first garden rely on your local seed store recommendations as to the best varieties of seed. Read the descriptions and try the new varieties which have won awards. They have been thoroughly tested.

H'AVY FEEDERS

Vegetables are heavy feeders and both organic and chemical are ways high in nutrients. You can spade in 25 pounds of balanced fertilizer while you dig up the garden, or apply it as a side dressing to each row. Vegetables need regular pest control. One of the new insecticide-fungicide dusts or sprays will take care of most bugs and diseases that attack your plants. Keep weeds under control, they use plant food and water and play host to disease and insects which can spread to the vegetables. In dry spells a weekly soaking is necessary. Tender flavorsome vegetables need plenty of moisture.

Rows for garden 20 by 25 feet—

Pole beans 10 at two feet apart, carrots 10 feet, beets 10 feet, tomatoes early 10 at two feet apart, string beans 20 feet, tomatoes late variety 10 at two feet apart, broccoli 13 at one and a half feet apart, New Zealand spinach 10 feet, six peppers at one and a half feet apart, leaf lettuce 10 feet, radishes 10 feet, chard 10 feet, onion sets 100 two and a half inches apart, late carrots 10 feet, beets 10 feet, cabbage seven at one and a half feet apart, "a" beets 10 feet, carrots 10 feet, beets 10 feet, late cabbage seven at one and a half feet apart, cauliflower seven at one and a half feet apart, string or butter beans 20 feet, peas 10 feet, Chinese cabbage eight feet.

Read the labels on all spray material. Some of the new general purpose sprays should not be used on edible portions of vegetables and fruit.

Wacky Party Raises Fund For Orchestra

OTTAWA (CP) — Certain sections of the capital were still rocking a little today after its annual wacky plunge into spring.

Friday night's gentleman party took the lid off a classical musical folk tale, had Governor-General Massey shooting at candles with a water pistol and jammed the barn-like coliseum with nearly 3,000 party-goers,

Sponsored by the women's committee of the Ottawa Philharmonic to raise funds for the orchestra, a musical-dramatic skit on Peter and the Wolf by Russian composer Prokoffev took top billing.

Down games alley, the governor-general emptied two water pistols at three lighted, floating candles and walked away with a package of seeds and a lily bulb. He put out the candles.

WINS CHICKEN

At the darts booth, Mr. Massey won a chicken and then tossed a few darts in the direction of cigarets.

Peter and the Wolf had Lorne Greene as narrator.

The costumed cast featured photographer Yousuf Karsh as Peter, Former mayor Charlotte Whitton wended and flipped as a duck. Author Nicholas Monsarrat was a cat and Walter Herbert, Canada Foundation director, a bird. Lawrence Freiman, Ottawa businessman and orchestra director, played the wolf.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

NEW YORK CITY — Many, many times have I heard about New York's philosophical taxi drivers. They have not disappointed me. On the way in from Idlewild Airport, the colored driver, in a soft, deep resonant voice, was pointing out districts and places of interest.

At one point he said, "And we're comin' to a place where you can breathe free, ma'am." There on the right was a very crowded cemetery.

He continued, "I've been thinkin' 'bout that. They say it we're good Christians we'd be ready to go anytime. But I don't know. I de-fi-nitely do not know. But I'm givin' it some thought, yes ma'am."

Later in the day another driver asked, "Are you from England, lady?" We talked a bit about accents here and in the old country and in Canada. He wound up by saying, "Well, if the Lord had made us all alike, it would be pretty monotonous, wouldn't it?"

It is a funny thing about our Canadian accent. Evidently it is a pleasant one to listen to, but we can even be relative. For, many years ago in England, it was always, "You're an American, aren't you?"

Now here in New York it is just, "You're very around—but never a Canadian. Surely we are not that nondescript!

Night sounds and curiosity. Listening to the city sounds after retiring, I was surprised to recognize, above the general rumble, the soft cooing of pigeons near my window. I had supposed birds slept at night—but they say this city never sleeps.

Suddenly, and I imagine inevitably, there was the sharp, long wail of a siren. I wanted very badly wanted to know what, of a thousands possible things, was happening. But I hadn't a chance of knowing. At home I would have found out right away, or made a point of finding out the following morning.

Maybe this is just one of the differences between big city living and small city living —the curiosity of the latter and the probably necessary lack of curiosity in the former.

It was a very great pleasure while in New York City to have a visit with Miss Dorothy Potts, who was director of the School of Nursing at the Belleville General Hospital a few years ago. From there she went to the hospital in Dacca, East Pakistan, under the auspices of the World Health Organization.

This past year she was given a year's leave of absence as a scholarship for further study at Columbia University. Now Miss Potts has to have an appointment to one of four places to do field work—the Sudan, Iraq, Singapore or Mauritius. One of those places is going to be very fortunate to have the exceptional service of

Constant Attention Necessary For Safety on Super-highways

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

If your car seems to be looking at you longingly now that spring is here for fair, take heed before you hop in to a few hints that may come in handy during this traveling season:

A word, first of all, about the rash of new superhighways that are opened for business since last summer. There'll be more every year, too, so you'll do well to learn the special techniques of driving on them. They're as different from old-fashioned town-and-county two-lane highway driving as city driving is.

The big problems come from boredom and the almost irresistible temptation to speed.

There's not much you can do about the first one except get the hang of staying alert even when you're not forced to. Listen to the radio to keep awake, but don't get so absorbed that your attention is distracted from the road. Vary your speed frequently and deliberately so as to get a new freshness and if you get sleepy, which is almost inevitable, pull off the road and nap. Until all other car steadily; it has a hypnotic effect.

SLOW-MOVING TRUCKS

Many superhighway accidents occur from cars ramming slow-moving trucks. Don't ever let this be one of them. Be aware that you see one in the distance remember that it may be crawling even though you can't tell, and give him a wide berth. This is a particular danger at night, because it is unusually difficult to judge the speed of a car from a dim taillight.

The cloverleafs which lead on to and off of modern superhighways are oblong rather than circular, which means that turns in them are rather sharp. If you fail to slow up on them—they're designed that way to encourage you to—you can have some harrowing moments.

As for speeding, you may get an expensive education if you do. Keeping the temptations and dangers of these roads better than you, police are cracking down unmercifully. No warnings, and few fines are less than $25. All these roads are heavily patrolled, especially from now through summer.

The dangers of driving at dusk —always great because visibility is poor and eyes are deceiving —are compounded on these highways. Use special care in many areas that require speed and depth perception and for pete's sake, turn on your headlights if you're not paying an electric bill on them.

Here's a money-saving idea: If your car is older than a 1955, with a high-powered one in its day, or is more recent but not high-powered, you can undoubtedly use regular grade gas.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT ABOUT "GOING STEADY"?

"Going steady" is something so very much in the spotlight today that it's time, I think, for me to set down a statement of the way I feel about it, safely on a point of departure, a couple of letters from the voluminous mail that comes to me on the subject.

Let me preface a discussion of these letters with the following general remarks:

"Going steady" is lots of fun. There's no doubt about that.

There's nothing pleasanter than to feel that there is someone with whom you come first; someone who keeps waiting for you every day so that you never have to wonder where your next date is coming from.

On the other hand, going too steady can have its drawbacks. When a boy and a girl are going together so constantly that they preclude all other friends, there are many disadvantages. Neither of them will believe it, of course, while the concentrated friendship lasts, but the truth is that the day almost certainly will come when one tires of the other, or both of them become irked by being tied down to one person. Then the "going steady" is off, with someone usually badly hurt.

The first of the letters I'm going to discuss is from a girl of 19, who has been "going steady" with a boy for over two years.

"We made the mistake of seeing each other every night," she writes, "and now he tells me that he wants to see more of other boys and girls, although he says he still loves me and I believe him. Please don't tell me ours is just puppy love, because I've gone out with other boys and all I think of is him."

Just how this girl has "gone out with other boys" is a mystery to me, when by her own account she has been going out with one single boy exclusively for over two years. Whatever she means, however, I have just two to say on that point:

I think she should take herself in hand, have a little will power, and tell her steady that she's willing to have him see other friends on certain nights and she will do the same.

So what if she does keep thinking about him when she's out with others? The best way for both herself and the boy friend is to find out whether they really do care for each other is to be apart some of the time. For then they will either find their devotion has real meaning to it and come together again, or they'll gradually drift apart and each will become interested in someone else. She's admitted that it was a mistake to see each other every night so why shouldn't she learn from that mistake and try the other way, as her boy friend already wants to do?

The 19-year-old girl who writes the second letter I mentioned, is sensible enough to be thinking along these same lines even before either she or her steady boy friend has shown signs of wanting to break off. She writes:

"Because my boy friend, with whom I've been going for eight months, comes to see me almost every night, my parents think that we won't be going together very much longer. They say we're going to get tired of each other.

"Do you think I should tell this boy, in a nice way, not to come over as much as he has been doing? I like him very much and don't want us to get tired of each other, as my parents say we will."

If the letter is reading this column today, she'll understand that what I've just said where applies to her, and that I think she would be very smart to suggest to the boy friend that both of them should be free to see other friends if they wish. For, contrary to what most teenagers seem to believe, it's a whole lot easier to find out how much you really like a person when you're not seeing him—or her—from morning to night every day.

SAVE YOUR KISSES, DOUBTFUL!

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 15 years old and have gone out with a boy a year older than myself a few times. After my third date with him he tried to kiss me, but I refused, because my mother had said I shouldn't kiss a boy.

He going to a prom with him shortly and I'd like to know whether or not I should kiss him good night. — Doubtful

Dear Doubtful:

It always seems to me a happier thing if girls let boys know that they want to save their kisses for that Someone who is going to mean everything to them when they are older. To kiss just for the fun of kissing is a little cheap, don't you think?

It would be silly, of course, to make a big thing of it if a boy wants to kiss you, so just pass it off lightly with something short and simple like "I'm not the kissing type!"

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

AWAKE, MY SOUL, TO TUNEFUL LAYS

Awake, my soul, to tuneful lays
And sing Thy great Redeemer's praise;
He justly claims a song from me:
His loving kindness, O how free!
Loving kindness, loving kindness,
His loving kindness, O how free!

He saw me ruined by the fall,
Yet loved me, notwithstanding all;
He saved me from my lost estate:
His loving kindness, O how great!
Loving kindness, loving kindness,
His loving kindness, O how great!

When trouble, like a gloomy cloud,
Has gathered thick, and thundered loud,
He near my soul has always stood:
His loving kindness, O how good!
Loving kindness, loving kindness,
His loving kindness, O how good!

"I will mention the loving-kindness of the Lord," the Old Testament prophet, Isaiah, supplied the Bible "text" on which Samuel Medley, distinguished English Baptist clergyman, built his most beautiful hymn. Its verses are reproduced above. Written soon after Medley's conversion, the hymn is said to have been inspired by the poet's long search for Christian experience and his gratitude for having been led to Christ.

A native of Hertfordshire, England, the future hymnist and minister enjoyed Christian boyhood influences. Later, however, he lost his touch with the church and became a wayward youth. At 18 he joined the English Navy and, participating in the Seven Years' War, was gravely wounded in a brush with the French Navy off Cape Lagos.

The surgeon of the ship on which Medley was serving told the young seaman that he would have to amputate a shattered limb to save his life. The operation was ordered for the following morning and young Medley spent most of the intervening night in prayer. When the surgeon appeared at the appointed hour, he was amazed to discover that the lad's leg was mending. He cancelled plans for the amputation and told Medley that his injured limb could be saved.

That was the beginning of the sailor lad's spiritual transformation. A few weeks later, in London, his grandfather read to him from one of Dr. Isaac Watts' sermons. The discourse was based on a passage in Isaiah 42:6:

"I, the Lord, have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee."

It was Dr. Watts' sermon that led to Samuel Medley's conversion and, subsequently, to the composition of his hymn of thanksgiving. Several years later, when he had fully recovered from his injury, he became a clergyman and for more than a quarter century he had a brilliant and blessed ministry as pastor of a large Baptist church in Liverpool.

Father Pays Plenty to Get Daughter in Social Whirl

LONDON (CP) — Who worries most about debutante daughters—mothers or fathers?

Now that the deb season has begun, several hundred wealthy fathers will be wondering what it is going to cost them to launch their daughters into society. The average bill runs to more than $1,000—no small item in these days of heavy taxation.

Mothers get their share of grey hairs, too. They cope with equipping their daughters with the right sort of wardrobe, arranging small cocktail parties, the coming-out ball, and, most important of all, seeing that daughter is introduced to all the right people.

LASTS THREE MONTHS

The deb season lasts about three months starting with an invitation to a presentation party at Buckingham Palace, and ending under late summer skies at the Ascot races.

As much as £15,000 has been spent on giving one wealthy deb the time of things. It has been done on as little as £500. It depends how nimble mother is with the needle, how sewing, fixing their own hairdos and whether they give their parties at home or in West End hotels.

The Evening Standard publishes this budget for the coming-out high jinks of one 17-year-old girl fresh from finishing school, whose parents lack a London home.

EXPENSIVE PARTIES

Two "mothers' luncheons"—for introducing mothers to each other —have already been given at a fashionable West End club, at cost of £15. And as a prelude to her season, the daughter has given a cocktail party for 150 friends in one of their homes, costing £30.

A "dairy maid" presentation dress of beige lace has been bought with an eye to suitability for wearing at the races, and cocktail dresses with a distinct touch of the double duty for luncheon and evening dates.

Several expensive dresses have also been ordered for wearing at the Wimbledon tennis matches and the Henley rowing regatta. Total dress cost—£200.

The remainder of the £1,300 budget for this teen-ager will be spent on her coming - out ball, clothes for Ascot, taxis, jewelry and other incidentals. Mother's clothes are not included in this figure.

WORTH IT?

Is it worth while? Is it still considered modish by many debs' standards? Wealthier people spend much more on their daughters.

Is it really worth it? Some people maintain it is a costly way of finding an eligible husband for the girl. But Mrs. Renée O'Shea-Power, principal of an exclusive London finishing school called Regents House, says: "It is a way for a girl to "launch herself gracefully over the footlights of life."

Generally speaking debs and their mothers agree that a coming-out season is a pleasant but expensive way of making friends and finding invitations for the next season.

BEAUTY

IS YOUR HAIR REALLY A "CROWNING GLORY"?

Lustrous, well-coiffed hair is such an outstanding beauty asset you'd think that every woman in the country would take the greatest pains to see that her "crown of glory" was always at its shining, sparkling best. Unfortunately, however, some women are neglectful. They go to the beauty parlor periodically, of course, or "do" their hair at home and, for a few days, it looks lovely. But eventually curls go limp and stringy, sheen disappears and, until the next "set time" to have it done again, the coiffure is anything but a beauty asset. Here's constant care to keep hair looking lovely. So that yours may always have its best, here are just a few simple rules:

1. Make regular appointments to have your hair done at a salon or, if you do it yourself, allot one day each week to the task and don't let anything cause you to skip the appointment with your coiffure.

2. Brush your hair nightly. This is something more than you may think, for only thorough brushing will keep hair and scalp healthy.

3. If your hair tends to be dry, give yourself a hot oil treatment before every shampoo. And, after your shampoo, give yourself a creme rinse.

4. Set your hair every night that it needs it — even if that means every night.

5. If your hair is dull and drab, experiment with a color rinse to give it shining highlights.

6. If you dye your hair, have it touched up regularly. Nothing is so unattractive as dark roots showing at the part.

7. Carry a small hairbrush in your handbag so that you can slick up your coiffure during the day.

8. Use a hair spray to keep locks always in place.

9. Experiment with new hair styles. Don't go on wearing the same hairdo year after year.

10. Study your features carefully and whatever hair style you do adopt, be sure that it flatters your face.

Handsome Canadian Bachelor Designs Gowns for Brides

NEW YORK (CP)—Gaston Mallin, a handsome Canadian bachelor, is always in a good mood, and small wonder. He designs gowns for brides.

"People are so happy when they're preparing for marriage," said Gaston, 35. "Is it strange that I found myself happy too?"

The work is exacting, no doubt, but compensations are many—as was obvious when Gaston was interviewed during a show of fall and bridal fashions at Murray Hamburger Co. Inc.

Proprietor Hamburger showered compliments on his Montreal-born designer and gave him full credit for some 30 creations in the display.

Dazzling blondes—not brides but buyers—were even more open in their warm salutes to the tall, slim Gaston, who appeared able to go right on with his chores regardless of distractions.

Turning his back on the scene of glamor and gaiety for a moment, Gaston referred to his Canadian background and spoke seriously of the newly-formed Canada Council, established to assist Canadian culture. He was enthusiastic at the development—and offered a bit of advice.

"Canada should import teachers, not export students," said Gaston, son of the late Vital Mallet, a member of Parliament from Montreal.

The designer noted that exported students often, remain permanently away from home—"they fall in love with their new surroundings." It would be far wiser to give them in Canada the opportunity to learn their crafts.

INDUSTRY NEEDS ART

"If a man in Europe can design a better lampshade, it is better to take him to Canada to teach his art, than to send Canadian students to Europe to study it," said Gaston.

It was necessary to apply art to industry, making it possible for the artist to make an adequate living.

"As a small boy in Montreal I remember that art scholarships were given almost exclusively to students in the pure arts, such as music and painting," Gaston said.

"They didn't push toward industry as they should have."

Mallet recalled with a smile that after studying architecture at McGill University he borrowed money to travel to Paris to study fashions.

Oddly enough, he has found that many fashion experts have studied architecture.

Gaston left Paris in 1948, moving to London where he opened his own salon. He came here in 1951.

"Hamburger is the king of wedding fashions," said Gaston, whose French accent is a cousin to that of the trade. "That makes me a prince, no?"

Montreal Medical Scientist Explores "Stress"

Selye Gives Medicine New Direction

In a busy research laborstory at Montreal University's Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery, a quiet genial scientist, aided by a band of assistants and an army of rats, is conducting experiments into the chemistry of life which herald a dramatic new approach to the study of disease and mental illness.

As a medical student at the University of Prague, Dr. Hans Selye first noticed that early symptons of many illnesses were identical: loss of energy and appetite, general aches and pains. He pondered this fact for 10 years, then as a research endocrinologist in Canada he went to work to find our why. His discovery that "stress" can cause sickness has given medicine a new direction.

A technician prepares rat organs for histological study. The key to the mystery of "stress" says Selye are the hormones . . . chemical regulators of growth, sex, health and perhaps, disease. Every attack on the body upsets its chemical balance. By restoring hormone balance man can be helped to a longer, fuller life.

Dr. Selye shows organ changes in rat suffering from "stress": swollen adrenal glands, shrunken thymus, stomach ulcers. In countless experiments where rats were subjected to myriad forms of stress, both physical and emotional, the results were provocatively similar.

Was there a parallel between the reaction of the rats and the way in which the human body responds to attack? Dr. Selye believed there was and he formulated his now widely-acclaimed theory of stress to show why.

Raymonde Paradis supervises a "frustration" test in which enforced swimming is used as a "stressor". Dr. Selye has shown pressures of modern living build up stress in the human body in much the same way as germs and injuries do. It is impossible to avoid stress, but Selye hopes to minimize its dangers, control its harmful effects.

YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

MAY IS . . . National Beautification Month!

BEAUTIFY WITH PAINT!

A new home? No—just an old one glistening in a fresh, fashionable coat of paint. It's surprising what a bit of touching-up can do for a tired, weary looking house. May is Beautification Month. Why not take this opportunity to start to clean up — Paint Up — Plant Up and Light Up. You'll be glad you did.

IT'S CLEAN-UP TIME!

Let's make our homes the safe places they could be and not spots where danger lurks. Keep steps clean, scatter rugs fastened down and furniture in good repair. Falls are painful and sometimes expensive. Make every step a safe one by cleaning up during May.

BRIGHTEN UP YOUR HOME TODAY!

A well-lighted home presents a smiling appearance to the world. Why not check and ensure that your lighting is all that it can be? You'll be paving the way to brighter, happier living and making an important contribution to Canada's National Beautification campaign.

HOW SAFE IS YOUR HOME?

Belleville's annual Clean Up campaign is a good time to look carefully for possible trouble spots. Check wiring for overloading, electrical cords for fraying and replace worn-out fuses. Be sure gutters and downspouts are in good condition. Have your furnace checked and cleaned. Replace worn surfaces and check for roof leaks, loose or missing shingles. Give your home a "spring safety tonic" and protect your family and property.

ENLARGE YOUR GARDEN DURING MAY!

Use the Beautification Month of May as an opportunity to enlarge your garden. Use window boxes, sow seeds along sidewalks, shrubbery and driveways. Plant zinnias, marigolds, petunias for edging. They practically take care of themselves. Make your home the beauty spot of the neighborhood. Plant up during Beautification Month.

Sealer Takes 24,600 Pelts In Annual Hunt But Life Hard Due to Intense Cold, Sun Glare

NEW HARBOR, N.S. (CP)—A sleek, white vessel pulled into this tiny harbor on Mahone Bay recently after two hazardous months in the icefields of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

It was the 849-ton Theron, with 41 men and 24,600 seal pelts aboard. A day later most of the men were headed in all directions —some to nearby Halifax, others to homes in central Canada and in the Atlantic provinces.

Most had had a hectic time clubbing and skinning seals in their icy homes. The Theron had been fortunate for as long as two weeks and at one time had run precariously short of fresh water.

More than 200 men on 14 ships sealed in the gulf this year, During the 1930s, as many as 15,000 men, mostly from Newfoundland, on about 400 ships headed for the sealing grounds.

Over the years, the annual seal hunt has produced its tragedies. When the Southern Cross sank in 1914 there were 173 men lost and 78 when the Newfoundland went down. Some ships have been lost without loss of life in recent years and this year the Beater was crushed and sent to the bottom in March and all crew members were saved.

"I think it's more luck than enough that some boys weren't lost," said 20-year-old Bill Hogan of Toronto, on his first sealing trip this year.

"Yes," agreed James LeGay, West Dublin, N.S. "This is my last trip out."

Karl Anthen, of Karlsen and Co. Ltd., a Halifax shipping agency, operates the expedition. They usually begin in early March when Arctic currents bring seal-bearing ice floes from the coast of Greenland down through the Straits of Belle Isle, between Newfoundland and Labrador.

STRONG MEN NEEDED

Sealers have to be young, strong men, able to run over the jagged floes after their prey and haul them back to the ship. They must be able to stand the raw damp of Arctic ice and the glare of a winter sun.

Usually they are inexperienced and trained in their job on the way to the gulf. The Theron's crew did well, especially with enough pelts to give each man $730 for the hunt. Another Karlsen vessel, the Orel, came in with only 800, hardly enough to pay for the trip. The men in effect were working for Fournier spent 10 years experimenting with his invention. Five hinged flaps beneath each ski provide the resistance needed for forward motion. As he draws one foot forward the flaps on one ski fold upward, allowing it to slide lightly through the water. At the end of the stride, the flaps drop, preventing the ski from slipping backward. The ski-poles, slim shafts of aluminum with bell-shaped lower extremities help him keep his balance. (CP Photo).

Tribe Nudges Yankees In Third; Sox Stretch Lead; Giants Whip 'Bums'

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Word comes out of western Ontario senior "A" hockey circles that an all-star series between the three Ontario leagues will be staged next fall. Chatham Maroons coach Murph Chamberlain is quoted as being the source of the story which states selected squads from the eastern and western divisions will meet in the first game with the winners clashing with the northern selects.

Like Chick (Stratford Beacon Herald) Appel says, "Don't know when (and if) these arrangements were made, but if the sports writers and casters, as suggested by the Chatham story, are to be responsible for staging the all-star games, then it would seem that the scribes and casters should have been acquainted with the fact."

"Another suggestion," Appel says, "is that the all-star games be played prior to the opening of the schedule as in former years, but this has not panned out too satisfactorily and attendances were not up to expectations. This was largely due to the lack of publicity, something that will have to be remedied if the annual event or events are to be continued."

It is recalled that a Cornwall sports editor some while back took it on himself to organize an eastern all-star selection named by the writers and casters with some outstanding players from his own club. He suggested at the time the possibility of this squad playing the western division selects in a game to be decided between the squads. End of suggestion.

This department is of the opinion that an all-star attraction staged in the fall would have as much drawing power as last year's sunflower to a honey bee. We are not sufficiently acquainted with the procedure of such events but the big question in our mind is "Who would be Joe for the job?".

Besides if the brass of the various hockey organizations insist on stretching out the season, the proposed fall all-star clasic might clash with the finals of the top-brackets attractions. The ridiculous west-to-nine series for the Minkmen branch would fade into the time when hockey fans are ready for blackmarking at the summer cottage, looking at baseball or seeking the elusive trout. After all, over seven months of hockey is sufficient for even the most rabid fan.

If memory serves us correctly, one or two all-star games, or rather challenges between the champions and an all-star squad from the rest of the loop were played back in the senior "B" days of this district. They didn't draw peanuts. In fact in one game the spectators had to borrow a player from one of the benches to round out a foursome for bridge.

And while on the subject of hockey the Alan Cuppers from Whitby, according to Manager Wren Blair, have their sights set on the world championship tournament being held in Oslo, Norway next spring. Blair still has 1000 tickets for the "Whitby-Moscow" game in that cup celebration held in Whitby the other night.

Blair will formally present his application to represent Canada at the CAHA meeting this summer, and he has every right so to do.

But, as Chick Appel points out, "The Dunlops. if they are named to represent Canada in the world tourney next February, will have to do without the services of Lone John Henderson, if our interpretation of the 'amateur' rules as they apply to world competition, are correct."

"You will recall," Appel writes, "that the Kitchener Dutchmen were unable to use defenceman Bud Kemp last year because he had played professional hockey a few yars previously. Hinderson was purchased from Boston Bruins this summer and as such would fall into the same category as Kemp, which would mean that Whitby would be obliged to land another goalie of 'amateur' status and while they are doing so they had better bolster up some other outstanding senior, and junior talent."

The spring meeting of the Eastern Division senior "A" league has been scheduled for Kingston on Thursday, May 23. One of the more important items on the agenda is the cutting of the pool melon which has been the main roadblock to the issuance of clubs financial statements. Tribune will be paid by the league to its first Allan Cup champions, the Whitby Dunlops, and plans laid for next season.

This department has been reliably informed that the Pembroke Lumber Kings will be around for reasons other than to collect their share of the pool loot. Getting a bit lower, Rumor Alley has it that another club may seek entry. Besides that, don't be surprised if a Peterborough representative is on hand to see how the lmards of a senior "A" organization function. And perhaps for other reasons, too.

CHANGE OF NAME

The "Beacons" are out. Not the light or spirit, just the name. It was learned yesterday that henceforth Tom Hocking's crew will be known as the "Goyer Marines" on account of Jack Goyer, boss man of the Goyer Marine, is the new sponsor. So now that the "Marines" have landed, the softball situation should be in hand. And does it change Feever's status from a Beacon Lamplighter to a Marine top sergeant!

'Little Pistol' Still Shooting

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, retiring president of Toronto Maple Leafs, may have thought he was selling artificial ice when defenceman Jimmy Thomson in his press conference remarks Thursday.

Thomson, however, doesn't think so. In fact he feels he was flattered.

Smythe's remark was: "The only difference between Thomson and me is that he thinks he IS a great hockey player and I think he WAS a great hockey player."

Thomson's reply Friday night was:

"I don't like to see a thing like that in print because I never at any time thought of myself as a great player. I always thought I pulled my weight with the club.

"When you speak of great players you think of Howe and Richard and Lindsay and Beliveau. I've never claimed to belong to that category." Mr. Smythe thought I belonged there at any time, then I'm flattered. But he said he didn't.

Thomson, 30-year-old native of Winnipeg who played 12 seasons with the Leafs, retired after refusing to go to Rochester American Leagues of the American Hockey League to help the younger players there.

Thomson said he can't understand why Smythe wants him to go to Rochester when "he charged I was somewhat of a poor influence on the young Toronto players by representing them on the players association committee."

Maris Sparks Indians' Victory As Orioles Blast Yankees 4-1; Braves Snap Losing Streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Jack Sanford of Philadelphia stands out today as early-season favorite to win the National League's rookie-of-the-year competition.

Sanford, 27-year-old righthanded hurler who joined the Phillies last September after two years in the army, leads all league pitchers with a 4-0 record. His fourth victory was a three-hitter which he threw at Pittsburgh Pirates last night.

Sanford fanned 10 and had a shutout until the ninth. Then a walk and Hank Foiles' triple produced the only Pirate run.

BRAVES ADD TO LEAD

Milwaukee snapped its three-game losing streak with a 10-5 victory over St. Louis that increased the Braves' lead over Cincinnati Reds to two games. Reds' scheduled game with the Cubs in Chicago was postponed because of rain. The Nats, who had jumped third-place Brooklyn two games over the top with a 5-1 triumph over the Dodgers.

A pair of wild pitches by Luis Arroyo, his relief at Bill Sarni's Ronnie Kline in the eighth inning, allowed two runners to cross the plate with what proved to be Philadelphia's winning runs. Granny Hamner drove in both runs since he took over at second base three years ago are the Phillies their first run.

Juan Pizarro, Milwaukee's rookie southpaw, pitched his first major league victory with the help of teammates Johnny Logan and Eddie Mathews, who drove in eight of the Braves' 10 runs. Logan batted in five with a home run, a two-run double and a pair of run-scoring singles. Mathews smashed a two-run homer, doubled and added a run-producing single. Pizarro, who yielded nine hits, had a home run of his own and added a single. Wally Moon and Ken Boyer drove in all but one of the Cards' runs with homers.

MAYS IS STAR

Willie Mays came off a hospital bed to wallop a triple and two singles, drive in one run and score the other in the Giants' victory over Brooklyn. The dynamic outfielder had been hospitalized for three days with a virus and was not released until 24 hours before the game.

Righthander Ruben Gomez shared honors with Mays, limiting the Dodgers to seven hits for his fourth triumph against one defeat. The loser was Sal Maglie, and the defeat was the Dodgers' third in a row.

Strong stickwork by Roger Maris, a Big-league rookie outfielder, led Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory over Kansas City Athletics. The victory boosted the tribe into third place in the American League, a half game behind New York.

Maris, who didn't make the Cleveland roster until after spring training, is up among the league's leaders with five home runs and 17 runs batted in, on a .315 average.

Maris clouted a home run with a mate aboard to feature Cleveland's three-run rally against Kansas City's freshman southpaw Gene Host.

SOX ALONE AT TOP

Chicago White Sox made it two in a row over Detroit with a 6-4 victory that gave them undisputed possession of the American League lead, a full game in front of the Yankees, who were beaten by Baltimore 4-1. Rain forced postponement of the scheduled game between Washington and the Red Sox.

The White Sox broke their batting slump with a 13-hit attack against three Detroit pitchers, causing rookie Tom Morgan a first four-run assault in the fifth. Sherman Lollar had four singles for the winners. Billy Pierce gained credit for his fourth victory, but Gerry Staley had to quiet the Tigers in the ninth.

Mike Garcia, en route to his first victory of the season for Cleveland, had a two-hit shutout until the ninth. Three singles by Vic Power, Mill Graff and Gus Zernial produced a Kansas City run and brought in Ray Narleski. The Indians' ace reliever quickly disposed of the next two batters to assure the Indians of their third consecutive victory.

YANKS HUMBLED

Connie Johnson scored his first victory of the year by limiting the world champion Yankees to eight hits and striking out eight batters. He would have had a shutout but for Cyd Berra's eighth inning home run.

The Orioles got nine hits off loser Johnny Kucks who lasted only six innings. Bob Boyd got three of those and Billy Gardner chipped in with a pair of doubles. Tiz Francona's single, in the second of the game, drove in two of Baltimore's three runs in the fifth to ice the game.

Demaret Takes Over Lead in Golf Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—If the Hot Springs Country Club course continues to improve for Jimmy Demaret, the Klamesha Lake, N.Y., pro can start counting the prize money in the $50,000 Hot Springs open golf tournament here.

"This course sure has improved," Demaret said jokingly, after he turned in a 66 card Friday in the second round of the tournament. He had a first-day 73.

Al Besselink put a 68 with an opening day 70 for a 138 total that gave him a one-stroke lead over Demaret and three others.

Jackie Burke, who shared the first-round lead with Marty Furgol, shot par 72 and dropped into a six-way tie for sixth place at 140. Furgol shot 75 and was out of contention.

Al Balding of Toronto carded a one-underpar 71 to tie with a similar total in the opening round Thursday for 141. Total of 142—four strokes off the lead. Gerry Kesserling of Kitchener, who ran into trouble in the opening round when he took a 78, fired a 74 Friday for a 152 total.

Redlegs' McMillan So Tough The Hospital Comes to Him

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—"Roy McMillan," Birdie Tebbetts said, "is the toughest man I know."

He said it slowly and deliberately and with absolute conviction, and the remark was something of a surprise as McMillan doesn't look like a tough man. He's just under six feet tall and rather reedy, as he would have to have lead in his feet to touch 190 pounds, and he obviously doesn't carry lead anywhere.

Tebbetts didn't mean the Cincinnati Redleg shortstop is belligerent and itching for a fight. He meant McMillan is all rawhide physically, and shrugs off handicaps which would put another man in the shop for extensive repairs.

"If you were going to trade McMillan," Tebbetts continued, "and he was to be given a physical examination before the deal was made, the other team would turn him down.

"To begin with, he has bad eyes. Then he has sort of a deformed ankle due to a bone separation or something. He's had a spinal disc operation, and he can raise his left arm only so high." Birdie lifted his arm to about shoulder height to show what he meant.

"He got hit in the back by a pitched ball the other day. Later he was swinging a bat and remarked his back hurt a little. I looked at it, and he had a black and blue mark as big as a cantaloupe. I wouldn't be at all surprised if he had a cracked rib.

"Last year he broke his thumb. Three days later he came up to me and said he was ready to play, as the doctor didn't bother him much.

"Johnny Temple at second base is much like him. They fear nobody when making the double play. It's a runner slides into them real hard, they don't say a word. After all, they get on base too, and slide into second base. They ask no quarter, and give none. They are two little men playing a big man's game, and doing all right."

Samoan Prince a Sportsman Refuses to Accept Victory

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

They produce more than grass skirt, pretty and clever hula drums in Samoa.

They tossed in an intangible thing called sportsmanship when they ingrediented the Papuans.

Prince Malietoa, scion of Samoan royalty was in the front ranks when it was being issued. He proved it here last night in Memorial Arena.

The colorful prince was here in all his South Seas glory complete with maple-dono Coconut Willie and his peace-and-war drum stick. He was matched with the popular ex- - British Empire heavyweight rassiin' champ, one Pat O'Connor. It all was clean scientific wrestling at its best. There was no "bad guy." Even rotund Bert Maxwell, the man in white had ideas of turning back his usually ill-gotten gains to Marse Tunney. Fatso just stood around and cheered the entertainment. This, he figured, was one for the book. It was.

O'Connor proved beyond all shadow of doubt why he is one of the most popular matmen in the rack-whoops- wrestling game. Prince Malietoa proved he too, has graduated from the rear-rank prijer class. It was consistently fun from the shrilly, Greek-to-Greek crowd thrilling to the fast pace and dirtiest action.

Always a popular ring item here the Prince dug a deeper niche into the hearts of the fans Friday by what happened in the third and deciding fall.

Both had won a fall in the best-of-three. And both won their respective drops by hard ways. Came the third chapter. Again it was slip-and-rack the Prince finally hanging in the balance. Then it happened.

The prince slammed the Pat to the canvas. Through some physical quirk, the Prince was hurt in the melee. It was definite that he could not continue. The Prince went through the formalities of the victory when with Coconut Willie and the referee rushed to the aid of the fallen O'Connor who was writhing on the mat. It was definite he is injured.

Maxwell started to raise the Samoan flipper in token of victory. But the Prince shook his woolly mop and uttered something in guttural Samoanese. The English he refused to accept the victory and Referee Maxwell declared the bout "no decision". It was a magnanimous gesture on the part of the Prince, one appreciated by the crowd. It was sportsmanship at its best.

The main bout staged before the advent of the pachydermian pygmie the midgets, left a clean taste in the mouths of the faithful. They were all set for the antics of the half-pints, and like all good acts did let them down.

It was foul, furious and funny. Ole Slitin' Hen Maxwell squatted down on his embonpoint, at times was the referee but who was what is what was who. At-times Roger Allebrook and pal Sky Low Low Lebrook and pal Sky Low Low would be walked down his spine till he near died of ticklin'. Then Irish Jack and the Brown Panther took over. It was riotous wrestling and a fitting dessert to a tasty crowd-pleasing entree.

"Faithful" Flanagan defeated Bill McDaniels in a lively preliminary.

It was announced that the Trevor of the Natives, one Gordie Kinliski will headline the main bout next Friday. He challenged the winner of last night's main bout.

His opposition will be named the first of the week.

Score's Doctor Encouraged by Eye Condition

CLEVELAND (AP) — Another full day of waiting is likely before the injured right eye of pitcher Herb Score will be ready for an examination to determine how his sight has been affected.

Dr. Charles I. Thomas, Cleveland eye specialist, is encouraged by the way the million-dollar southpaw's eye is clearing. He said the eye may be clear enough for an examination today but more likely it will come Sunday.

A line drive crunched into Score's face at Cleveland Tuesday night when the Cleveland Indians' ace was pitching against New York Yankees. Since then bleeding has limited his medical treatment to rest and drops to ease pain.

Although visitors have been limited, general manager Hank Greenberg of the Tribe has seen Score briefly daily. Greenberg said the injury never got Score down.

"Herb has deep religious convictions, and it certainly has been helpful to him," Greenberg added.

Mimico Bowler Leads Tourney

ORONTO (CP)—Jack Pritchard of Mimico took the lead Friday night at the start of the Canadian Bowling Congress open five-pin tournament. He scored 2,-65 in his 10 games, with a single game high of 284.

Top prize in the $3,500 tournament is $1,000. The person to top bowler with the highest 10-game total. About 680 bowlers are entered from all parts of Ontario.

Second highest score was Dennis Smedley of Galt, with 2,624. Norm Disch, Galt, was fifth with 2,506.

Highest single game was that of George Elliott of Oshawa. He made nine strikes but hit the head pin in the 10th frame to end up with 300.

Flin Flonners Get Welcome

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Bobby Kirk, coach of the Memorial Cup champion Flin Flon Bomber hockey club, told youngsters at Melville Friday night: A big "It's young fellows like you that we need to bring the Memorial Cup west."

A crowd of about 2,000 welcomed the Flin Flon team as the club headed north for home from Regina.

The Bombers arrived in Flin Flon this morning.

Blimey, Blokes 'Ere Comes the Blinkin' Spurs

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Tottenham Hotspur, one of the premier soccer, full clubs in British soccer, sailed from Liverpool Friday night for an eight-game goodwill tour of Canada.

It is the second time that Spurs, runners-up to Manchester United for the English Football League championship this year, have visited Canada since the Second World War. They were also runners-up for the first division title at the time of their first visit in 1952.

A party of 22, including 17 players, boarded the Canadian Pacific Liner Empress of England. They are scheduled to arrive in Montreal May 17 and will leave immediately for New York, where they will play the New York Celtic Club May 19.

AGAINST ALL STARS

Spurs open their Canadian tour against an all-star team at Windsor May 22 and three days later they will play the Ontario All Stars at Toronto. They will go to Calgary for a game against Alberta All Stars May 28, then on the west coast for games June 1 and 3 followed by games in Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal June 5.

Players making the trip include right half Danny Blanchflower, an Irish international whose £30,000 transfer makes him the most expensive player on Spurs' roster. Also included are Welsh left inside right Tommy Harmer, one of the smartest and cleverest players in the game. Harmer, who was declared taken with a half-moon walk, never fail to amaze opposing goalkeepers.

Same Old Story Blame Referees

The Flin Flon Bombers edged the Canadiens 3-2 in Regina Wednesday night in the opening game of the final.

Pollock said the refereeing was of the crudest form. "I've never seen anything like it," he said.

The Flin Flon team was by a large crowd as they stepped off a plane at Uplands airport. A big reception for the players will be held next Wednesday.

Bisons Batter Leads League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo's Mike Baxes, who failed to stick with Detroit Athletics last year for lack of hitting, seems to be getting his timer at bat this year in the International League.

The 26-year-old Bison infielder, with 34 hits in 82 times at bat for the first 19 games, is leading the league with a .415 average. Runnerup John Jacinto of Richmond is four points behind at .411.

Baxes also leads the league in runs with 21 and is tied for second with two other players for stolen bases with four.

Baxes came up to the Athletics in 1956 after a fine season with Castro, 131, Mexico, Pacific Coast League, where he batted .322. Baxes, heralded as an outfielder, has appeared in 72 games for the A's and batted only .228.

All league games were rained out Friday night.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Any time a defensive player must make a desperation leap in an effort to haul down a long smash or a line drive or a high throw, he should know that he can stretch higher by swinging the throwing arm down as the catching arm goes up.

This fact has been proved scientifically. Basketball players use the same arm action in leaping to tip in rebounds under the backboard and football players do it in battling down passes thrown by their opponents.

Of course, it is desirable to catch fly balls in the outfield with two hands whenever possible, but the fielder must practice until he is able to judge whether he can reach the ball with both hands or should pull down the throwing hand to get the extra height needed to reach the ball.

This extra stretch can be particularly helpful to first-basemen when they have to leap for wild throws headed in their direction. It is this kind of knowledge and the use of it that can be the difference between a player becoming a good or a great performer.

Who Goes Where?

Baseball Moves Top Secret After Brass Mystery Confab

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—The Dodgers are still in Brooklyn. The Giants are still in New York and George Christopher still is mayor of San Francisco. That sums up the surface news of Friday's mysterious baseball conferences.

Because baseball commissioner Ford Frick dropped a curtain on all public discussion of big league franchise transfers by clubowners, the real story is hidden.

The New York Post said the Dodgers were going to Los Angeles in 1958 while the New York World Telegram and Sun reported the Giants were considering San Francisco.

Horace Stoneham, owner of the Giants, met with the mayor of San Francisco and Francis McCarty, chairman of the San Francisco baseball commission committee, in a New York hotel Friday afternoon for about two hours. Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, had lunch with the trio and then left for another meeting after showing them a model of his pet project, an all-weather stadium with a top of some synthetic material.

ADMITS TALKS HELD

"We had a discussion about the possibility of bringing major league baseball to San Francisco," said Mayor Christopher in a prepared statement. "Mr. Stoneham is satisfied from commenting further by reason of a telegram from commissioner Ford Frick with which he desires to comply. As a result there will be no further statements by any of the parties."

Frick lowered the boom on clubowners in a wire to O'Malley in which he said "wide publicity and newspaper discussion of any franchise transfer at this time is harmful to baseball." He urged that it be pointed out to all interested parties that "headlines and publicity statements at this time will only delay and perhaps upset the program they have in mind."

After the luncheon, mayor Christopher was asked if he felt San Francisco has gained ground in its search for big league ball.

"Major league baseball on the Pacific coast is an eventuality, must," said Mayor Christopher. "Whether it's immediate or later on, we're prepared to see the bill for a major league club."

Asked if San Francisco would prefer the Dodgers or Giants, the mayor said, "We can take either one. Whichever one we get will trounce the other."

PEREZ HINTS RETIREMENT

BIJENOS AIRES (AP)—Pascual Perez, world flyweight champion, was quoted Friday as saying he planned to defend his title against Young Martin of Spain here in September or October.

The newspaper La Prensa in a story from Mendoza, home town of Perez, said the champion also hinted he might retire from the ring within a short time although I am in perfect physical and mental condition."

Ortega Wins Over Logart; Wants Basilio

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Gaspar Ortega's second straight victory over Cuba's slick Isaac Logart has boosted the strong Mexican Indian's claim for a title shot at welterweight champion Carmen Basilio.

"We want Basilio and nothing else," said Ortega's manager Jimmy Stinson after Gasper's ball-dozing assaults had gained him a close split decision in a 12-rounder Friday night.

A strong pressure drive in the ninth, 10th and 11th rounds or a bitterly-waged battle—marred by low-blow knockdown of Ortega in the second round, carried the 5-10, 12-year-old Mexican to his important triumph. He won those three rounds for the narrow edge.

Early in the second round, the tall, fast-swinging Ortega staggered his 24-year-old rival with three long rights to the head. Logart backed into a neutral corner and, as Ortega moved in, lashed out with a left hook. Logart stepped to his knees. He grimaced with pain, clutched his groin, then arose. Three seconds, referee Al Berl said something to Ortega and he jumped up and resumed fighting. At the end of the round Berl spoke to Logart's corner and told him to keep his blows up.

"It was a low holo punch and it hurt me," said Ortega afterwards. "I don't think it was intentional. I followed me down for a couple of rounds."

"It wasn't low," said the disgusted Logart. "He just wears his trunks high. And I didn't like the decision. I thought I won easy."

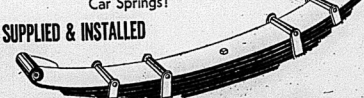
Ortega, who weighed 147½ to Logart's 146, now has a 41-edge over the Cuban and a 40-8 record. Logart is 49-7-5.

Rocket Wants To Be Referee

CENTRALIA (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard said here Friday that when he retires as a player he would like to be a National Hockey League referee, but he doesn't want an NHL coaching job.

If he cannot get a referee's job, the Montreal Canadiens star said he would like to coach in the minors.

The Rocket came here as a dinner guest at the RCAF aircrew station.



Before that he talked to a gathering of public school boys who shot down a number of questions. "How often do you get your skates sharpened?" Richard was asked by one boy, all that was handled by the club.

He told the boys the two toughest goalies he has faced in his NHL career have been Terry Sawchuk of Boston and Glen Hall of Detroit.

CANADIAN GETS BOUT

DETROIT (AP) — Promoter Nick Londes announced Friday a June 14 bout at Olympic Stadium between Canadian light heavyweight champion, Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., and Tony Anthony of Detroit.

Anthony, who recently scored an upset victory over Chuck Spieser, is the top-rated U.S. light heavyweight challenger. Durelle lost fight was a 10-round decision over Angelo Defendis of New York at Madison Square Garden.

Shortage of Salt-Water Fish Ahead

To a resident of the inland states, hundreds of miles from salt water, the matter of conservation and proper management of marine fisheries might at first glance seem to be of small personal importance. A close second look at this vital question is hereby suggested.

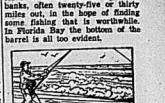
Dr. Daniel Merriman, Director of Bingham Oceanographic Laboratory, Yale University, in 1953 made a public statement concerning salt-water conservation. What he said then is true today. He wraps it up in a compact package. This is what he said:

"The plain truth is that we know almost nothing about the life patterns of most of the oceanic game fish — their migrations, growth rates, places or times of spawning, age at maturity, quantities of eggs laid, sex ratios, feeding habits, parasites and longevity. Until these matters are thoroughly known in the huge reservoirs of the T. V. A. chain.

Throughout the entire country a careful survey shows that in 1953 approximately 4,000,000 fishermen enjoyed salt-water fishing.

REGULATIONS NON-EXISTENT

With a few outstanding exceptions, such as California, there is no Federal regulations are non-existent insofar as the sport fisherman is concerned. Mostly, a man can fish in salt water with no thought of creel limits, size limits or seasons. All too rarely keep what they catch, take home what they can use, and sell the rest to the fish houses or throw them away.



Every barrel, regardless of size, has a bottom and it will hold just so much. The supply of fish in the ocean, any ocean, is not inexhaustible. Sooner or later, if enough folks keep dipping in, they will find themselves scraping the bottom of said barrel. It has been done and it very well can be done again.

Take, for example, the Florida Keys. The water to the west of the upper Key is known as Florida Bay. This bay takes in a large, interlocked-by-islands square miles of area. At one time, 30 years ago, all of this area provided excellent fishing. A sign at the upper end of the Keys advised the motorist that he is entering the locale of the "World's Finest Fishing."

We used to fish out of Little Rock Camp on Plantation Key. It was not uncommon, back in 1948-49 to see a school of bonefish tailing within a stone's throw of the dock. When we started the day, we wouldn't crank up the motor. Instead, we would pole the skiff over to the edge of the flats and start fishing. If we failed to see at least 50 schools of bonefish on the length of the flats, back-aboard fifteen miles—we had had a poor day.

In addition, the channels, passes and pot holes all held their ample share of jacks, crevalle, redfish, tarpon and sea trout. That was in 1948-49.

Today we board our fishing boats, cruiser or skiff, and sail for an hour or more to the outer banks, often twenty-five or thirty miles out, in the hope of finding some fishing that is worthwhile. In Florida Bay the bottom of the barrel is all too evident.

East of the Keys there are several lights and buoys erected and anchored on the outer reefs, not so far from that deep, blue river known as the Gulf Stream. Seven or eight years ago these lights served as headquarters for schools of king-size barracuda. Not today! Those days are gone.

Naturally the question arises concerning the replenishment of these depleted stocks of fish. Just how do the conservation agents go about it? Is there any replenishment? That, my friend, is the $64.-000 question.

As Dr. Merriman of Yale University states, little or nothing is known about the life of salt-water fish. Without this knowledge, such as is known as intelligent management is impossible. The only cure is research, years of careful and painstaking study. And much good money.

But in addition to sport fishing the commercial boys are taking their annual harvest of the bounty of the sea. Reports are improving as the years pass and better refrigeration permits shipment to any part of the country. As the years pass the harvest grows larger. This is the factor which should cause grave concern. Unless we limit our entire time to the study of the marine fisheries. But the job is a big one and few boats can meet the requirements of the task ahead of them.

The only way this vitally important work can be carried on with tant work can be at meeting the emergency which, sooner or later, is bound to arise is to find available an increased source of income. The said-water licence seems to be the easy and obvious answer to an increasingly serious problem.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

You dare not believe bridge players who tell you it pays to make light opening bids. Review their past performances and you will see where, in one way or another, it lost points for them.

Room one bidding snapped off like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	2 D	Dbl

North made the doubled two diamond bid with an overtrick for a score of 280. Since west and east have a cinch game in hearts worth more than 400, the light opening by west was a hurt.

West realized that two diamonds might make. But he feared good player would, declarer took 11 tricks.

A player takes pride in his light opening with this kind of a deal, and says: "See, my light opening was good enough to reach game."

But this is a rank twist of facts. If west had passed, east has enough for a sound opening. This is why it turned out good. Not because west made the light opening.

Players can think of a flock of excuses to justify most of their twisted abuses.

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	2 D	Dbl

West counts five tricks; east with support for the west heart bid. So, it should be in heart game. By cross-ruffing, as any

Spike Jones' Music Undergoes Transition in New Program

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Have you met the new Spike Jones?

The famed musical depreciator is thrown away his washbasin, cowbells and six-shooter, but you'll notice a difference on his Tuesday night CBS-TV show. The band even goes several numbers without an auto-horn.

"I'd like to have guest stars like Ella Fitzgerald and Joe Iturbi," said Spike. "We might have Iturbi play a rock 'n' roll number, but he'd also do a straight piece."

What's this—Spike going long-hair? No fear of that. But he is undergoing a transition.

"I felt the need for it when we were playing concerts," he remarked. "People were always asking why we didn't play some straight numbers. We did play straight behind Helen (his singing wife) and the specialty acts, but the rest of the time we gagged it up.

"When you only have 2½ hours for a show, you have to give the people what they expect."

But Spike realized there was a perilous future in offering the public one kind of music. He started the transition last fall with an album of Christmas tunes. Included were standbys like All I Want for Christmas is My Two Front Teeth. But most of the songs were played straight.

"The album surprised us all by paying itself off in the first year," he remarked. "That proved that the public would accept us without gags."

Apparently that is proving true with his TV show. The premiere a few weeks ago drew good reviews, and the ratings have been excellent for a new show.

But don't worry about his losing the old Jones touch. He has a new album called Dinner Music for People Who Aren't Very Hungry. Among the hi-fi effects: A violin pushed through a garbage disposal unit.

At The Park

Double Shocks Presented in new Dual Screen Bill

The greatest double horror show of all time comes to the screen of the Park theatre starting on Monday when Allied Artists' "Attack of the Crab Monsters" and "Not of this Earth" are presented in a twin-shock, science terror program.

From under poisonous waters to the caves of a doomed island, come 25-foot crabs to crush in their monstrous claws the skin-diving scientific expedition studying the effects of atomic radiation under the waters.

The chilling co-feature, "Not of This Earth," unveils the terrifying existence of a new threat to the human race — the invasion from a vampire planet of blood-searching ghouls, intent in transferring its precious fluid to their own world.

Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

Paul Birch, Beverly Garland and Morgan Jones are headlined in this film, also produced and directed by Roger Corman.

Foliage, as well as flowers, give garden summer color. Amaranthus (Joseph's-coat), an annual related to Cockscomb, produces glowing mass of bronze, yellow and green fallage. Must have full sun, poor soil. Rich soil results in larger plant but less color. Not very hardy, it thrives in hottest and driest weather and location.

Partridge Cause Of Broken Glass At Indian School

DESERONTO — Pupils at the Indian Day School were momentarily blamed one day last week for a broken window for which they were not responsible.

The window-breaking culprit was no less than a partridge which had crashed threw the glass in flight.

It all happened during recess when teachers heard the crash of glass. Thinking a ball had gone through the window they investigated and found the stunned partridge on the floor of the school room. The bird was cut about the neck but Mr. Allan cared for the bird until the next day when it was released and flew away.

ARTICLES RECOVERED

Following the early morning break-in last Thursday at Burley's Garage, local police, working in conjunction with Napanee police, have recovered considerable of the stolen articles.

As a result of a tip from Napanee, Chief McTaggart contacted Napanee police and following a search of a woods north of that town located the articles. Although police placed a stakeout the thieves failed to return for the loot and it was picked up Saturday morning. Two tires and two outboard motors from a Napanee car dealer and eleven tires were recovered from the woods. There are still two tires and one outboard motor missing.

Mr. D. R. Cassie of the Indian Affairs Branch, has been posted as temporary Director of that branch at Ottawa and will be leaving Deseronto next week for a tour or duty in the Maritime provinces.

Four of the local firemen attended the meeting of the mutual aid association held in Bancroft last Wednesday. Making the trip were J. H. McVicker, Franklin Tinney, George Hopping and Charles Knight.

Colombia moved to the brink of revolution and finally broke the grip of dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla.

Gen. Rojas turned over the presidency to a military junta in the face of paralyzing strikes and a threatening populace.

Colombians rushed jubilantly to the streets shouting "liberty" when they heard the news. But the great moment also held tragedy, as many persons were crushed to death in the victory stampede.

The revolt, involving bloodshed in several cities, followed in some respects the pattern of the Argentine upheaval that unhorsed dictator Juan Peron.

An official organ of the Roman Catholic Church charged the Colombian police had "sacrilegiously profaned several churches" in the country of 13,000,000, 90 per cent Catholic.

The violence broke into the open when Rojas demanded another term of office from his rubber-stamp assembly despite a constitutional guarantee that a Colombian president cannot succeed himself.

FIRE MENACE

More than 160 fires ravaged forests in six provinces—in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia.

Twenty homes were destroyed in the Northern Ontario community of Skead, 20 miles from Sudbury. Eighty-eight persons were burned out.

Forest fires also raged in the northeast United States, ruining property despite the efforts of thousands of firefighters. Flames roared in the outskirts of Plymouth, Mass., but no loss of life was reported.

There were outbreaks in Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine.

SOVIET CHALLENGE

The Supreme Soviet, Russia's parliament, had something to say about man's biggest problem—"the bomb."

The Soviet, meeting in regular session, voted to send a message to the United States Congress and the British Parliament calling for the banning of atomic and hydrogen weapons tests.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko blamed Western nations for the failure thus far to reach an agreement regarding the tests.

But the Russians turned a cold shoulder to a British formula aimed ultimately at ending the tests, including as a first step the registering in advance of plans for such tests with the United Nations.

MACMILLAN IN BONN

Harold Macmillan went to Bonn, the first British prime minister to visit Germany since Neville Chamberlain met Hitler.

Macmillan held talks with Konrad Adenauer and tried to allay the fears of the West German chancellor regarding Britain's decision to reduce her European forces.

Macmillan and Adenauer issued a statement at the end of their conference expressing "full agreement" on aims, but it was clear that Adenauer had not succeeded in convincing the German leader that Britain's action would leave no defence "gap."

EDEN RESTS

The former British prime minister showed surprising vigor following the serious bile duct operation in Boston.

Sir Winston, accompanied by Lady Eden, spent much of his time reading and was not yet receiving callers.

SEGNI RESIGNS

Premier Antonio Segni of Italy resigned in a crisis that was expected to be prolonged and difficult of settlement.

The crisis arose with the decision of Vice-Premier Guiseppe Saragat to withdraw his right-wing Socialists from Segni's coalition government.

This action came at a time of widespread labor unrest as well as a political flare-up of the old controversy over Italy's role in NATO.

Segni, who had been in power 22 months, continued at the head of a caretaker government pending formation of a new administration.

Thirty-seven persons died when a Spanish airliner crashed and burst into flames while attempting a landing at Madrid airport.

The twin-engined plane appeared to be making a normal approach to the airfield, on a routine flight from another Spanish city when it lost speed, dived and crashed near some farm buildings.

SUSPENDS EFFORTS

ROME (Reuters) — President Giovanni Gronchi Wednesday night suspended until next week his attempts to find a premier for a new Italian government to succeed the Centre coalition cabinet which resigned Monday.

European Race Claims 13 Lives At Brescia, Italy

Car Crashes Into Crowd, May Mean End of Event

BRESCIA, Italy (AP) — The death knell may have sounded for the Mille Miglia, last of the great European open road races, as the result of Sunday's tragic toll of 13 lives lost in the 1957 renewal.

Twelve died when the powerful, 3,800 c.c. Ferrari driven by Spain's millionaire playboy sportsman, Marquis Alfonso de Portago, and his co-driver Edmund Nelson, 150 miles per hour and smashed into a crowd of spectators lining the highway near Mantua, about 40 miles from here.

De Portago and his companion, Edmund (Eddy) Nelson of Beloit, Wis., and Paris, were crushed to death.

The hurtling car, veering wildly left and right, killed 10 spectators, five of them children. Several other onlookers were injured, some seriously.

Another accident in the 1,000-mile race from Brescia to Rome and back took the life of Jost Goettgens of The Netherlands. His car, a Porsche, skidded on wet pavement near Florence and overturned, killing him and two passengers died of afractured skull.

The toll boosted to 13 the number of deaths in the race in the last two years and newspapers in immediate reaction were demanding it would be made in the Italian Parliament to cancel the classic. But Mille Miglia has stood alone as the last big open road race in Europe since the La Mans race here was dropped after the 90-death tragedy in 1955.

This year's race was approved only after officials pledged strict enforcement of safety regulations. In an attempt to minimize the danger to drivers and spectators alike, crowds along the route were banked with straw bales. Police were stationed at 50-yard intervals, and armed with flaming-red car at maximum speed in an attempt to restrain the frenzied.

Witnesses said the car leaned over a canal in a curve, hit the crowd there. Two of the children killed were struck by a concrete milestone which the car uprooted and hurled into the crowd. Taruffi averaged 94.7 m.p.h.

Piano-Playing Record Broken By Engineer

CREWE, England (Reuters)—Sandy Strickland, 40-year-old British engineer, Saturday night broke the non-stop piano-playing record of Frenchman Robert Sergil by playing continuously without sleep for 123 hours at a theatre here. The old record was 122 hours.

Syncopating Sandy, father of two children, sat down at the keyboard Monday morning.

Since then, nearly 20,000 persons have watched him play and thousands more walled in the streets outside the theatre to see him finish.

When the marathon ended, he had to receive medical attention. He had had little solid food during the record bid. Instead, he drank a dozen cups of tea and chain-smoked 100 cigarets a day.

In North Bay last July, Tiny Burd; a 220-pound piano thumper who worked a note of music, set a Canadian marathon record of 72 hours and 30 minutes.

SMALLWOOD SEES DAUGHTER-IN-LAW KILLED IN CRASH

Whim Saves Premier From Being in 'Copter

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A whim saved Premier Smallwood from being a passenger on the helicopter that crashed at his farm Sunday, killing his daughter-in-law and the pilot and injuring his son and another relative.

Mr. Smallwood, for whom helicopter hopping is no novelty, decided to decline a ride in a new helicopter sent to his Rusa Wood farm as a demonstration. Instead his son Ramsay, 30, Ramsay's 27-year-old wife Shirley and her visiting sister, Mrs. Richard Morrow, got aboard.

The helicopter's tail hooked a high-tension wire taking off and crashed in flames 30 feet from its starting place. Florence Smallwood and veteran Pilot Gilbert Mews, 43, of Ottawa and Gander, Nfld., were killed. Ramsay Smallwood and Mrs. Morrow were seriously injured.

FOR DEMONSTRATION

The helicopter was sent from Gander Sunday morning by its owners, Eastern Provincial Airways, for the Premier Smallwood a demonstration. The machine was to fly at 70 m.p.h. and remember with a maximum takeoff load of 2,565 pounds.

It was less than a month old and was used by EPA for mail a freight hauling. Smallwood said he would be made in the Italian Parliament to cancel the classic. But Mille Miglia has stood alone as the last big open road race in Europe since the La Mans race here was dropped after the 90-death tragedy in 1955.

Miner Tells of 72 Hours Buried Without Food or Water in Hole

RICHWOOD, W. Va. (AP) — A coal miner virtually returned from the dead told his story Sunday of 72 hours of entombment. He spent entombed without food or water in a cold, lightless hole in Williams C. Richwood, 48, buried alive for 74 hours in the dark and lonely underground of the Jamestown mine, told a reporter from his hospital bed.

"It was just about the size of the inside of a coffin, and I thought that was what I was going to be for me."

Dr. J. R. Glasscock of Sacred Heart Hospital said Richmond was suffering exhaustion and dehydration.

Richmond gave this account of his horrifying experience:

He said miner virtually returned from the dead told his story Sunday of 72 hours of entombment. He spent entombed without food or water in a cold, lightless hole in Williams C. Richwood, 48, buried alive for 74 hours in the dark and lonely underground of the Jamestown mine, told a reporter from his hospital bed.

"It was just about the size of the inside of a coffin, and I thought that was what I was going to be for me."

Dr. J. R. Glasscock of Sacred Heart Hospital said Richmond was suffering exhaustion and dehydration.

Richmond gave this account of his horrifying experience:

He said he was working some time for my shift to change. My buddy and I were standing in the mouth of the tunnel about a quarter mile inside the hill. We were waiting for the timbers were coming down and we started to go on the main shaft.

"You don't run very fast on your hands and knees, but he made it out somehow. I tried to follow him but the roof fell in ahead of me and I turned and crawled back to the (the scene) edge of a coal seam).

"The fall was coming toward me. I could see the slat falling, like big hunks of paper with black dust pouring up and I said, 'Lord, nobody can stop it but You. If You don't I'm a goner.'

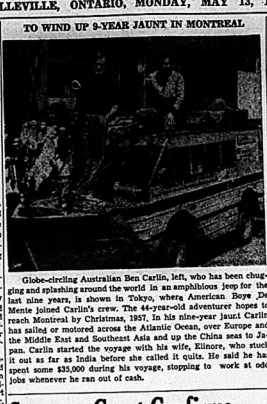
The fall came right up to two feet from me and stopped. Some of the slate fell on my legs and pinned them down but I could tell they weren't hurt very bad.

Richmond started scooting in under me. Pieces of rock kept falling on my back but they never hit me up until I just had a little hole about 20 inches left to lie in.

It was a happy Mother's Day for Mrs. Richmond and his seven children, Mrs. Richmond is expecting an eighth child.

Richmond reached Richmond at 1:05 a.m. in one of the most dramatic rescues from death in the history of West Virginia coal mining.

He was at work with four other miners in a section of the Donegan mine when the company's mine about 18 miles from Richwood in Nicholas County, West Virginia Wednesday night.



About 10 a.m. a creaking noise warned them just before the roof caved in.

Four ran toward the main entry and safety. Richmond ran in the wrong direction.

A mine official said Wednesday it was unlikely Richmond's life could have been spared.

In true mining tradition, however, rescue work went on.

Supreme Court Confirms Conviction of Paper Mills

OTTAWA (CP) — The Supreme Court of Canada today unanimously confirmed the conviction of seven fine paper mills and 21 paper merchants of operating a price-fixing combine between 1933 and 1952.

The companies and 21 merchants were found guilty in 1954 by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Ontario Supreme Court of conspiring to "unduly prevent or lessen competition in the production, manufacture, purchase, barter, sales, transportation or supply" of fine papers in Ontario, Quebec and elsewhere.

He fined them a total of $242,000 and issued an order restraining them from further violations of anti-combines legislation.

The Ontario Appeal Court modified the conviction slightly by striking out the words "production" and "manufacture." The Supreme Court of Canada restored the words and upheld the conviction in all respects.

The companies involved represented 90 per cent of Canada's fine papers industry. They are:

Howard Smith Paper Mills Ltd., Montreal; E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, Que.; Provincial Paper Ltd., Toronto; Roland Paper Co. Ltd., Montreal; Alliance Paper Mills Ltd., Merritton; Don Valley Paper Mills Ltd., and Canada Paper Co., Montreal.

The Ontario Appeal Court withheld its decision on the companies' appeal against the sentence it self pending the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada on the conviction.

Lifting of Bamboo Curtain Reveals Nation Near Famine

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China has lifted its Bamboo Curtain and revealed a nation beset by unemployment, food shortages, conflicts among the masses and paralyzing bureaucracy.

In a series of frank disclosures in the official press and over Peiping Radio in recent days, the Peiping regime has admitted that the threat of famine looms over much of the country in the wake of last year's floods, drought and the disastrous typhoon Wanda.

Foodstuffs are short, particularly pork. For the first time in many months some foreign ships calling at Chinese ports have left with empty holds because there was nothing to export.

Much of the unemployment is a by-product of. last year's calamities. Thousands of peasants, unable to eke out a living, have swarmed to the cities in search of jobs. Bad personnel planning for industry has contributed to the growing problem, a Peiping official announcement says.

In addition to these difficulties, the government leadership is grappling with two problems which strike at the heart of its control of the country.

The first is widespread unwillingness of former capitalists and intellectuals to accept socialism as a doctrine. Other is the conflict between the masses and bureaucratic-minded Communists.

One example: Red China's newspaper held a forum in Shanghai. Peiping Radio reported, and demanded more freedom to report "actual situations." They asked government officials to hold press conferences and permit newspapers to be critical of and protested against official intimidation of reporters.

750 Homeless In Texan Town As Levee Breaks

LAMPASAS, Tex. (AP)—A devastating flood roared through this central Texas city Sunday night as the Colorado River crested in the business district before the swirling waters began receding.

A wall of water cascaded into the city after a levee on Sulphur Creek gave way and poured in under torrents of rainwater dumped in a six-hour deluge.

More than 750 persons were homeless, one person was known dead and 16 drowned and another was missing. The Red Cross set up an emergency feeding kitchen and shelters in a church. Fifteen persons were in hospital.

Property damage of $500 was faced with a food and water shortage and every grocery store in the city was destroyed. The city water supply was contaminated by the muddy waters.

Damage was expected to run into millions of dollars.

Water from the rampaging Burleson Creek joined the surging torrents of Sulphur Creek to flood the town square under six feet of water.

JORDAN CHARGES EGYPT, SYRIA, REDS CONSPIRED

Alleges Plot to Oust Four Arab Monarchs

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordan has accused Russia, Egypt and Syria of a plot to dethrone Jordan's King Hussein and three other Middle East monarchs.

The official government radio charged Saturday night that King Faisal of Iraq, King Saud of Saudi Arabia and King Idriss of Libya were the other targets.

The broadcast said Egyptian money was reported paid out in a drive to undermine Hussein.

The blunt broadcast pointed up a rift inside the Russian-led Arab bloc.

Hussein emerged the winner in a dangerous political crisis with the backing of Bedouin troops last month, kinsmen of leftist and pro-Egyptian government officials. He then moved against first lieutenants in the country.

EGYPTIAN STAND

(President Nasser's Egyptian government has promoted a pro-Suez alliance of Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia and openly aimed against Israel, has declared Egypt "is as jealous of Jordan's independence as any other country." But bitter attacks on the Jordan government have come from Egyptian press and radio, which picture it as "one vast prison camp.

The Jordan radio station, Ammanet, which is known as the Voice of the Arabs, gave full play to a story on Cairo Radio attacking the action by the independent Amman newspaper Al Urdon.

Hussein and Nasser's relations with his own monarchy were made in a broadcast by King Hussein in which he proclaimed martial law at the height of the April crisis. He gave up martial law.

Quoting what it called most reliable sources, the Cairo broadcast a scheme was hatched at a Cairo meeting in January, 1956, of Egyptian diplomatic envoys to Arab countries. It said the "conspiracy, prepared by agents of international communism," was aimed at overthrowing King Saud, Hashemite Kingdom in Jordan and Iraq, "annihilating the Saudi and Libyan regimes" and establishing republics under Egypt's leadership.

"This plan had the blessings of the Soviet Union and international communism," the broadcast said. "Certain spies and sent over to Arab countries experts in sabotage and in the method of setting up a wide-scale spy ring in the Arab world," the paper said.

"In October, 1955, a political-military committee was set up to implement the plan. This included Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj of Syria; Salman Ali Khalil, assistant Egyptian military attache in Beirut; Dimitri Yovchev, Bulgarian military attache in Beirut; Col. Iskander Matsakov, Russian deputy attache in Beirut, and a number of Rumanian army officers. . . .

"When the conspiracy was unmasked, the conspirators escaped and sought asylum in the countries they had chosen to carry out their plan, a campaign of lies and resorted to preparing for individual assassinations."

Gives up Battle

DETROIT (AP)—L. Ewing Scott says he will give up his fight against extradition and leave Michigan for California to face a charge of violating parole in that state.

Scott is wanted on a murder indictment in the mysterious disappearance of his wealthy wife, Evelyn, in 1955. She never has been found. Scott also faces charges of grand theft and forgery in the alleged dissipation of her estate.

Scott, 60, was nabbed April 15 attempting to cross into Canada by car from Detroit.

Enraged by Failure to Find Pants, Sets Fire Which Kills 3 Children

PHILADELPHIA AP) — A 17-year-old youth was held today on arson and homicide charges after telling police he set a fire which suffocated three young children.

Police said Ronald, an uncle of the victims, was quoted by Detective Capt. Richard T. Moore as saying he set the fire to create "some excitement" after he was unable to find a pair of dungarees for which he was looking.

The dead: Joseph Gayton, 3, his brother, Patrick, 5, and their sister, Priscilla, 4.

Meers said Thomas became enraged after failing to find the trousers.

"He set fire to papers and rags on the floor and then stood by and watched them burn," Meers said. "Then he left."

The childrens' mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gayton, 28 — who is Thomas' sister-in-law — and her eldest boy, High, 9, were rescued by firemen.

The father, Joseph Gayton, 30, came home at the height of the blaze early Saturday but had to be restrained from smashing his

British Shipping Will Resume Use Of Suez Canal

Boycott in Operation Since Middle East Crisis Last Fall

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan today announced in the House of Commons that British shipping will resume using the Suez Canal, ending a boycott that has been in operation since last fall's Middle East crisis.

Macmillan said the government could no longer advise British ship owners to refrain from using the canal.

He said that payments of canal dues and other charges would be made in British sterling currency.

Outlining the government's arrangements, Macmillan said a new transferable account had been opened by the Bank of England in the name of the National Bank of Egypt.

READY TO GO

Macmillan said the great majority of the foreign lines in the shipping conference serving the principal trading countries east of Suez had declared they would henceforth route their ships through the canal. Many of them have already done so.

Shipowners associations in West European and Scandinavian countries have officially informed their members that a recent statement by the Suez Canal Users Association should be interpreted as meaning that every ship and every shipowner now is free to use the canal at his own discretion, he said.

"In these circumstances, and with the reservation of their rights, which has been stated on behalf of the member countries of the Suez Canal Users Association, the British government sees no longer advise British shipowners to refrain from using the canal."

Macmillan said sterling funds belonging to Egypt—there is about £37,000,000 ($75,000,000) — blocked here by the freeze when the canal was nationalized, would remain blocked.

Removal or modification of the existing restrictions must await agreement upon satisfactory arrangements covering all financial claims against Egypt, he said.

WILL BE DISCUSSIONS

"Discussions will be held on this basis in a mutual attempt to compromise," the prime minister announced.

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor Opposition, said the House has heard with regret, but without surprise, your announcement that the British shipowners that they are now free to use the canal.

Labor members cheered when Gaitskell added: "Surely you must now accept are substantially worse than those obtaining before the Suez crisis began. British-French forces intervened in Egypt . . . ."

Macmillan disputed this, saying he did not accept that there was any reason to make any negotiations on the basis existing then would have led to any more satisfactory results.

He agreed there should be a debate on the matter in the course of this week.

Boycott in Operation Since Middle East Crisis Last Fall

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan today announced in the House of Commons that British shipping will resume using the Suez Canal, ending a boycott that has been in operation since last fall's Middle East crisis.

Macmillan said the government could no longer advise British ship owners to refrain from using the canal.

He said that payments of canal dues and other charges would be made in British sterling currency.

Outlining the government's arrangements, Macmillan said a new transferable account had been opened by the Bank of England in the name of the National Bank of Egypt.

READY TO GO

Macmillan said the great majority of the foreign lines in the shipping conference serving the principal trading countries east of Suez had declared they would henceforth route their ships through the canal. Many of them have already done so.

Shipowners associations in West European and Scandinavian countries have officially informed their members that a recent statement by the Suez Canal Users Association should be interpreted as meaning that every ship and every shipowner now is free to use the canal at his own discretion, he said.

"In these circumstances, and with the reservation of their rights, which has been stated on behalf of the member countries of the Suez Canal Users Association, the British government sees no longer advise British shipowners to refrain from using the canal."

Macmillan said sterling funds belonging to Egypt—there is about £37,000,000 ($75,000,000) — blocked here by the freeze when the canal was nationalized, would remain blocked.

Removal or modification of the existing restrictions must await agreement upon satisfactory arrangements covering all financial claims against Egypt, he said.

WILL BE DISCUSSIONS

"Discussions will be held on this basis in a mutual attempt to compromise," the prime minister announced.

Hugh Gaitskell, leader of the Labor Opposition, said the House has heard with regret, but without surprise, your announcement that the British shipowners that they are now free to use the canal.

Labor members cheered when Gaitskell added: "Surely you must now accept are substantially worse than those obtaining before the Suez crisis began. British-French forces intervened in Egypt . . . ."

Macmillan disputed this, saying he did not accept that there was any reason to make any negotiations on the basis existing then would have led to any more satisfactory results.

He agreed there should be a debate on the matter in the course of this week.

Fifty Recruits Inducted Into Hasty Pees Regt.

Fifty Belleville and district high school boys have a wonderful summer vacation cut out for them, thanks to the Hastings and Prince Edward County Regiment.

On Friday and Saturday morning the youths were inducted into the colored regiment by a team from No. 105 Manning Depot, Kingston. The mass induction exercise took place in the Belleville Armouries.

Before they were taken on the strength of the regiment, each lad submitted to an "M" test (a type of aptitude test), and then had a complete physical examination by an army doctor. Interviews were conducted by a personnel selection officer who tried to match suitability to their choice of trade. And even before the youths were processed and documented they were told what is expected of them to uphold the unblemished reputation of the famous regiment.

What is in store this year for these soldiers of the Hasty Pees?

For eight weeks after school closes they will take basic training and drill at the Armouries. For each day they attend, each will receive $3.33 plus $2.03 subsistence allowance for food etc., and second camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake. Then they can choose either to go to camp or stay at home. If they attend camp, each man receives $3.33, but no subsistence allowance. Single men get a camp bonus of $25; the married ones get $40, which is handed over by the army to their wives.

CAN MAKE CONTRIBUTION

On top of earning about $267 during summer vacation, young men have the advantage of living among other young men with similiar aims in life. Each man, too, makes a contribution to his country and, at the end of the summer, he can return to school proud of the fact that at the age of 16 years (and up) he has given part of himself to the defence of his country.

At the end of the month the recruiting unit will be in Picton. Hope where, it is hoped, the regiment will induct another 55 high school students. On June 7 and 8, the unit will be back in Belleville to engage another 50 young men.

When summer camp is over, each man has the option of staying with the regiment to enjoy winter training one or two nights a week, or he can return to civilian life with no questions asked.

Besides giving something to his country, joining the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is a wonderful way to pick up some money for those university years ahead.

Miss Kay Homan Turns Sod For Junior Farmer Building

The official start on the construction of a new junior farmer building at the Belleville fair grounds was seen Saturday morning as members of the local fair board, members of parliament and representatives of the county junior farmers attended the sod turning ceremony.

Miss Kay Homan, assistant recreational director for Belleville, and vice-president of the Ontario Junior Farmers, appropriately turned the first sod, with Dr. J. Russell Scott, Belleville fair president, giving an assist.

"I feel it a great honor and a privilege to turn the first sod for the junior building at Belleville fair grounds," Miss Homan said. "It is one of the buildings of this year of which I will be proud."

Dr. Scott noted that the new building, together with a large new cattle barn and a poultry building have been looked forward to for many years. Expressing appreciation for the government grants, which had made the three buildings possible, Dr. Scott said the buildings would be a distinct benefit to agriculture in the district.

The new cattle barn will be of by 150 feet and in the words of the Belleville Fair president will be one of the finest in the province. The structure will be completely enclosed and have up-to-date facilities for the caring of livestock on show.

The cost of the three buildings, along with the installation of public washrooms to be added to the present cattle barns, will be about $86,000. On this a 50 per cent grant will be given and has been received from the Federal government, with a 25 per cent grant, or $21,500 to come from the province of Ontario.

Speaking briefly at the sod turning ceremony were Frank S. Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, and Roscoe Robson, M.L.A. for Hastings East.

Others heard included fair secretary Ben Bleecker; fair treasurer Bob. Phillips, who noted that county junior farmers would be contributing to the cost of the junior building; Don Spencer of Bloomfield; Roy Messervey, chairman of the fair board's agriculture committee; Wesley Gray, Fred Dewey and Ivan Hicks, agricultural Representative A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling; Miss Kay Homan, and county junior farmer representatives, Doug Harvey and Bob Burkitt.

Fire Destroys Garage, Car In Thurlow Twp.

Would-be rescuers early today pulled two cars from a blazing garage on the 2nd concession of Thurlow township.

Firemen said the garage at the home of Vernon Wilson was completely destroyed, while one of the autos, a 1939 model, was also a complete loss.

Mrs. Wilson said that a neighbor had woke them up at six o'clock this morning to tell them their garage was afire. They got autos in the garage, about 30 feet from the house, were pulled from the blazing structure but firemen arrived too late to save the building, a short circuit is believed to have been the cause of the fire.

On Sunday firemen were called to the asphalt mix plant on the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. on the Trent Road near Belleville. Only loss reported was a small building on the premises.

Also Sunday firemen were called to the Ellie Jewellers on Front Street for what turned out to be a false alarm. Someone saw smoke rolling around the building but investigation revealed it was coming from a chimney on Victoria Ave.

Runs for an oil burner and for a chimney blaze rounded out fire department activity for the weekend.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials marched briskly ahead today during moderate morning trading but the rest of the stock market was mixed in sluggish activity.

The industrial index gained a point at 11:30 a.m. as most key issues advanced between fractions and two points. Base metals were ahead more than one-half point, mainly on international Nickel's 1¾-point gain at 106¾. Western oils eased one-half point.

Best winner among industrials was Chartered Trust, up seven points at 59 on a 25-share sale. Trans Mountain Pipe Line gained two points at 131 in active trading and Algoma Steel and Canada Permanent Mortgage each added a point.

Ford A, trading ex-dividend, lost 2¾ points at 111 in light trading. Other price changes were fractional with gains holding a big edge over losses.

Junior metals were mixed to higher but fractional losses in the majority of senior issues dragged the mining list lower. Uraniums were slightly easier.

Western oils were extremely inactive.

Over eighty of the Highlanders and their wives made the trip. ANAF members and their wives pay a return visit to Toronto in September.

Tweed Council Requested to Pass By-Law for Monday Store Closing

TWEED — At a meeting of ma. The by-law, if passed, as district merchants held recently in Marmora, it was agreed that Monday closing of all stores in Stirling, Madoc, Marmora and Tweed will start on Monday, May 20th. At the same time, stores will start to remain open all day Wednesday. It was agreed by all merchants from the four villages that Monday closing was a logical move, and it is possible that, it will become a permanent set-up in the future. It is possible that Havelock and Norwood merchants will fall in line in a short time.

Tweed merchants are generally agreed that the Monday closing is a move in the right direction. There has been little or no objection to it here, and it is expected that all business men will fall in line with the idea.

However on Monday night, a large group of Tweed merchants approached the municipal council, requesting that a by-law be passed, obligating business men to close their premises all day Monday and to remain open all day Wednesday. The application for the by-law was generally and it will be turned over to the village solicitor for his advice.

ASSOCIATION FORMED

Max Bush, spokesman for the merchants group, explained that the association had been formed in the four towns mentioned in the first place, generally agreed that all stores would close on Mondays starting May 20th and continue throughout the year with the exception of the two Mondays prior to Christmas.

German Election Campaign Result Looks Like Toss-Up

HAMBURG, Germany (CP) — The federal election campaign is officially under way in Western Germany. The result looks like a toss-up.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, the remarkable Rhinelander who has kept West Germany firmly aligned with the Free World, seeks his third term in the election set for Sept. 15.

Some fear he may be defeated, with incalculable consequences to the Western alliance. Almost 81 apparently as brisk and efficient as ever, tells friends jokingly he is not only going to come back a chancellor, but will take over President Theodor Heuss's job when the latter retires.

There is no sign of senility in the "Old Fox," who commands more personal prestige than any other figure in the federal republic.

Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, the ruling force in Germany since Allied military government ended Sept. 21, 1949, obtained an absolute majority in the last election in Sept. September, 1953. This time new electoral laws may make its task more difficult.

Under these changes, splinter parties will be virtually eliminated, and the Christian Democrats face the danger of bowing to a coalition comprised of the Social Democrats, a Socialist party which seems committed to the right of Britain's Labor party, and the Free Democrats, formerly a liberal party, now showing right-wing tendencies.

Western observers are cautious about the results of a victory for the Social Democrats and the Free Democrats. These parties call for more strenuous efforts to get a settlement with Russia but some feel in the end their external policy will be little different from that of the Adenauer regime.

Of special interest within the Free Democrat party is a group of thrusting young men, all under 40, whose authority is centred around Duesseldorf in the Industrial heart of Germany. These "Young Turks," as they are called, are led by Wolfgang Doering, a cocky, grandstanding politician with a crew cut, a prizefighter's features and a ready command of North American slang. His future direction is uncertain but he is a figure worth watching.

THINK FIRST — THEN VOTE

The May issue of "News Letter", issued by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, contains six cartoons, variations on a familiar theme. The variations are welcome.

"Courage and faith, work and vision, have built a Canadian way of life", says the caption under the first cartoon.

The rest of the story, in five captions, is told as follows:

"John Citizen remembers the result in other lands where the sacred privilege of voting was lost."

"He exercises his precious right to vote. Upon him rests a great responsibility. Yes — and upon YOU."

"So keep informed. Read your papers — watch and listen to election broadcasts. Discuss issues with your friends."

"Make sure your name is on the voters' list."

"On election day, June 10 — Vote as you like — but Vote."

That concluding admonition, "Vote as you like — but vote," has become a familiar theme. Lately, though, it has been running into some criticism — a justified criticism, we think. The inference some were drawing, that all a citizen in a democracy had to do to discharge his responsibilities at election time was to cast his ballot, was unfortunate. From several sources came the argument that a vote cast by a person who had not bothered to study the issues at stake in the election was at least as bad, and possibly worse, than no vote at all.

Something had to be added to present a true picture of a citizen's responsibilities. The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has added it in this series of cartoons —"So keep informed. Read your papers — watch and listen to election broadcasts. Discuss issues with your friends." That advice is just as important as the exhortation to "Vote as you like — but vote." We hope it does not get divorced from the latter slogan between now and election day.

Only an informed vote is a good vote.

PIPELINE ARGUMENTS

The Trans-Canada pipeline is one of the issues in this election.

The Progressive-Conservatives are concentrating their fire on the manner in which the pipeline bill was pushed through the House of Commons a year ago. That theme is that the government's use of closure damaged our parliamentary institutions.

The CCF candidates, who joined the Progressive-Conservatives in opposing the bill, raise the same point, but appear to be placing the main stress on the contention that officials of the company were enabled, through the use of public funds, to make huge profits through the exercise of stock options. The Conservatives apparently believe that anything which could be construed as criticism of private enterprise is too dangerous for them to handle, although there is certainly a distinct difference between profit made by risking capital and profit made through the assistance of the public purse.

The Liberal defence is simple — the pipeline was started on time, the loan to the private company has been repaid and the government's action, without costing the taxpayers a cent, has speeded the utilization of a great natural resource.

The Social Credit members also supported the bill. The real reason for this support is not hard to locate — the Socred stronghold is Alberta and Alberta wants to market its natural gas as speedily as possible.

SILVER LINING

Every cloud has a silver lining.

If any resident of this area has been shut out from the sunshine of happiness by the knowledge that this is one of the worst regions in the world as far as the danger of developing goiter is concerned, the cloud has developed a rift. He may be more likely to get goiter, but he is less likely to develop cancer as the result of H-bomb experiments.

The limestone which is so abundant in this area and in much of the rest of southern Ontario, makes this a goiter area which is matched by few others — the Downs of southern England, for example.

Now, though, some curious facts have been learned about the incidence of radioactive strontium 90. It has increased sharply in Wales and in western Canada. However, where there is an abundance of limestone, or other calcium deposits, an increase of strontium 90, a by-product of nuclear explosions, is less dangerous. Instead of seeking out the calcium in the bones, and causing cancer, it is absorbed by the calcium rocks.

That lump in our throats may now be one of thankfulness.

Bat Bites Can Be Fatal

Brockville Recorder and Times

Most persons have an aversion to bats — and if such a creature suddenly lurches into the vicinity and begins swooping around, the natural reaction is to duck out of the way. It is just as well to keep away from bats—in the last few years a number of persons have been bitten by bats that have directly traced to bites from bats! A medical article in a recent issue of the New Yorker paints a picture of The New Yorker paints what could happen if bitten by so apparently "harmless" bat. Although North American bats are insectivorous and supposedly quite different from the vampire-like type that infest tropical Latin American, definite proof has been found that sufficient numbers of the creatures have become infected with rabies as well as to cause alarm whenever a bite is reported.

* * * *

The first case of a fatal bat bite occurred in Florida, October, 1951, when a woman died of rabies in Dallas, Texas. According to the report the only wound she had received occurred "one day a few weeks before" about two weeks previously. She had seen one bying on a road, picked it up with a leather glove and received a nasty nip on her left thumb.

In July of 1953 a seven-year-old boy on a cattle ranch near Tampa, Florida, was playing in a backyard when a bat burst from a clump of trees, circled and bit the boy in the chest. His father knocked it to the ground, killed it with a shovel, calmed and dressed the wound. Realizing the strangeness of the incident, was far from normal, he took its body to the state Board of Health at Gainesville, and was informed about an hour later that the boy's life was saved by the Pasteur treatment, as the immunization protection against rabies is called, requiring a subcutaneous injection of an antirabic vaccine every day for two weeks.

* * * *

This case could not be dismissed as an isolated freak of misfortune and later in September of the same year two more attacks were reported in Pennsylvania. One of these occurred in a tavern in Harrisburg when a man was bitten on the back of his hand as he attempt by a knock the creature to the floor. He was taken to the hospital by taxi where the wound was treated, but not considered serious by the intern on duty. During that evening the taxi driver told a reporter, who was riding in the same cab, of the strange experience and the reporter, realizing it was an odd story, got in touch with the health officials who found the man and returned him to hospital for the Pasteur treatment, thus saving his life.

In February of 1956 a news item from New Mexico told of the famed Carlsbad Cave bats been discovered dead and dying at quite a number. An examination of the bodies showed rabies present. While no human being had ever been known to be bitten by a bat while visiting the caverns, it was still a disturbing thought to realize that such a chance could exist.

* * * *

Rabies, it seems, is a fatal disease. No recoveries are known without the Pasteur treatment. The onset of the disease is generally mild and always indistinct — there is usually mental nerves tense and the mind begins to fear with terror and apprehension, anxiety quickening to fear. There is a vivid sense of approaching fear, certainty of death, with convulsions brought on by the slightest irritation.

It is now possible to contact rabies from the bite of a dog—but from the fox, skunk and badger, from wild animals, raccoon, beaver, squirrel and, since the early 1950's the insectivorous bat. The Ontario Provincial Health service during the last 18 months, through trained field units, have bagged about 10,000 bats in 15 different states —and 150 of these were examined for rabies! Not every bat's bite is rabid—nor is it necessary to deign to bite a human—but when and if one should, the logical and most expedient thing to do is to get to a hospital immediately and undergo thorough treatment.

Government Is Growing

Montreal Gazette

Sometimes when the increase in the number of government employees is mentioned, the answer is: "Sure Government is bigger than ever, but, after all, so is everything else. There are many more people in this country than there used to be."

But this answer does not quite meet the case. One of the interesting figures have been given by Mr. J. N. T. Bulman, manager of the Canadian Manufacturer's Association. He pointed out that in only 20 years ago, Canada had something fewer than 50,000 federal civil employees. Now, with a population of 16 million, the federal civil service numbers more than 180,000. This means that while population has increased by 50 per cent. the number of civil service has increased 260 per cent.

The matter may be put another way. In 1937 there was one federal civil servant to every 200 people in Canada. Now there is one in every 88. Expressed in form, the labour force, there were 80 Canadians at work in 1937 to every employee. Now there are only 30.

These figures relate only to permanent and prevailing rate employees in the pay of the federal Government. They do not include temporary employees of the many Crown corporations in the government enterprises, such as the CBC and Central Mortgage and Housing. Nor do the figures include all the employees of the provincial and municipal governments.

It is true that there are many more people in Canada than there used to be. But that does not explain why the proportion of government employees should be growing so astonishingly.

Unsporting 'Sportsmen'

Brockville Recorder and Times

A recent bulletin of "The Grey Goose," the official voice of the Brockville Nature Club, tells how one of the members, while on a field trip in the woods just west of town, between the golf club and the Lyn road, saw a gilded woodpecker shot to death by an unidentified hunter.

He had been watching the fine specimen through his binoculars and was shocked and angry at the shooting. He was unable to trace the hunter, who immediately left the scene after the senseless shooting. However, in order to determine the legal right and duty of a private citizen, he wrote the district office of the Department of Lands and Forests, Kemptville, Ontario, giving them full particulars of the incident.

In their prompt and courteous reply they first confirmed that all woodpeckers are protected at all times during the year under the game and fisheries act. They further stated that, if a violation such as the one described occurred, it would be advisable to immediately report it to the nearest local conservation officer:

The majority of hunters obey the game laws, but whenever they are good laws, intended to conserve the diminishing wildlife. These men will also enjoy out-of-doors and deplore the indiscriminate slaughter of any game birds. Unfortunately there are other people, whose numbers seem to be increasing, who roam the woods, especially those woods adjacent to town shooting at every creature they see.

It is regrettable that individuals such as the type who shoot birds, squirrels and rabbits and woodpeckers, also enjoy shooting deprives those who truly enjoy the outdoors, of their right to see and expect to see, wild creatures such as the pileated woodpecker, alive in their natural habitat—and not as a torn, blood-soaked mass of feathers.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DESERVE WHAT YOU GET

Blessings are God's most joyous offerings—and they surround us every day of our lives. They are given to us whether we deserve them or not. But if we do deserve them, then we should be happy human beings.

By deserving what we get in the world's benefits, we are sure to keep getting more blessings. And this helps us to distribute, from our blessings, to others. Many are the gifts and blessings that are bequeathed to us at birth, but we have to prove our worthiness to keep them.

The things we deserve are the things that are the result of what we put into them. Nothing comes to us at once, to a large degree, except the gifts of the handicaps and pains of life. None of us are permanent owners. For example, we have many a precious book that others rejoiced in before I had the opportunity to own it—and many years later someone else will love and own it.

Anything that we have earned and loved may well be treasured, but we must remember that others, later, will have the opportunity to enjoy what we have. The more you deserve that item, the more it is sure to be a part of your life, and others, when you have played your part in the scheme of things.

Not everyone gets what he most deserves. That is one of the disappointments of life. But to those one's game devotedly, honestly, and with a regard for the happiness of others is to be among the elect of the earth! If we keep, without sharing, we grow poor indeed. We must deserve what we get as well as what we make of it. Happiness is not mere ownership for a little while.

We must deserve the love of others, and their confidence in us. Character should be the first thing that is placed in us. Character is something that we distribute every day of our lives!

Minneapolis Tribune

The Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow has ordered that men should practice courtesy—ladies as holding doors for women, that citizens should button-monize in tone to avoid the "parrot look". The guests at a party should dress according to season.

A few rules would meet some skepticism in the United States—which listens should not wear her prettiest dress, and the school girls should wear no make-up for example.

Among the odd ones are the advice to remove hat gloves coat and galoshes on entering a friend's apartment before greeting the friend, and the fine point that the left glove should be removed before the right.

"Well, manners always were a good idea, and they seem an appropriate thing for the Soviet's drive for more culture. And doubtless the Communists could notice a few American customs that make no more sense than the left glove first rule.

But manners by decree, comrades? Have you ever subways packed solid, or the day is too cold for removing either glove, or the lady for whom the door might be held is striding in from a shift with the street paving crew, or a non-harmonizing costume is all one has for the season — we wonder just how fast the revolution in etiquette will come.

Good Nutrition Staves Off Most Common Ailments

"Words can never say just how I feel about your advice of a daily ration of calcium and vitamin D for those past forty (writes Mrs. M. S.).

"I had suffered a good deal with pains in shoulder, neck and arms. Had no pain in my legs, but circulation was so poor that I had restless, sleepless nights.

"I began taking my daily ration, as you suggest. So now, at 55, Ca and D is part of my daily diet, and I have started many others on the same habit supplementing their diet as I do.

Evidently Mrs. M. S., like most readers, didn't take my assurance at face value. I have said scores of times that a daily ration of calcium and vitamin D is the amount which nature gives every day to maintain good nutrition.

Any one may get an adequate daily ration of calcium entirely from food if he or she follows a high calcium diet. Very high calcium foods are milk, skim milk, buttermilk, cheese, nuts, peanuts, egg yolk, spinach, navy beans, cabbage, celery etc.

It is not so easy to get a good daily ration of vitamin D, which is necessary for good assimilation and utilization of calcium.

Few foods contain a significant amout of vitamin D — cream, fresh egg yolk, fresh caught fall herring, canned pink salmon, sardines. From the qualities of these in the ordinary diet, one can scarcely get enough D to maintain good nutrition.

Whether the pains in shoulder, neck, and arm, mentioned by Mrs. M. S., indicate rheumatic (not "arthritis" if you please), I do not surmise. Rheumatic, in my judgement, is the most likely explanation. Rheumatic is physical degeneration of joint tissues due to nutritional deficiency from early childhood up through your inadequate breakfast and pitiful lunch and sadless dinner today.

Any one who doesn't relish the thought of having to take a dietary supplement every day day from now on may avoid the necessity of doing so by changing to a high calcium diet, based on consuming a minimum of 1½ pints (three glasses) of milk daily, expanding the amount of the uncovered skin as possible to sunshine or diffuse daylight, as often as the time as possible, short of sunburn or scandal.

THE McGUFFEY READERS

Everyone knows the influence the McGuffey Readers had on a whole generation of boys and girls now grown to maturity and beyond. There is no moral force in public life which can compare with the influence these readers exerted over the minds of boys and girls a few years ago.

The story is told that when McGuffey was a youngster he was by no means a paragon of virtue. One day he hooked a venerable minister praying for boys and girls. In fact, young McGuffey, for some reason or another, happened to be in the clergyman's yard, and through an open window could hear the old gentleman's fervent prayer. The result was that he later to use that boy for the answering of the old man's prayers.

That generation would grow up a credit to God and their country. The whole generation of boys and girls now grown to maturity and beyond. There is no moral force in public life which can compare with the influence these readers exerted over the minds of boys and girls a few years ago.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The season for dawdling in the streets, department stores and parks has now upon us. All winter and during the crisper weeks of spring we have been in a hurry to get to and from places, to proceed at a normal gait on our lawful occasions. For instance, I passed by through a department store, straight and direct to the counter we had in quest of, but not once have to pause, stumble over or tack because of somebody or something standing idly before me. Without breaking step across a store a whole city block in breadth, we could proceed at the same stride we had been using on the streets. Everybody else in the store was proceeding in like fashion, full of clear purpose, intent on getting somewhere in definite goal.

But now, even before the heat of summer supplies a logical explanation of the phenomenon, the place is full of dawdlers. They wander, they pause, they stand agape. So does every city I go to the same. In the supermarkets. And even in the little neighborhood stores. Men, woman and child, they are full of a vague indecision. They block traffic. They stand in your way. With remote expressions, they walk through doors you opened for yourself to go through, mildly brushing you aside. They wander about aimlessly. They ponder irresolutely in front of counters, staring but not seeing. They walk a little this way, lose steam, come to a bewildered pause, and turn and walk a little that way. They are not sleep walking, they are day-dream-walking.

Spring is supposed to be the season of unsnapping, of new birth, of vitality, of revival. The symbols of spring are the lambs in the pastures, the birds singing madly and nesting, and young love in bloom. But spring unsnaps cycles or sport cars, filled with vim.

The truth is, spring is the dawdling season. The gimp with which it infects everyone of them spread all the limbs it the area, in comparison with the thousands and tens of thousands who, at this very time, are sitting down, loose, in baseball parks, behind race tracks, in back yards, on porches, in offices, at newspapers, behind counters, the multitude of us in the soft sweet flabby embrace of spring.

At Least One Liberal Assured Of Re-election

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's four weeks to voting day but at least one member of the last House of Commons was expected to learn today that he has been re-elected by acclamation.

Liberal C. W. Carter of the Newfoundland south coast riding of Burin-Burgeo was the only candidate still without the prospect of opposition as the deadline approached for filing nominations in 71 constituencies scattered across Canada.

Provincial President Leslie Marshall of the Progressive Conservative party said Saturday Mr. Carter would go unopposed "as far as we're concerned, unless something hopeful turns up, which is very unlikely."

In another Newfoundland riding Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, Liberal T. G. W. Ashbourne was without an opponent but St. John's grocer Gene Broomfield was expected to get the nod before the close of nominations to represent the Conservatives.

TWO IN EACH

At least two candidates were nominated for each of the other ridings.

Candidates had until 2 p.m. local standard time to file nomination papers and pay their deposit to qualify for the June 10 federal election.

The 34 constituencies with early nomination days, to facilitate delivery of ballots and other election supplies, include five in Newfoundland, two in Quebec, three in Ontario, one in Manitoba, three in Saskatchewan, three in Alberta, two in British Columbia, the one Yukon seat and Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

Nominations in the other 262 ridings—two of them returning two members—close two weeks from today.

TOTAL 68

A compilation by The Canadian Press showed 68 candidates nominated for the 21 constituencies by the weekend. The Liberals are contesting all 21, with one of their candidates, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris, William Benidickson, running as Liberal-Labor in Kenora - Rainy River against CCF and Progressive Conservative opposition.

Progressive Conservatives had 19 candidates, with Mr. Broomfield expected to be the 20th.

The CCF has candidates in 11 of the constituencies, and Social Credit eight.

Two party leaders are among those nominated — John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative, in Prince Albert where he has CCF and Liberal opposition, and Solon Low, Social Credit, in Peace River where there are Progressive Conservative, Liberal and CCF opponents.

TWO MINISTERS

Also included are two cabinet ministers, Immigration Minister Pickersgill, opposed by a Conservative in Bonavista - Twillingate, and Trade Minister Howe, facing Conservative and CCF opposition in Port Arthur.

There were two acclamations in the 1953 election, both to Liberals. However, on that occasion they resulted from withdrawal of candidates after nomination day.

Mr. Pickersgill's opponent is John Pissent, Progressive Conservative. Mr. Howe faces D. M. Fisher, CCF, and Miss Ina Vigars, Progressive Conservative.

Mr. Diefenbaker's opponents are R. M. Gooding, CCF, and R. E. Partridge, Liberal and Mr. Low is opposed by G. W. Baldwin, Progressive Conservative, C. J. Lambert, CCF, and Howard McRae, Liberal.

Constituencies where nominations closed today are:

Newfoundland: Bonavista - Twillingate, Burin-Burgeo, Grand Falls Whitebay-Labrador, Humber - St. George's, Trinity-Conception.

Quebec: Chapleau, Saguenay.

Ontario: Cochrane, Kenora-Rainy River, Port Arthur.

Manitoba: Churchill.

Saskatchewan: Mackenzie, Meadow Lake, Prince Albert.

Alberta: Athabaska, Jasper-Edson, Peace River.

British Columbia: Caribou, Skeena.

Yukon and Northwest Territories: Yukon, Mackenzie River.

Campaigners Give Chords Long Rest During Weekend

The June 10 federal election battle rejoins today.

The campaigners gave their vocal chords Sunday off. But a few echoes lingered from a Saturday night.

John Diefenbaker was the only party leader actively campaigning Saturday. But, like the others, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, Mr. Coldwell swings back into action today at Toronto while Mr. Low resumes his activities in Edmonton after flying there from a visit to Ottawa.

Mr. Diefenbaker left Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sunday for an overnight train trip to Toronto. He speaks there and in Guelph today.

HITS HOUSE LACK

Winding up a fast-moving jaunt through Northern Ontario, the Conservative leader chose house-short Elliot Lake, booming new uranium centre in the Algoma district, to describe federal housing policy there as "another example that a government long in power does not seem to meet the needs and desires of the Canadian people."

An Independent Conservative, John Boland, told a Toronto meeting communism should again be outlawed—as it was during the Second World War—"as a necessary first step towards the elimination of Communist subversion and conspiracy from the country."

"If people are guilty, let them be charged," said Mr. Boland, campaigning for Toronto Parkdale. "Let our people be given an opportunity to defend themselves against accusations contained in secret police dossiers."

He believed E. Herbert Norman, former Canadian ambassador to Egypt, killed himself "because he was never given a reasonable opportunity to clarify his position before the world."

NOT ENOUGH

Labor Minister Gregg in Elora, says, said he thinks the Liberal government has not done enough to solve the problems of agriculture. But the government had tried to do something about a problem to which nobody at present knew the answer.

Conservative Donald Fleming, campaigning for re-election in Toronto Eglinton, told a Cowansville, Que., audience Trade Minister Howe is the "real government of Canada, a man who does not hide his contempt for Parliament."

Health Minister Martin at Wingham, lamented the loss of ridings by small majorities in the last general election and urged Wellington-Huron Liberals to put more effort into the campaign to see that it does not happen again.

Mr. Martin was speaking at a Liberal rally here on behalf of Arnold Darroch who will contest the seat June 10. Mr. Darroch lost in 1953 to Marvin Howe, Pro-

Belleville Wins From Renfrew In Chess League

Belleville Chess Club defeated Renfrew by a 5-0 score here yesterday, in the final match of Eastern Ontario Chess League schedule.

This was the first year of the league's operations. The local club won two matches, against Renfrew and Pembroke, tied one, against Ottawa, and lost to Cornwall. The sixth entry in the league, Hull, did not keep its date with the local club. Final standing in the league is not known here, but last reports were that Ottawa was in first place.

Following are the results of games played yesterday, the Belleville player being named first in each case: Martin Hamelink defeated Alf Holton; H. S. "Bud" Ellis defeated Bob Winslade; Vic DePaul defeated Peter Latiner; Willi Hindorfe defeated John Paterson; Heinz Wolfe defeated Al Thomas.

gressive Conservative, by 77 votes.

At Prince Albert, Sask., George Hees, Progressive Conservative seeking re-election June 10 for Toronto-Broadview, said Saturday night Prime Minister St. Laurent's campaigning for the federal election has been "dull and boring."

Mr. Hees described the 75-year-old Mr. St. Laurent as a "tired old man who prefers to live in the past" and said the prime minister's campaign "is running like a dry creek . . . "On the other hand, Mr. Diefenbaker is outlining in a dynamic and forthright manner, the policies which a Conservative government will put into effect. The result has been an enthusiastic reception by overflow audiences wherever he has gone."

Stratford Festival

By ROBERT TANNER

With singular appropriateness, next Dominion Day will see the opening of Stratford's fifth Shakespearan Festival, an event which in the few short years since 1953 has achieved a Canada-wide importance and world-wide fame. Opening night at the Festival is always a gala occasion, but this year it will have the added significance of coinciding with the opening of the new permanent theatre.

Looking back year by year over the history of the Festival, it is hard to realize that so much has happened so quickly. The first opening night in 1953, as Alec Guinness stepped out onto the balcony as the malevolent Richard III, provided an astonishing fulfillment of a long held dream; which first one, then a few, of Stratford's citizens has nursed into reality through an alarming series of crises. Now, in 1957, the Festival appears to have established for itself a place in the world of drama as assured and permanent as the new theatre which has risen phoenix like on the site of the tent, on the banks of the Avon.

For this year's program, the authorities have chosen two of Shakespeare's best known plays, "Hamlet" and "Twelfth Night." Christopher Plummer, the young Montreal actor who last year played Henry V with unusual sincerity, takes the part of Hamlet, which Siobhan McKenna, an extremely talented actress from Dublin's famous Abbey Players, plays Viola. As before, most of the remaining roles will be played by Canadians who have established their reputations in earlier festivals, and who now rank very high among the World's Shakespearean actors.

But the Stratford Festival is no longer one of drama alone in films, music (both classical and jazz), art and literature all have their place. The film festival, which runs from July 8 to July 20, features movie classics from all over the world, as well as many new films never before shown in Canada. The third annual season of Music introduces to Canada another Benjamin Britten opera "The Turn of the Screw" which will be presented by the English Opera Group under the baton of the composer himself. Well known English tenor, Peter Pears will play a leading role.

Other concerts will be given by the C.B.C. Symphony Orchestra conducted by Walter Susskind, Heinz Unger and Thomas Mayer. These last two musicians made a great impression on audiences at last year's festival. Soloists with the orchestra will be Lois Marshall and Betty - Jean Hagen. In addition, an outstanding series of jazz concerts has been planned including programs by Count Basie and his orchestra, the Ron Collier Quintet, the Gerry Mulligan Quartet and the Teddy Wilson Trio. The music festival extends from July 31st to September 6th.

Art and Literature are represented by exhibitions of outstanding Fine and Graphic Arts, a collection of festival costumes and designs, a theatre exhibition, and a book exhibit sponsored by the Canadian Book Publishers Association.

Further information regarding this year's Stratford Festival may be obtained by telephoning Woodland 8-8120.

Bishop Evans Confirms 46 At St. Thomas'

A full congregation was in St. Thomas' Church on Sunday evening for the sacred rite of confirmation when the Right Reverend K. C. Evans, D.D., D.C.L. officiated.

A choir of boys and adults entered the church singing the processional hymn, "Holy Holy Holy Lord of Love". The Rev. C. P. Heaven then acted as Bishop's Chaplain escorting him to his chair at the chancel steps for the presentation of the candidates.

Following the preface, the lesson was read by the Rector, Canon A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., Th. The "Veni Creator" hymn followed. The Bishop then said the choir prefaced the actual act of confirmation with the words "Defend, O Lord, this Thy Servant" the ancient rite of the Laying of Hands was bestowed upon 46 persons who knelt before the Bishop to receive his blessing.

ADDRESS TO CONGREGATION

In his address to the congregation the Bishop first urged the young people present to consider the vocation of the Christian ministry and urged all the newly confirmed to take a full part in the life of the church. Taking two texts, "Eternal life is manifest in Jesus Christ", and "He saved others himself he cannot save" he said that he had read an old Latin hymn for Pentecost and found that the word 'manifested' was translated to 'conspicuous', and the word, 'saved', to 'serve'. Basing his remarks on these texts he urged that we bring them into every day life, asking the congregation to be conspicuous in their Church life, and to serve as Jesus Christ had served.

The Bishop then led the prayer of R. H. Bell, Mus. Bac. A.C.C.O., "Come Holy Ghost our Soule Inspire", was most fitting to the occasion. The fine singing of Mrs. F. W. Newman, in the opening solo part was well supported by the choir in the remainder of the hymn. The Offertory hymn was "Take up Thy Cross, the Saviour Said".

Following the benediction by the Lord Bishop, the choir left the chancel singing the recessional hymn "O Lord, How Joyful 'Tis to See".

WEDDINGS

MESSER—HULL

Tall white standards of lovely white chrysanthemums and daffodils, interspersed with ferns, adorned the chancel rail, and white 'mums the altar in St. John's Anglican Church, Point Anne, on Saturday, April 27, at 4.00 p.m. for a double-ring wedding when Maxine Ann Hull, of Point Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, became the bride of William Ruggles Messer of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Messer. The Reverend L. Arthur Page officiated.

Miss Diane Whitehead, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Glenda Doxtator, who sang, during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer," and at the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Hull, was charmingly gowned in white Chantilly lace over white satin, featuring a fitted bodice with scalloped, scooped neckline and three - quarter sleeves. She wore matching Chantilly lace mitts. The ballerina-length skirt was of Chantilly lace over satin. Her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace and tulle, encrusted with seed pearls and sequins, held her shoulder-length veil of embroidered tulle illusion. A single strand of cultured pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of garnet roses, white stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Miss Jacqueline Hull, of Point Anne, attended her sister as maid of honor. She entered in blue taffeta with fitted, pleated bodice, having a scoop neckline, and short, puffed sleeves. She wore white mitts, and a headdress of matching gray organza matching her gown. The bouffant ballerina-length skirt was accented at the back with a large bow. Her flowers were yellow 'mums mingled with white stephanotis and streamers, in Colonial shape.

Mr. Carolyn Hull, of Point Anne, also a sister, was bridesmaid, gowned similarly to that of the maid of honor, but in yellow with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a Colonial bouquet of blue 'mums in yellow and blue tulle and streamers.

Mr. Robert Hull, brother of the bride, of St. Catharines, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. "Billy" Jose, of Belleville, assisted the bride and bridegroom; Mr. Ronald Hull, of Point Anne, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gerald Cockwell, of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Orange Hall, Point Anne, which was prettily decorated for the occasion with pink and white garlands and white bell decorations.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Robert Hull, received the guests wearing silver-grey taffeta with pink blue accessories, and corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. William Messer, assisted in the receiving line, gowned in brown, figured taffeta with pink accessories, and corsage of red roses.

For the wedding-trip to Watertown, Syracuse, and Boston, the bride chose a navy blue ensemble with navy hat, white gloves and pale blue cashmere clutch coat and corsage of red roses and lily. Mr. Messer will reside in Woodstock.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom, tie clip, with matching cuff links; to her attendants, single strand pearls with matching earrings, and to her soloist and organist, cologne.

FIND SPOTTED STAR

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—New findings about a strange spotted star—it has spots like a leopard—were described Saturday to the American Astronomical Society. The spots, or metals in it apparently are concentrated toward one magnetic pole of the star, said Dr. Armin J. Deutsch of the Mt. Wilson and Mt. Palomar Observatories, Calif.

WHALEN—PITT

In the sanctuary of Holy Rosary Roman Catholic Church, Belleville, Saturday, April 27, at 3.00 p.m. a double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized when Helen Theresa, daughter of Mrs. Ambrose Pitt, Corbyville, and the late Mr. Pitt, became the bride of Maurice Desmond Whalen, son of Mrs. Thomas Whalen, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Whalen.

The Rev. Michael Simson performed the ceremony and said the nuptial mass.

Present in the sanctuary were the Rev. Father Bricelend, of Read, and Rev. Father O'Neill of Stirling.

The altar was decorated with yellow daffodils and white 'mums.

Music was played by Mr. Dean Whalen, brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Carolyn Forhan was soloist. During the mass she sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day."

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride chose a white, floor-length gown with a lace bodice outlined with net and full skirt of lace and net. Over this was worn a lace jacket with lily-point sleeves and small Peter Pan collar outlined with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil of lace was worn with a headdress of nylon tulle, enhanced with tiny seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary Pitt of Corbyville, sister of the bride; bridesmaid was Mrs. Rita Wilbur, sister of the bridegroom, of Moneton, New Brunswick. They were identical gowns of sky blue lace over taffeta, and carried bouquets of sweetpeas and white 'mums. They were matching headdresses.

The flower girl was Miss Dawn Whalen, niece of the bridegroom, frocked in yellow taffeta with over dress of nylon net, matching headdress. She carried a basket of mauve and yellow 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Guy Hughes, uncle of the bridegroom, and second attendant was Mr. Jack Pitt, brother of the bride.

The ushers were Mr. Blake Wilbur, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. Joe Pitt, brother of the bride.

Refreshments were served and the gifts were displayed at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

Dinner was served at Holy Rosary Hall to about 125 guests. The bride's mother received the guests in a flowered silk dress with charcoal grey duster, light grey accessories and corsage of yellow 'mums.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, in turquoise satin with light grey corded silk duster, blue accessories and corsage of American beauty roses.

Following a motor trip to Niagara Falls and around Lake Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Whalen will reside at 44 Gordon St., Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Dearborn, Mich.; Barrie; Toronto; Peterborough; Tweed and Rochester.

SAUCER FIZZLES

AMIENS, France (Reuters)—Another flying saucer report fizzled out Saturday with a police explanation that the excited villagers actually had a lantern carried over a bill by a farmer's wife. The police chief of Albert, a town of 9,000 population near here, said: "The whole affair is nothing but a case of hallucination. He had received telephone calls all day about the reported landing of a saucer in fields near there.

MENTAL TELEPATHY —FACT OR FAKE?

A vast amount of factual data indicates that mental telepathy is a reality more than an old wife's tale. The evidence that some people can receive messages without any visible means of communication is increasing day by day.

How conclusive is the evidence? Can this amazing power be controlled?

Dr. Gardner Murphy, leading U.S. psychologist, reports on the investigations happening of thought transference in a three issue series of unusual articles starting this week in The Star Weekly. You'll be surprised and fascinated.

Offer to Aid Immigrants Results in 2,700 Replies

GUELPH (CP)—Canadians from coast to coast have offered aid to Miss Ann Sullivan, who volunteerily set up a one-woman immigration bureau here with a one-sentence letter to a United Kingdom newspaper.

International news coverage was given to her letter, stating that she would like to help people thinking of emigrating, and to the fact that she got 2,700 replies.

Reports of the response appeared in newspapers across Canada and she was interviewed for the BBC's radio and TV service.

She also found she was getting offers of assistance for the staggering amount of work she let herself in for. Canadians from Newfoundland to British Columbia wrote to her offering their help.

Many letters came from new Canadians, evidently from such countries as the U.K., Germany, Holland, France, Greece, Norway, the United States, Poland and the Ukraine, offering employment of some kind or another to her correspondents.

VARIOUS JOBS

Most of the jobs offers were for farmers, housekeepers, fruit or vegetable pickers and factory workers. A Saskatchewan lawyer asked Mrs. Sullivan to supply him with a list of correspondents in trades so that he could obtain help from the Saskatchewan government in placing them in jobs.

A high school principal in a small northern town asked her to supply him with the names of a tailor, a shoe-repairer and a dentist. He got all three.

Mrs. Sullivan is especially thankful to the citizens of Guelph. Within minutes of the first report of her plight, she began to receive offers of aid.

High school principal Leeme Fox got his commercial students to draft and duplicate form letters. An elderly man and his sister recorded the names and addresses of the 200-odd letters that poured in each day. A local business man gave Mrs. Sullivan the services of his secretary.

MAILING SERVICE

The Toronto Telegram supplied its booklet Guide for Newcomers, build the postage and mailed Mrs. Sullivan's replies.

"There were so many people seeking for help that I felt I just had to help them," she says. "Knowing that people were 100 feet behind me gave me the courage to face an appallingly heavy daily task."

To complicate matters further, she has found that people in the United Kingdom have clipped her offer, and mailed it to other countries.

Besides her United Kingdom mail, she has received letters of inquiry from India, Australia, New Zealand, the Bahamas and the United States.

"Letters are still arriving," she says, with what may be a sigh of relief, "but there are not nearly so many now."

A triple-trio of lady teachers from the Belleville Public Schools under the leadership of Miss Orville Ray sang two numbers, "Look for the Silver Lining" and "Lift Thine Eyes". Thanks were extended to Mr. Mathews by Mrs. Norma Powell and to Miss May and her group and to the ladies of Alkens Church for the catering by Mrs. Wanda Sine. ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT'S TIME TO TAKE A DEFINITE STEP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I've been married for ten years, and shortly after my marriage my husband fell in love with one of my sisters. My husband and I have two nice children and my sister also has two. Her husband works away from home all the time.

My oldest child has begun to notice how my sister and my husband act, and it makes him ask so many questions. I don't know how to answer him. They'll go into a room by themselves and act like teenagers. They also go driving by themselves in the evenings. I know they're having an affair.

My husband won't let me kiss him or even be near him, and if I ever ask him if a coat that I made fits me nicely, he'll say "Give it to your sister."

Can you give me some advice on what I can or should do? Sometimes it seems that my heart will burst. — Heartbroken Wife

Dear Heartbroken Wife:

It seems to me that in this situation you would be quite justified in writing a letter to your sister's husband telling him that. If he's going to be so much away from home all the time, he had better adjust his living arrangements so that his wife and children can be with him. You don't need to come right out and tell him just what's going on. If he comes to you and asks you what you mean by your letter, tell him to ask his wife. You might say that you think she is very lonely without him.

I'm suggesting that you write this letter, instead of speaking to your sister yourself—though you probably would have done this already—because I'm quite sure that speaking to her would do no good. All that would happen, if you did, I think, would be that she might start coming to your house, and your husband and she would simply meet outside.

I don't think it would do any good either, for you to threaten your husband and your sister by saying you would inform her husband unless they put an end to their relationship. For here, again, they might say that they would put an end to it and then simply carry it on elsewhere.

If you do write this letter to her husband, it's quite likely that you may have trouble with your own husband. But since he already treats you so badly, you haven't much to lose there.

If you prefer to talk this all over personally with someone you know and trust, before making a move on your own, then go to your minister or priest, or find out where your local family welfare organization is and ask there for an appointment to discuss a serious family problem.

If you have any way of supporting yourself and your children, I'd suggest that, if all else fails, without any advance notice to your husband whatever, you and the children pack up and leave, sending him a letter after you've done this and telling him that you're ready to come home again any time he can assure you that he intends to be the right sort of husband to you.

Such a man as your husband is not, I'm afraid, likely to change his ways if you simply put up with them. If you're ever going to have any influence over him at all, you'll have to show him that you mean business. So I think it's high time you took a definite step.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

PROFESSIONAL CHECK-UPS FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Yes, these are four important men in your life. Make "dates" with them often.

Regular appointments with a hairdresser and manicurist are listed on the calendar of a great many beauty-conscious women.

So consider that, in keeping them, they are doing all that is necessary in the cause of pulchritude. But are they?

The answer to this question is a dozen, resounding "No!"

Your hairdresser can make your hair look pretty, of course, your manicurist will do wonders with your nails and, if you go in for facials, the salon operator can literally cream years off your complexion. But, let's face it, girls, these are but surface embellishments. And beauty contrary to the old adage, goes much deeper than the skin. Beauty is so dependent upon good health that the two inevitably go hand in hand. To retain your loveliness, therefore, it is necessary to seek a great deal more professional help than that which is found in the cosmetic beauty salon.

Let's begin with your doctor. Have a medical check-up at least once a year. You may be gaining a few excess pounds without realizing it, and your doctor would be the first to put you on a proper diet before the unneeded pounds age gets out of bonds. A checkup will also reveal the type and amount of exercise which suits you as an individual. It will reveal if you are eating the proper foods; and only the proper foods will give you the radiant complexion and lustrous hair that every woman desires. He'll advise you how your skin problems, make other suggestions in the interests of your health — and, incidentally, your looks.

Then there's your dentist. You should see him twice a year or more often if necessary. Some women never call their dentists until they have a toothache—only to find that it's not one tooth, but several that need treatment. Regular check-ups can prevent these long, arduous, and often costly dental sessions. Well-kept teeth are not only pretty but they are necessary if food is to be thoroughly masticated and, therefore, well digested. And don't underestimate the value of good digestion when it comes to your looks.

The chiropodist is another important man in your life. So don't neglect regular visits to him. If your feet are "killing you", it shows in your face and in your posture. So why go around with corns and calluses when, for a very modest fee, you can have them removed and step out "on a cloud"?

And, last, but far from least, there's your oculist. If you wear glasses, your vision should be checked regularly to see whether adjustments are needed in your "spec" prescription. And, if you don't wear them but suspect that you might need them, don't put off finding out. Aside from the importance of glasses to your vision, there's nothing so ruinous to a woman's looks as the wrinkles and "crow's feet" caused by endless squinting and eyestrain.

GOOD MANNERS

SHOULD THEY SEND MONEY-GIFT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I have just received a formal invitation to the church wedding and to the reception (at a large hotel here) of the only daughter of him immediate superior in his company. Although of course my husband knows the bride's father very well, he and I do not know the family at all well. My husband says he has heard that the bride would prefer to have gifts of money, but we aren't sure about this, and of course we very much want to do the correct thing. Would you advise that we give money at our wedding present?

A.H.

This is the last thing I would advise . . . please don't ever consider doing it. Put on your thinking cap and plan to send to the bride-to-be a present you hope she'll enjoy using in their new home.

INTRODUCING THE BRIDE TO THE GROOM'S RELATIVES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son was married in a distant state, and after their wedding trip he and his bride will come to live here where we live. As soon as possible after they arrive, I plan to give a reception for them, principally to introduce the bride to our relatives and friends. Please tell me how to introduce her, especially whether to use her married name. — mother that son

Since the bride will be the guest of honor and will stand with you to receive the guests who will naturally know her "married name," I don't see this name-formality. For example, in introducing her to a relative, "Anne, dear this is Don's Aunt Grace." To neighbor, "Anne, this is Mrs. Thompson, who has been our neighbor for many years." Or, "Anne, here are a few friends of ours, Mrs. Hill, Mr. Hill."

WIDOW SHOULD ACCEPT THESE THOUGHTFUL INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband died very recently, and I feel so sad and bereft, for we were such perfect companions. I have one child, a married daughter who lives some distance from me and who has a part-time position in the late-afternoon and early evening. This means that she and her husband can't be with me very much. Several of my good friends have invited me to come to have dinner with them, assuring me that the dinner would be in their homes and there would be no other guests. I long to accept these invitations, and see no real reason why I shouldn't. But my daughter thinks this would not be proper. Please advise me. — Sad Widow

I'm so glad you wrote me, for this gives me the opportunity to urge you please to accept these kind and so-understanding invitations. This is just what you should do. Just what you need, just what will be helpful to you . . . to go to the homes of these good friends (and good they are indeed), and have the needed change of dining with them instead of being alone in these always-difficult early-evening hours. You have most thoughtful friends . . . accept their thoughtfulness in the same understanding spirit they have shown. You need this warm friendliness.

Let's Eat Our Way Through The Wheat Surplus

MONDAY

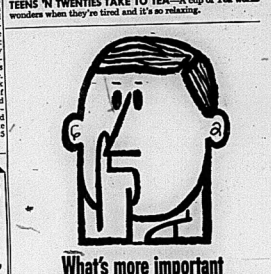
Tomato or Vegetable Juice, Smoked Haddie in Parsley White Sauce, Cubed Buttered Turnips, Cauliflower, Baked Rice Pudding, Coffee.

Could I persuade you to try your griddle cakes half and half with white and whole wheat flour? Next time?

I have mentioned to you in this column my friends, Dr. and Mrs. Outerbridge. Last night Dr. Outerbridge said to me that the majority of Japanese people in Japan live on a diet consisting mostly of rice. They are wonderfully active and intelligent people too.

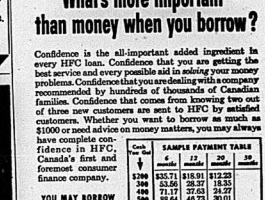
Here in Canada, we have a chronic surplus of the best wheat in the world and can't (or won't) sell it; and what we do eat we de-vitalize by stripping it of life-giving qualities. What is the matter with us? Are we sheep? Are we so dull-witted we can't plan our diets to save our lives, literally?

If we ate our Canadian wheat and ate it in its whole wheat form, we'd do ourselves a double service: we'd consume that surplus and increase our health-fulness and efficiency. Okay. Let's get on with the flap jacks.



Half and Half Griddle Cakes: Three-quarters of a cup each each stirred but not sifted white flour and whole wheat flour; 3½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 1¼ cups milk, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ½ teaspoon vanilla (optional). Sift dry ingredients together, tipping the bran left in sifter into the bowl, too. Add remaining ingredients and beat until perfectly smooth. Drop by spoonfuls on to a preheated unoiled griddle. Bake until full of bubbles. Turn and bake other side. This amount makes 18 medium size griddle cakes.

Here's a honey of a recipe for you bakers with sweet-toothed families:



Honey Nut Buns: Scald 1 cup milk, stir in ¼ cup lightly packed brown sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ cup shortening. Cool to lukewarm. In meantime, measure into bowl ½ cup lukewarm water, stir in 2 teaspoons sugar, sprinkle with the contents of 2 envelopes active dry yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Stir in the lukewarm milk mixture and add 1 egg well-beaten. Stir in mixture of 1¼ cups whole wheat flour and 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour. Beat well for 2 minutes or until batter is smooth and elastic. Scrape down sides of bowl. Cover with damp cloth. Let rise in warm place, free from draft until doubled in bulk. About 40 minutes. While this is rising make the following Honey Syrup: Combine 3 tablespoons lightly packed brown sugar, ½ cup liquid honey, and 1¼ tablespoons melted butter or margarine. When dough is doubled in bulk stir well. Put 2 teaspoons of Honey Syrup into well-greased muffin tins along with 1 tablespoon of chopped walnuts and fill to ¾ full with batter. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Makes 12 buns.

Fifty Awards for Heroism By Canadian Humane Society Includes One Silver Medal

TORRENTO (CP) — A silver medal, only the 15th handed out in history, was among the 50 awards for heroism announced tonight by the Royal Canadian Humane Association. For bravery in 1956.

Among other awards was a bronze medal for a 66-year-old man in Chateauguay, Que., and a parchment certificate for a four-year-old heroine in Harrop, B.C., youngest person ever to receive a bravery award from the association.

The silver medal winner is Louis Fabry of Montreal, who was crossing a bridge to a dam, near St. Timothee, north of Montreal, when he spotted a motorboat with four persons aboard battling the heavy current. The boat capsized and he dived in to save two women. He again entered the water with another man to pull the sinking boat, to which a man and girl were clinging, to safety.

SAVED FROM TRAIN

U. J. Bourdon, 66-year-old retired railroader, receives the bronze medal for saving little Carole Bolduc who was caught in the rails as a freight train was approaching at Chateauguay on Sept. 22. He struggled to free the girl, at the same time time giving the engineer of the train the signal for the emergency brake to be applied. The train was only a few feet distant when he extricated the girl and jumped to safety.

Lois Anderson, four years old, receives a parchment certificate for rescuing 18-months-old Gloria Brooks from drowning in a water hole at Harrop, B.C., last Oct. 25.

Besides the silver medal, the awards list has eight bronze medals and 41 parchment certificates.

Most of the parchment certificates set a precedent by awards to members of the police force. They were granted to Constable H. D. Bowyer and Acting Corporal K. M. McHale of the RCMP at Invermere, B.C., for a quarry rescue which the association says it felt was an instance of action beyond the call of duty.

Parchment certificates also were awarded to two organizations, the British Columbia Mountaineering Club and the Alpine Club of Canada, for participating in the rescue Oct. 20 of Alick Patterson, stranded for five days on a narrow rock ledge in Mount Seymour.

BRONZE MEDALS

Awards of the bronze medal included:

Orrin Watson, Ruby Lake, B.C., who dived into the lake to bring out three persons whose car had skidded into the water on Dec. 25. One was revived, but the two others were drowned.

Wayne Peters, 12, Sydenham, Ont., who rescued a woman from drowning in Black Lake on July 8.

Joseph Schormann, Quebec City, who tried unsuccessfully to save R. H. T. Gordon after he fell down a ladder on an inspection of various tanks in the motorship Chapman.

Douglas Manuel, Lester Andrews, Christopher Sturgess and Leo Kean, who combined in operations to tow a burning oil tanker out of Port at Twillingate, Nfld., before it exploded on Sept. 6.

PARCHMENT CERTIFICATES

In addition to Louis Anderson, parchment certificates are awarded the following:

Billy Graham to Open Huge Drive for Souls in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — A tall, lanky evangelist from the hill country strides into the midst of one of the world's greatest cities this week to open a flower-packed call to God.

Billy Graham, a roving preacher who has stirred the multitudes with his message in hamlets and cities around the globe, is opening his drive to rouse the giant.

"New York," he said, "is our new Jerusalem."

For three months now, Graham has been in semi-seclusion at his mountainside home near Montreat, N.C., plowing his garden, shearing sheep, planting grass — and studying and praying for his keenest test.

"It is the greatest opportunity and responsibility I've ever had," he said in a telephone interview.

SIX-WEEK STAND

The crusade begins next Wednesday night (MAY 15) in the 20,000 - seat arena of Madison Square Garden, and will continue nightly for at least six weeks.

In confronting New York city, crossroads of mixed races, beliefs and influences, Graham said he does so with trepidations at his "inadequacies and lack of ability" but with "complete dependence on God."

"It is our hope," he said, "that the crusade will revive the churches with new energies, that it will bring the secret disciples out of their hiding places, making them like a mighty army, thinking and discussing religion."

If widespread organization, advance activity, prayer and Graham's past performances are any index, the campaign seems destined to command a lot of attention and involve a lot of people.

But what the solid results will be, Graham said, "we will have to wait and see."

MAY AFFECT WHOLE NATION

"If there is a spiritual awakening in New York it will make an impact on the entire nation," he said. "But awakening in this mighty city will be of necessity by and of the holy spirit of God."

More than 1,500 of New York city's Protestant churches have pitched in to supply 4,000 singers (1,500 nightly), 2,800 ushers (600 a night), and 4,000 counsellors, trained over a nine-week period.

And at this moment, as Graham has urged, New York is probably "the most prayed-for spot on the face of the earth."

More than 2,000 "prayer groups" (1,500 of them in 47 foreign countries), including altogether about 2,000,000 people, have sent word they are meeting regularly to pray for the success of the crusade.

SPECIAL CHALLENGE

The city is only 25 per cent Protestant. It's about 45 per cent Roman Catholic, 25 per cent Jewish and five per cent Eastern Orthodox. Of this total is religious background, only about 45 per cent are active in any church.

Several Catholic spokesmen, intrigued criticism and praise of Graham, have emphasized that their church disapproves members attending such Protestant-type services, but concede many of them probably will attend anyhow.

Jewish leaders have expressed no objection to members attending the services.

Rev. Dr. John Sutherland Bonnell, Canadian-born pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church predicted that during the crusade religion will displace "baseball and the New East" as the chief topic of conversation.

Dr. Jesse M. Bader, former head of the evangelism department of the National Council of Churches, forecast the crusade will "lift the moral and spiritual tone of this entire community of 12,000,000."

Thousands of posters and stickers, Hear Billy Graham, are up throughout the city. Many out-of-town groups have chartered special trains and bus trips to take in the crusade.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Herbie Score may not know it, but the popular young Cleveland Indians mound star has quite a following in this neck of the Canadian hinterlan woods. This department has received several phone calls from fans asking about the youngster's condition since he was struck in an eye by a blazing drive off the bat of the Yankees Gil McDougald.

Late reports say Score will be OK, although the actual extent of the eye injury was not known at this time of writing. The injury to the popular young hurler was unfortunate, yet the records say that similar incidents or accidents have occured with greater and lesser results.

Babe Ruth always had a fear that one of his blasting drives might hit and kill a pitcher. The Babe was lucky—yet, on one occasion one of his screaming line drives went through a pitcher's legs and pocketed over the head of the centrefielder. That was the Ruthian power.

Oldtime baseball fans will recall the only fatality in major league history. It came in 1920 when Carl Mays, a Yankee submarine hurler, tried to blast a ball past Ray Chapman of the Cleveland Indians. The ball struck Chapman on the head and killed him. Yet Mays continued to pitch for many years.

Another incident recalled is that of the extraordinary double play which followed the "beaning" of Ed Linke, a Washington pitcher. With a runner on first the batter lashed a drive at Linke. The ball hit him on the head and caromed back to the catcher, That gentleman caught the ball on the fly and doubled a runner off first. The damage to Linke? A headache.

Then of course is the prize story involving "Ole Diz." The Great Man, in moments when he was ahead of the foe, was not averse to letting them concoct a hit or two off him, after the chance of a no-hitter was gone.

A favorite of the Great Man was Burgess Whitehead who had once been a team-mate. Diz was coasting against the Giants at the Polo Grounds one day when Whitey came to bat. Dean frowned one, Whitehead, a sliver of a chap, hit a line drive in true Bambino fashion. It ricocheted off the Deanian noggin and went all the way to the right-field bull pen.

When the Great Man regained consciousness, brother Paul was peering down at him anxiously. Diz felt his head.

"Is they a knob on my haid?" he asked.

"Naw, Diz," soothed Paul, "T'warn't nuthin. Didn't hitya nuthin' but a glancin' blow."

However, baseball fandom in the United States, Canada and wherever the game is popular, is pulling for the popular young Indians hurler, who is heralded as a left-handed Bob Feller. This department will see him work on the television "Game of the Week" a while back and through the cameras' eyes saw the youngster close up. It was a picture to behold. The tall handsome southpaw, a vision of handsome grace on the mound, was something to see. His curve nicked the corners as though measured. His fast ball was a white blob coming straight through the picture tube.

And popular Gil McDougald feels badly about the whole thing. He cried in the dugout after the accident and later said "If he loses his sight, I'm going to quit this game."

"Tell Mae not to worry," came the word from the stricken hurler. "It wasn't his fault." Later McDougald said: "What I said was on the spur of the moment. Things look better today."

Both statements are in character with these fine young athletes. It was an accident and should not create a guilt complex on the part of McDougald.

An eye specialist said yesterday he is encouraged by the progress being made by Score. "Herb is responding nicely to treatment and the eye is much better," Dr. Charles I. Thomas said following an inspection of the ace southpaw's injury. "The blood clot is about half absorbed and the well is gradually lifting. I'm very much encouraged about things."

Reds Take Pair From Cubs But Milwaukee Keeps Pace; Indians Climb Into Third

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Robinson, National League rookie of the year in 1956, has replaced ailing Ted Kluszewski as the "big man" of the runaway Redlegs from Cincinnati.

While the Redlegs were tying their own modern club record by winning 12 in a row, all on the road Robinson was busy hammering out a 12-game consecutive hitting streak. The 21-year-old left fielder-first baseman now leads the league with a .396 average. During the 12-game span he batted at a .452 clip and produced five doubles, a triple, two homers and 16 runs batted in.

Not since 1939 in the glory days of Bucky Walters, Paul Derringer, Frank McCormick, Ernie Lombardi and Co. has a Cincinnati ball club won 12 games in succession. That club won the pennant.

The Reds took two more Sunday at Chicago, 7-5 and 7-1 with manager Birdie Tebbetts, as usual, getting the most mileage from his ordinary pitching staff. In the first game, he used Hal Jeffcoat, relieved with Art Fowler and finally won with Brett Sanders.

GROSS IMPRESSES

Don Gross, reportedly given the starting assignment in the second only because Cincinnati took the opener, came through with a four-hitter. Until Jerry Lynch misjudged a ball that dropped for a double in the fourth, Gross didn't allow a hit.

Robinson socked out six hits for the day.

Milwaukee kept step with Cincinnati, remaining tied for the National League lead, by whipping St. Louis twice 4-3 and 10-3. Hank Aaron hit home runs in both games, building his season total to nine, and ended the day with a .379 average, good for third place. Robinson and Cincinnati's Don Hoak (.321) are ahead of him.

Brooklyn took its four-game losing streak with Johnny Podres shutting out New York 5-0 on six hits and Pittsburgh finally ended its seven-game losing string by topping Philadelphia's Robin Roberts 6-1 in the second game, after losing 6-2 to Curt Simmons in the opener.

BURDETTE STOPS CARDS

Lew Burdette of Milwaukee, staging up as the National League's ace of the staff, won his fourth with a six-hitter against the Cards in the opener. Manager Fred Hutchinson started Red Murff, his ace reliefer, in the second game, but Taylor Phillips was credited with the victory in relief. Eddie Mathews and Aaron homered for the winners and Bobby Gene Smith and Don Blasingame for the cards.

Duke Snider's fourth homer for Brooklyn was a solo clout last over the Giants' bullpen in right centre that eased the way for Podres. The Dodgers knocked out Pete Burnside, the Dartmouth lefty.

Stan Lopata and Willie Jones both had four hits for the Phils in the first game at Pittsburgh. Vern Law went all the way in the second game to end the Pirate slump although nicked for 10 hits.

Batting: Frank Robinson, Redlegs—collected six hits in doubleheader sweep over Chicago 7-5 and 7-1, boosting average to league-leading .396.

Pitching: Tom Brewer, Red Sox —Held Washington to two hits in 10-0 victory in first game of doubleheader.

Bill Fischer, a 26-year-old Chicago White Sox rookie, won his first big-league ball game Sunday, and saved himself from demotion to the minors.

Pitching in relief of Jack Harshman from the second inning on, the righthander, who had a short stay with Toronto Leafs last season, carried the Sox to a 5-4 triumph over the Tigers in Detroit. It was his first chance to get into important action this year, and Fischer made the most of it.

Larry Doby hit two tremendous home runs and Walt Dropo belted out one for the Sox, who finished the day a half-game in front of New York Yankees in the American League race.

Homers also paid off the Yankees, two by Andy Carey and one by Mickey Mantle sailing down a 4-3 decision over Baltimore. Mantle's clout off Hee Brown broke a 3-3 tie and gave Bob Grim the victory in relief of Bobby Shantz. Mantle failed to clear the Baltimore fences all last year.

RAMOS REPEATING

Despite Tom Brewer's two-hit shutout in the opener 10-0, Boston Red Sox had to settle for a split with Washington when Pedro Ramos, who beat them six times last year, scattered seven Red Sox hits for a 6-2 triumph.

Virgil Trucks, consigned to the scrap heap by many, popped up with his fifth straight victory for Kansas City, winning over Cleveland on relief in the 9-2 opener, with help of a four-run first-inning homer by Hal Smith. Rocky Colavito drove in four runs, three of them on a first-inning homer to give the Indians a split with a 7-4 second game decision for reliefer Don Mossi.

Cleveland Indians learned Saturday that rookie outfielder Roger Maris would be out for at least 10 days with two broken ribs received Friday night in a collision with Milt Graff of the Athletics.

Says Pollock 'Bad Sport, Poor Loser'

MELVILLE, Sask. (CP)—Gordon Juckes, second vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, says coach Sam Pollock of Ottawa's Junior Canadiens has left the impression that he is a "bad sport and a poor loser."

Pollock, whose Canadiens were defeated in the Memorial Cup final by Flin Flon Bombers, was quoted Friday in Ottawa as saying that officiating in the best-of-seven series was "atrocious, crude and incompetent."

Juckes, in charge of junior hockey in Canada, had appointed Curly Brault and Dutch van Dessan, both of Edmonton, for the series.

"Mr. Pollock's many quotes left many people with the impression that he is a cry-baby," Juckes added.

"I have always had a great deal of regard for the organization with which Mr. Pollock is associated and cannot believe that the majority of the people connected with the Montreal chain of clubs would condone the statements to press and radio about the Memorial Cup series," Juckes added.

HOW TO BUY A GOOD USED CAR

Feel The SPARK PLUGS...

When you are examining a car — start the engine, let it run for 30 seconds, then shift it off. Lift the hood and feel the side base of each spark plug. Any plug that isn't warm is not firing — and it's important to know the reason why.

Usually the plug merely needs cleaning, but if on removing it you find it to be oily and black, that particular cylinder is pumping oil. This is a condition which is usually expensive to correct.

At Pinder's we have built up a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. We cannot afford to sacrifice this reputation for the sake of a car or two no matter what its price tag. That's why SATISFACTION IS GUARANTEED at Pinder's.

NEXT WEEK: "WATCH THE OIL GAUGE".

Ten New Records Set at Quinte COSSA Track Meet

Ten new records were set on Saturday at the annual COSSA Boy of Quinte District track and field meet staged at the Trenton High School.

The Trenton HS took the all-round title as it piled up 76 points. Quinte Secondary was second with 71 and Belleville Collegiate third with 52. Quinte won the girls' championship with Trenton taking the boys' title.

The new quarter mile cinder track was used for the first time. This is the first track of its kind in the district, and it is hoped that in the not too distant future Belleville will have a similar track so that city athletes will have advantage of its use.

Leon Vogelsang, BCIVS, proved the outstanding athlete of the meet. He won the senior boys' championship and established three new records.

Harvey Scott, Trenton, won the intermediate boys' title with Doug Gibb, also of Trenton, amassing the junior boys' crown.

Vogelsang hung up a new record of 10 1/10 seconds in the 100 yards; 23 1/10 seconds in the 220 and 53 3/10 seconds in the 440.

Doug Cottrell, Trenton, runner-up to Vogelsang in the 100 and 220, came home to set up a new shot put mark of 43 feet, seven inches.

Don Dowden, Trenton, set a new intermediate boys' record in the running high jump with a D. Gibb, Trenton, running to a new 440 record of 57 6/10 seconds. He also set a new Quinte and COSSA record for the standing broad jump with a mark of 9' 2" and a shot put with a mark of 37 feet 11¾ inches. Clarke, of Trenton, raised the discus for junior boys to 95 feet three inches.

Two records went by the boards in the girls' events with C. Wilson, Quinte, jumping to a new intermediate mark of seven feet 10 inches to break the standing broad jump. Donna Drake, of Trenton, threw the softball 189 feet for a new standard.

The meet was well organized and capably run off by Vic Swinson and his committee composed mainly of Trenton H. S. grads.

'Champ' Wins At Woodbine

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Champ showed a crowd of 17,707 that he is back in top form as he defeated Captor by three-quarters of a length Saturday in the $5,000 Swyndford Stakes at Old Woodbine.

Canadian Champ, owned by W. R. Beasley, was making his first Canadian start after returning from a Florida campaign. Dave Stevenson, who rode the champ in all his starts as a two-year-old and who was benched in favor of jockey Eugenio Rodriguez last season, gave him a splended ride.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

In the illustrations above you will note how bad sliding helps basemen in putting out base-runners. Only in the top picture is' the runner sliding away from the tag, but he is so far from the base that the baseman will have no trouble in brush-tagging him with his gloved hand.

The runner who is shown being tagged by Dick Groat could injure both his left hand and leg. In addition, he is sliding so high that the baseman could retire him with a high tag. The runner should land on his hip with his arms and legs off the ground.

The runner has started his slide too late in the picture at the lower left. He could sprain his right wrist and injure his right foot and ankle by not getting them off the ground. Also, if he had landed on his hip with his feet in front of him, he would have made it more difficult for the baseman to tag him because his feet would reach the base sooner. He lost time by sliding sideways.

The runner who is shown at the lower right being tagged by the catcher has tumbled to the ground in a rundown play. No slide would help him in this situation so far from a base. The answer to his problem is to be alert to keep from being tagged between bases.

Charles Pack was in the sulky of Country Lad, owned by Garnet Kirkpatrick of Kingston, Ont., and the first Canadian horse to win here this year. His comparatively few backers got $48.20 for each winning ticket.

Dressen Must Decide Today

WASHINGTON AP) — Directors of Washington Senators meet today to learn whether Charlie Dressen wants to take a front office job with the club.

Dressen, deposed last week as field manager, spent the weekend pondering the offer of a position in which he would be expected to find new player talent. The Senators now are on the bottom of the American League.

If Dressen does not accept the offer, Griffith said, the Senators would have to "find somebody that is capable of doing the job."

Four Teams Win Twins in International

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Richmond Virginians are in a virtual tie for first place with Miami in the International League today after running their victory string to five in a row.

And one of the main reasons for their lofty position is the hitting of centrefielder Len Johnston, who finally is coming around after a rocky start in baseball. Johnston, who is hitting .360, with 15 hits in his last 3 times at bat.

The Virginians defeated Montreal twice Sunday, by 3-2 scores, and Johnston got six hits in nine trips, including two doubles. He led the league with 18 base hits last season, when he batted .294.

The twin Richmond victories extended the club's losing string to four straight. Danny Schell hit a third inning homer to give Richmond the edge in the second game after Johnston scored all three Virginian runs in the 10-inning opener.

MARLINS STOPPED

A six-game winning streak of league-leading Miami was shattered as Buffalo Bisons took it pair, 5-4 and 2-0. Lake Exeter hit a homer and a double and drove in four runs for Buffalo in the opener, and lefty Fred Hahn pitched a two-hitter in the nightcap.

Rochester Red Wings ended a four-game losing streak by splitting Havana Sugar Kings twice, 3-1 and 9-1, as Dick Ricketts and Bill Greason each pitched four-hitters. Gene Green hit a two-run homer and Tom Burgess a solo blast to account for all three runs in the first game.

Another three - game losing streak was broken as Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Columbus Jets 10-3 and 3-0.

Niles Jordan limited the Jets to five hits in the first game and Lew Morton batted in four runs with a homer and triple, and he scored another pair himself. Mike Goliat also homered for Toronto. Johnny Schmitz held Columbus to two hits in the second game. Jack Daniels homered for the Leafs.

72 at Bat Fans 32 Times

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Dick Stuart, who usually either strikes out or hits a home run when he steps to the plate, has struck out in the Pacific Coast League.

The tall, 24-year-old slugger failed to make the grade with the Hollywood Stars and has been sent by Branch Pirates to Atlanta in the Southern Assn.

The rocky kid's slugging was talk of the Pirates' spring training camp but manager Bobby Bragan finally shipped him to Hollywood to brush up on his fielding.

Stuart clouted five home runs in the first week of the season. He hit one more before his demotion.

But it will be a long time before anyone surpasses Stuart's 29 strikeouts, a record compiled in 72 times at bat for Hollywood.

AT THE McCARTHY — Two alone. Deborah Kerr and Robert Mitchum arrive at a mutual understanding in this scene from Twentieth Century-Fox's unusual CinemaScope screenfare, "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison", opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Based on Charles Shaw's best-seller, the film is an appealing account of a gentle nun and a tough marine who are forced to co-exist on a lonely island behind Jap lines during World War II.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

FOR TUESDAY, MAY 14, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Caution is needed in emotional and personal relationship departments is the word to the wise here. A smooth, pleasant disposition will help greatly.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — The Quality of endeavor is not nearly as important as their quality. How are you handling your tasks? Don't worry; take things in stride.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — It may seem hard to get started the way you wish today, but once you put your shoulder to the wheel you can conquer obstacles.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Don't soar off into the unknown. Consider all contingencies, likely hazards. But don't be timid either. Do the best you can with familiar programs.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — The day may appear ordinary and uninteresting but beneath the surface there are possibilities to study. Think harder and work consistently. It will pay well.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Start your schedule briskly today. But don't overdo. Set the right tempo and make it last. Work in occasional few minutes for relaxing. Look ahead, not backwards; be calm.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Obstacles may present themselves through no fault of your own, but you are clever—more so than you realize—so you can do a bang-up job and get what you are looking for.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Do not expect to sawing through the day successfully just for the asking. Your planet transits through certain areas that demand good sense and calm nerves.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Don't fight changes; investigate, then take advantage of new and worthwhile opportunities with enthusiasm as you usually do. Give your talents a fair chance.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — You may feel at odds with others at the start of the day, but your usual sensible attitude should come to your rescue quickly. Don't harbor unhappy memories; clear your mind for better days ahead.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Make a bright and hopeful start and permit no one to keep you from making the progress you can. Good prospects for long-range plans.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — One sure way to gain ground is to avoid arguments and to stay out of others' affairs. Maintain a thoughtful but unworried vigil over your own, however. Your aspects are better than many now.

You born today love clear bright colors, outdoor sports and travel. You make friends readily, are more sensitive than you're enthusiastic, maybe even talkative, nature indicates; can be embarrassed at little things. Don't leave loved ones to guess about your affection; express the love you feel. And confide in your family, especially about associations. Don't lose opportunities through laziness or "leaving it to the other fellow." Work consistently for the high ideals you believe in; keep friendships on a high-principled level.

Guardian Backs Pearson's Plan For UN Force

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says it supports a United Nations police contingent in the Middle East agreed recently by External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada.

Commenting on an article by Pearson in Foreign Affairs, the Liberal newspaper says the threat of force by a single outside power in the Middle East is "unlikely to work."

"It is of the highest importance that members of the United Nations should be ready to act when the time comes," it says.

Family of Six Forced to Flee Blazing Home

Trenton (Special)—Six people fled barefoot and unhurt from their two-story frame house this morning when fire broke out and caused heavy damage to the home and contents.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Collins and their children, Darlene, 4, Shirley, 9, Brenda, 12, and Dawn, 13, were grouping upstairs in a house they shared with its owner, Mr. Cecil Merchan, 370 North Dufferin street, when Mr. Cole arose and, at the request of his wife, plunged into a doughnut hot water heater.

The nxt thing Mrs. Cole and her children heard was Mr. Cole shouting at them to get up and flee from the house. Fire had broken out.

Rushing barefoot outdoors, the Coles were taken in by their friends Mrs. Elwood Burrows, who, only a few weeks earlier, had been burned out of their own home.

Tenton firemen rallied to the call and managed to extinguish the flames before the dwelling was gutted. However, heavy fire, water and smoke damage made the house unliveable for some time.

Mr. Merchen was in Picton overnight.

CHILDREN BURNED

Two Quinte children are resting comfortably in Hospital here today after they poured a pot of boiling water over themselves yesterday.

In hospital and in satisfactory condition are Edward Kuker, aged one, and Anne Van Huisen, aged two.

The little Van Huisen girl and her parents moved in with the Kukers a few weeks ago after leaving Brighton. Their home is on the York Road about two miles west of Trenton.

Need Six Weeks To Evaluate CD Exercise

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP) — Cooperation I, a weekend civil defence exercise that hypothetically knocked out Canadian centres and caused more than 2,000,000 casualties, left problems that will take six weeks to sort out.

Federal CD co-ordinator F. F. Worthington, who directed the coast-to-coast workout of 3,000 professional and volunteer CD workers, said Sunday it will take that long to complete an analysis.

Make - believe enemy bombers attacked Saturday in two waves five hours apart, and St. John's, Nfld. was struck by an imaginary nuclear rocket bomb, launched from a submarine.

Friday evening, orders went out from the Canadian Civil Defence College here that theoretical seat of the war cabinet, that possible target cities be evacuated of non-essential residents.

A few hours later the general evacuation order was issued when imaginary bombers were detected by the DEW radar line. The first attacks fell about 7:15 a.m. Saturday and the second wave five hours later.

"PANIC" IN MONTREAL

Although most cities were successfully evacuated except Montreal, where panic theoretically broke out in the absence of a survival plan, casualties estimated at 100,000 killed, 200,000 dying and 1,200,000 injured or sick, said the final exercise communiqued. That meant that most Canadians had survived.

The Canadian Army and United States CD observers said they were impressed by the exercise. Canadian CD officials were more cautious about the theoretical test of CD headquarters and communications.

Final exercise reports issued Saturday indicated attention will have to be given to the coordination of news in an emergency, the recruiting of many more CD workers and improved means of casualty identification, food stocks and the post-attack relocation of population and industry.

PARTICULAR CRITICISM

They also criticized federal government participation in the test. The report said, for example, the exercise said:

"Government departments did not put up the sort of representation desirable for proper reference purposes. Consequently the work has run behind . . . Another time particular care should be taken to see that during this final phase, when federal assistance is being withdrawn, the work in this section is adequately staffed."

Says Germany Cannot Become World Power

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano said today Germany must abandon any idea of becoming a world power again.

In a major foreign policy declaration emphasizing Germany's dependence on her Western allies for survival, von Brentano told the annual convention of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's Christian Democratic party:

"The (West German) Federal Republic of today and the reunified Germany of tomorrow are not and will not be great powers and even less world powers."

MUST CURB AMBITION

"They should never have the ambition to become so again."

But, he added, West Germany must stand ready to play its part in defending freedom in return for the West's backing.

ASKS TIGHTENING

MOSCOW (AP) — The central committee of the Communist party has sent to its members in the armed forces a circular ordering them to tighten up on discipline, ideological training and vigilance. A major point is that meetings of party members in the army and navy must not question orders and decisions of commanders.

Little Benny's

This morning at breakfast ma said to pop, Dont forget we expect the Berdhouses for dinner, William.

I dont remind me, pop said. Yes gods, what a cupple of pests. They never know when it's time to go home, and the more they talk the less they say, he said.

And tonight when he came home ma said, William, the most aggervating thing has happened. I just head from Mrs. Berdhouse. They cant come tonight, she said. This is the best of all possible werlds, pop said.

But William, there's a whole roast in the oven, ma said. You'll have to eat left over beef tomorrow, or maybe the cat will, ma said, That is better than talking to left over Berdhouses.

Well, gods, G roozalem, good night, heck, I said, and ma said, Well, I dont know why you went so fond of Mr. and Mrs. Berdhouse.

I'm not, but I went and washed my hands and face dubble for company, I said, and ma said, Behave yourself, it probably wont leave any permanent scars.

Gosh ahang it, why did they have to wait so long to tell you? I said. People dont care how you behave when you're little people yo to, I said, and pop said, It's a bad Benny, but there's nothing to be done about it now.

Well at least I ought to be allowed to roast up for it by coming right down to breakfast tomorrow without getting washed, I said, and pop said, That's all right for your hands, but you'll have to wash your face for your own self respect, whether it needs it or not. Now you figure out some way of washing your face without getting your hands wet? he said.

Aw, the heck with it, I said.

Diefenbaker Says Tories Will Give Fair Pension

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—John Diefenbaker says the Liberal government is using a delayed-action pension increase to dangle before the voters like a carrot.

In a federal election campaign address here Saturday, the Progressive Conservative leader said that if his party is elected June 10 it will provide a "reasonable and fair" increase in the pension.

He added, however, he would make no specific promise on what the pension would be.

Declaring that another party had promised $100 pensions, he said: "We do not intend to enter into competition by promising what cannot be achieved."

HAD REFUSED

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government for four years had refused opposition demands to increase the $40 monthly pension and in the pre-election session had raised it by $6 to take effect July 1.

Sunday he and Mrs. Diefenbaker relaxed. They went to morning service in a Baptist church and then visited a trout stream with the family of the local party candidate, 33-year-old lawyer Henry Lang.

Mr. Diefenbaker did no fishing but sat in his shirt sleeves and watched Michael and Peter Lang, both aged 10, try their luck.

The party leader mingled local, national and international issues in speeches Saturday as he campaigned by automobile for 200 miles between Sudbury and this steel centre.

He switched from election issues to deal with Russia's latest atomic proposals in his Saturday night speech to some 400 in the 750-seat auditorium of Sault Ste. Marie Technical High School. A travelling circus provided a counter-attraction in this city of 38,000.

IS SKEPTICAL

He spoke skeptically of Russia's proposal for a parliamentary conference with British and United States legislators on banning nuclear tests and weapons.

Russia's schemes and subterfuges had not worked in the past. Now it had made an offer bound to arouse great interest and hopes.

If Russia wanted to show its good faith it should agree to a review of the United Nations charter to make the UN "a real power for peace."

The UN General Assembly had been emasculated by the voting procedure. Assembly power was held by the votes of small nations of Asia, Africa and South America, representing only six per cent of the world population.

HOUSING NEED

Mr. Diefenbaker also spoke about what he called a sore spot in the Algoma district's new uranium development—the need for housing at Elliot Lake, booming mining centre 100 miles east of here, where hundreds are living in trailers.

The crown-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation had ruled it would not help finance house-building unless the mining companies shared in the job. The corporation hadn't the power to make that ruling, but it should not be blamed.

"Blame the government; they alone are responsible," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

That policy was " another example that a government long in power does not act to meet the needs and desires of the Canadian people."

At Espanola he promised that a Conservative government would appoint an Indian to the Senate.

INTO FOUR CONSTITUENCIES

His Saturday travels took him into four constituencies, Sudbury, Nickel Belt, Algoma East and Algoma West, all held by Liberals in the last Parliament.

A morning speech at Sudbury, first outdoor one of the campaign drew the largest crowd since his leader began to the city's intersection where it filled the street and stopped traffic.

At Espanola he gave a pep talk at a luncheon with party workers in External Affairs Minister Pearson's Algoma East riding and then spoke for 20 minutes to 1200 people in a partly-filled community hall next door.

In both speeches he dwelt on local topics: The need for a dock at Cutler as a Lake Huron port for the Algoma uranium field: a call for immediate aid to those who lost their homes last week in forest fires north of Sudbury.

Jewellery Taken

WINDSOR (CP)—Thieves Saturday night ransacked a suburban Riverside home and made off with $10,000 in jewellery and personal effects.

David Meretsky told police that thieves entered his house by forcing a window while the family was away.

He reported a diamond medallion with 20 to 25 diamonds, valued at $2,000; a $2,000 diamond studded white gold ladies wrist watch and a pair of diamond drop ear rings worth $4,000 were among items taken.

Liberal Leader Defends Govt.'s Use of 'Closure'

BRANTFORD (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he is sure the Progressive Conservatives and CCF will soon be "most happy" if Canadians forget the short those parties played in last year's hectic Commons pipeline debate.

Opening a whirlwind Ontario tour, the Liberal leader defended the government's use of "closure" in parliamentary debate to limit the heated debate and allow passage of a bill to provide a federal loan to finance prairie construction of the Alberta-Montreal natural gas pipeline. The loan since has been repaid with interest.

The Progressive Conservative and CCF parties had charged the government with gagging parliament and with opening the way to profiteering by American promoters. Mr. St. Laurent criticized the opposition parties for their attempts to "talk out" the legislation.

He said Premier Frost and Ontario Treasurer Dana Porter were not convinced of the need for this subject that they urged the Liberal administration to get on with it at the earliest possible moment. "It is to be doubtful to me if other Conservatives, Sir Robert Borden, when that prime minister, for bringing into us Canada a well-known British institution, closure.

"If this parliamentary procedure—which experience has shown to be a necessary device of orderly democratic rule—had not been available to the government and the government had not had the courage to use it . . . the pipeline would not now be under construction.

"Despite the Tories and Socialists who joined with them in Ottawa a year ago to hold up this necessary legislation, Alberta natural gas will be available to manufacturers and other centres of Ontario in 1959.

"And I predict that these two opposition parties will soon be most happy if Canadians will forget their attempt toward this project and their attempts to talk it out."

The prime minister's statements were included in a test of his address issued in advance before delivery.

Mr. St. Laurent opened his Southwestern Ontario campaign in this home of Senator Norm Mackenzie, former Commons Speaker and now government leader in the Upper Chamber. The prime minister will make 15 stops in four days. Today he also planned to speak at Paris, Galt and Guelph.

5 SEATS AT STAKE

Ontario is a crucial political battleground, holding 85 of the 265 seats in the Commons. At dissolution of Parliament, the Liberals had 49 of the 85, the Conservatives 33. There were three vacancies.

Mr. St. Laurent has already completed a tour of Eastern and West where he was "amazed by the evidence of growth and development."

Some opponents had charged that the Liberal administration with its federal - provincial tax-sharing formula, took too much wealth out of Ontario and did not allow an adequate flow of tax revenue back into the province to help expand its economy.

"As 10 partners in this great Canadian enterprise, the provinces must build together if we are to become a strong and united nation of which future generations can be proud," he said.

"Inequality among Canadians can only mean that one part of our population is a burden on the other part . . . Our national prosperity, like peace, is indivisible."

The more Canadians in other provinces prospered, the more they could buy from Ontario and Quebec factories.

MONTREAL TAXI DRIVERS, OWNERS HOLD WILD MEET

Two Hurt in Fight Thrombosis Kills One

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men were injured Monday night in a chain-lashing melee at a mass meeting of several thousand Montreal taxi drivers and owners protesting a decree regulating their business.

While Montrealers had a hard time hailing a cab on the quiet, virtually-tasteless streets, the drivers and owners were meeting in a rented hall.

Shortly after the meeting started, there was heavy hammering on the door. Police, summoned by a riot call, battered down the door and charged into the hall. When they corrected them, fistfights began and several heavy steel chairs were broken.

Five men, including the injured pair, were arrested by police on charges of disturbing the peace.

Shortly after the fighting, vice-president Eddie Giller, 52, of the Montreal Fraternity of Taxi Owners, stumbled from his seat on the platform, collapsed and fell into a side aisle. Ten minutes later he died of a heart attack.

ONE SERIOUSLY HURT

The two injured men suffered only minor injuries, but one was reported in serious condition at hospital. Neither was immediately identified.

The fraternity called the meeting to get declarations signed by taxi men saying they had not been informed of the provincial government decree published April 13 in the Official Quebec Gazette establishing a taxi authority in Montreal.

Many taxi owners and drivers object to the decree which forces them to make out waybills after each trip, and says their meters are assessed 25 cents a week each to pay for the authority's operation.

The meeting ended in an orderly fashion, and city streets looked normal with taxis cruising for passengers.

Chicago Girl, 3, Choked by Boy

CHICAGO (AP)—A three-year-old girl was strangled and buried under the front porch of her home by a playmate, police said a 14-year-old neighbor boy admitted the crime shortly after the child's body was found early today.

Capt. Robert Ryan said the boy, Lawrence Madsen, admitted that he strangled Lise Jorgensen in his basement apartment, put her in a clothes chest and hid the body.

More than 100 policemen joined in the search for the girl after her mother, Mrs. Inger Jorgensen, 27, reported her missing. Policemen discovered the body after a detective stepped on freshly loosened dirt near the porch and noticed a slight depression.

Police said young Madsen, a Grade 8 pupil, was questioned about the missing girl as he was among the last person who saw her alive.

Egyptian Paper Claims Britain Has Surrendered

CAIRO (AP) — The Egyptian government-backed newspaper Al Gumhouria said today British Minister Macmillan's decision to let British troops leave Suez Canal Zone "is a British surrender and an Egyptian victory."

Macmillan's announcement in the Commons Monday was seen by Egyptian government circles as proof that British - Egyptian relations are "gradually coming back to normal."

Al Ahram, the only other paper with a big circulation, today says that by the British action "the world recognizes that our cause is righteous, and that although some countries hostile to us attempted to boycott it, shipping experts have regarded such a boycott to be impracticable."

Today's Chuckle

"How did the wedding go? the minister's wife asked when he returned from the ceremony.

"Very well," he said, "until I asked if bride would "obey. She said, 'Do you take me for crazy?' and the bridegroom who was in a hurry to date, mumbled 'I do.' Then things began to happen."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Fairies today will clear in the extreme north and east of the province but a very large area from Ontario area over Nebraska is spreading cloud over Ontario.

Rain and scattered thundershowers have advanced into Southwestern Ontario from the United States and should extend throughout Ontario by Wednesday morning.

Maximum temperatures Monday ranged from 70 in the south to the mid-50s in central and northwestern regions and to an extreme of 32 at Moosonee and should be a little higher in the north today but little changed in the south.

Will Hang A-Bombs From Balloons To Cut Down on Radioactive Dust

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP) — Nuclear experts grappled today with final details of Thursday's big blast opening the United States' fifth series of atomic tests on the southern Nevada proving ground.

They are keeping a close check on the brisk winds snapping across the desert as time for the predawn detonation of a powerful new small atomic device nears.

The Atomic Energy Commission scientists are being extremely careful because they say they intend to make this series of tests the safest of all in the matter of radioactive fall-out.

The first detonation will be from a 700-foot tower. This is 200 feet higher than towers used in the past series. Some subsequent explosions will be from balloon-supported platforms at elevations up to 2,000 feet.

These detonations at higher levels are intended to reduce materially the amount of radioactive dust sucked into the air by keeping the fireball off the desert floor.

Reporters and photographers will observe and photograph the blast from a promontory 11 miles from the detonating tower.

Various shots of the spring and summer series will be observed from Mount Charleston, 35 miles distant, and from the 15 members comprising the Atomic Energy Commission and its staff.

Observation will be from behind

Health Minister Visits Hospital, Meets Board

Health Minister Paul Martin made a flying visit to Belleville this afternoon to visit with the patients and employees of the Belleville General Hospital. He was the guest of Frank S. Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings South.

Mr. Martin arrived at the hospital at 5:30 and was greeted by the hospital's board of governors, Mayor Forrester, Dr. James Laycock and Mr. Kenneth Box, hospital administrator.

As the Minister passed through the hospital corridors everyone in sight received a hearty handshake from him.

A one-act comedy was presented in the kitchen with Mr. Martin and Mayor Forrester in leading roles.

In his history to grasp everyone's hand in a firm shake, Mr. Martin passed between a pillar and an electric machine and caught his suit jacket, ripping off a button.

As the tiny item flipped away, Mr. Martin shouted "Someone, grab that button!"

The nearest person to the button was Mrs. Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, who quickly showed that the age of chivalry has not passed.

Stooping daintily, the mayor snatched up the button and returned it to its owner who, jokingly, reprimanded her for not inviting enough to dinner.

Mr. Martin continued on his tour dressed in something less than the usual immovable fashion.

The tour concluded in the dining room where the Minister was entertained at a quiet dinner by the board of governors.

Don Bacon New President Of Kinsmen

Don Bacon was the unanimous choice of the Belleville Kinsmen club for the position elected the coming year at the annual dinner-meeting held in the Shrine Club on Monday.

The clubmen balloted on six-teen names, selecting eight as the incoming executive. On the executive ballot Bacon was given the presidential honors.

Members of the incoming executive are: Bill Wilkinson, Don Boyce, Charles Duncan, Harold Farrow, Ken Fraser, Jack Hamel and Murray Hamilton.

The new president has been a member of the service club here since 1946 and is associated with the Northern Electric company. That he was a popular choice for the top honor the club can bestow was evidenced in the rounds of applause that greeted the announcement of his election.

Some discussion centred around adoption of a new proxy of two members who were unavoidably absent. Put to the general vote the motion to accept the proxy votes carried by 16-9.

President Brown congratulated his successor on his election. He had praise to the co-operation given him during his tenure of office saying he was fortunate in having capable men to take over important positions within club. The new president expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him and assured the fellow Kinsmen he would do his best to make next year as successful as the one just past.

Later he was named the official delegate of the club to attend the spring council being held in St. Jerome, Quebec. District Deputy Governor Bill Fraser will accompany him.

Treasurer Don Boyce in his report stated the club was in good financial position.

27-Pound Trout Hooked in Northern Lake

What could be the daddy of a lot — and the grandpappy of not a few of the elusive lake trout, was landed from the cold waters of a north Hastings lake on Sunday.

The big grey beauty tipped the scales at 27 pounds and was caught on a ten-pound test line and a wobbler.

Russel Shoes of Cobourg and brother Bert Towes who operates a sports shop on the Trent River near Batawa, state they had the battle of their lives boating the big fish.

It took just one hour and forty minutes to subdue it and land it aboard.

Veteran anglers say the trout is a record for the district and should be entered in angling competitions.

Ald. Whalen Serves Notice He Will Move to Terminate Contract of City Manager

Public Relations Key to Success Says Speaker

The future of any large firm today depends on its public relations program. If it has a high interest in public relations and engages an energetic public relations man the chances are the firm will enjoy success. More and more big industries are finding that public relations is the essence to success.

These points were placed for consideration before members of the Rotary Club yesterday by Mr. Ed. Littlejohn, public relations manager of Union Carbide Canada Ltd.

Mr. Littlejohn, a 1949 engineering graduate of the University of Toronto, started work with the Bakelite Co. in Belleville several years ago and in August order was appointed manager of one of the divisions in the Belleville plant. He is also head of one of five subsidiaries of Union Carbide. He held his managerial post for a short time until he was named public relations manager for Union Carbide in 1958.

The young speaker regarded the Rotary Club as being a scientific public relations department. Here people can meet and fellowship and contributing to the welfare of the citizens of Belleville.

He foresees a wide open career ahead for the young man who wish to enter the public relations field in Canada. There are only about 800 public relations officers in Canada compared with 250,000 actively engaged south of the border.

All the public relations programs in action in Canada today, Mr Littlejohn considers the St. Lawrence Seaway Project as the largest. There the Ontario Hydro Commission (considering Canada's contribution only) is building new communities and new beautiful park lands and at the same time smoothing out difficulties which arise when people indicate no desire to move from familiar surroundings.

Mr. Littlejohn was introduced by John Buchan and thanked by Enos David.

Splendid Buck Killed by Car Near Milltown

The deer hunting season is still many months away, but thanks to a car driven by part of an antlered buck, residents of the Hastings county home enjoyed a fine venison.

One morning late last week, Mrs. Dorothy Reilly, Melrose, was driving south on the Milltown sideroad near what is the blind entrance when a handsome goer bounded across the road directly in front of her car. The deer was killed instantly by the impact against the auto.

Game inspector Fred McDonald was summoned to dispose of the carcass of the dead animal over to the Hastings county home.

Harry of Toronto, three grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. James Hanton of Marmon, Ont. and two brothers, Wilmot Scott of Cobourg and Bert Scott of Calgary.

She had been very active in organization at King St. United Church and was a member of the W.C.T.U., W.A. and W.M.S. Mrs. Denton was a former secretary of the Quinte Conference of the W.A.

Mrs. Denton had resided in Trenton for the past eight years, before which she was a resident of Belleville.

Mayors, Reeves Will Be Asked To Visit City

The Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Association, meeting this year for their convention at Chatham, will be invited to hold their convention in Belleville next year.

This was decided at city council Monday evening when members gave approval to a recommendation that the invitation be extended.

The motion, didn't go through without opposition however, with Ald. Digby leading off discussion. He said there was nothing wrong with the idea — if you have lots of money. He suggested the cost might be $2,000.

"It might be a nice gesture, but I doubt if the city would get much out of it," he said. "I might remind council that we didn't have $6,000 this year for some badly-needed storm sewers. If we haven't got $6,000 for our own sewers, we haven't got $2,000 to wine and dine the mayors."

Alderman Effie McCabe said she heartily agreed with the previous speaker, while Ald. Doug. Moxam said he had supported the recommendation in committee on the understanding that the cost would not be over $1,700. He said, he would like to see some figure placed in the recommendation.

"The invitation hasn't been accepted yet," commented Ald. Chas. Hogg.

Alderman Frank Grandame took the affirmative claiming it was very necessary for the city ville to play its part in providing convention locale for such meetings. The city would derive much favorable publicity and spending the city to such a worthy purpose would pay off in the long run.

The recommendation to extend the invitation to hold the convention here next year was carried by a 10-4 vote with only Ald. Angus Digby, Moxam and McCabe dissenting.

House-to-House Canvass Planned

At a recent committee meeting of the Hastings County Rehabilitation board for the blind held at the home of Mrs. Harry Rollins, it was decided to launch a campaign house-to-house canvass on September 16. This was to take the place of the annual campaign and tag day. With mounting costs for the care of the blind it is necessary to depend on the generosity of the people of the district, to carry on the work of prevention, training, teaching, supplementation and care.

There are one hundred and thirty-six registered blind in the county and forty-five in Belleville with four residents in the Quinte-St. Lawrence home. The cost of supplementing the blind pension at the residence is $26 a month per client.

All registered blind are visited regularly by the field secretary and his assistant, and their needs are taken car of. Ages range from infancy to old age and many have other disabilities as well as blindness. Every effort is made to see that none is in want, and no more is it necessary to recognize the blind by the symbol of dark glasses and a tin cup. Instead the white cane has become a symbol expressing and independence.

All efforts are made to make the blind independent and self-assured. They are encouraged to be self-supporting. Vocational training is feasible and a home economics consultant helps the housewife overcome her difficulties, to teach typing, Braille reading, and home crafts.

The blind do not ask for sympathy, but they do require help in adjusting to a sightless world, and this is the work of the Advisory board.

A committee of Mr. A. D. Archibald, Mr. George Wishart, Mrs. Harry Rollins, Everett S. Fairman and Mrs. Morley Ward was appointed to take charge of the fall canvass.

Rifle Shield Donated to Cadet Corps

District high school cadet corps have a new gun shield about as now with the announcement of a new rifle competition shield donated by Maj. Angus B. Duffy, second-in-command of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

This new shield will be awarded annually to the cadet team with the highest score.

The competition is open to any high school cadet corps and is affiliated with the Hasty P's, they are allowed one team each, and that team to consist of four men, who will each fire ten rounds at a Canadian Army recreational target.

There are four teams entered in this year's initial competition which takes place this Belleville armouries tonight, Tuesday evening. The four teams entered are: Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, Brighton High School, Port Hope High School and Tweed High School.

Committee Will Make Further Study of Plan

The city of Belleville through a special committee headed up by Alderman Digby will make a further study of a proposed school safety program which would adopt the use of older school children as school traffic guards.

Presenting a report of his preliminary study on the matter, Ald. Digby told city council last night that such a move would include training of responsible pupils for the position of school guards.

However, such a school safety program utilizing pupils as traffic directors has been in existence for many other centres with encouraging reports being received from both Peterborough and Oshawa.

Before such a move was attempted here, however, parent reaction would be secured and with this in view it was hoped that two mass meetings with home and school associations could be held in the fall. These meetings would be addressed by experienced men. Later, after parent reaction was secured, a decision would be made whether the system should be adopted in Belleville.

Gaspe Strikers Urged to Hold Firm in Strike

MURDOCHVILLE, Que. (CP)—An official of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) has called on striking workers for continued solidarity in their dispute with Gaspe Copper Mines, Ltd.

Eamon Park of Toronto urged some 500 strikers assembled Monday night at the parish hall here to keep calm and not to lose sight of what he called the central issue in the dispute—recognition of the USWA.

The union meeting was attended by many strikers living outside the town, who had drifted in to collect their strike pay. The union said it had distributed $61 cheques, amounts varying from $10 to $45.

The strike began March 11 when 1,000 workers walked off their jobs.

Last June the company obtained an injunction restraining the Quebec labor relations board from hearing the union's application for certification. Since then the company has said that the strike is illegal because the union is not recognized.

The company resumed production on a restricted scale last Friday. Work at the concentrator plant began Monday. The smelter is not expected to be in operation for several days."

Health Minister Outlines Benefits Accruing From Implementation Of Govt. Hospitalization Program

TRENTON (Special) — Addressing the Hastings County Liberal Association in the auditorium of the new high school here last night, National Health Minister Paul Martin termed the government's proposed hospitalization insurance as very important and a most effective thing. He pointed out that where the average family was often placed in financial jeopardy because of sickness, their fears would vanish under the new plan. He went on to say that the plan was designed to lift the fear of poverty from the minds of the Canadian people, particularly the older people — the fathers and mothers. In a sense the insurance will mean an increase in the old age pensioner, he added.

The Health Minister commended the Ontario hospitalization with the Blue Cross. "It will provide the same benefits as Blue Cross," he said, "but the benefits will be extended and the limitations will be less." The Blue Cross is good, but this is better, he asserted. There will be more benefits at costs reduced below any existing plan.

Cabinet Minister Martin who arrived in Trenton Monday night by aircraft yesterday afternoon, asserted that the Liberal government was responsible for eliminating the means test for old age pensioners. This meant that whereas benefits were paid to 100,000 persons before 1952, they are increased to 650,000 or one sixteenth of Canada's population. Other changes in social legislation came under the Liberal term of office, he stressed.

PRAISES PRIME MINISTER

Acclaiming Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent as a great leader the Health Minister explained that Hon. St. Laurent "fits our look best and we want to keep him as the Prime Minister of Canada."

Mr. Martin claimed that there was no true Conservative Party in Canada, but a place for one, he offered, but as it is constituted now it does not meet the Liberal programs, principals and policies. He extended the Conservative party now in existence was a picture of "Social Credit, C.C.F. Conservative and others." He hoped whatever party the people saw fit to vote for they would not choose to bow to splintered groups. Also he hoped the electors would be sure that the government is not only a National government but one with a party spark well with authority. Nothing would be worse than coalition government he warned.

Mr. Martin said he was a believer in the two-party system but did not want to see a caucus of trouble like happened to the people of France.

Frank Follwell M.P., on whose behalf Mr. Martin spoke, felt that the people should consider that the Liberal government brought Canada from a depression through the greatest World War in history to this present great era of progress.

He reviewed the government's accomplishments in the district and disclosed that although the location of No. 6 Repair depot R.C.A.F. was to be changed the depot was now here to stay.

Dr. Fred Robertson parliamentary assistant to the Health Minister reminded the party stalwarts that Frank Follwell had made a great contribution to the Federal government during the Conservative leader he said, "sometimes I wonder when Mr. Diefenbaker is or he will stop making political promises. He thought the three main issues in hand were first the outstanding leadership not in St. Laurent but in the Cabinet as a whole, second he would be unwise to change the government leadership while economic development was in progress, third the record of accomplishment of the Liberal government in the social welfare field.

Ray Wood, Liberal candidate in the Hastings Frontenac riding called support in favor of Frank Follwell.

Senator W. A. Fraser outlined the economic and facts why he wanted Frank Follwell and Dr. Fred Robertson returned to office at Ottawa.

The distinguished speaker was welcomed by Mayor Ross Burtt wearing his elaborate chain of office.

In the afternoon the Health Minister was guest of Dr. C. K. Herity, vice president of the Bata Shoe of Canada at Batawa, later touring the new post office and the factory before travelling to Belleville.

Welsh Miners Refuse to Work With Hungarians

HIRWAUN, Wales (Reuters) — Three hundred coal miners walked off their jobs Monday when 16 Hungarian refugee trainees were brought to a local coal face by trucks. The Hungarians were withdrawn and the men returned to work.

A mine official said the Hungarians were employed on a temporary basis and were among 200 Hungarians given a complete training and work in mines "where the men are willing to work with them."

A workers' representative said the decision came after a vote that they will not work with Hungarians.

"That is all there is to it. The men are adamant."

LONDON (Reuters)—The government today announced the ending Wednesday, of all petrol rationing brought on by the Suez crisis.

The end of rationing was announced in the House of Lords by Gen. Noel Baker, minister of fuel.

The decision leaves only France among the seven European countries with gasoline rationing. Most European countries introduced economy systems of one kind or another when supplies ran low during the winter.

Britain began rationing Dec. 17. Motorists were at first restricted to 200 miles a month. Later on the limit was later raised to 300.

The new fuel minister's announcement that British ships now can use the Suez Canal again after is boycott.

P.M. REITERATES

In a CBC free-time radio program, Conservative John B. Hamilton, seeking re-election in York West, said "the truth in Ottawa is at stake" in the election. The government made it impossible for the people of Canada to get information about the government's conduct of their affairs by refusing to answer opposition members' questions.

Conservative Donald Fleming, Eglinton, Toronto, said on the same program that he saw "evidence of a rebirth of the Conservative party" on his recent trip through the West.

He predicted the Social Credit party will not elect any members east of Alberta and the CCF will elect no more than one member east of Manitoba.

Hazen Argue, CCF candidate in Assiniboia, said in Drinkwater, Sask., the refusal of Mr. Gardiner to accept his challenge to debate farm problems proves the minister is "ashamed of his indefensible agricultural policies."

SAYS METHODS OUTMODED

Saskatchewan Premier Douglas, speaking at a CCF meeting at Fort William, said policies of Mr. Howe and the Liberal government have brought Western Canada to the verge of an agricultural depression." Mr. Howe's methods are "tenaciously to the trading methods of the 19th century." In demanding dollars for wheat when every other major wheat exporting nation was accepting their currency in whole or part payment.

B.C. Labor Minister Wicks in St. Catharines took issue with Liberals' claim that increased Old-Age Pensioned tight money restrictions. "How can economy be inflated when there are 500,000 unemployed across the country?"

At Galt, Ont., he said there could be a depression unless Liberal tightmoney policy is changed. He said Social Credit would raise old age pensions to $70 a month.

Sabre Jets Fly From England To Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three U.S. Air Force pilots eased their swept-wing Super-Sabre jets into International Airport Monday afternoon after a non-stop hop from England—the longest flight ever made by single-engine jet planes.

The planes flew 6,719 miles in 14 hours and five minutes. The pilots had enough energy to make three passes over the field in tight formation. Then they peeled off and landed at 15 second intervals.

The previous non-stop jet flight record was set two years ago by a flight of R-84F fighter-bombers from England to Bergstrom air base, Texas, a distance of some 5,000 miles.

Navy Pilot Dies As Jet Crashes

HALIFAX (CP)—A navy pilot was killed Sunday when his Banshee fighter crashed into a hill about 15 miles south of Halifax. His name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The aircraft was taking part in joint navy-army exercises when it swooped in low and hit the hill. The wreckage slid down the hill and came to rest on the shoreline. The pilot's body was recovered from the wreckage, scattered several hundred feet along the shore. Investigators were said the plane hit the hill with a "violent" explosion after it came in a few feet above some houses.

Nazis Jailed For 1934 Purge

MUNICH, Germany (Reuters)—Former SS general Sepp Dietrich, 65, today was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment for aiding the premeditated killing of six SA (brownshirt) leaders on June 30, 1934.

The same sentence was imposed on Michael Lippert, 49, former concentration camp chief, for aiding in the murder of another SA leader Ernst Roehm, the SA chief of staff. They were claimed had planned a revolt.

The prosecutor had asked for sentences of 27 months for Dietrich and 24 months for Lippert.

SPORTSMANSHIP

After Sugar Ray Robinson knocked out Gene Fullmer in their middleweight title fight, Fullmer went to Robinson's dressing room to congratulate him.

This, says the Sudbury Star, was the biggest news of all and a separate newspaper story on the event said "Jensen (Fullmer's manager) and Fullmer rate a special bow for this unexpected show of sportsmanship."

Comments the Star: "There is a commentary on sport today as something in which sportsmanship is lacking."

But a coincidence, precisely the same theme was used by John Allan May writing in the Christian Science Monitor. He based his observation, though, on a soccer football game between "the two greatest clubs in Europe, one Spanish and one English."

Almost every other tackle made by either side was illegal, charges May.

"Both teams were unsporting," he says. "The crowd was unsporting. And the refereeing was, shall we say, impartially bizarre?"

Is sportsmanship, as the Sudbury Star charges, a rare ingredient in sport today? We doubt whether the situation is quite that bad, but it is true that one can hardly attend any sporting event without witnessing some example of bad sportsmanship.

It is easy to blame this on professionalism, and it plays a role, but this is not the whole answer. Rather it is the acceptance of the idea that victory is essential, at any cost. Once we take that attitude, whether by reason of the fear of loss of income or the lure of the profit motive, we depend on success for a lively mood or merely for prestige, we are exposed to the same temptations that face us in most other phases of daily living. It is possible to be a true sportsman in any activity, not merely at sport, but very few of us can honestly say that we always act in this manner. We rarely refuse advantages which are undeserved in our contests with our fellows, in business or in social life. If this willingness to accept undeserved success or acclaim bothers us at all, it is only when we are young. We soon convince ourselves that this is the way of life, that we are entitled to what "breaks" we get.

Games are only one of the few areas of activity in which it is relatively easy to retain an insistence that any rewards we get should be fully earned. Many tennis players will double-fault after a bad call by a linesman, and though the opportunity to correct an official's error occurs in few other games, the same attitude can be displayed in other ways, including a refusal to break the rules even when the risk of such an infraction would go unnoticed.

"Sport," writes John Allan May, "is a game played in a sporting spirit. It is a moral exercise, not physical. It is chivalry in modern dress."

The age of chivalry was ridiculous. But it was a magnificent ridiculousness. When we lose the ridiculousness, we also lose the magnificence.

If sportsmanship is lacking from most sports today, that just means they have been reduced to the level on which we conduct most of the rest of our affairs.

SIMPLE SOLUTION

Somebody down in New York City is a really smart man.

The city's water supply is one of its vulnerable points. In the event of a war, the plight of New York's millions would be serious if the city's reservoirs were blown up. It would be even worse if the water were poisoned.

Protecting the reservoirs is a headache. An additional worry is the fact that there are fish in them and that, in New York as in this district, where there are fish there soon are fishermen.

New York authorities were worried by the possibility that members of the fire department might not be fishermen at all, but potential spies or saboteurs.

How could they weed out those whose pretended interest in fish was just a Red herring?

Simple, if you know how. Now all fishermen applying for permits to fish in the reservoirs are required to take a loyalty oath.

Nobody planning to blow up a reservoir or poison a few million people is going to place his soul in additional jeopardy by taking a false oath.

That's the wonderful thing about loyalty oaths—the only people who take them are loyal and all who scoff at them are obviously traitors.

WISE SECRETARY

He's a wonderful man, as his friends all declare,
With a memory good,
If he makes an engagement he'll always be there
At the time when he should.

He remembers the date of his wedding, and dates
Of birthdays of friends.

And his joy in another's achievements he states
In a note that he sends.

He is thoughtful, or should I say thoughtful appears,
Since remembrance takes wings,
And a wise secretary for him down the years
Has kept track of such things.

No Time For Reflection

By Montreal Gazette

The son of David Lloyd-George, Mr. Gwilym Lloyd-George (now Viscount Tenby) is worried over the fact that these days nobody with heavy responsibilities seems to have time to think about them. This is not to say that they are not busy with them—busy may not be overwhelmed by them. But the one thing they cannot do with their responsibilities is really to give thought to them. There is just no time.

He cites the example of Mr. Selwyn Lloyd, Mr. Foreign Secretary. Mr. Lloyd was at the United Nations Assembly in New York. He left by air one night for home and arrived at London Airport next morning. He attended a cabinet meeting at 11 o'clock. At its conclusion he went to London and flew to Paris. There he had consultations with the French Prime Minister and Foreign Minister. In the early hours of the morning he flew back to London and was present at another Cabinet meeting at 11 o'clock.

It is a wonderful example of devotion to duty, and of close contact with the problems in hand. But Viscount Tenby wonders if, in so much time such crowded schedules give a man to reflect upon his problems — to see around them, and beyond them.

It is remarkable how many cases there are in modern times, days, and in how many parts of the world, upon just this perilar part of the complex and responsibilities of high positions of responsibility have too much responsibility in relation to the time they have for thinking.

One result is a risk to health. This is seen in the case of the president of the United States. The strenuous efforts now being made to shield the president from needless obligation is not a concern for Mr. Eisenhower's health. It is a recognition that the health of the president is almost beyond human endurance, and that with the growth and complexity of the United States is combined with the responsibilities of the United States in world affairs.

But the concern is not only about President Eisenhower himself had described as "that erosion of health" that comes from having to do too much for too long. The concern is also with the possibility that the very man who ought to think most about the world's problems may have no time to think at all.

The trend of the presidency only shows in a particularly concentrated way, the general problem of those in positions of responsibility. It may be true that the wise delegation of responsibility may ease much of the burden. But there is a subtle—even an insidious line, which is the line of danger. For, in the final sense, nobody can really do his thinking by proxy. The responsibility that may be handed over to others must ultimately return.

* * *

It is hard enough for those in responsibility to keep up even with the special memoranda that may represent the outcome of other people's thinking. Sir William Haley, the editor of The Times, has complained that reading is stifling mankind. Reports, documents of all kinds are consuming the time and the best strength of that part of the community that used to be nourished with good reading and reflective thinking. The Victorian men of affairs were men who read beyond their specialties, so that they could place their specialties in the larger cultural context. Today it becomes an even harder feat.

A few months ago the Harvard Business Review was making much the same point. Busy business executives, it said, are so close to their problems that they have great difficulty in finding the solutions for them. The Review suggested that the executive who hides home a briefcase of office papers at night might be less industrious, but he observes he is looking for than one who is able to stand aside for a few hours and do some detached thinking.

It would indeed be a strange thing if the world were to become so busy that thinking itself were to become an anachronism or a casualty. "Where there is no vision the people perish," said the prophet of Old Testament days. And the widest vision to be found in reading somebody else's memorandum. Time and thought are unfortunately inseparable. One cannot long survive without the other.

TODAY'S TALK

SAY GOOD THINGS

Most of us see a great many people, some interesting, some not, but from most of those whom we meet from time to time we gain some impression and it gives us pleasure to say nice things about them when the opportunity occurs. We know people, however, who seem to take pleasure in seeing the worst side of every person. We take a person best from whom we have said and done things.

We know so few people, so that by saying good things about those we do know we have something good we get an added pleasure out of life, something that sustains us in a very critical world. We always feel better when we have praised someone else, given him encouragement and an unexpected lift.

Say the good things and hide all the unkind things that you might say, but don't! I have never met anyone who didn't react happily after hearing something nice about him uttered by a friend or acquaintance. We all appreciate a good share of difficult times without an ill-natured smile for a lot added by others. We never lose, and always gain something warm and uplifting when we hear the good things said about us. Most of us, though, don't merely think them. Too much in this life is buried in silence. We are not always good parents in the realm of other people's hearts. It is so much easier to say nothing, too. Hurts are left behind when we say unkind things, but many a happy smile appears when kind are kind words. They carry on. They act as a light and a greeting from Heaven itself.

What a change comes over us when we turn on the light in our home! It's like that when we encourage a child or a discouraged person! Let's not forget.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The driver of the laundry and cleaning service who calls weekly at my house is invariably welcomed with furious barks from our small and very vocal dog. I imagine it is the bundles and the big flapping paper envelopes in which they arrive are borne that excite the dog to a special persecution.

But the driver wades right in the side entrance, ignoring the dog at his heels.

When we apologized to him for the dog's behavior, he replied:

"Aw," he said, "that's just a friendly bark. In this delivery business, you soon get to be pretty expert at identifying barks. It becomes second nature—to ignore these friendly barks. In fact, I don't even notice them. But an unfriendly bark is an entirely different sound. And it took about a dozen good nips and torn pants to teach me to recognize the difference."

"I know all the unfriendly dogs on my route, but I can't waste the time trying to make friends with them. So I just work out a simple system. Usually at the houses where they have mean dogs, I deliver to the front door, or take other evasive action to outwit the dog. But if this is not possible, I request the owners to keep the dog indoors or tied up on my delivery day. That is a reasonable request. If they don't I then I report to my manager, he calls them up, and if they don't agree to abate the nuisance, as he says, why, we simply pass it on to a delivery man with the laundry before the one on."

I asked the driver what proportion of city dogs had friendly barks.

"About nineteen out of twenty," he said, "are friendly. They can't help barking. After all, it is one of their proper functions. They are domestic announcers. A good many dogs have cheery barks. They bark for welcome, and are merely saying they are glad to see somebody coming."

I asked him what he thought about dogs being able to sense whether a stranger is friendly or unfriendly, timid or bold.

"No, a mean dog is mean to everybody, and a friendly dog is friendly to everybody. The last mean dog that bit me [a Kicked so hearty that every time he sees me coming, he runs and hides in the bushes at the bottom of the garden. Dogs are just like human beings. Some of them have to be kicked."

English Hens Lay Freely

Philadelphia Inquirer

Ten years ago, the British Government subsidized the production of eggs, to meet that country's postwar food problems. Now Britons are finding out that having a hen with a bottle-like head is near by the tail. One can't let go.

Because British Treasury pays poultrymen for any losses when egg prices fall below a guaranteed level, the British taxpayers $2,000,000 weekly. Meanwhile, British hens are kept in little isolation booths, with lights on so they can't tell day from night, and keep laying without letup. The "booth" system also makes it easy to cull out any hens which are laying down on the job instead of laying more and more eggs.

In addition to the cost to taxpayers, this speedup in the hennery has (a) brought protests from the British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and (b) complaints from Denmark, Holland and West Germany that price fixing on eggs violates a long-held trade agreement.

However, this has not affected the hens, now laying 258 million dozen eggs a year, compared with 70 million dozen a decade years ago. It has not impressed the poultrymen, who are cashing in on the "surplus eggs." And it has not moved the House of Commons which could end the whole price support system.

The picture is a familiar one to Americans. The same system here produced the same results, on many commodities. But Britain's experiment at least has answered the old question: whole price support system.

The picture is a familiar one to Americans. The same system here produced the same results, on many commodities. But Britain's experiment at least has answered the old question: which comes first, the hen or the egg? The answer is that it's neither. The subsidy comes first.

Mr. Lloyd's Red Smear

Toronto Star

When you run out of arguments, call your opponent names. That is a technique as old as the history of argument, but one expects something better of the foreign secretary of Britain. With a shocking disregard for the truth, Mr. Selwyn Lloyd has attempted to tar with the Communist brush those who criticize testing of hydrogen bombs.

Mr. Lloyd told Parliament recently that a good deal of the agitation against Britain's projected H-bomb test comes from Communists. Dismissing opinions that the tests are too harmful to the health of the human race he said these came largely from non-scientific sources, from people with strange fellow-traveller tendencies and leanings.

With that sentence, the foreign secretary slandered some of the most eminent scientists in the world, including a considerable number in his own country.

Temperance Is The Second Key to Vite

Many inveterate tooth brushers and their nineteenth-century dentists are beginning to realize that clean teeth are as subject to decay as are teeth that are seldom if ever brushed. For my small part in teaching people the value of good teeth, I have gained the ill will of many dentists and their toothbrushing patrons. But this doesn't disturb my equanimity. I worry only when I learn that I can no longer teach people in this or that community how to keep well.

Now, let us neglect teeth and harp on another key — temperance.

Temperance means moderation in, or abstinence from the use of intoxicants, according to Webster. To my narrow mind, temperance means total abstinence from alcoholic beverages.

Last autumn, I asked parents of minor children or grandparents or uncle or aunts or big sisters or big brothers to send me confidentially their answers to six questions:

1. How many children?
2. Their ages?
3. Do you have beer, wine, or liquor in your home?
4. Do you indulge in a cocktail or a highball on special occasions?
5. Do you want your child or children to take the pledge?
6. Would you object if teacher, coach, or pastor talked to your child or children to take the pledge?

Almost all of the 1,000 asked readers who might know of instances in which yes, confidential, or of course, temperance orators or spiritual leaders say, "Keep right on trying" people to take the pledge.

It's too disheartened to carry on if I didn't know that materialism goes before sobriety in Yankeeland. I'm still trying to tell myself that people just didn't believe it'd keep such communications confidential, and so they were afraid to answer my questions.

The pastor doesn't want to hear his pulpit. The preacher doesn't want to drive away his best customers. The eminent physician knows that he'll write his wealthiest patients. This health column conductor now realizes that it may be better to teach a great many persons a little than it is to teach a few persons a lot about health.

Nesting Birds Busy As Bees

National Geographic

Across North America millions of birds are hard at work making cups, saucers, ovens, housedoig jugs, and penthouses in which to lay their eggs.

Some make into unfurnished apartments—each nest of other species or man-made birdhouses. A few gadabouts, avian parasites, build no nests but foist their off-spring on chance acquaintances.

The architectural skill of birds from the sublime to the nonexistent. For some birds home is any old spot on the ground where an egg can be hatched.

Almost every conceivable kind of building material is used. Mud makes up the jugline nest of the cliff swallow and forms the foundation for robins' cup nests in city maples.

The chimney swift plucks dead twigs in flight, then glues them together with saliva to make a half saucer inside a chimney.

Swifts don't interest an eagle. It thinks nothing of carrying limbs the size of an axe handle a dozen stop s tree. Eagles have been known to equip their massive, untidy aeries with such light bulbs, fishplugs, and golf balls.

While most birds build a new home each year, some take over the nest sites of others. For instance, birds and crested flycatchers, an abandoned woodpecker hole is high on the demand list of avian real estate.

The flycatcher almost always adds a distinctive bit of decoration — a dried snakeskin. Some have gone modern. When snakeskin is unavailable, cellophane will do.

On a woodland floor, the oven-bird builds the nest that gives its name — a dome of grass leaves, weed stalks, and leaves that resembles an old-fashioned oven.

The black and orange oriole knits together a hammock of plant fibers and string, and bird and bark. It's pendulous, gourd-shaped nest swings from the end of a branch.

Certain birds, in their search for nesting material, need not look far. Ducks pluck down from their breasts to make a soft, warm nest lining.

Grebes pile up decayed vegetation to make floating islands to marsh plants. It rises and falls with your level, keeping the babies dry.

The marsh wren weaves itself a ball-like house among cattail fronds. Male's arrive at the breeding ground before the females. They occupy their time building several nests. To no avail. The wren chooses her own. The spurned work of the males may serve to distract predators from the real home.

The cowbird, disdaining to build its beak with honest labor, lays its eggs in the nests of other birds, and leaves the bird raises the intruder, fetching food constantly. In some instances, the baby cowbird is bigger than the foster parents slaving for it.

Sinnier victims will build a new nest over the cowbird egg. One cowbird built seven such nests in succession, isolating a cowbird egg in each of the six understories.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NEED FOR COURAGE

Sometimes it seems as if the necessity for courage has almost ceased to exist in modern life.

We think of the ages when men had to fight for their homes and families, when society was completely disorganized, and roving bands of marauders infested the highways. There were also the noble centuries when men fought for freedom.

Oh, to be sure, the people behind the Iron Curtain still have to win their freedom if they are ever going to have any, but here in the North American continent in comfortable, big cities or on delightful countrysides we have many to go and no atomic war sometime but there is not much we can do about it now. If it comes, we cannot resist it. What we shall need on that day will be not courage but the capacity to endure. We do not carry swords or pistols in our belts as our forebears did because we have surpassed by the dangers which confronted them.

But the necessity for courage is as great today as it has ever been. There are diseases upon which science has gained no control and we must have courage of such disease with equanimity. And even more in the moral realm must we be courageous. For temptation increases rather than decreases with the passing of time.

There is as much need for courage as there has ever been.

Sod Turning Signals Start of Building

Miss Kay Homan, of Corbyville, vice-president of the Ontario Junior Farmers Association, and leading worker in Hastings county Junior farmer circles, turns the first sod at a sod turning ceremony at Belleville fairgrounds Saturday morning, signalling the construction start for a new junior farmer building. Two other buildings to be completed this year are a new cattle barn and poultry building.

Senior 'A' Hockey Team Completes Season With Cash Surplus of $8,079.03

The Belleville Memorial Arena Commission will operate the Senior "A" hockey team again next season.

This was agreed by Belleville city council last night following a financial report of last season's hockey club operations which was read to council by Arena Commission chairman, Alderman Claude D. Tice.

The report showed that the Senior "A" hockey club had completed the season with a cash surplus of $8,079.03.

And in addition to the cash surplus noted above the team has assets in the form of equipment and players' contracts in excess of $5,000, it was stated.

Average attendance for the 28 home games of the regular schedule was 1,749 producing an average gate of $1,875. For the five playoff games the average attendance was 2,525 with receipts averaging $3,062 per game.

Total income accruing to the Arena as result of operating the hockey team amounted to $73,-085.85 of which $61,427.65 was from gate receipts. Team expenses totalled $65,006.32.

Following reading of the hockey team financial report Alderman William Argue asked about the profit and loss picture of the Belleville Arena, only to be told by Alderman Gerald Hyde that this was impractical as the arena operated on a calendar year basis and the next annual report would not be prepared by the city auditor until December.

To rectify this he suggested that a fiscal year might be worked out for the arena which in future would show the financial picture of the arena at the end of the hockey season.

He noted the auditor's statement for 1956 had showed that the Arena had operated at a slight deficit.

Mayor Forrester presented figures which, exclusive of senior hockey activity, indicated the arena might be expected to have a deficit of about $9,500 for 1957.

Revenue, exclusive of hockey, was estimated at $12,620, and expenditures $22,268.

Alderman Hyde then pointed to the $8,000 cash surplus of the hockey team; over $3,000 in equipment assets and $2,000 profit from the canteen, which he said "would not be there" if there had been no senior hockey team.

But Alderman Argue said he merely wanted to know the cost of operating the Arena during the hockey season. "The citizens were promised a full and clear report," he pointed out.

Alderman Ralph Graham stressed that there were several factors which had to be taken into consideration in connection with the arena operation regardless of whether a hockey team operated.

These were administrative expense, utilities costs, and repairs and maintenance. The only extra expense with the operation of a hockey team would be extra help on game nights.

He also felt that a fiscal year for the Arena to coincide with the hockey season was the only logical answer to getting a true financial picture of the Arena and hockey club operation.

GOOD PUBLICITY

Alderman Robt. Temple said he approved of the Arena commission operating the hockey club again next year, noting that this resulted in good publicity and added prestige for the city.

At the same time he did not believe that the Arena showed a profit on last season's operations claiming that the hockey financial report "was only half a report."

Alderman Don Whalen wanted to know the amount of money contributed by the H. J. McFarland Company as sponsor. He suggested that maybe other firms might be interested in sponsorship of the team.

Alderman Dr. John Stock said he felt the hockey club picture had been aired quite completely and could see no advantage of a report on Arena operations at this time. "The full picture would not be known until the end of the year," he said.

Alderman Robertson Collins was of the same opinion, although he said he was a bit skeptical of municipally operated hockey. "Yet we must keep the arena open and I commend the Arena commission on the job they have done," he said.

Council voted 12-1 for the Arena Commission to operate the hockey team another season with only Ald. Argue dissenting.

Following is the complete report of the Arena Commission on the Senior "A" hockey club operation last season:

THE REPORT

The Belleville Memorial Arena Commission is happy to report to the Council of the City of Belleville and to the citizens as a whole that the operation of a Senior "A" Hockey Club by the Commission during the recently completed season has resulted in a cash surplus of $8,079.03 and in addition the Commission has fully paid for assets in the form of equipment and players contracts in excess of $5,500.00.

Over and above this the Arena operated canteen facilities produced a net profit in excess of $2,000.00 which would not have been earned had there not been hockey audiences in the arena during the winter.

The fan support for this calibre of hockey has been very good indeed as evidenced by the fact the average attendance for 26 home games during the regular schedule was 1,749 producing an average gate of $1,875.00.

For the five home playoff games the average attendance was 2,525 and the gate receipts averaged $3,062.00 per game.

The total income accruing to the Arena as a result of operating the team amounted to $73,-085.85 of which $61,427.65 came from gate receipts with the balance coming from the club sponsor, the sale of advertising of programs, our share of the league pool money, insurance claims, Xmas cheer backer draw and the sale of equipment.

The profit derived from the car draw amounting to $1,000 00 has been set aside in a separate account to start off next year's team and is not included in the total receipts mentioned previously.

The total expenses of the team for the season amounted to $65,-006.82. In breaking down this amount the sum of $47,967.28 went for players' salaries, players releases, transportation and moving expenses, meals, scouting and training camp. Equipment purchases totalled $5,497.08 and this represents the season's purchases of sticks, skates, uniforms, tape, major equipment, etc. Our contribution to the league pool amounted to $5,-528.36. The O.H.A. received $1,-348.47 as payment for playoff assessment and fines, and fully administrative expenses (overseeing such items as insurance, printing and advertising, telephone, laundry and medical expenses tion of a traffic committee or commission, while committee members to report on the formation of a planning commission are Aldermen C. L. Hyde, Dr. John Stock, and Douglas Maxam.

A proposed amendment to the city traffic by-law which would provide for a metered parking area on the north side of Bridge street between Front street and the lower bridge was laid over pending a report from the city police department.

Ald. Ralph Graham asked that the matter be laid over until the police report was received, noting that the no-parking in this particular area had been the result of close study of traffic conditions.

APPEALS ASSESSMENT

Reason for the proposed amendment was that the property owner in this area was appealing business assessment because of the lack of occupancy of three stores.

"The owner has my sincere sympathy but the whole answer does not lie in the prohibition of parking in front of the business places," he said.

He argued that even if the present by-law was amended there would be room only for one parking meter. The Trenton bus stop and the approach to the bridge would take up the other space.

Ald. G. Hyde disagreed with Ald. Graham noting that his argument "didn't make sense."

There was also the financial aspect with the city standing to lose $500 if the business assessment was appealed.

SUGGESTED COMPROMISE

City Manager Dennis Herring suggested that some sort of a compromise might be worked out as it was his understanding that the privilege of unloading trucks at that street was the main desire of the owner.

And council learned from the Ontario Highways Department that it would be expected to take over maintenance of highway arteries taken into the city as result of any annexation. The new four lane 401 highway would be maintained by the province with other highways taken in reverting to the city.

Alderman Gerald B. Hyde was named to be acting mayor when/if/ter ills mayor is absent from the city.

Public works tenders for the supply of materials for the coming season were approved, with contracts, except in some instances, going to the lowest bidders.

LONG OVERDUE

KITCHENER (CP)—The public market here has received an anonymous letter with a $1 bill enclosed. The money, explained the writer, was for rental of produce tables in the market eight years ago.

Ald. Graham, G. Hyde, Tice On Industrial Commission

Aldermen Ralph Graham, Gerald B. Hyde and Claude D. Tice will be the city council representatives on the recently-organized industrial commission.

The above three men, along with Mayor Jane Forrester will represent the city on the seven-member commission, the other three members to be appointees from the local Chamber of Commerce.

The appointments to the industrial commission were given final council approval Monday evening at which time committees were named to report on the formation of two other commissions.

Aldermen Ben Safe, Robert Temple and Les. Digby were named to report on the formation of a traffic committee or commission, while committee members to report on the formation of a planning commission are Aldermen C. L. Hyde, Dr. John Stock, and Douglas Maxam.

It is the Commission's intention to call a public meeting in the near future for the express purpose of inviting fans to form a booster club which could be of invaluable assistance to the manager and in fact must be formed if we are to continue as sponsors of hockey next year.

The Commission is proud of the efforts of its team manager, Harry Denyes, and the team he assembled, and with a successful season behind us and a nucleus to build upon for the 1957-58 season, we feel confident that in the sponsorship of a team again next season the fans of Belleville and district will see some fine hockey entertainment and at the same time the Arena Commission will derive a sufficient profit from its hockey operations to meet the anticipated deficit from other arena activities which our budget suggests we would otherwise have.

Before summing up mayor publicly express the sincere appreciation of the Arena Commission to Mayor E. J. McFarland of the McFarland Construction Company of Picton for his generous support of the team, without this support there would not have been a team at all as securing a sponsor was the first requirement of the commission before anything else was done last fall.

The May meeting of Cannifton W.M.S. was in the form of a combined open meeting of Bethany, Carmel, Gilead and Plainfield.

Mrs. R. Pound, the president, opened the meeting. A warm welcome was extended to all, especially the visitors.

The theme of the worship service was "Jesus the Light of the World." Scripture by Mrs. R. Pound was followed by the meditation and prayer by Mrs. G. Bressette. Mrs. F. Furmidge sang "The Light of the World is Jesus."

Bethany and Carmel each favored with a duet by Mrs. George Hicks and Mrs. R. Caughlin; Mrs. M. Robinson and Mrs. Gowthorpe.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. Williams, vice-president of Belleville East section, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. C. Holmes, who is first vice - president of Belleville Presbyterial. Mrs. Holmes gave some worthwhile and timely thoughts, stating all should follow a life of prayer and thanksgiving. Then life would be enriched. "Do we thank God for the gift of His Son—this sacrifice He gave to us?" Jesus said "Go ye into all the world and teach all nations." All the world is our mission field. The urge is just as challenging as ever. Prayer and meditation are the means of the church's growth. Our church must be a missionary church and opportunities to do missionary work are greater than ever.

Mrs. Livingston from Gilead gave a lovely piano solo, and Mrs. Brennan from Plainfield rendered a lovely solo.

Rev. R. J. McCrae closed the meeting.

A social half hour followed and a profitable and enjoyable afternoon came to a close.

Weddings

TAYLOR—SELDON

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a lovely wedding on Saturday May 11, at 3.00 p.m. when Betty Amelia Seldon, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Seldon, became the bride of Phillip Arthur Taylor, of Guelph, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arthur Taylor, of Lostock, England. The Reverend H. M. Davis, pastor of the church, officiated. Tall standards of white and pink gladioli and lighted candelabras formed a beautiful background for the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white organza over candy pink taffeta, with white organza sash, and featuring a fitted bodice with scoop neckline embroidered with seed pearls. The finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of appliqued lace frosted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Shasta 'mums, Demure rosettes, lily - of-the-valley and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Michael Barnes, of Toronto, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, and Miss Betty Stewart, also of Toronto, as bridesmaid, were gowned alike in waltz-length white organza over candy pink taffeta, the organza sashes. They wore matching small, pink, feathered headbands, and carried semi-cascade bouquets of white Shasta 'mums, lily-of-the-valley and ivy.

Mr. Michael Barnes, of Toronto, brother-in-law of the bride, attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Harry Wood, of Guelph, and Harry Smith, also of Guelph, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, wearing dove-grey satin sheath with navy and pink accessories and corsage of lily-of-the-valley and Demure rosettes, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in olive green silk crepe with beige accessories and corsage of Demure rosettes and lily-of-the-valley.

For the wedding trip to Georgian Bay, the bride traveled in rose worsted ensemble, with black accessories. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Toronto.

Guests attending were the bridegroom's parents, also from from London, England, to be present at their son's marriage; others were from Montreal, Kingston, Toronto, Dundas, Oshawa, Newmarket, Guelph and Odora.

The bride previous to her marriage, was the honoree guest at a kitchen shower given by Mrs. Harold Seldon and her daughter, of Toronto, and attended by the bride's classmates of Wellesley Hospital; at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. D. MacLean, with Mrs. Norman Smith and Mrs. Ross Stiver as co-hostesses; also at the home of Miss Elizabeth Black on McDonald Avenue, Belleville, when the bride was entertained at a-delightful supper party and shower.

Women's Institutes

BAY OF QUINTE W.I.

JOHNSTOWN — The Bay of Quinte Institute held its May meeting at the home of Mrs. Herman Trout Rd., Belleville, on Wednesday evening with a fair attendance.

The new secretary, Mrs. Frank Sandercock, moved a vote of thanks to the past secretary, Mrs. R. Ketchenson for her fine work in the past and also, assuring she hoped she wouldn't be in office for the next six years.

A thank you note was received from the Westfall family, Mrs. Alva Myers also thanked the ladies for the pot of tulips given her while disabled.

The institute convention is held in June at Stirling. Delegates to this convention will be Mrs. Don Sandercock, and Mrs. Alva Meyers.

The next meeting of the Bay of Quinte Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Will Yatesman.

PLANTS, BULBS AUCTIONED

An auction of plants and bulbs was held with Mrs. Don Sandercock acting as auctioneer. This auction was very successful the meeting was turned over to the convener for the evening, Mrs. Ron Stickle, who is responsible for Agriculture and Canadian Industry.

Mrs. Stickle reminded all that it practically every farm income in that year 1955 farming took in 15.3% percent of the countries net money pink but only 6.7% percent of the net income. His theory that most farmers got only 43.7% percent of what they should have, if this net income was as high as that of other workers.

"What puzzles lots of people is why should this be? Why should farmers, when they are highly mechanized, be getting less and less? It costs a lot more for machinery than it used to, and one has to have so much more these days than used to be necessary, or we could not sell our produce. In the case of milk, it is more and more the things necessary to produce good milk.

"Most farmers of farms 100 acres or less cannot afford a hired man many times, because of the wages paid by labor and in other industries. So these farmers depend on their sons mainly for help, and work night and day to make a decent living. A farmer's wife works just as hard as a wife in town who works, and gets a salary, but the law will not allow a farmer to give his wife a salary, and take it out of income tax, yet a woman in town is allowed to make so much, before there is any income tax charged.

RISKY BUSINESS

"Farming is a risky business; what with the price of produce going down at the time one is ready to sell, and sometimes a person has to pay a big price per seed, and the frost comes and destroys everything.

"The fruit grower has to spray several times, or it is just too bad for the quality of his fruit, and if rewards are paid by the time he pays for his spraying and fertilizer, there is not much left.

"Vegetables have to be in at certain time, or they will not be profitable. Then if we do not get rain when needed, one's crop is for nothing.

"Cows have to be milked at certain times if one expects to make a profit on them. Calves have to be raised to have the cows to milk. A farmer has a busy life, no 8 hour day.

"We cannot ask a certain price for our produce. It is a case of supply and demand. If we asked a price at the rate of what labor is paying, the people would not be able to buy our produce, yet wages go up and up, while our prices do not go accordingly."

Mrs. Casey Ketchenson thanked she hostess for opening her lovely home, also thanking all who were responsible for making the program so interesting.

A couple of poems were read, "Awkward", by Mrs. A. Meyers, and "Charm", by Mrs. Hunt.

The hostess and conveners ended a fine evening with refreshments.

Princesses Being Reared As Girls Instead of Symbols

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Princesses growing up today have almost as much romp as pomp in their lives. They are being reared as girls instead of symbols.

In England, the six - year - old Princess Anne is wearing dresses cut down from the Queen's.

The Netherlands' big heiress to the throne walks to university classes carrying her books in a basket.

In Sweden, a royal princess will qualify soon as a gymnastics trainer.

In short, the business of being a princess isn't what it used to be.

NORMAL LIVES

Sweden's four attractive blonde princesses have been reared under the democratic principles of their grandfather, King Gustav VI. Their father, Gustav Adolf, is dead. They go shopping or skiing or ice skating without any security arrangements.

Margrethe, now 23, attended a housewifery school in England for a time and a seventy school in Paris. At the latter she was picked for ordinary French beds and had to sleep disguised as a night.

Her younger sister, Birgitta, 20 and shapely, ranks top among 30 classmates at the Institute of Gymnastics in Stockholm. She will become an instructor next year.

The two younger girls, Desiree, 18, and Christina, 18, are sports fanatics. Desiree won a local tennis championship and is school champion in riding. She also loves Dixieland jazz. Christina studies ballet, dotes on ice skating.

CASUAL VISITS

In Denmark, their cousins have been educated the same way. Princesses Benedikte and Margrethe, just turned 17 and 21, rather than live in royal splendikte was 18 last month, Anne-Marie is 10. They have been brought up like ordinary girls from well-to-do Danish families. The king has requested they be given no special treatment. Classmates are invited home for tea; they visit their friends' homes.

The girls speak English, French and Swedish as fluently as Danish. Margrethe, who attended boarding school in England for six months, will be ready for university by 1959.

A little princess who lives a rigid routine with constant emphasis on regal bearing, poise, dignity and controlled emotions is Anne of Britain.

At the age of 6, she studies reading, writing, arithmetic, French and the Bible. She has two hours of piano instruction each week.

FEW CLOTHES

Queen Elizabeth insists that Anne have relatively few clothes and toys. Bulging wardrobes are toy-scattered nurseries, she maintains, spoil a child.

Not long ago, a Buckingham Palace visitor admired the princess' pretty yellow dress.

"Thank you," Anne replied, "but it isn't new. It's been cut down from Margaret's."

She shares her mother's passion for horses, rides a bicycle, and visits back and forth with other children in the palace circle. When she is 9, she may be allowed to go to school outside the palace as her brother, Prince Charles, is doing now. This is a revolutionary departure. The Queen and Princess Margaret were taught by governesses and tutors.

APARTMENT GUARDED

A princess whose public appearances are becoming more ceremonial is 19-year-old Beatrix, heiress to the Dutch throne.

But she still walks to her sociology classes at Leyden University, carrying her books in a basket. Like other students, she lives in an apartment near the school. But unlike the others, her apartment is under uniformed guard day and night.

Beatrix, like her mother, Queen Juliana, is plump. She likes to draw, sculpt, sail, ride horseback and go on skiing holidays. She also loves dancing and jazz.

Her sisters, Princess Irene, 16, Margriet, 14, and Marijke, 10, also are sports lovers. All attend the same elementary school, bicycling from the royal country palace and carrying sandwich lunches.

PREFERS JAZZ

Like Beatrix, but across the world, another teen-age princess likes to rock the royal residence with jazz. She is 18-year-old Suga, youngest of six children of Emperor Hirohito. For a Japanese princess to say publicly that she prefers jazz to classical music is a mark of the new Japan.

But Suga has been breaking traditions right along. An inventive sister of Crown Prince Akihito and the darling of the Imperial Family, she is often seen in public shopping or even riding streetcars with only a lady-in-waiting along.

MUST FENCE IN POOLS

TORONTO (CP) — Suburban York has passed a by-law setting a $300 penalty for homeowners who fail to erect a chain link fence at least four feet high around their swimming pools. The action was prompted by the drowning of a three-year-old boy in an outdoor pool near his home last fall.

Club Activities

ENERGETIC CLUB

The Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church met for its regular meeting Friday evening with nearly 50 members present.

The meeting terminated the membership and attendance contest, with the three losing groups entertaining the two winning groups, whose leaders are Pat and John Rose and Thelma and Lloyd Townsend.

All members of the winning groups were presented with corsages.

Congratulations were extended to Audrey and Carl Brebner, who had a perfect attendance record and to Vera and Carl Wannamaker who only lost one point.

The meeting opened with Cam Hitchon, the president, in the chair. Those taking part in the devotional period were Helen McCurdy, Bill Campbell and Rev. T. F. Townsend.

After a short business meeting, when final plans were made for the annual pie social, to be held in June, all enjoyed lively games of progressive cockinole. Prizes were won by Doris Pearson, Craig Wilson, for high score, and Thelma Townsend and Amos Briscoe for low score.

Ken Sisler, the recreation director, on the "Do Your Treasure Hunt" style was entertained by Jeanette and Harold Outingdyke and was won by Thelma and Frank Wilson.

Then all enjoyed refreshments served,buffet style.

ADVICE To the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOU DON'T MAKE SENSE, KIM

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and have a few boy friends, but one, especially, though we're not going steady. He's not like other boys. He respects me, or acts as though he does.

Put one night, he started something and I got mad. I'm not mad now, though, although he thinks I am.

I found out from a friend that he loves me and I really love him. My friend told me that he has a way of acting as though he loves and respects a girl in order to get her to go out with him and then he can catch her off-guard.

I don't think he's that way, though. I think my friend is just jealous because she went out with him a year ago and can't get over him. — Kim

Dear Kim:

Your friend's story doesn't hold together. Yours doesn't, either.

First you tell me that this fellow respects you; then you say he started something." Does that show respect?

You also qualify your remark about his respecting you by adding, "or acts as though he does." Yet when your friend told you that his routine is to "act as though he loves and respects a girl," you refuse to believe her.

You say, also, that your friend told you that this chap loves you. Then you go on to quote her as saying that he just makes a pretense of doing this with girls.

None of this makes any sense at all, and if, as you say, you "really love" this boy, you don't make sense, either.

I suggest that you raise your standards considerably, and choose boy friends only those who measure up to them.

DON'T TRY TO FORCE ROMANCE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

There is a boy I'm quite fond of and, while he likes me as just a good acquaintance, I know that I like him more than just a friend.

How can I find out if he cares, and how can I let him know that I want to accept a date with him if my mother permits me? Is it possible to ask him, or would it be too forward?

If you have any booklet on how to be popular with boys, please let me know. I'm 14 years old. — M.C.

Dear M.C.:

It would not only be "forward," but it would make you look silly to ask this boy any such questions. It's also silly for you, at 14, to want a boy to be more than "just a friend."

It's only natural for a girl to be more attracted, at times, to one boy than to others, just as everybody has some friends who are more congenial than others. So let things go at that; be content with just being friends and don't try to force a romance. Wait awhile and let romance come naturally, when you're older.

I do have some suggestions on how to be popular, not only with boys but in general. If you'll send me a stamped self-addressed envelope, I'll be very glad to forward them to you.

BEAUTY

By MME. QUI VIVE

ARE YOU "SITTING PRETTY" THESE DAYS?

Even though she's alone, her posture while seated is gracefully attractive.

Just mention the word "posture" and the average person thinks in terms of standing or walking. Yet a woman's posture while sitting is equally important. If she's "sitting pretty", she's a picture of grace; if she sprawls or crosses her legs in an ungainly manner, she's anything but attractive. Teen-agers are especially prone to slump in chairs or on sofas, to spread feet apart in an awkward manner and otherwise assume inelegant poses while sitting.

Learning to seat one's self gracefully is something of an art but it is an art which can be easily learned with a little practice. When you wish to lower yourself into a chair or divan, try to remember to press the calf of one leg against the furniture, then use the other leg for leverage to lower your body. If you are a tall girl, sit with your feet crossed, the toes of both feet pointing in the same direction. If you are small, you may be able to get away with a little more awkwardness, but you won't make a pretty picture.

Once seated, remember that thighs should remain well back in the chair. This helps to give you good balance to the body and stronger support to the spinal column which should be held erect—but not stiff!—against the chair back. In this position, the chest will remain erect and high, too. If, while reading or talking, you feel yourself slumping into a flat-chested position, bring yourself back immediately, take a deep breath slowly. This will tend to keep you from slumping again. Practising a pretty sitting posture consciously and regularly will get you into habit of sitting correctly, so that it will eventually become as automatic as breathing.

Don't think however, that you can "cheat" just because you happen to be alone. If you slouch in your chair just because nobody's looking, you'll slouch no matter how good your resolutions, when they are looking. Habits are difficult to break, so make it a habit to sit gracefully always and you won't have to consciously think about it on "special occasions".

WHEN MARRIED WOMEN SIGN BUSINESS LETTERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me the correct way for a married woman to sign a business letter. — A.B.

Correct form for a married woman to use when she signs a business letter (to a department store, for example) is:

Yours truly,
Anne S. Brown
(Mrs. Charles Brown)

Or, if her address is not at the top of the sheet, she may sign:

Yours truly,
Anne S. Brown
Mrs. Charles Brown
122 Park Street
Haven
New York

(Important Note: Never should a woman sign a title before her name in the direct signature of a letter of any kind, social or business. Never should she sign "Miss Anne S. Brown," never "Mrs. Anne S. Brown."

ONLY TWELVE GUESTS AT THEIR WEDDING AT HOME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

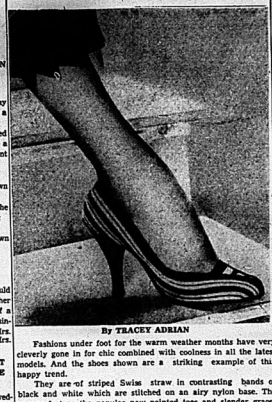
Soon we are to have a small wedding at home. We would like to invite only 12 guests. However, we are worried about doing this, in case some friends with whom we are very closely associated, and some neighbors also, may feel left out and hurt. How can we overcome this problem?

2. I have been brought up by my aunt and uncle. My mother lives in the West, as do other relatives of mine. Should they be sent invitations, even though they will not be able to attend?

3. For such a small, informal house wedding, what would be right for me to wear? And what would be the simplest kind of refreshments to serve after the ceremony at home? — J.H.

1. When only such a few friends can be invited, you will have to take your chances that the others will understand. Or if any demur to you, with all graciousness explain to them the necessity, due to very limited space.

2. Of course send them invitations. And to your mother write a warm-hearted letter telling her in detail all the plans.



3. It is quite usual for the bride at such a small, informal wedding to wear her going-away costume. Or you may wear a street-length dressmaker-type suit, or an afternoon dress. The simplest refreshments: a Wedding Cake, to be cut by you and bridegroom at end of a cold beverage of some kind, for the drinking of the toasts.

ENDEARING DEFINITION OF COURTESY

Yesterday and today and always . . . these two simple and endearing and easy-to-remember lines are the very best definition of courtesy:

TUESDAY

Sausages and Griddle Cakes (see Monday) with Maple Syrup, Cole Slaw with Pineapple Tidbits, Lemon Sherbet, Icebox Peanut Butter Cookies, Coffee.

For various reasons I was invited to be present. Of course I was not only intensely interested in the topics under discussion but in the noon and evening meals that were served to us under the supervision of Eunice Pyfrom, their Missionary-at-large Dietitian.

At noon we had a colorful and calorieful meal of sliced stuffed roast pork, applesauce, sweet pickles, mixed vegetables (corn, peas, limas, carrots) and mashed potatoes; and a perfectly delicious pineapple meringue pie and tea.

In the evening we were served thick sliced luncheon meat, a crisp tossed salad, and a puffy, golden cheese fondue that captivated everybody. Eunice served it in squares and you thought it might be Yorkshire Pudding.

I am giving you the recipe for Cheese Fondue for 50 people because it is an excellent item for you girls who are planning church suppers on a light budget. It is delicious and is highly recommended by me.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, fold lightly into bread mixture. Pour into well-oiled large pans and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until set (approx. 45 minutes). Garnish with sprinkled crumbled cornflakes on top. Note: for quick measurement 2¼ quarts of cheese equals 1¼ cups.

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN — Sunday School and Church was held at Johnstown Church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. G. A. Puttenham's lesson was found in Corinthians where Paul contrasts new ideas with old ideas.

"There is a new creation when one gives himself to God, and a new life because of the cross and resurrection. New life is the gift of God to all by sending the Holy Spirit into the lives.

"In Christian freedom, we have the power to do good. God does not do everything for us. He sets us an our way, but we must use our own two feet and we must choose the right, for if we do not seek those things that are above, we will drop to those below. It is so easy to do wrong. Paul says "When I would do good, evil is with me".

"If we wish to be really free, we must choose the good. We must put to death all that is wrong, anger, wrath, slander, vile talk. Nothing is important except that we belong to Christ."

Mr. Puttenham told of a meeting of 22 denominations in Africa lately, to fight color discrimination. This is not God's way, but man's way, for God made every man equal, it doesn't matter what color his skin is. One should put away things that are antagonistic to God's way of life. It doesn't mean drifting with the crowd to be popular, but to do what God would have one do. One should put on meekness, goodness, kindness and over all love.

"Without love and forbearance virtue can become a harsh way of living. We should make God a copy of our lives. The real Christian life is a responsible way of living, not what we like always, but as God would have us do, this will lead us into higher ideals of living."

Liberal Returns Unopposed to New Parliament

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Liberal member of the last parliament was re-elected by acclamation and 41 other candidates formally entered the June 10 federal election contest when official nominations were held Monday in 21 Canadian constituencies.

Returned to Ottawa for a third term was C. W. Carter, a Newfoundland educationist who has represented Burin-Burgeo since his province entered Confederation in 1949.

Only changes from advance compilations in the other 20 ridings were in British Columbia where no Social Credit candidate was nominated in Skeena and in Alberta where Harry Wigluk entered the race at Peace River as a People's Party candidate. Mr. Wigluk later said in an interview he will run as an independent and as a "representative of the people of Peace River."

WILL REPORT TO PARTY

Arthur Murray, named earlier to contest Skeena for Social Credit said he would send a report to his party's headquarters in Ottawa "containing my reasons for not seeking election."

Liberals and Progressive Conservatives were entered in all the contested ridings, Social Credit candidates in 19 and Social Credit in seven. Also nominated was an independent Social Credit candidate in Cochrane, Ont.

In 1953, when there were contests in all 21 ridings where nominations are early, there were 76 candidates, eight more than this year's total.

Monday's nominations were in distant or widespread constituencies where extra time is needed for delivery of ballots and other election supplies. Five of the ridings are in Newfoundland, three each in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, two each in Quebec and British Columbia, one in Manitoba, Yukon and Mackenzie River in the Northwest Territories.

Candidates in the remaining 262 constituencies, two of which return two members, will be nominated May 27, two weeks before the election.

TWO PARTY HEADS

Two party leaders, John Diefenbaker of the Conservatives and Solon Low of Social Credit, were among the nominees. Trade Minister Howe will seek a sixth term as Port Arthur's member and Immigration Minister Pickersgill a second as the member for Bonavista-Twillingate.

William Benidickson, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Harris, was the Liberal-Labor nominee in Kenora - Rainy River where he will have Conservative and CCF opposition.

Members of the last House were nominated in all but one constituency, Chapleau in Quebec, where David Gourd retired after three terms as Liberal member.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

What's in a name? A pickerel will taste as sweet if called a Quebec dore or walleye, an American pike-perch wall-eyed pike, jack salmon or just plain walleye.

Down in Quebec, where the "habitants" proudly claim the pickerel was first "discovered," they say their ancestral explorers wrote about a "golden-sided fish of great gustatorial excellence and availability in days when food was a problem."

Anyway, call the fish what you will. The pickerel season opens in this part of Ontario tomorrow, and already the fraternity is in readiness for the big day.

A Quebec outdoors writer proudly claims his province is and has been the rearing ground of the dore, or pickerel, as we Ontario heathen call it.

Be that as it may. We doubt very much if at spawning time the Quebec breeding grounds can match those in Ontario, especially in this district where the Salmon and Napanee rivers flow. Here, at spawning time, the pickerel swim fin-to-fin on their way to the spawn grounds, and as one observer once put it, "You could walk across the Napanee river on their backs."

Experts say the pickerel is no great shakes as a fighter compared to the black bass or muskie. And he is not in the same class with the trout or salmon species.

But fillet him — and put him in a sizzling skillet. The result is something the gourmet craves. Next to that poor man's piscatorial caviar the brook trout(ie), the pickerel's pan cousin, shall be out of this world, providing you don't take unto yourself a spawning female before the legal curtain rises.

In any event tomorrow the big pickerel hunt gets under way. The season extends to March 31st next year in Bay of Quinte waters. The daily minimum length limit but you are restricted to six fish per day. The length minimum was removed in 1955. And if you are one of those Walton's who are not averse to eating a pike, you may help yourself to six per day with no length minimum unless you are fishing in Consecon Lake in Prince Edward County where the "keepers" must not be less than 22 inches in length.

Minnows are the bait most generally used for pickerel but if John Dore is hungry he'll go for various types of artificial lure. Spinners and plugs are said to be effective at times and the pickerel has increased its stature as a game fish with the advent of spinning, an expert says.

When conditions are suitable a big "pick" will take some of the small wobblers used in spinning and on a four or five ounce spinning rod with a four or five-pound test line a six-pounder will give you a right merry battle.

While they're not exactly the "gangster" type, the pickerel prefer to do their prowling after dark, seeking deep waters in the bright summer months. They get their name "walleye" from the queer luminous eyes which are powerfully adapted to sunlight but are sensitive to weak light. This makes dark-days and night-times the best to for pickerel-questers. Conservation officers of the district will heartily agree with that statement. After-dark pickerel seeking is a very popular sport in this area, especially the two or three weeks preceding the official opening.

As a matter of fact, the sport proved so popular with some guys that "traded" their cars with the government for a mere pottage of pickerel.

Last year the opening was marred somewhat by muddy water caused by heavy rains prior to the "big day." However this year prospects are exceedingly bright for a good curtain raiser providing heavy rains do not fall tonight or in early morning. A Lands and Forests official at Tweed stated today that the water is exceptionally clear below normal levels and all present indications favor the fisherman if he knows where to go and what to do.

So, before the crack o' dawn tomorrow, many a pickerel breakfast will be asmokin' in the pan. Hay Bay, always a mecca for pickerel lovers will likely be a-swarm with boats. The bay, the river, West Lake, East Lake, Weller's Bay, the locks in the Trent, the Salmon and Napanee rivers, will have their quota as will the northern spots where the walleye abounds.

Lavagetto's Verbal Lash, Instils New Life in Nats; Snatch Rubber From Red Sox

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, the major leagues' newest and least envied manager, was enjoying his biggest winning streak today—two in a row with the cellar-warming Washington Senators.

That's quite an achievement for a fellow who took over a team in the midst of a 10-game losing streak only last week.

"Cookie'll do all right if he doesn't care about losing."

That's what his predecessor, Chuck Dressen, said the day after the Senators lost their second in two days under Lavagetto to extend their losing skein to 10.

Lavagetto, however, had other ideas. He sure did care about losing and he acquitted his athletes of that in no uncertain terms during a clubhouse meeting the next day.

BATTERED DETROIT

It may have been coincidental that the Senators battered Detroit pitching that day for 13 hits and ended their losing streak with an 8-5 victory. Even a 10-0 defeat by Boston Sunday failed to dampen their new spirit for they bounced back with a 6-3 triumph and Monday night won the rubber of their three-game series from the Red Sox 5-3 It was the only game played in the loop.

Big Ted Abernathy and little Herbie Plews combined their talents to lead Senators to victory. Abernathy permitted only four hits and struck out five in his first victory after three defeats this season. Plews rapped a double and two singles and drove in two runs to lead the eight-hit attack against loser Willard Nixon and two relievers.

SECOND BIG DAY

It was Plews' second straight big day at bat. The bespectacled second baseman drop[ped] the tie-breaking runs Sunday with his double and single Besides driving in two Monday, he also scored twice.

After yielding a home run to Billy Klaus, the second man he faced, Abernathy surrendered only one hit—Gene Conley's infield single off his leg in the fourth—until Boston broke through for two hits and two runs.

The victory gave Lavagetto a record of 2 in since he succeeded Dressen May 7. That's a spectacular pace compared with the team's 4-16 mark under Dressen.

In contrast to Monday night, a full schedule was in prospect today with six of the eight games to be played under the lights. Most of the attention will be focussed on Cincinnati where the Redlegs will try to extend their winning streak to 13 straight. Philadelphia and rookie Curt Simmons (2-0) offer the opposition.

TRIMMING ROSTERS

With only three more days left until the cutdown deadline, the teams are busily engaged in trimming their rosters to the required 25-player limit.

Chicago Cubs purchased veteran infielder Bobby Morgan from Philadelphia and shortstop Jack Littrell from Portland. They sold rookie shortstop Ed Winceniak and first baseman Ed Mickelson to Portland, optioned pitcher Dave Hillman to the same team and sent outfielder Bob Lennon to San Diego, also on option.

New York Giants recalled pitcher Stu Miller from Minneapolis and sent that club three players, outfielder Bill Taylor and infielder Bobby Hofman who were sold, and pitcher Gordon Jones on option. John (Windy) McCall, lefthanded relief pitcher, was sold outright to San Francisco.

Pittsburgh dropped two players, optioning catcher Danny Kravitz to Columbus and selling veteran pitcher Bob Kuzava to the same team.

St. Louis Cardinals optioned rookie righthander Tom Cheney to Omaha, Chicago White Sox handed Ellis Kinder, 42-year-old relief pitcher, his unconditional release and the Tigers asked waivers on Eddie Robinson, veteran first baseman, for the purpose of giving him his release.

Cincinnati also lost a player, bonus catcher Don Pavelitch, who was inducted into the army.

Richmond Nips Havana Kings; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The year 1956 is a dirty word to Jim Coates, big righthander for Richmond Virginians of the International League. But he is pitching this season as if he never heard of that year, which was hardly his vintage

Coates, 24, a 6-4, 190-pounder, won his fifth straight game Monday night. He doled six hits as Virginians defeated Havana 6-2 at Richmond. The victory was Vees' sixth in a row, and put Virginians in first place by a game over Miami, who lost 10-7 to Columbus In the other league game, Montreal Royals cracked a four-game losing string and beat Buffalo 4-3

Coates, up briefly with the parent New York Yankees of the American League in 1956, was out of 18 decisions for Richmond last season. He completed three games and owned a 4.93 earned run average for the fifth-place Virginians

FANS SEVEN

The Farnham, Va., hurler pitched his fourth complete game, struck out seven, walked six and lost a shutout when Dan Morejon hit a single with the bases loaded and two out in the seventh.

Bob Martyn's two-run triple in the third and Tommy Carroll's sixth inning home run paced the Vee attack.

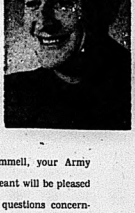
Second baseman Ken Toothman hit a three-grand slam homer to climax a six-run Columbus rally in the eighth. Howie Moss hit a homer with a man on to account for the losing of two other runs

Martins had taken a 6-2 lead in the seventh.

Billy Gardner won his third game for Montreal. He needed the relief of Bob Wiesler who entered the last two men with the tying run on third base John Rosebore hit his second homer for the Royals, who clubbed loser Glenn Cox for nine hits and four runs in the six innings he pitched.

'Iron Liege' Nag to Beat In Preakness

BALTIMORE (AP) — Calumet Farms' Iron Liege, who had the last laugh after winning the Kentucky Derby, could allow himself another chuckle today as he shaped up as the favorite for Saturday's $100,000-added Preakness.



The smart-stepping three-year-old solidified his position as the horse to beat after these developments Monday:

1. Gen. Duke, the Calumet big gun, which trainer Jimmy Jones rated higher than Iron Liege even after the Derby, returned lame after a mile workout at Pimlico and was declared out of the Preakness.

2. Iron Liege, rebuffed as Calumet's second stringer throughout his career, worked the same distance moments later in a sizzling one minute, 37 4-5—just one-fifth second off the track record.

3. Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler failed to impress jockey Eddie Arcaro in working for Preakness Prep.

"He's going to have to do better than that Saturday," said Arcaro after piloting Bold Ruler to length victory over Roslyn Farm's Inswept.

Leafs Start Rebuild Job With Signing of Mahovlich; Meeker Will Get New Help

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs, with an old foe as their new coach, have begun a promised rebuilding job which, if carried out a team that will pull out of the depths of the National Hockey League.

Within hours of Monday's announcement that Howie Meeker had been appointed manager and that Billy Reay, former Montreal Canadiens centre, had been brought in to replace him as coach, the Leafs signed a promising junior.

Frank Mahovlich, who scored at a rate of better than a goal a game for Toronto St. Michael's Majors in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series last season, has signed a pro contract. Meeker said was a "good contract."

There was also a report that Ken Girard and Bob Nevin of last season's Toronto Marlboros will in the same league might be signed.

COMPLETE SHAKEUP

The Meeker and Reay appointments completed a top-to-bottom shakeup of the club which began last week when Conn Smythe announced he was giving up his direction of the team to a seven-man committee of which his son Stafford is chairman. Two months earlier Clarence (Hap) Day had resigned as general manager.

Smythe had said he would sign players, as well as a coach and manager, before he gave up his with the operation of the club.

However, it was announced Monday that Meeker would have that job.

Meeker's managerial duties will also include supervision of the team's operations. Reay will have some doubt about the strength of the organization.

"We have exceptionally good organization in junior and under," he said. "But we are average to weak in our minor league pros. My job is to build that up."

MAY CHANGE STYLE

Americans to within a few points of first place in the American Hockey League last season, made a remark which indicated there may be a change in the Leafs' style of play.

The team has been noted for its positive hockey, with emphasis on checking. It finished fifth last season.

Asked whether a player with scoring talents and only average defensive ability, like Gerry Ehman, would be permitted to concentrate on getting goals, he replied:

"I believe in letting a player do what he can do best and the other will take care of itself. Take Rocket Richard as an example. He's so tremendous at carrying the puck in and scoring goals that no one ever worried about his defensive ability. Generally, the man covering him is too busy to think about scoring."

YOUNGEST MANAGER

Meeker, at 33 six years younger than Reay, is the youngest manager the Leafs have ever had.

In announcing the appointment, Conn Smythe said of the former winger from Stratford:

"He will have full chance to show what he can do. It's a promotion for him and recognition of his talents as an executive."

Both Meeker and Reay signed two-year contracts although the pacts were described as "for one season, plus."

In his first official act as manager—signing Mahovlich—Meeker got one of the highly-touted juniors in the game, a centre who has been compared with Montreal's great Jean Beliveau.

"Mahovlich has terrific potential," Meeker said. The six-foot, two, 200-pounder, who had 53 goals and 38 assists with the juniors last season, was selected the outstanding player in the first game of a three-game all-star series.

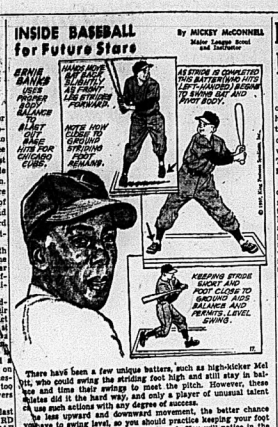
He was originally steered into the Toronto organization by chief scout Bob Davidson, who watched him at Schumacher after hearing reports.

Quinte Soccer Season Gets Under Way

Another season has started for the Bay of Quinte Football Association. Five teams have gone to the starting post this year. Three of them are holdovers from last season, Batawa, Belleville Northern Electric and Trenton. The two brand new entries are RCAF which is a combination of last year's RCAF Station and 2 RD squads and Campbellford which is a completely new put-together.

Due to loss of playing strength through service movements the two airforce teams of last year found they did not have all-evident players of the right calibre to round out two teams.

All three of last year's holdovers have new faces in their lineup so it is difficult to predict how the league will shape up at this time of the season. Batawa are able to call on a few Tiny Ward players who recently arrived in this country. Belleville had a considerable turnover from the their first time out last Wednesday evening, whilst Trenton top two players are the only new players signed up.



There are only a few of last year's league winning 2 RD squad and runners up RCAF team who will be now combined out. Campbellford are made up mainly of Dutch and Czech Country boys and once they get playing together a few times should take account of themselves.

Batawa took an early lead in the league last week when they beat Belleville Northern in Belleville on Saturday by a two to nothing count, and gained two points Trenton on Saturday afternoon in Campbellford when they beat the newcomers by seven goals to two. In the other game played last week RCAF edged Trenton by one goal to—one on the latter's ground.

The league has three games scheduled for this week. On Tuesday evening Belleville play Trenton on the Northern Electric grounds at 6:30; on Wednesday evening RCAF entertain Batawa again at 6:30, while on Saturday afternoon Belleville entertain Campbellford at the Northern Electric field with the kick - off slated for 3 p.m.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Future Stars

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

There have been a few unique batters, such as high-kicker Mel Ott, who could swing the striding foot high and still stay in balance and time their swings to meet the pitch. However, these are the exceptions the hard way, and only a player of unusual talent can use such actions with any degree of success.

The less upward and downward movement, the better chance for a level swing level, so you should practice keeping your foot close to the ground as you stride forward. You will notice in the illustrations that the swing doesn't start until the forward movement of the striding foot is completed. This shows the importance of a fast stride in giving you a longer time to judge the flight of a fast pitch before you must decide whether to swing at it.

Experienced coaches will advise you not to be a "guess hitter," and this is very good advice, but many outstanding batters have aided themselves by learning what pitchers are likely to do in certain situations. For instance, Honus Wagner found it easier to get his 4 a pitcher whose first pitch to him was a ball. Most pitchers will concentrate on getting the second pitch in the strike zone in ord not to get too far behind in the ball and strike count. So Wagner would be prepared to swing at that pitch and often found it to h liking. The echo of bat meeting ball would produce another baseb for the Hall of Fame here.

Power, Robinson Top Packs In Major Leagues Hitting

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Power of Kansas City, who was hit on the head by a thrown ball in spring training and missed the first 10 days of the season, has come back with a bang and now is leading Ted Williams in the American League batting race.

Power, 28-year-old first baseman collected 15 hits in 28 times at bat in last week's games (a .659 pace) to boost his average to .411. The Boston Red Sox slugger had seven rafeties in 18 trips to drop 11 points to .420 and in Monday night's only major league game, which the Sox lost 5-3 to Washington, he went hitless in three trips to drop to .403.

In the National League, Cincinnati's Frank Robinson, last season's rookie-of-the-year, moved into the lead with a .396 mark. Robinson, in fifth place a week ago, climbed 29 points with an 11-for-31 performance (.354).

18 RUNNER-UP

Don Hoak, another member of the streaking Redlegs, moved up to second place among hitters at .382. He's followed by Hank Aaron of Milwaukee with .379, Stan Musial of St. Louis with .368, Hank Groat of Pittsburgh, .365.

Aaron, named 38 points last week with 9-for-31 while Musial, the circuit's six-time batting king, had 12 points with 6-for-16.

Aaron, however, hit for distance, slamming three homers to take over the lead in this department with nine. He also is the top man in runs batted in with 23. Hoak has 22 RBIs followed by Brooklyn's Carl Furillo with 21.

The 38-year-old Williams hit four home runs to lift his American League leading total to nine. Washington's Roy Sievers is the runner-up in pace-setter with 24. He drove home five runs last week.

Wilson, Labine Hold ERA Lead In Majors

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Wilson, veteran righthander of the Chicago White Sox, and Clem Labine, Brooklyn's ace reliever, hold the major leagues' earned run lead after four weeks of the 1957 baseball season.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today that Wilson paces the American League with a 1.23 average. He has yielded only five earned runs in 34 innings while winning three games and losing one. Jim has pitched two shutouts, against Kansas City and Boston.

Wilson, 35, finished with a 4.38 ERA last season when he compiled a 13-14 record. He also has worked for Boston, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Baltimore in the American League and Boston and Milwaukee in the National. With Milwaukee on June 12, 1954 he had a no-hit, no-run game against the Phillies 2-0.

Labine has appeared in 11 games, all in relief. He tops the National League with a 1.86 ERA in six earned runs in 29 frames. Clem has won two games, lost none and saved three others. He has been used also of the Dodgers, is next to Labine with a 1.93 earned run mark. The 26-year-old lefthander, who spent last season in the navy, has yielded eight earned runs in 37 frames and compiled a 2-2 record. Both of his victories were shutouts.

Robin Again Leads 'Gophers' Sisler Paces American Loop

NEW YORK (AP)—Robin Roberts of Philadelphia Phillies, the majors' perennial gopher ball leader, again has taken the National League lead in this baseball category. He has yielded eight home runs in 46 innings pitched.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press also revealed that Dave Sisler, Boston Red Sox' righthander, has given up eight circuit clouts to pace the American League. Sisler has appeared in five games and worked 23 innings while compiling a 3-1 won-lost record.

Roberts set a big league record last year by permitting 46 gophers. It broke his own mark of 41 established in 1955. He also topped the majors in 1954 with 35.

SAUER HIT TWO

The 30-year-old righthander has yielded four games and dropped four this year. He has been tagged for two homers by Hank Sauer of New York Giants and one each by Ossie Virgil of Giants, Gil Hodges, Gino Cimoli and Don Zimmer of Brooklyn, Dale Long of Chicago Cubs and Dee Fondy of Pittsburgh.

Sisler's gophers were given up to Bill Skowron of New York Yankees, two, and Billy Martin, Enos Slaughter and Gil McDougald of Yanks, Gus Zernial and Harry Simpson of Kansas City and Eddie Yost of Washington, one apiece.

Right behind Roberts in the National League competition are Bob Rush of home-run happy Chicago Cubs, Don Newcombe of Brooklyn, Herman Wehmeier of St. Louis, Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati, Bob Friend of Pittsburgh and Warren Spahn of Milwaukee.

ALSO GAVE UP SIX

Hector Brown of Baltimore and Early Wynn of Cleveland are runners-up to Sisler in the American League, also with six. The records include Sunday's games.

The Cincinnati Redlegs' pitchers have allowed most homers in the National League, 30. Pittsburgh follows with 23 and Milwaukee with 22.

Kansas City moundsmen top the American League in gopher balls with 23. Then come Detroit with 20, Boston 19 and Washington 18 hurlers 17.

A total of 307 homers have been hit in the major leagues this season—178 in the National and 134 in the American.

EQUALS RECORD

KITCHENER (CP) — Gary Cowan, 19-year-old Canadian and Ontario junior golf champion, has joined a select group holding the course record at his home Rockway course here.

He shot a 61 Sunday to match the mark held by Gerry Kesterton, Moe Norman and Doug Tucker. Tucker was playing with Cowan when he first threw his ball and an eagle on the first nine for a 30, and four birdies on the back nine.

Ban Looms After Tragic Road Race

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP) — The probability that all open road automobile racing—including the Mille Miglia, the race of blood and 7,000 curves—will be prohibited temporarily loomed today in the face of a mounting wave of indignation sweeping the country.

Politicians, newspapers and the man in the street still were talking about the tragic accident in Sunday's Mille Miglia which took 13 lives and brought the toll of the race to 29 dead and 30 injured in ten years.

While the Italian government studied what action to take, the Senate of Senator Sardiniet International Trophy race, scheduled for May 26, was called off.

Newspapers throughout Europe appealed for an "end to this mass homicide," and a half-dozen Italian deputies and senators said they would propose parliamentary law prohibiting future races on open roads.

Families of spectators killed in the crash sent telegrams to Rome urging the government to ban the Mille Miglia race.

TO SELL TRACK

WHEELING, W. Va. (AP)—The half-mile Wheeling Downs horse racing track will go on the auction block June 12 to satisfy the U.S. government's $2,500,000 income tax claim against William G. (Big Bill) Lias and his wife, both of Wheeling.

Judge Harry E. Watkins Monday ordered the public auction of the property after government lawyers and counsel for the owner of the track, agreed upon a prompt sale.

Dressen Goes To Senators' Front Office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charley Dressen packed away his baseball uniform Monday in favor of a front office business suit. He accepted a job as assistant to the president of the Washington Senators.

Six days after he was dismissed as field manager, Dressen took up the challenge of searching out set and improved talent for the club that hasn't finished in the American League first division since 1946.

Meeting one of Dressen's conditions, the club gave him a contract running through 1958. He said it will take that long or longer to revitalize the lackluster Senators.

SALARY NOT DISCLOSED

Dressen's salary in the newly created player-hunting post was not disclosed. He was drawing a reported $35,000 a year as manager.

"I am satisfied," Dressen said. "I think the contract is a very good one. I only hope I can give the club a push."

Cocky as ever, he told newspapermen: "I think I can do them a lot of good."

Calvin Griffith, the Senators' president handed out a statement saying Dressen will scour the country for ball players "with special emphasis on the major league teams and minor league teams in the higher classifications."

Dressen's work also will entail "negotiating for players through purchases, trades and other available means," the statement said.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was watching ma mixing biskitts in the kitchin, and somebody said, Greetings and salutations.

Being pop and meening he was home, and ma said, Oh, is that you, William?

So they tell me, pop said. You will be pleased to hear that I was on the point of stopping in at Pockadopolo's and bringing you a mess of Spring flowers, he said, and ma said, Then why in the world didn't you for land sakes? Do you suppose I injoy hearing about an empty gesture? she said.

Heres you listened to any of the popular romantick ballads? pop said, and ma said, Now William, dont change the subject.

I'm not, my dear, I assure you, pop said. You haven't told me if you are familiar with any of the current love songs? he said, and ma said, Why, of course, the disk jockeys dont play anything else. Some of them are quite pritty, she said.

They are more than pritty, they are overwhelming, pop said. I heard one on my car radio while I was driving home, a man was assuring a maid that the stars will be old before his love for her is cold. He promised her in words that almost rhymed that eh eternity would be long enough to exhawst his affection, pop said, and ma said, Oh yes, I see. Heres hoping it never forever. We one of the big hit tunes, she said.

That's what I was afraid of, pop said. With those masterly protestations of undying love ringing in your ears, how could I possibly impress you with a few simple Spring flowers? he said, and ma started to say, Now William, and pop said, Don't say my name, I threw caution to the winds and got you the flowers anyway.

And he turned around and got them from the dining room table, and ma forgave him with a big kiss.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge hands are openfaced slams that a palooka pair could not miss reaching. So, it is no surprise that the world championship masters got there in deal number 92 as you see here:

	NORTH
	♠ A J 9 3
	♥ 8
	♦ J 9 8 7 6 4
	♣ 7 5
WEST		EAST

	SOUTH
	♠ 8 6 4
	♥ J 7 4 3
	♦ 10 5
	♣ 10 9 6 4

Room one bid it like this:

West	East
Pass	2 NT
3 H	4 ♦
5 NT	6 NT

Room two bid it like this:

West	East
Pass	2 NT
5 NT	6 NT

East has a perfect two notrump opening with eight high cards. West sees 11 and opponents could have only one. So, slam is no-trump is too pitiful to miss, although slam in suit is usually safer.

Proper bids take this to six hearts. But masters are notorious for that. To point out how fanstical, room two did not even mention hearts, which could be a flagrant error in many deals.

Each declarer showed in play that flash which masters are known to possess. Each took the opening club lead and cashed his two heart tops. This revealed that heart ten finesse would be a cinch.

With 12 tricks at no-trump now certain, each angled to take 13 if possible. Therefore, dummy was entered with a diamond to the king and a small spade was returned from there.

North ducked and east king took this trick. Now there were enough tricks in the other three suits to take the balance and north went to bed with the spade ace; snorting lustily.

Score's Eye Is Improving

CLEVELAND (AP) — Herb Score's injured right eye continues to show improvement, but the eye specialist who has been treating him says it is too early to be "too enthusiastic".

Score, the Cleveland Indians' ace lefthanded pitcher who was hit by a line drive in a game with New York Yankees last Tuesday night, told the nurse who removed the dressing from his eye Monday that "my vision seems to have improved a lot"

Twin Science-Terror Dramas Make a Big Hit Here

Science-terror reaches new horrifying heights in Allied Artists' "Attack of the Crab Monsters" and "Not of this Earth," both on the same bill which opened yesterday at the Park theatre.

Making top adventure fare is the finely-woven plot in "Attack of the Crab Monsters," which tells the fantastic tale of a scientific expedition studying H-Bomb fallout effects on a remote and mysterious island, and the crunching, devouring attack on them by nightmarish 25-foot crab monsters. The frightening creatures are biological freaks resulting from sudden dosages of radiation poisoning.

The actors in "Attack of the Crab Monsters" give excellent performances. The cast is headed by Richard Garland, Pamela Duncan and Russell Johnson, who handle their roles with poise and intelligence. The underwater sequences are especially intriguing, as Miss Duncan skin-dives below the raft in the scientific search. Featured roles are convincingly portrayed by Leslie Bradley, Richard Cutting, and Mel Welles.

While this terrifying motion picture excitement depicts the king-size evils from under the sea, the entertaining co - feature, "Not of this Earth", goes the other way for its special brand of horrifying menace.

Here, a vampire planet has sent down its phantom killer in search of human blood much needed on the mysterious sphere.

Paul Birch is starred as the evil, invading murderer; lovely HOMEWOOD, Ill. (CP)—Lori-El the odds-on favorite, beat Wilton Stable's Euphony by half a length in the $28,225 Arlington Classic as Balmoral opened its 30-day meet at Washington Park.

Running through a thick fog and heavy mud, the winner covered the six furlongs in 1:13. Dale's Delight was third.

The win was worth $9,380 to her owners, Michael R. Soto and A F. Berke of Chicago, and raised her earnings to $30,000.

WHOPPING DOUBLE

The daily double payoff was a whopping $1,141, made up of LJs erty Street in the first at $67.60 and Southern Rose in the second at $8520.

Glenel Stable's Assemblyman led all the way to win the $6,000 Jackson Heights Purse at Jamaica track, L.I.

The three-year-old, ridden by Ted Atkinson, raced the 1 1-16 miles in 1:44 3-5 to win by three-quarters of a length over D. and M. Stable's Gallorette. Third money went to Tenacious.

Beverly Garland as the nurse who first suspects his violent mission; and Morgan Jones portrays a police officer. Each acts with marked ability. Outstanding characterizations are given by Jonathan Haze, William Roerick and Richard Miller in featured roles.

Both pictures were produced and directed by talented Roger Corman and are showing for the first time in Belleville and district.

Daily Double Paid $1,141

Mary Martin Festival In Cards for California

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Along with sunshine and scenery, California can boast this year of a Mary Martin festival.

The Civic Light Opera of San Francisco and Los Angeles will get the musical star for 21 weeks, first in South Pacific and then in Annie Get Your Gun. Needless to say, the cities are ready for her the engagements are virtually sold out already. And she is more than ready for them.

"I never felt so eager to sing," she said between fittings for her South Pacific costumes.

The reason she is primed She and husband Richard Halliday spent eight months at their ranch in the heart of Brazil.

"It was heavenly," she said. "For eight months we didn't hear a telephone, didn't read a newspaper. What did we do? The days were full. We were up at the crack of dawn to supervise work on the place. At night we'd collapse.

"For eight months I didn't sing. Now I'm full of energy and I can't wait to get started."

She has plenty of work lined up for her. Besides fittings and rehearsals, she's recording an Annie album with co-star John Raitt. And as soon as she finishes the run here this fall, she'll do the show on a two-hour colorcast over NBC.

That's how the whole thing came up," she said. "Two years ago, we wanted to do the same thing with Annie that we had done with Peter Pan: Do if on the stage and then TV. But MGM still held the TV rights, so we had to wait.

39 of 114 Sponsored TV Shows Going off the Air

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Sponsor magazine reports that 39 of the 114 sponsored television shows on the three major networks this season are going off the air.

On the casualty list are 19 which bowed in during the season now drawing to a close. The 20 others have had at least two seasons on the home screen. Since Sponsor compiled its lists, there have been well-founded rumors of other removals.

Altogether, statistically, it adds up to a casualty rate of about 35 per cent among network television programs this season. Most of the 19 new programs which failed have been cited as casualties in this space at one time or another. Without listing them all again, the fatalities break down into these categories:

Comedy, four; action-adventure, five; quiz programs, four; variety programs, two; drama, two; sports, one; and one difficult to categorize, Noah's Ark.

It is futile, however, to try to draw profound conclusions from the types of new programs that have failed in 1956-57. The essentially rate, only a bit higher than last year, does not indicate any great revolution brewing in TV programming.

No significant trends can be charted from studying the casualties.

Some of the axed shows were bad ones. Some were very good. All the failures have not been of craftsmanship or skill. But all the failures have been commercial. That is, they have failed to hold their sponsors.

Here again, however, the problem is complex. Sponsors base their judgments of programs on two factors: (1) Whether the show suits the product advertised; and (2) its audience rating against the opposition. If the rating is high, the sponsor usually believes that his advertised product eventually will sell.

Above all, chance plays an extraordinary role in the fate of any TV program. Each network tries to place a show in the time slot considered most advantageous to it. This cannot always be done, of course And no network can be sure of the strength of many a program's opposition until the last irrevocable minute when the battle is under way.

Among this season's casualties were some which suffered from the basic cause of every casualty everywhere: They were simply in the wrong places at the wrong times.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find that your outlook is, according the stars.

For Wednesday, May 15, 1957

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A mild day generally. Your Mars is auspicious for personal relationships, everyday tasks. Be understanding, tolerant.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — As with someone else today, patience and carefulness are stressed. There may be a tendency to irritability. Sidestep it and don't yield to recklessness or inattention. Familiar tasks, your own affairs need thought.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Although restrictive in some ways, as for all of us now, your Mercury is not in unfavorable aspect. You could do much through study, analyzing, research. Be considerate.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A short of keep-things-in-line day for helping others to get a start for advancing with anxiety. A time or calm reasoning. It's better to finish things waiting attention than to start new undertakings.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Aspects stress the need for soundly - paced action without wasteful haste. No thoughtless management. Your occupation, other familiar duties can run smoothly.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Save but don't skimp. Your natural resourcefulness and knack for keeping things pleasing generally are helpful aids — especially now. Haste can tire; moderation tonic.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You are among the few with strongly favorable planet configurations now, and while you may feel spurred to gain ground quickly, and can in many instances, be careful not to antagonize others.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Nullify contentiousness with good will and a voice with cheer in it. This can be your day for helping others to get a start for advancing your own goals, too.

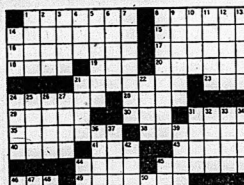
November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Jupiter's aspect warns against misjudgment, overaggression, overenthusiasm, hasty conclusions and answers. In a word; be discreet, tactful and wise.

December 22 to January 20 — (Capricorn) — Note Sagittarius. You are likely to fall into similar errgs if not astute, painstaking, and mindful of the dispositions of others. Maintain good humor.

January 21 to February 19 — (Aquarius) — The suspicious aspect of "your" planet, Uranus, suggests that you put forth greater efforts to advance. Eliminate waste motion. Display your talents.

February 20 to March 20 — (Pisces) — While today may not be all that you wish, you can plan and put into operation activities which will benefit you later. Neptune's position warns against dallying or doubting. Straight ahead!

You born today are self-reliant, determined, dependable, neat; an able organizer; cheery, cooperative with superiors and children. You are adapted to activities where beauty and utility are necessary; have the ability to soothe nervous people. You have much latent power; develop your talents and best qualities daily. Do not let love of luxury or even everyday comforts turn you from the happy path of useful achievement. You have perseverance but can also delay, even abandon things you could finish well. An unyielding attitude, overenthusiasm and excesses are likely faults.



Birthdate of: Florence Nightingale, renowned nurse.

TO FIGHT CUSTODY CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Determined to keep two-year-old Rickey, the son they adopted when he was six days old, Mr. and Mrs. Ray McNeilly of Toronto will take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada. The couple were stunned by the unanimous decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal that ruled that Rickey be returned to his mother, Helen Agar, a Canadian citizen now living in Minneapolis. Miss Agar, an unmarried mother renounced her claim to Rickey when he was a few days old and handed him over to the Victor home in Toronto, operated by the United Church of Canada. She now wants the child but the McNeillys claim she is "flamboyant and unstable" and not fit to care for the boy. The McNeillys are shown with Rickey and their natural son, John, five.

Want to Learn Whether Beck Favored Firms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate rackets investigators want to know whether teamsters boss Dave Beck helped favored unions get lucrative trucking firms which helped get him a $200,000 personal loan.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said he would ask Alphons Landa, Washington counsel for the Freuhauf Trailer Co., about a series of contracts written by Arthur Condon, another lawyer in the same firm.

Copies of Condon's memos, with Landa marked in, were given reporters Monday after Roy Freuhauf, president of the trailer manufacturing firm, said he didn't know anything about them.

The memos related that other trucking firms involved in a 1953 New England teamsters strike were critical of Freuhauf. Beck and Bert Seymour, president of Associated Transport Inc., a big trucking firm.

Condon was Beck's lawyer at Beck's earlier appearances before the rackets investigating committee, but since has severed connection with him.

A Condon memo dated Aug. 11, 1955, said a letter circulated to New England truckers criticized Beck, Freuhauf and Seymour "on the ground that the strike settlement was the result of a deal engineered by these men."

Freuhauf testified Monday about the $200,000 loan and associated dealings with Beck but ahead of the Freuhauf strike. The pay-off-or-else-that Beck got a $200,000 personal loan about a year after Beck let Freuhauf have $1,500,000 loan of teamsters funds. Both loans have been repaid, Freuhauf said.

Beck, the committee said, used that $200,000 to help pay off part of union funds it contends he had been forced to spend in defense of Teamsters which federal income tax agents were investigating.

Macmillan Faces Stern Test as 9 Tories Revolt

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan is facing the sternest test of his four-month government leadership with a Conservative backbench revolt over Suez hands.

Political quarters speculated today on the possible spread of the revolt before a two-day House of Commons debate on Suez beginning Wednesday.

Eight Conservative members of Parliament and a Conservative peer, Lord Russell of Liverpool, broke the party's parliamentary ranks Monday night in protest against a government announcement permitting British ships to use the Suez Canal.

Macmillan earlier had told the Commons that payment of canal dues by British ships would be made to Egypt in pounds through a special account at the Bank of England.

British ships had been advised to avoid using the canal since it was nationalized by Egypt last July.

FULL HAVE MAJORITY

The nine "rebels" said they will continue their political career as independent Conservatives. Eight Commons members made their protest by dubbing the government's action a "capitulation to Nasser" and declared that "appeasement only leads to disaster."

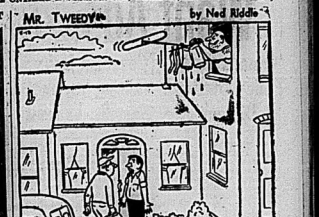
The eight MPs are Viscount Hinchingbrooke, Sir Victor Raikes, Patrick Maitland, Angus Maude, John Biggs-Davison, Colonel Turner, Anthony Fell and Paul Williams.

Conservative MACMILLAN

British newspapers meanwhile are nearly unanimous in support of the government's decision to give the all-clear to British shipping through the canal.

But opinions are divided on where responsibility for the present situation lies, and on what Britain's next moves should be.

The Manchester Guardian, Liberal, says that in his statement Monday "appeasement is the failure of a policy he once accepted," but "he managed it with some skill."



He attempted a face-saving was mild, and his reckoning of the present state of things realistic enough."

Gardiner Says Cheese Tariff Being Drafted

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner said on a radio broadcast Monday night that the federal government has started negotiating for a tariff on cheese.

He did not elaborate as to which country, or countries, the negotiations are being carried on with.

He spoke on a recorded 15-minute free-time political broadcast over the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Socred Leader Ready to Accept P.M.'s Challenge

EDMONTON (CP) — Social Credit Leader Solon Low said Monday night he is "quite prepared" to accept a challenge to test the truth of Prime Minister St. Laurent's statements concerning a telegram sent to then Prime Minister Eden of Britain during the Suez crisis of last fall.

But, the Social Credit leader said "I still feel the prime minister should apologize for the use of pretty strong and unjustified language in calling me a liar."

Mr. Low referred, at a Social Credit rally, to a controversy that developed between him and the prime minister after Mr. Low was quoted as saying Mr. St. Laurent had threatened to withdraw Canada from the Commonwealth unless Britain and France halted their invasion of Egypt last November.

Mr. Low said later—and reiterated Monday night—that he was quoting Prof. Yuk Hewman's CBC broadcast of Feb. 10.

Mr. St. Laurent termed the statement a lie and challenged Mr. Low to name any privy councillor to read the telegram in private and without disclosing the contents state whether Mr. St. Laurent had told the truth.

'PECULIAR WAY'

"This seems to be a peculiar way of doing things," Mr. Low said Monday, "but I am quite prepared to accept Mr. St. Laurent's challenge because I am anxious that the Canadian people should have the truth.

"It would seem to me far better if the prime minister were to parphrase the contents of the telegram himself and issue the statement himself. I am prepared to take his word. I haven't called him a liar."

Speaking from the same platform, Social Credit Premier Manning said the Liberals' performance is doing more harm than good to Anglo - American relations by placing Canada in a role of an international mediator.

"The present two factors are foremost in stabilizing the world situation, the first is the solidarity of the British Commonwealth, the second a close alliance between the Commonwealth and the United States.

"The Liberal government's policy has progressively weakened the Commonwealth tie and, by placing Canada in the role of mediator of international disputes, has done more harm than good to Anglo-American relations."

The premier and Mr. Low addressed about 2,400 persons in the 2,700-seat Northern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium.

Will Repeat U.S. Opposition To Neutral Reich

By WARREN ROGERS Jr.

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dulles was expected to renew at a press conference today American opposition to United States opposition to a demilitarized zone across Germany.

The question has been a hot one in diplomatic circles since President Eisenhower said last week that any disarmament plan which seemed fair to both East and West should be received sympathetically and studied earnestly. Eisenhower made no mention of German demilitarization, but he was replying to a question about a proposal which involved such a zone.

The comment stirred a transatlantic storm. In the wake rumors and denials, with overtones of the forthcoming German elections, have bobbed up for a week.

In the background also are the press - conduct talks being conducted at London by the U.S., Russia, Britain, Canada and France—members of the United Nations disarmament sub-committee.

It was Sir Anthony Eden, then British prime minister, who proposed at the 1955 Geneva "summit" conference a demilitarized belt be thrown athwart Germany in the middle of Europe. Eden termed it as a step toward general disarmament and troop reductions on the cold war.

A reporter suggested to Eisenhower last Wednesday that the president might be interested in a revival of that plan. The president replied that had been suggested as a test tube operation."

That jolted some of Eisenhower's critics on foreign policy. They feared the president might inadvertently have created a false impression of a new policy favoring a neutralized Germany.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Heinz Kreisler made some disparaging remarks at the state department here.

These determined officials said the adamant Dulles' press conference today, that U.S. policy has not changed—that the Eisenhower administration holds to the view that

1. Germany must be reunited through free elections.

2. Germany can not be neutralized.

3. Disarming and troop cuts must not interfere with reunifying Germany within the Atlantic alliance.

'Canada First' Policy Outlined By Diefenbaker

GUELPH (CP)—Concepts of a "Canada first" policy were outlined Monday night by Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker in a speech before 1,400 persons who filled Guelph Collegiate auditorium.

"I don't want to be nationalistic," he said. "I just want Canada first."

The 61-year-old leader completed a six-day tour of Ontario with two public appearances in Toronto, 70 miles east of here, capped with the address here.

Mr. Diefenbaker shook hands for almost two hours at an afternoon rally, then spoke to 500 persons at a dinner meeting rally.

He spoke here in support of Alfred D. Hales, party candidate in Wellington South.

Appealing for support in this city of diversified secondary industry, the party chief said a Conservative government would promote more processing of Canadian raw materials in Canada.

NOT OPPOSED

Mr. Diefenbaker said he is not against foreign capital coming into the country. U.S. firms coming into Canada should not regard themselves as foreign companies but should have as their aim benefits to Canada.

The Progressive Conservative party would foster wider participation of Canadians in the development of the country's resources.

Industries were being challenged by the dumping of goods by other countries. The party would work to restore markets.

On International affairs, Mr. Diefenbaker referred to a Commons debate earlier this year when Prime Minister St. Laurent, speaking on the Suez crisis, criticized the British and French as "those supermen of Europe whose days are short over."

The PC leader said his party believes those "supermen" still have a great contribution to make if freedom is to be maintained in all parts of the world."

CLOSURE ISSUE

Mr. Diefenbaker challenged Mr. St. Laurent to point out in history when parliamentary closure was applied as soon as it was last year during the Trans-Canada pipeline debate.

The government's action degraded Parliament. A Progressive Conservative government would abolish closure and restore parliamentary self-government.

He also said a Conservative government would promote a 10-year program of national development, achieve by conference and agreement new and just responsibilities at the federal-provincial-municipal levels; combat inflation; restore farm income; reduce income tax; retain the social security system with justice and equity for those who require it.

A Conservative government would seek the co-operation of provincial governments to build highways northward for defence and exploration.

Canadian Unity Getting Stronger Says St. Laurent

QUEBEC (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told voters in his hometown riding of Quebec East Monday night there are more signs than ever that Canadian unity is becoming stronger.

An audience that nearly filled a 1,800-seat theatre heard Mr. St. Laurent launch his campaign in Quebec province with a brief review of his 15-year career in politics. He outlined the Quebec-opposed federal tax-sharing ideas, and argued that the Liberal party is the one in the best position to promote Canadian unity.

There was a growing appreciation among English - speaking Canadians of their French-speaking compatriots' leanings towards things of beauty and their common-sense outlook.

In Quebec appreciation was growing of the achievements of the English-speaking element in the nation.

AVOIDS ANTAGONISM

Mr. St. Laurent said it brings him satisfaction to think he may have made a contribution toward unity by "bearing down on national rather than regional interests and avoiding all that could arouse antagonism between various groups of Canadians."

The prime minister today starts an Ontario tour. He will return to his native province later in the campaign.

Except for a brief greeting to English-speaking voters here, Mr. St. Laurent spoke in French.

The prime minister said he did not want to give the impression that Conservatives had never helped the cause of unity. He chatted about Sir John A. Macdonald, first prime minister, who had helped cement the Canadian nation.

Mr. St. Laurent promised the long-discussed plans for a new Quebec post office were in their final stages. Its cost would be $3,300,000.

Digressing from his notes Mr. St. Laurent said he wanted to make it clear Quebec's position behind Ontario and British Columbia in the national production picture does not mean "the people here are more lazy than elsewhere."

"It means there are more young ones here than elsewhere and that is a wealth for the nation," he said.

Mr. St. Laurent did not express an opinion on whether Quebec should participate in the federal hospital insurance plan. He added the federal government is determined not to encroach on provincial jurisdiction in this field. Each province would administer its own program.

Coldwell Wants Controls, Excess Profits Tax

TORONTO (CP) — "Beneficial controls" and an excess profits tax are necessary if inflation in Canada is to be controlled, M. J. Coldwell, leader of the CCF party, said Monday night.

In a wide-ranging speech here he dealt also with a national health insurance plan, a federal labor code, the financing of the Trans-Canada natural gas pipeline and the international outlook.

Mr. Coldwell addressed an audience of about 500 in a northwest Toronto school as he wound up Ontario appearances in the campaign for the June 10 federal election.

Later this week he will begin public appearances in the four western provinces, including a speech in Saskatoon May 18 and another in Vancouver May 21.

URGES GREATER CURBS

Mr. Coldwell accused the Liberal government of not taking the necessary steps to control inflation—to reimpose "beneficial controls" and an excess profits tax. In a brief aside he took a slap at the Social Credit party.

"There is no party in Canada that is financed to a greater extent by big business than the Social Credit party." It had spent $20,000 to stage a rally in Toronto, attended by party leader Solon Low, Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Premier Manning of Alberta, which had "flopped."

Mr. Coldwell said the existing Federal Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act exercised control only over a limited number of Canadian industries, such as railways, telegraphs, shipping, radio and ferries.

But concerns that operated across the country like packing houses and the steel industry were outside its jurisdiction.

If a CCF government were elected, it would enact an "effective" national labor code.

His party wanted to see in Canada "a national health plan—and under pressure from the CCF, and no other party, we have the beginnings of such a plan."

Mr. Coldwell said the CCF had opposed legislation for a natural gas pipeline across Canada because it should be built and controlled by the Canadian people. The Liberals had fought for one promoter; the Progressive Conservatives for another. "We fought for the people of Canada."

The Liberal government had made available $80,000,000 to enable Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, Ltd, to build the line from Alberta to Winnipeg. More money was to be advanced to build the line across Northern Ontario. The company would charge its customers enough so that it could repay the government during the next 20 years.

Mr. Coldwell said he was optimistic there will not be another world war.

"The people of Western Europe know, if we don't, that the outbreak of nuclear war would mean annihilation . . . and the Russians know if such a war broke out, their great centres of industry would be wiped out too."

Not only universal peace but universal disarmament was vital for the future of the world.

BOULDER CRUSHES BOY

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—A 600-pound boulder Sunday crushed a 10-year-old boy to death after he dislodged it on an embankment.

Police said Marcus Wood and a playmate were digging a cave in a 35-foot bank of earth at the rear of the Wood home. The boys apparently dislodged the stone, which rolled down the hill on which they were digging.

Faisal And Saud Tell Syria, Egypt Not To Meddle

Blood Enemies Hold Talks And Pledge To Fight Reds

BAGHDAD (AP)—The kings of Iraq and Saudi Arabia are reported winding up their talks here with a pledge to co-ordinate their resistance to communism and a warning that no Arab state should meddle in the affairs of its Arab neighbors.

Observers see this as a pointed hint to Syria and Egypt, both accused of fomenting trouble in Iraq and Jordan.

The reported outcome of the talks here this week between Saudi Arabia's King Saud and Iraq's King Faisal is seen as a triumph for pro-Western Premier Nuri Said of Iraq, and another setback for Egyptian President Nasser's desire to lead the Arab world.

IRAQ MAJOR TARGET

Iraq has been a major target of Egyptian and Syrian propaganda because of its adherence to the Western defence pact. It did Pact and its refusal to follow Nasser's lead.

Saud previously held aloof from close ties with Iraq, whose Hashemite royal family has been Saud's family's blood enemy for years. Saudi Arabia's King is army leader of with those of Egypt, Jordan and Syria in a unified command. Saud is reported to have over the pro-Soviet policies of Egypt and Syria and the threat of communism to his own absolute power.

It had been expected that Jordan's King Hussein, another Hashemite and Faisal's cousin, would join the talks in Baghdad today, but Hussein on Tuesday decided the invitation, if one was indicated the troubled conditions in restive Jordan prevented his departure now.

BACKED BY SAUD

Hussein was reported to have had the backing of Saud when he risked his throne last month by ordering out the British-led Egyptian government of Suleiman Nabulsi. Hussein accused Egypt and Syria of aiding his enemies in the crisis, which he finally overcame by martial law under martial law and ordering widespread arrests.

Egyptian foreign minister, Samir Rifai, said in Amman Tuesday that his government is pressing Syria and Egypt to shape good their promise to join Saudi Arabia in replacing the British-financed subsidy Jordan cancelled in February.

Said has put up his share of the promised $26,000,000, but Egypt and Syria have not yet ratified the agreement.

Czech Soldiers Will Be Taught Dancing Manners

PRAGUE (CP) — Czechoslovak soldiers will be taught dancing and ballroom manners following girls' complaints about heavily shod boots and lightly tripped the army newspaper Obrana Lidu announces.

The girls wrote to newspapers complaining that the soldiers would merely "stamp" from the end of the hall when they wanted a dance.

And the many soldiers danced inexpertly in boots, the girls added.

Extravagant dances like the officially denounced "rock 'n' roll" are barred from the dancing lessons.

Buckinghouse Union Guards Against Graft

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian convention of the United Packinghouse Workers of America has taken steps to prevent graft and corruption, as exposed in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in the United States, from occurring in the ranks of the UPWA in Canada.

Representing 22,000 Canadian union members, 250 delegates to day proposed a resolution asking that an estimated statement of the salaries and expenses of all Canadian UPWA officials be published in an official union publication.

Because such financial figures are available in Canada, the resolutions committee suggested that the matter be referred to the next international convention.

Delegates sent the committee out to draft a resolution containing their demand for presentation to the international convention. The new resolution was expected to be placed before the delegates today.

Graham Opens New York Drive

NEW YORK (CP) — To the strains of Blessed Assurance, Billy Graham steps before the spotlights tonight to begin a six-weeks appeal to the conscience of New Yorkers. His crusade, in the planning and preparation for more than two years, opens at Madison Square Garden.

It will be the evangelist's first full-scale effort in the world's greatest city, where nearly 60 per cent of the 8,000,000 population don't participate in any church.

As in many Graham campaigns, the theme music to set the mood before Graham takes the platform will be from the old hymn, Blessed Assurance, chorused by a choir of 1,500.

EISENHOWER FAILS TO QUIET BUDGET CRITICS

Is No Cut-Rate Price For Security, He Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A verbal attack against the administration budget continued today after President Eisenhower told the American people it would be "a gamble with the safety of our country" to make any great spending reduction in the face of Russia's atomic might.

The budget critics in Congress agreed with the president on the need for strong national defence, but still differed on the over-all number of dollars needed to run the government.

Fresh Senate committee cuts were voted just a day after President Eisenhower took to the air.

"There is no cut-rate price for security," Eisenhower said in a television-radio address Thursday night. He said Russia is capable of "the supreme folly" of trying to destroy the free world if her rulers think they can win. A big and military power is needed to dissuade them.

GUESTS PRESTIGE

It was a speech in which the president put his popularity to a direct test and his political prestige on the line in an effort to halt the congressional "whittling" attack on his $71,800,000,000 spending program for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Criticism continued to come, however, from some members of Eisenhower's own party. For example, Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California said Eisenhower had "ably outlined the magnitude of the budget problem," but added:

"Within the next few weeks Congress will constructively demonstrate how at least $3,000,000,000 can be saved without any damage to the essential defence requirements of the nation."

But a Republican, Senator Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, said the Congress should "support" and the Congress, will support, as it is, Eisenhower's "determination not to gamble with the strength of our nation."

Egyptian Pilot In Czech Plane Lands in Austria

VIENNA Reuters)—A Czechoslovak military plane flown by an Egyptian landed Tuesday at nearby Schwechat airfield when it ran out of fuel.

The Egyptian pilot, identified as Abdel Hamid Chenawy, 36, asked to be allowed to return to Czechoslovakia.

Austrian police have been questioning the pilot. The forced landing shows definitely that Egyptian pilots are being trained in Czechoslovakia, observers said.

The plane was of a Communist MiG type and was armed with two machine-guns and a cannon.

Wooing for June 10 Election Is More Ardent Every Day

By CP STAFF WRITER

The wooing for the June 10 federal election grows ardent. Take, for example, these were words of allure for every ear.

Take taxes. Social Credit Leader Solon Low said the Liberal federal government last year took $500,000,000 more in taxes from Canadians than was necessary. This excess, he added in a CBC television broadcast, could have been used to cut taxes 30 per cent.

Or turn to agriculture. Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker, opening his western tour, said in Portage la Prairie, Man., that the government is doing nothing while the United States, with its giveaway program going wide open, invades Canada's wheat markets "with almost ruthless abandon."

On the same subject, Prime Minister St. Laurent told a Guelph audience that the U.S. program, while very troublesome, should be a temporary problem only." American authorities were showing signs of retreat from their stubborn attitude, he added.

Canada was still selling the equivalent of "more than an average crop each year," but because of bumper prairie crops had some left over.

For those of prophetic bent, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell told a Toronto meeting of packinghouse workers the day will come when both Canada and the U.S. are governed by parties with the ideas and ideals of his party.

Elsewhere, Fisheries Minister Sinclair said in New Westminster, B.C., that he's not at odds with Trade Minister Howe over federal policy on Columbia River development. Mr. Howe Monday interpreted an earlier Sinclair statement as meaning Canada would provide financial help only for public development.

"I wouldn't have gone quite so far myself," said Mr. Howe. Commented Mr. Sinclair: "I didn't say there wouldn't be help if it were privately developed."

External Affairs Minister Pearson in Vancouver touched on the international suicide of E. Herbert Norman, former Canadian ambassador to Egypt. "I hope his death will not become an election issue. So far as I am concerned it won't."

Saskatchewan's CCF Premier Douglas proposed in Oshawa that, as a means of curbing inflation, government allocation of strategic materials for private industry and excess profits tax be imposed, but not so stringently as during the Second World War.

Deadly Radioactive Tube Found in Swamp Near Mine

BLIND RIVER, Ont. (CP) — A search with geiger counters through a swamp at Nordic Lake Tuesday located the highly dangerous radioactive tube missing from the Northspan Uranium Mines property since May 6.

Sgt. J. E. Bourgeois, head of the provincial police here said searchers came within 10 feet of the tube lying on swampy ground, but it is considered so dangerous the operators will be called to install a shield could be obtained.

The search was carried out by workers from Isotope Products Ltd., owners of the tube, and Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. Sgt. Brennan said radiation from the tube was strong enough to produce response from a geiger counter at a distance of one-eighth of a mile.

The tube, containing tridium 192 said to be capable of causing death to anyone exposed too long to its radiation, was found near the rear of the Eastern Electric Company warehouse on Lake Nemin, about 6 miles east of here.

A general alarm was spread through a wide area after the tube was found missing from the trunk of a car belonging to a researcher from the Isotope Products Ltd. The truck in the car had been forced open and the tube removed from its protective lead shield.

Hospitals were rushed with supplies of radiation burns which, Sgt. Brennan said, would show up within a week to 10 days of the time of exposure to the 3½ - by one - quarter inch tube. It contained a "pill" of the radioactive isotope.

The tube are generally used to take x-ray-like pictures of steel castings and weldings in mine construction.

Quebec Objects To Reporters' Trial Testimony

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec attorney-general's department again Tuesday objected to the testimony of three newspaper men during a hearing of a Supreme Court action by the Witnesses of Jehovah against Premier Duplessis in his capacity as attorney-general.

The newspaper men were called by the religious sect Monday to testify on debate carried on when a provincial bill, which the sect wants annulled on grounds it is discriminatory, was passed three years ago.

The reporters—Russel Gilleece of the Montreal Gazette, Henri Letarte of Quebec Le Soleil and Callixte Dumas of Quebec L'Action Catholique — testified that they remembered hearing the Witnesses of Jehovah mentioned during the debate but could not recall clearly any of the speeches.

Objection to their testimony Tuesday was made under reservation after the attorney - general's department objected that it would be hearsay.

The sect claims the bill, Number 38, is discriminatory because it restrains the sect's activities. The bill prohibits distribution of publications containing "abusive or insulting attacks against religious beliefs or practices."

The hearing is continuing.

NEW CONCEPTS OF WARFARE SEEN IN COMING BLASTS

Possibility of Rain May Cause Delay

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nevada (AP)—Three important next steps in atomic testing will be taken in the United States series scheduled to open Thursday.

But the possibility of rain or a cloud ceiling has posed a threat of postponement for the planned predawn blast.

Rain drenched the usually dry desert testing ground Tuesday, and dark clouds covered the area 70 miles northwest of Las Vegas during the night. Detonation of a comparatively small atomic device will launch what is described as "the newest extensive test of tests ever held in Nevada in number of shots or length of time."

Size of the atomic device to be exploded from a tower Thursday, if the weather permits, was announced as "one-half of nominal." That would release energy equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT, or roughly half the power of the wartime atomic bombs which ruined the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

DISCLOSE PLANS

Pre-blast briefing of reporters by nuclear scientists and military experts disclosed these plans for the summer series of experiments:

1. The first air-to-air rocket with an atomic warhead will be fired.

2. The proposed infantry of the atomic age will be tested for the first time.

2. Pigs, the largest animals ever flown in a guided missile test here, will be used.

The rocket will be fired late in the series, which is to end Sept. 1. It will be loosed from a manned aircraft.

The infantry manoeuvre, scheduled for Aug. 25, will involve three new concepts of ground warfare, based on a proposed new unit—battle group. The army plans to use 1,400 men from Fort Lewis, Wash., in the forthcoming test.

NEW CONCEPTS

The new concepts are: Establishment of a defence against nuclear attacks, mobility by air and supply by air.

In this manoeuvre the battle group, with its own air and ground forces and equipment, within 24 hours, a protection against an atomic weapon or missile or artillery size.

Then 30 military observers from NATO countries will watch the tests.

One of the shots will be fired in a tunnel bored into the side of a mountain. Purpose of this is to avoid radioactive fall-out and to collect radioactive debris from the tunnel.

Revolt in Haiti Reported Crushed

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) Police and troops today claimed control over all rebellious areas of Haiti and said they destroyed "down with the government" demonstrations have ceased.

The seven-man executive council currently ruling the Negro Caribbean republic warned that all attempts to overthrow it would fail and promised that "free elections" will be carried out June 6.

Ontario Govt. Will Unveil Plaque To Mohawk Chief at Tyendinaga

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will unveil a plaque honoring dedicated to a Mohawk Indian chief who became a respected physician, a high-degree Mason, an Orangeman and the first supreme chief ranger of the Independent Order of Foresters.

The chief was Oronhyatekha who "rendered outstanding service to his people and his remarkable ability and integrity became widely recognized in the mid-19th century across Southern Ontario.

The plaque will be dedicated in ceremonies at the Tyendinaga Indian reserve near Deseronto. Guests will form part of the annual celebration of the landing of the loyal Mohawks on the Bay of Quinte in 1796 after the American Revolution.

Scheduled to attend are Indian chiefs, church and government officials and members of the Ontario archaeological and historic sites board. The board chairman is W. H. Cranston of Midland.

Oronhyatekha was born on the Six Nations reserve near Brantford in 1841. He attended the University of Toronto and in 1860 was picked by the Six Nations to make a goodwill presentation address to the touring Prince of Wales. The prince was so impressed that he invited the Mohawk to Britain where the latter studied medicine under Sir Daniel Wilson, one of the greatest teachers of the day.

Oronhyatekha took his degree in medicine at Napanee and London, Ont., where he was subsequently appointed to the staff. Orangemen and the Foresters. He was picked to head the latter organization in 1881.

In 1876, he was elected president of the grand council of chiefs of the Six Nations. He was one of the best rifle shots in the country and represented Canada at the first competition for the Wimbledon Cup in Britain in 1871.

Removing Bodies From Cold Peak Held Too Risky

Mount Slesse Won't Yield Victims of TCA Tragedy

CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP) — Cold, grey Mount Slesse may not yield its dead.

All but given up for the present is the attempt to bring out the bodies of the 62 persons killed Dec. 29 in Canada's biggest aviation disaster when a Trans-Canada Air Lines North Star crashed. It had left for Calgary but turned back to Vancouver with engine trouble.

The men most intimately connected with the search for the wreckage said Tuesday the undertaking is too risky.

The mountaineers, RCAF air-rescue experts, and RCMP said that Mount Slesse's 7,080-foot peak will not be disturbed. Its crumbling 5-foot ledge could well carry down the living with the dead.

It was after mountaineers made an on-the-spot inspection of this ledge Tuesday—with its tragic debris, partial limbs, baggage fragments and engine pieces—that they announced their verdict. RCMP and RCAF spokesmen agreed.

CAME AT INQUIRY

The formal statements came at a coroner's inquiry conducted in the police station here by provincial police.

Dr. Lionel Beyfus, provincial coroner, said the inquiry will be fired. "It is not the public hearing, "but not one person of the 62.

Dr. Beyfus' attorney-general's department is concerned and wants to bring the remains out if humanly, even superhumanly, possible."

The inquiry will continue.

Paddy Sherman, a mountain climber and Vancouver Province reporter, testified it was too hazardous at present to get "one single identifiable" body out of the wreck. He didn't think it possible that there were large enough remains of one person to make positive identification.

Another climber, Ray Mason, an electrical engineer, said the Unicorn snow mass is too unstable. It was avalanching when he was there, he said, and is softening to lower levels but Sherman said the high ledge "is the safest place to leave" and the victims are believed scattered among deep crevasses on the slope — parts—is crumbling and could slide away. It had been loose before the made descent to the shattering impact of the headon crash and explosion.

The mountaineers were supported by an RCMP spokesman Sergeant Ray Hall, Chilliwack veteran search master for numerous plane hunts. He said the answer is "watching and waiting. The elements will decide."

All suggested possible shocks should be made and another attempt could be started after the end of July to bring the remains out.

But it appeared to be one more grisly victory for forbidding Mount Slesse.

PASSES PLAN

HAMILTON (CP)—City council Tuesday night passed a second five-year capital improvements program providing $40,000,000 for public works between now and 1962. Projects planned include a new $8,000,000 sewage plant and connections to the new Burlington skyway.

Monkey Caught After Plaguing City 2 Months

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — They finally caught Mike, the monkey which had been annoying North Philadelphia residents for the last two months.

Richard Guions had his breakfast interrupted when Mike came bounding in through an open window Tuesday. Police trapped the monkey in a kitchen cabinet after he had knocked over crockery, started an automatic washer and opened the refrigerator during the chase.

No one knows who owns Mike but residents of the area agree he's been a nuisance. One of the most persistent complainers, police said, is a woman neighbor who claims the monkey sneaked into her barroom and stole potato chips.

DIES ON HONEYMOON

KITCHENER (CP)—A former football beauty queen died on her honeymoon Tuesday in an auto crash in Florida.

As Joan Hilker, Mrs. William Davidson, 20 was elected Miss Dutchmen in the 1955 Grey Cup beauty contest. She was married last August.

Her husband, driver of the car which collided with a truck near Deland, Fla., is in hospital in deep shock.

Doing Stunts at 1,000 MPH.

MELUN-VILLAROCHE, France (AP) — France showed off Europe's fastest plane Tuesday, so far as is known the Russians have nothing comparable—and the slowest plane in the world.

The slowest plane showed a supersonic fighter which can do tricks at 1,000 miles an hour, breaks rocket engines and the world's only guaranteed crash-proof helicopter.

It was all part of a French aviation industry demonstration for foreign correspondents, who were brought to this hitherto-secret base east of Paris.

The Trident, a jet which makes 1,500 miles an hour officially and considerably more actually, demonstrated over the field at supersonic speed. A needle-nosed twin-jet with rocket-assisted climb, it is recognized as the fastest non-American plane west of the Iron Curtain. It is not as fast as Russian Bell experimental planes, but considered better than anything the West has.

The Super-Mystere, incorporating improvements over the experimental model's predecessor in the Israeli campaign against Egypt last fall, swooped down over the field with a vicious double "boom" and smashed through the sound barrier. While flying at more than 600 miles an hour it manoeuvred and did other aerobatics.

The slow plane, the Hurel-Dubois 34, is a photo-reconnaissance craft. It needs only 300 feet to take off at its normal weight and carries a glider-style wing so it can land short. It can cruise at 90 miles an hour.

The designers also say that the Gline helicopter, the first all-jet hover-plane, cannot crash. The reason given is that the motor is connected only indirectly to the rotor blades. This lets the pilot glide safely down with the rotors moving only by force of the air.

ALDERMAN ARGUE NOT OPPOSED TO HOCKEY TEAM

As noted in the story Alderman Argue voted against the recommendation for the Arena Commission to again operate the hockey team next winter but the vote was taken following an unsuccessful amendment by the alderman asking for the matter to be deferred until a full financial report on the arena covering hockey club activities was received by council.

Council defeated Ald. Argue's amendment and then carried the motion calling for Arena Commission operation of the hockey team next season.

Creel Census Of Pickerel Will Be Taken

Inaugural steps in a wide study of the yellow pickerel of the Bay of Quinte will be taken by officials of the Department of Tweed District Department of Lands and Forests, it was announced today.

The study stems from the fact that very little is known about this fish which is important both from recreational and commercial standpoints.

A prime requisite of the study will be the collection of such basic information as age composition of the catch, rate of growth, food and feeding habits, sex ratio, the age at which the fish mature and fecundity.

This information can be obtained only by studies and examinations of the fish themselves. In order to establish reasons for the variability in fishing success of anglers, the exact nature and influence of angling pressure must be ascertained.

To obtain this information, department officials will appeal to anglers through the medium of a field census.

The census will be carried out by a small crew of department-al field assistants who will patrol the bay every day by boat interviewing anglers and guides. Information will be sought on the size of the catch, time spent in fishing and particulars on the method. In addition they will ask to handle the fish in order to make measurements for age determination, and if agreeable to the fishermen, they will clean the fish for internal examination.

Other duties of the census workers will include observations of water conditions and regular carrying out of water tests.

Fishing guides because of their long experience with fishing grounds and observations on the life history and behavior of the pickerel, will be one of the chief sources of the workers' information. Department officials will ask the guides to co-operate by keeping careful records in a special creel census diary.

Another important source of information will be the frequent aircraft flights over the bay to make boat counts. These counts will shed light on the distribution of angling pressure over the bay area during the summer.

This summer's program will be of an exploratory nature. The Department is confident that many more detailed and useful information will be obtained this year, but some objectives will take years to attain. The first program will also show the scope of the problem and should furnish a guide to future expansion and intensification of certain aspects of the study.

Child Dies At Mayo Clinic After Operation

DESERONTO — Residents of this community were saddened Tuesday with word from the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., that two-year-old Danny Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bell, of Deseronto, had died there after a few hours after an operation to correct a hole in his heart.

The little boy had been under surgery for correction of the heart ailment yesterday morning but died early in the afternoon.

Danny's heart condition was made public by his parents late last autumn by his physician, Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto, who took a leading part in originating the Canadian Legion sponsored "Army Bed Week Appeal" started to provide funds to assist the parents in the cost of the needed heart operation.

Possible New Industry For Deseronto Mentioned By Liberal Candidate

Possibility that a new industry may in the near future locate in Deseronto was indicated last night to close to 100 persons attending a Liberal rally held in the Lions Club hall.

The rally was held in the interests of Hastings South Liberal candidate Frank S. Follwell and was addressed by Hon. Milton Gregg, V.C., Federal minister of Labor.

Both the candidate and Deseronto mayor, Dr. Dan C. McVicker as meeting chairman, referred to the possibility of the new industry locating in Deseronto, probably at the Mohawk air field west of the town.

"We are hopeful of a new airport building being built at Deseronto," Mr. Follwell told the gathering but Mr. William Prince and I have been working for some time to bring the industry into the area and we are hopeful it will locate at Deseronto."

Mr. Follwell did not elaborate on the nature of the prospective industry, but Mayor Dr. McVicker said that it had been assured by Senator Fraser at Trenton Monday morning that the new industry definitely would locate in Deseronto.

Mr. Follwell referred to the former industrial activity of the town and said that the Sir John Graves seaway and the availability of cheap electrical power would encourage another ideal site for industry.

"Deseronto is on the doorstep of the St. Lawrence Seaway and with a field of industry at the Bay of Quinte boats of heavy draught could dock."

REFERS TO RECORD

The candidate referred to the Liberal administration of the past four years and referred to Prime Minister St. Laurent's record as the country of Canada.

He declared that the record of the Liberal administration should be returned to power with even a greater majority "so that we have a good government too long," he said.

Mr. Follwell referred to what he termed "wild promises" being made by the new progressive conservative leader John Diefenbaker.

"Mr. Diefenbaker is promising everything in different parts of Canada," he said. "But he can well afford to make promises, knowing so well that he will never be able to fulfill them."

He referred to his own record of service to the district and said that new post offices had been built at Bath and at Millbridge with other government structures being planned for other centres in the riding.

"I have worked for the best interest of the riding as a whole and if you want me back at Ottawa vote for Frank S. Follwell on June 10th," he said.

Guest speaker Milton Gregg, who later last night addressed an audience at the Victoria Theatre in Tweed, said that in his travels across Canada he had sensed a great feeling of inspiration and encouragement with respect to the election outcome.

"This hasn't been evidenced by big crowds at election meetings, but by much thoughtful interest in the matters concerning Canada."

WOMEN TAKING INTEREST

Commenting on the turnout of women at the meeting, Mr. Gregg noted that the fair sex were taking an increasing interest in national affairs as they also are in the labor field.

To make things more equal for women in the labor market, Mr. Gregg noted that his government had brought in legislation providing for equal pay for equal work for women. In the federal civil service vacancies were now filled exactly on the same basis as everyone else.

The speaker referred to unemployment insurance, pensions for the disabled and plans for the rehabilitation of disabled workers brought in by his government.

Hospital insurance had been a difficult problem to work out but would prove a great boon to people in the small income field. "It will kill the fear of a great load of debt in case of serious illness. That fear will be greatly lessened by the work of the Liberal government and Health Minister, Hon. Paul Martin."

The Liberal government had also worked out plans to assist in older employees getting gainful employment. Employers were being urged to employ older persons while in the civil service 65 was no longer considered a compulsory retirement age.

The speaker defended the Liberal government's Dominion-Provincial tax plan which he said was the life-blood of the Maritime provinces. His government took the view that the wealth of the nation should be distributed equally throughout the provinces.

DEPENDS SUEZ STAND

Mr. Gregg also upheld External Affairs Minister Lester Pearson and the Liberal government for the stand taken in the Suez crisis. He said the Suez situation was now less tense because of the carrying out of Mr. Pearson's suggestion for a United Nations emergency police force.

And he denied the election campaign claim of the Progressive Conservative party of arrogance on the part of Liberal leaders. "Prime Minister St. Laurent was one of the most-looked-up-to men in the world today," he said.

Outlining the duties of a member of the House of Commons, Mr. Gregg said Frank S. Follwell had all the qualifications of a riding representative.

"A member must be able and willing to serve," he said, "but there is a third qualification — that of determination — and Mr. Follwell has the determination to serve."

"I am sure that the people of this riding are appreciative of Mr. Follwell's service."

Dr. McVicker commended the Liberal government and Hon. Paul Martin for the federal health insurance plan and said this would be a big financial relief to many people. He criticized the Ontario government of Premier Leslie Frost for its failure to provide full medical care for pensioners, as he said it claimed to do, and also for holding back in joining the national health plan.

Also heard at the Deseronto meeting was Harold J. Armstrong, ex-Belleville alderman and past president of the C.N.R. employees association.

Urging support of Mr. Follwell in the forthcoming election, Mr. Armstrong was high with his praise for the Liberal government in passing legislation beneficial to Canadians.

Election promises sometimes failed to materialize but actions of the Liberal government would speak for them.

SPEARED TROUT, FINED

MEAFORD (CP)—Clarke Carlton, 20, of Thornbury, Tuesday was fined a total of $126 with costs for taking 19 rainbow trout out of season and by a means other than angling. Conservation officers testified they raided Carlton's home one day before the season opened and found the fish. The frozen trout, some bearing spear marks, were exhibited in court.

BCI Rifle Team Wins Major Duffy Trophy

The rifle team representing the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School eked out a close victory over their other competitors in the first annual competition for the Duffy Trophy in the Belleville Armouries range.

The BCI team which shot last of the four teams came through in the clutch to nose out the Port Hope High School team by a scant eight points. The scores were slightly lower all around than the teams usually turn in but this was due in some degree to the fact that they were firing strange rifles and also were not allowed to make any corrective adjustment to the sights, and the rifles were note equipped with slings. The shoot was designed to see how quickly and efficiently the cadets could adapt themselves to these strange rifles and ammunition.

The Regt. signal officer, Lt. J. A. Smith and members of the Belleville Rifle Club helped to demonstrate the latest signal equipment, and the visiting cadets were allowed to try their hand with equipment while they were not firing. Assoc. Wants Longer Operation Of Canal Locks

Her Worship, Mayor Jane Forrester, Alderman William Argue and the secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, Robert G. Hamilton, attended a meeting of Zone 3 of the Lake Ontario Development association in Deseronto last night.

Mr. Hamilton said this morning that a resolution was passed in keeping with the thinking of the other zones in the association, that the hours of operation of the locks in the Trent Canal system be extended. The same resolution called for the locks to remain open longer in the season. The resolution will be forwarded to the board of directors of the L.O.D.A. for consideration and, if passed, it will then be presented to the Department of Transport.

The general manager of the LODA, D. W. Kingdon, reported on the association's financial status and indicated its financial position is excellent.

Reeve H. W. Rose of Frankford reviewed his trip to the Cleveland Sportsman's Show. A number of other members remarked on the success of the Cleveland show and the New York Sportsmen's Show.

A number of representatives reported that results were being felt from their efforts at these shows. Mr. Hamilton has received many inquiries from people interested in vacationing in Hastings County.

A committee was formed last night to investigate the possibilities of compiling a brochure to promote side trips for vacationers in this part of Ontario.

Says Canadians Overtaxed by Half a Billion

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Solon Low says Canadians were overtaxed by $500,000,000 in the 1956-57 fiscal year by Prime Minister St. Laurent's Liberal government.

He said if this amount had not been collected it would have been possible for Finance Minister Harris to cut income taxes by 30 per cent. He added that the present heavy federal tax load is seriously interfering with the growth of Canadian investment savings.

The statements were contained in the text of a recorded speech issued to the press before delivery and broadcast over the CBC English-language television network originating in Toronto.

Mr. Low, who was in Edmonton and Vegreville, Alta., Tuesday, said taxation is the real issue of the present election campaign. However, the Liberal government had failed to give Canadians a satisfactory answer to its failure to reduce taxes.

"NON-ESSENTIAL"

He said the figure of $500,000,000 represents the government's revenue surplus and an additional $106,000,000 allocated for "non-essential purposes." He did not elaborate on the $106,000,000 figure.

"Actually the surplus would be substantially higher if some of the questionable spending facilitated by excessive revenue had been halted," he said.

"Our national government is trying to convince the people that this excessive taxation was necessary for our own good, that the money which the taxpayers had earned and which, was rightfully theirs, was taken away from them in order to prevent inflation."

The implication was that the government thinks it won't even ate inflation if it spends the money but it surely will if it is left with the people to do with as they want. This argument is nonsense; people are more likely to save the money than the government is."

2,000-Mile Canoe Trip to North Planned

A young adventurer will leave Belleville Monday to begin a 2,000 mile canoe trip with Fort Albany, on the shore of James Bay, as his destination.

Ronald Vandervelde, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Vandervelde, 144 McDonald Ave., spends his spare time in the outdoors, camping and canoeing. He gained canoeing experience during a similar trip in the Northwest Territories not too many years ago.

A friend of his will drive Ron as far as Waubaushene, Ontario. He will be equipped with his 16-foot wooden strip canoe and a month's supplies. The canoe, weighing 85 pounds, is equipped with a small sail.

From this town on the shores of Georgian Bay he will begin his journey by water. The route he plans to follow will take him along Georgian Bay, through the North Channel and Lake Superior to Lake Nipigon. From here the trip will proceed into Pikitigual river and Ogoki River and then into the Albany River to Fort Albany. Ron estimates he will reach the end of his trip by late summer.

The idea for this canoe trip began to take form last fall. Ron's parents, not being avid campers, do not share his optimistic spirit concerning the lengthy trip. He realizes, however, there are dangers involved. He said he will have to watch for heavy squalls on lakes, since Georgian Bay and Lake Superior are very unpredictable.

In the line of equipment the young traveller will take knives, map, compass, waterproof matches and a lean-to type tent, which he made himself. He will, however, mostly dehydrated foods since the canned foods would be too bulky. Clothing will include heavy shirts, a doeskin vest, moccasins and a pair of heavy boots he will wear when he portages in the river areas. He will also have the other necessary camping equipment.

When asked if he planned to take a companion with him, Ron explained the only reason he has planned to travel alone is because so far he has not found anyone who would be interested in a trip of this kind.

Ron recently read about four boys from the United States, who are travelling by canoe through the Great Lakes. He thinks there is a good chance their paths may cross.

After arriving in Fort Albany, Ron hopes to find work and remain there during the winter months. Interested in a writing career, he plans to record his experiences in a book some day.

'ENTITLED TO BENEFIT OF COMPETITION'

Seven wise men have held that "the public is entitled to the benefits of free competition."

The seven men are judges of the Supreme Court of Canada and they have upheld a combines conviction against seven fine paper mills and 21 merchants.

The companies contended the conviction was invalid because the Crown had not proved that their agreement was detrimental to the public. The judges specifically rejected this argument. Mr. Justice Kellock wrote that: "The anti-combines statute proceeds upon the footing that the preventing or lessening of competition is in itself an injury to the public. It is not concerned with public injury or public benefit from any other standpoint." The Canadian Press reports that Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin and Justices I. C. Hand and Gerard Fatleux concurred in Mr. Justice Kellock's reasons. Mr. Justice Taschereau, asserting that the public is entitled to free competition, added "the prohibitions of the act cannot be evaded by good motives."

One might expect advocates of free enterprise to applaud this decision. Actually, though, there appears to be fairly widespread support amongst businessmen for the companies' contention that a combine should not be an offence unless it is proven that the combine is detrimental to the public. During the war years, government regulations, made imperative by circumstances, proved highly effective in promoting efficiency and stability in some fields of economic activity. Few businessmen welcomed government controls, but they reasoned that, if they could themselves establish similar controls through agreements, they could enjoy the benefits of regulation without any of the attendant dangers of undue control by bureaucrats.

That competition can produce chaotic conditions in an industry and that these conditions can be harmful not only to the companies involved but to the public interest would appear to be fully proven by past experiences, particularly during the depression years.

To argue, though, that combines which have as their aim the stabilization of prices and production should be permitted is to overlook two facts. Firstly, in most cases the various factors in any economic activity are so complex as to make it extremely difficult to determine whether the public interest is harmed by such an agreement. Even if the agreement is not detrimental to the public when it is first established, who can say whether the elimination of free competition may not rob the public of benefits which it would eventually have received?

The whole theory of the free enterprise system is that free competition is the best method of promoting efficiency, matching supply to demand and reducing costs. That the system sometimes inflicts hardships on individuals and firms cannot be denied or overlooked. The difficulty is to suggest any efficient system which would not, at times, inflict even greater hardships. Any contention that combines designed to benefit the public would provide such a system lacks proof. In any event, those who urge such regulation ought to recognize that, if free competition is to be curbed, the public is eventually going to demand that these limitations be imposed and administered by its representatives, that is to say by governments.

The choice would appear to be between complete freedom, unhampered by any price-fixing agreements in an industry, or government control.

There is little doubt which system would be preferable to most businessmen. They would choose free enterprise. They only endanger their cause by urging limitation of this freedom for their own special benefit.

A MATTER OF VIEWPOINT

There lay a pile of editorial pages torn from other papers. Glancing through them, without noticing from what papers they were torn, we were stopped by an article headed "Roadside Drinking in Eastern Ontario."

The article was credited to the Guelph Mercury. We read it through. We discovered no indication that its remarks were based on conditions outside the Mercury's own district.

How had the editor who had clipped that Guelph editorial come to make the mistake of believing the Mercury was referring to conditions in Eastern Ontario.

Then we noted the name of the paper on the editorial page. Port Arthur News Chronicle. Of course!

Most of us forget that Ontario stretches far to the west of Windsor. To a Port Arthur resident, Guelph is situated in Eastern Ontario.

NO SALESMAN

Though I very those who have the gift of selling
And the way they get the buyer's wicket,
Though I've promised that I'd try, it's truth I'm telling:
I have never sold a single raffle ticket.

When it comes to raffle tickets,
as I view it,
'Tis a job that calls for brains and persistence,
So I leave it to the fellows who can do it,
I'm no good at overcoming sales resistance.

Should I ever ask the druggist or the grocer:
"It's a raffle on an auto. Take a chance, sir!"
I should suffer from embarrassment if, "No, sir!"
Should be the blunt and loud and most emphatic answer.

They tell me there is really nothing to it.
Sales resistance? Any gib of a tongue can lick it!
But, I leave it to the fellows who can do it.
I could never learn to sell a raffle ticket.

Industries Blown Up?

Toronto Globe and Mail

In his report to President Eliot Roosevelt on his visit to Africa last month, Vice-President Nixon had this to say concerning race prejudice in the United States and its effect among African peoples:

"As a result of skilful propaganda primarily inspired by the enemies of democracy, a considerably distorted picture of the treatment of minority races in the United States is being effectively presented in the countries I visited.

"Every instance of prejudice in this country is blown up in such exaggerated fashion as to create a completely false impression of the attitudes and practices of the great majority of the American people. The result is irreparable damage to the cause of freedom, which is at stake.

"We must continue to strike at the roots of this problem. We cannot talk equality to the peoples of Africa and Asia and practise inequality in the United States."

In Birmingham, Alabama, one of the last words a young Negro was convicted of burglary after he was caught breaking into the house of a white family. He was sentenced to death in the electric chair.

In Longview, Texas, the same day, a white man was acquitted that he and a friend had gone on a "raid" in the Negro section of the town, in which a negro was killed they had fired nine shots into a Negro home. A sixteen-year-old Negro boy was killed, and two girls were wounded. The jury failed to find anyone guilty of murder without m[illegible] and the judge [illegible] him off w[illegible] five-year suspended sentence.

Temperate Hospitality

Financial Post

How to make your guests drink less is an ancient problem, dating from the days when Socrates and his cronies held symposia. Today it besets young and old, rich and poor.

A recent article had two suggestions. One is that the available liquor should be prominently displayed in cut-glass Wishard decanters which appear to hold a lot but in fact won't accommodate more than one-third of a bottle each. The other is to serve in glasses which cause a similar illusion. Both ideas are smart, prodigy glasses with seemingly solid bottoms but deep bases which magnify the contents.

The idea is that guests, noticing how quickly the liquor goes and the glasses are drained, will have twinges of conscience, tell themselves to slow up.

These are excellent tricks so far as they go, but they are not complete repertory. Some guests are without conscience. Others are shortsighted and/or astigmatic. Still others are exploratory types who, at the first whiff of a shortage, go off singly to the kitchen to investigate the dining room, kitchen, basement, garage, flower pots and interiors of refrigerators.

Even a small covey of persons who are not conscience-stricken, short-sighted and exploratory can wreck the best-laid plans for a temperate party.

Indeed there may be no solution except to serve desserts courses as inviting everybody to watch TV, bringing the children down to sing carols or play the piano, setting the house on fire or, perhaps the most sensational act, having in stock only two, four or six dozen per person and firmly impounding when it's gone that it's gone.

The last expedient involves admitting that you really don't possess a cellar but it is said to work with miraculous speed and efficiency.

Some Traits Of Rich Men

St. Thomas Times-Journal

The magazine recently published a list of the ten richest men in the United States. Their wealth ranged from $700 million down to a few hundred million.

The writer, Margaret Parton, asked—What have they in common besides wealth and fame?

Her answer: Few have ever been seriously ill, most have indefatigable millionaire vitality, most are loners and tend to carry their real business in their hats. All are said to have vision and an ability to size up men. All but one have simply trained or taught by their fathers, when they first enjoyed the world of real money. Most of them freely spread their wealth; none is a robber baron.

Color Fights Accidents

Pembroke Observer

In a well-run industrial plant it is likely you would find the tip and bottom rungs of a flight of stairs painted bright yellow — not as a ray of sunshine in the workers' lives, but because yellow paint has a high visibility, and is part of the safety color code used in modern plants to warn of accident hazards.

Homemakers could take a tip from industry in putting color to work on danger spots around the house. The cellar stairs, for instance, are often narrow and seldom have a hand rail. Landings are cluttered with boxes and old carpets, and dad's work clothes hang on pegs along the stair wall. Lighting is often poor.

An industrial plant supervisor would take one look at such a situation and order the obstructions cleared away. Then he would put paint to work in the interests of safety. Ceiling would be white, and walls a light color to reflect as much light as possible.

Light paint on the stair treads themselves would not be serviceable, but a painful serious accident could be avoided if the top and bottom treads were painted in light colors.

Statistics show that homes, with all their charms, are the places in the world, have a shocking accident record. Homemakers could learn a great deal from safety-conscious industries.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SUCCESS OF OTHERS

We should learn from the success of others. We should not envy them, but congratulate them for the example they have set for us. Much of the success that any of us gains is the product of others. We read biographies to learn the rules of success that others have won. To envy and be jealous of the success and happiness of others is to sow bitterness in our own souls. To envy the success of others can point us all to greater heights and nobler aims.

Very few of us take advantage of the fact that there are people around us all the time, but we do not most ignore them, forgetting that much of our time, too, may be influenced by these same people. We can't have too many acquaintances or too many genuine friends. They are our examples, the inspirers of our faith and inventive.

Praise those who are successful. Help them to enjoy their fame. (It's such a vanishing thing!) But get all the lessons you can from that silent, instructional lesson. Success and good news that comes to someone else by joining in. Tell them how fortunate they are—and they are. The news we get to see in them both our failures and successes, so that in praising them we praise ourselves. From our youth we recall memories of those whom we wish we could have imitated, but having bewitched we are glad we didn't. Being ourselves, and a bit of others, is quite sufficient.

Men Not Hep

American Agronauts

The Vancouver Province

What the lure of the spice islands and far Cathay never did, the urgencies of a divided world may do.

The United States Navy and Coast Guard are setting up ships to looking for the Northwest Passage.

They want a practicable channel not now used, specialized craft like Vancouver's Captain Hall Boch which first found a, if not the, passage — not for freighters supplying the Distant Early Warning Line.

And so one of the most prevalent of man's dreams is revived—the dream of the frozen north where in the valley of ice and rocks and the sand-hard snow the farthest Northern Canada there lies hidden a seaway from Atlantic to Pacific.

There are ghosts in that country: the ghosts of men who followed Franklin in a dream in their wooden, wind-driven ships — men like Frobisher and Hudson and Franklin, whose names live on the bay and in channel and in Canadian history. There are, too, but who never found the spot of open water at the end of the Arctic rainbow.

Will modern science be able to succeed where infinite courage failed?

Cream Puff Pioneering

Chicago Tribune

There was an advertisement in the paper the other day inviting the public to enjoy the thing in smokehouses, suitable even for the small apartment. You could read between the lines sociology without learning as much about American life as can be inferred from that one item.

The 1937 model operates electrically and without the necessity of fuel. There are two kind of logs. It consists of a steel tryst with heating coils built in. You lift the top, place your salmon, turkey or whatever, and then lay the lid into the barrel, pour an appropriate quantity of "hickory compound" in the receptacle designated for this substance, cover the barrel with the lightfitting lid, plug her in, and let the electric company do the rest.

Now what does this prove? It proves that great Americans, or, at least, a great many Americans, want to live in both the present and past and future simultaneously present. They want to be pioneers, carve homesteads out of the wilderness road in a sports car, and then come down squires from time to time with a Kentucky rifle, and knowing that a 1937 model can't do that but must set swat him in his trilby, plunged into the wilderness.

For dinner, Mrs. Boone will offer venison or bear steak or perhaps a mess of fish, or both. No need to bother with vegetables, of course, that must be a well prepared green salad and, to top off the meal, a saucer of wholesome wild berries. The venison and bear will be served on the dining room. The dessert will be eaten outdoors, seated on a stump, feeling a little sorry for Daniel Boone, under an electric blanket.

Our youngsters in their space suits spend hours before the television looking at westerns. They are one up on us. We try to live in both the sweaty past and the comfortable present. To that they add the deodorized future.

Battleships Out of Date

Windsor Daily Star

The passing of Britain's capital ships, a phenomenon of the early 20th century, which changed the world's navies, has been confirmed by the Admiralty. Of the big battleships in use, four are to be scrapped, five are to be demilitarized, and the Royal Navy.

Yet this change is less a sign of weakness than of preparation toward new strength and power, in a new dimension. The new capital forces of the future, with their fast guided-missile destroyers, and a cover of 1,000 m.p.h. planes capable of carrying atomic bombs can be a revolutionary as were the dreadnaughts in their day.

Buck Rogers still is some scientific fiction or beyond that. But remember, he's operating relatively in the 25th century, whereas we're still in the matter of fact world of the 20th. And having trouble enough keeping pace with it.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Oh, For Goodness Sake Gran'ma

"It is just not fair. I rush around like mad doing for four people and myself in a seven room house. I give twelve piano lessons a week and play several hours a week for a vocalist, and slide practising for my own recitals. Why can't I be slim and pretty without starving? I have five children of my own (all born at home).

"I have thirteen healthy, active grandchildren that bounce in on gran-ma whenever they feel she might be a little bored. I'd be happy working like a horse at it but for the fact that I'm 5 feet 6 inches tall and weigh 180 lbs. I want to lose 40 pounds. Is there any hope for me?" (Michigan-ite).

Forty pounds! You might possibly lose eight or ten pounds in the course of the year, not fast; but it would ruin your health, good looks, and happiness if you were to reduce even twenty lbs.

A woman of your height and age is loveliest and happiest at 148 to 153 pounds — provided she doesn't succumb to Hollywood ideals.

Muscle weighs more than fat. So the body measurements may be normal or perfect although body weight is not.

Muscle takes up less room than fat. So a lot of people seeking a quick and easy way to reduce on which is always dangerous to health and likely to spoil good looks — might better undertake a sane and wholesome revision of their habits, along these lines:

1. Less riding, more walking.
2. Less sitting, some playing, rolling, tumbling, dancing, skating, swimming, hiking, or other general exercise every day.
3. Less sweets, more fruit, as first and last food every day.
4. No dessert.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

HOW WE DEVELOP ORIGINALITY

Robert Louis Stevenson is said to have developed his remarkable literary style by copying the style of scores of distinguished authors. For some weeks he would try assiduously every day to put himself he had to say into the form used, perhaps, by Dickens or Addison. Then again he would copy Voltaire or Tolstoy. Next he would choose passages from the writings of his own day and try to write with fashion and a critic could not distinguish between his writings and the writings of these his contemporaries.

Raphael did the same thing in art. He served as an apprentice to the technique of any artist that he did hope to copy the technique absolutely.

The result both in the case of Raphael and Stevenson was not that they became mere copiers of others. Out of their slavish attempt to incorporate the style of their own work the best they found in the work of others, there emerged each in his field a technique amazingly original. No one has ever painted just like Raphael, and no one has ever had literary style just like Stevenson. Yet the art of these men was the result of their slavish attempts to copy the best they encountered in common everywhere.

If we are not afraid to learn, the whole world will come forth gladly to lay its treasures at our feet. Everyone has something to teach us, and the man with sharpest eyes, and truest ear, as first and last food every day.

4. No dessert.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The greatest reproach to the advertising profession are those commercials on TV at the conclusion of a boxing match or wrestling program. There was a magnificently staged and directed hour long drama the other night which moved to its climax with a beauty that fairly set your nerves all a-quiver. I venture to say that all over the continent, there was an stillness in a million homes that is the highest tribute to the drama-tist.

In a hush, the final scene ended.

And before those bewitched viewers could draw a breath, there was a blare of trumpets and a loud, brash, pitch-man type of announcer. He told you see at all tall fairs demonstrating paring knives. The contrast with the beauty and stillness of that that preceded the announcement was shocking. The goods he was selling were the product of one of the greatest American industries. I think all would have been millions of homes must have turned away instantly, in a kind of agony. A slap in the face could not have been more disconcerting.

Now, we are not in the production of the drama cost a vast sum of money, with its elaborate staging, direction and TV time on hundreds of stations. But it is unpardonable that such a fine dramatic production should be followed by such a blatant, inartistic, inept, out-of-season sell. It is a crime against the art of the theatre, and the art of television.

It is most improbable that the advertising profession, filled with a shrewd, intelligent men, is unaware of this garish and offensive contrast of business and theatre and sheer tripe. It is unthinkable that they are not aware of and seeking the problem. It could be that the stupidity involved is in the high brass of the sponsor, and the advertising profession is unable to convince them to a more sensible technique

In any case, it is a reproach to the whole advertising profession. I have failed to put over a "hard sell" on their own employers

Must Provide Adequate Educational Opportunity Says Foremen's Club Speaker

"The words of warning sounded by H. G. Wells when he said: 'Human History becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe,' never have had more poignant significance attached to them than they have today when viewed in the light of our fast-moving panorama of national and international developments," said Mr. S. H. Deeks, executive director of the Industrial Foundation on Education, last night to the season's final meeting of the Quinte and District Foremen's Club at the Y.M.C.A.

S. H. DEEKS

The speaker warned that an imbalance in the kind of education that is provided can be just as catastrophic in the destruction of democracy as failure to provide adequate educational opportunity for the youth of Canada compared with the opportunities provided by those nations who pose a threat to Canada's security and progress.

Mr. Deeks is on leave of absence from A. V. Roe Co. Ltd., Toronto, to fulfill his present position with the Foundation, which was created last October. The Toronto aircraft manufacturing plant is developing the CF-105 "Arrow" jet fighter which is first off the production line in 1958.

He asserted that the characteristics which Canadians must develop in their society, to remain free and progressive, are obvious. Canadians must establish economic stability, industrial and commercial, social community, and an adequate military might.

Progress in ensuring economic stability cannot be isolated from Canada's ability to compete in the markets of the world and its ability to compete in these markets is in turn dependent upon the industrial community possessing more and better goods with less manpower effort, in accordance with the latest scientific discoveries and technological advances. These goods must also be produced more economically.

Maintaining a balance of military power demands that Canada be competitive not only in the quantity of military stores and equipment it produces, but in the quality as well.

VICIOUS ENEMY BEYOND

"Poignant significance is added to these considerations," he said, "when we know that not far beyond our borders, in terms of today's speed, lies a vicious, uncompromising enemy, who would forcibly remove our hard-won rights from us and who would have little regard for the dignity of man or for the lives of helpless women and children."

Superimposed upon these considerations is another one of equal importance. Because of the fearful consequences of engaging in war as we have known it in the past, the progressive nations of the world are attempting to accomplish their objectives by influencing the uncommitted areas of the world through economic and technological aid. This again places great emphasis upon the necessity for the utmost development in economic and industrial growth," he said.

Among his accomplishments, Mr. Deeks presented a brief on education to the National Conference on Engineering, Scientific and Technical manpower, which has become an international known document. He also presented a brief on Canada's aviation industry to the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects.

One of the greatest problems in Canada today stems from the fact that the extent which individual families may be able to provide education for their children as well as the necessities of life, is measured by their economic ability. There is no correlation between the economic ability of the family to provide education and the intellectual qualifications of the children of the family to absorb and use of their education.

"What is true of the family is true of the nation," Mr. Deeks said.

He claimed "The most we can hope for under such prevailing circumstances is to continue with our role of the past of being hewers of wood and drawers of water for other progressive nations of the world." The only answer to this critical problem is to invest more capital to develop Canada's human resources and to provide more and better training institutions.

WORKS CLOSE WITH SCHOOLS

Mr. Deeks works close to the provincial government's head of technical training in Ontario secondary schools.

Canada is losing the equivalent of from 25 to 35 per cent of its engineering graduates to the U.S., but this deficit is being overcome by the immigration of an equivalent number of engineers from Western Europe.

"If this source should dry up, and it appears very likely that it will, the demand for our engineers in the U.S. will still exist and there will, no doubt, be greater pressure in an attempt to recruit the graduates from our universities to fill their ranks he predicted.

In 1950 the number of engineers graduating from Canadian universities reached 3,600; by the end of 1956 the number had increased to less than 1,900.

Mr. Deeks revealed a few startling facts and figures which demonstrate the attitudes of Canada, the U.S., and Russia, with regard to university education.

Russia enrolls about 20 people out of each 1,000 of its population in schools of post-secondary nature, about 50 per cent of whom are enrolled in science and technology courses.

In an enrollment of about 15 out of each 1,000 of its population, the U.S. enrolls something less than 11 per cent in engineering courses.

In an enrollment of about five out of each 1,000 of its population, Canada enrolls about one-half of the proportionate number of engineers enrolled in the U.S.

"In other words, in the U.S. they enroll 139 engineers for each 100,000 of their population, and in Canada we enroll about 83, while in Russia they enroll about 313," said the speaker.

Mr. Deeks agreed with a statement made by Dean Cunning of Columbia University, that, "As it stands, nothing can be done to prevent the Russians from gaining on us in scientific and technical manpower at a ratio of two to one. Already we have lost the battle of engineering manpower, at least in numbers."

Friendship B.L. Holds Dinner Meeting

DESERONTO — The Friendship Bowling League of the Lucky Strike lanes held its annual dinner and dance at the Legion hall Saturday evening.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion catered for the supper and provided the meal for about 50 players and friends.

Immediately following the dinner presentation of the various cups and awards was made to the successful team and players by the president, Mrs. Doris Gilligan. She also thanked the members of the league for their co-operation and support.

After the tables were cleared away dancing took place until midnight. Music was supplied by the Dixie Five.

Youth Burned Using Gasoline To Start Fire

PICTON — Use of gasoline on a bonfire resulted in severe burns being suffered by Jimmie Metcalfe, 15, of Milford. He was burning a pile of rubbish and as the fire did not burn well he secured a can of gasoline. When this was thrown on the fire there was an explosion. Metcalfe suffered severe burns on the face and arms and part of his hair was burned. He was able to row across a creek to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Metcalfe who rushed him to town for medical attention.

BARK TORN FROM TREES

Cottagers on the Glenora Road, south-west of Picton, have a first class mystery on their hands. During the past two weeks some animal has been tearing large sections of bark from trees, especially those of the cedar variety. The sections ripped are about two feet from the ground. Rough marks are left on the trunk and a pile of bark at the foot of the trees. The owners fear that this will kill the trees.

There is much speculation as to the cause. Some have suggested a deer rubbing its horns, as a few of them are known to be in the county. Others have suggested a bear after ants, or a beaver. No tracks have been found. It is planned to set some traps in an attempt to catch the marauder which is not human, the owners are sure.

SHIPMENTS HEAVY

Shipment of iron ore from Picton is unusually heavy this season. SS Siadacona loaded 14,635 tons on Saturday and was followed by the SS James Dunn, which took on a cargo of 19,206 tons. On Monday the Lemoyne loaded 15,000 tons. Since the opening of navigation, about 175,000 tons of ore have moved from the Bethlehem Steel Co. docks here to Lackawanna, N. Y. The ore is mined at Marmora and shipped by rail in pellet form.

Sidney Field Station Visited By Naturalists

The Sidney Field Station of the Entomology Laboratory, near Oak Lake, was visited by the Belleville Quinte Field Naturalists' Club on Saturday afternoon when the scene of the first outdoor hike of the season.

The host for the occasion was Mr. Hedley James of the Laboratory personnel who guided the members to points of interest on the property, and explained some of the work already accomplished and some being carried on at present.

Because of the varied terrain, much of interest was seen in a short time. Of note, especially, were experimental plantations of red and Scotch pine and spruce. Some of the wild plants often associated with a more northern locale were found — wintergreen, club moss and ground pine. Of the ferns, the Christmas and Ostrich ferns drew attention. The usual Spring flowers — among them, the large-flowered white trillium, foam-flower or false miterwort, and the true miterwort and the crinkleroot or toothwort-plants that thrive in open, rocky and moist woodlands and in moderately acid soil were in abundance.

Many Spring bird migrants of this time of the month had found their way to open wood clearings and some cameras were in evidence to record snaps of the uncommon towhee, and the rose-breasted grosbeak.

Mr. James was extended the appreciation of the club for the invitation to visit the Station.

Weddings

BROOKS — ST. DENIS

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Bellleville, was the setting on Saturday, May 4, for a pretty spring wedding when June Mary St. Denis, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rene St. Denis, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Brooks, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merrick Brooks. The Reverend William McGee officiated. White mums and pink gladioli adorned the sanctuary, and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

The Reverend Sister Mary Wilhelmina rendered the nuptial music, and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Burns, who sang "Ave Maria," "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy," the "Wedding Hymn" and "Mother At Thy Feet Is Kneeling."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Rene St. Denis, the lovely bride wore a waltz-length bridal gown of lace over taffeta, fashioned with fitted, collarless bodice, accented by a matching lace jacket. Long tapered sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her headdress was a crown of seed pearls holding her finger-tip veil of white net. She carried a bouquet of tiny, white mums and red Garnet roses, with white mums completing her ensemble.

Miss Mary St. Denis, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in princess style of pink, with lace over taffeta in street-length. She wore silver shoes and yellow suede gloves, with crown of tiny ivy leaves in green, and carried a bouquet bouquet of orchid colored mums and ivy leaves.

Miss Jean Kennedy of Toronto, was bridesmaid, wearing a gown similar in style and color to that of the maid of honor, with crown of ivy leaves, and similar bouquet.

Mr. William Brooks, of Napanee, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Leo St. Denis of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Dalrymple, also of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at Colquhoun Hall, where the bride's mother, attired in a duster ensemble of avocado green linen with green and a green and white silk dress, white accessories and white orchid corsage received.

She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in navy blue sheer with pink and navy silk dress, pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white mums and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped with white roses, and flanked by white candles in silver holders and the bridal bouquet. Father McGee gave the invocation.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa and Quebec City, by motor, the bride chose for traveling a white wool suit with black accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses.

On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Brooks will reside at 418 Bridge St. East, Belleville.

Guests were present from Port Hope, Toronto and Napanee.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by relatives and friends at a shower at the home of Mrs. Eva Bland, hostess for the occasion; also at a shower given by the staff of the Going Shopping?

When we were children we were often told not to make promises which might not be fulfilled. It was dinned into us that it was the better part of wisdom to avoid the danger of overpromistication as well as the evil of false promises. T & T told its readers last Wednesday that we would have some shocking news for you from New York. We're neglecting our early lessons.

It would be nice to be able to say something about Washington to N.Y., but a packet of United Nations stamps for a friend was about the sum of any shopping we got done. With Bipley "Believe it or not" we could have spent three out of four days existing in one building, the United Nations, where we were busy in the radio division doing tape recordings. And as T & T is sorry that it is unable to keep a promise, it will say no more.

From what we saw clothes and styles on ordinary people like ourselves were very much the same that nothing was especially eye-catching. However, we did see one pair of low or flat heels while in the metropolis. They were worn by a girl six feet high.

Dress, in the restricted section we saw, was very conservative; but of course, they were working folk and very busy ones. We had expected more startling women's hats, but the only one we saw which made heads turn, was a very large, heavily bejewelled one.

We suppose there are bargains in N.Y. as almost everything we take so much hunting for. And, after all, isn't it true that we get what we pay for in any place.

T & T has referred periodically to the great interest one will receive from the Committee of Correspondence for which we are proud to be a Canadian correspondent. We met once more, Mrs. Mahon whom we met last summer in Montreal at the B & PW international congress. Mrs. Mahon knows a lot per reception given in honor of women from other nations and those who were in New York for a round-table discussion under the auspices of the Committee of Correspondence. Now we appreciate more keenly the important and far-reaching contribution these women are making in the interest of world peace. From time to time we will continue to pass along information from this clearing house of women's activities throughout the world.

Before we leave N.Y. we want to tell you about a simple incident with human interest and hidden drama. One morning from an eighth floor window of the United Nations building, we were looking over the East River. Into view came a tugboat with a barge in tow. The New York police department was the eyes of the world patrolling the river and the view showed it floated along and directly opposite our window. We noticed a man on the distinguished contingent bodyguard below us. He stopped, buttoned there, and then dropped lower and lower with the water. Through inquiries, the officers scanned the river looking for something and finally attracted attention. Apparently the transient distraction was a small lifepreserver because the giant dragon fly rose and passed on its way. Confidence was restored for the spell we carried that we thought of who-dunits and of the gruesome things the police uncover from the depths of New York's East River.

From this irrelevant meandering we wish you as usual — Good Shopping.

A friendly observer told us about the splendid card inspections in Belleville. From all sides she reported that the comments were complimentary about the smart appearance of the cadets from both our schools. She was amazed from a local point of view by the performances of the standard bred from Quinte Secondary. The band which is composed of boys and girls, is in her opinion a great contribution to the musical life of Belleville and district. Mr. Schroeder, who conducts, instructs, teaches and leads the students, has accomplished great things in two or three years. T & T is happy to receive this report and pass on the congratulations to the boys, the girls, the leader, the school and indeed the community. As a final word of the remarked that she hoped the band would soon be provided with suitable uniforms to set if off.

ADVICE To The LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHE CAN "HUSH" HERSELF, IF SHE WILL

A wife who has been married 15 years is 40 years old. She has two children, a girl and a boy in the first grade. She writes me that she is jealous of her grown-up husband's secretary, and is wondering what to do about it.

Outside of her jealousy, her married life was moving from the ordinary to much so that at one time it had bordered on the ideal. She had husband, telling her he hated his secretary so sometimes.

After he walked out on her, she missed him so much that she vowed to herself she cannot live in a perfect wife," but when he did come back she found it impossible to keep her resolution.

She remembers especially two occasions when she was in a fever of jealousy. Both times they were at parties. Pat which, she says, he was so attentive to the youngest and prettiest girls."

Then, they go home and he will be in the mood for love. But when she tries to entice him he turns over and goes to sleep. She says he has married men to enjoy looking at attractive women and that, if they didn't change her attitude, he'd "give her good reason to be jealous."

"I know that I'm suffering from inferiority feelings," she concludes. "And I don't like myself at all, so how can I help the feeling for that poor secretary and other women more enjoyable?

With that sentence, this wife puts her finger right on the point from which she can start to bring about the change for which she so desperately longs. Realizing that her jealousy springs from feelings of inferiority, and that she doesn't like herself or she is not the first thing for her to do.

To make herself into a person she would like, and that her husband will like, too.

She can do it by getting herself interested in activities outside herself and becoming a useful, respected woman in her community. Almost certainly she's been so wrapped up in her own misery that she's had no time or thought for anything else. She's had nothing to talk to her husband about but her obsessive jealousy.

In every corner of the world, including her own corner of it, there is a crying need for unselfish and public-spirited people who will take an interest in work that waits to be done. There are also all kinds of fascinating activities and projects waiting to be enjoyed.

If she will summon up the will power to undertake some useful work and also to take up some worthwhile activity for the sheer pleasure it will bring her, she can discharge her life, and thereby herself, that she will become the attractive, interesting woman she wants to be and that her husband will admire, respect and find an enjoyable companion.

If she wants any details on how to go about finding projects both useful and fun, I will be glad to make suggestions in a personal letter if she will send me her name and address.

BEAUTY

By ANNE GUI VIVE

BEAUTY AIDS ARE ABUNDANT ON YOUR KITCHEN SHELF

Cornstarch, added to the bath water, smoothes and softens dry skin.

A recent letter from a correspondent contained the lament that she'd "just love to try all the wonderful creams, lotions and cosmetics on the market, but they're much more than I could afford to." She went on to say that her husband, as she was, is rapidly nearing middle children on a limited budget, she just wouldn't feel justified in spending hard-earned dollars for such "luxuries."

We wrote to this lovely-complexioned woman and gave her a few ideas as to keeping her looks, and incidentally, too; now that we've pass them along to you. For, even if your budget will allow the highest-priced toiletries on the market, there may come a day when you have no cut of cash or another, and these little tips may be of help.

Did you know, for instance, that the cream which the milkman brings is a wonderful cleansing cosmetic and a beauty-smoothing aid to a sensitive skin? Apply it as you would any cold cream, after your face-washing, or at any time when you may need to take the sting from sunburn or wind-tossed skin.

Did you know that cornmeal makes a wonderful hand lotion? If you've run out of yours and your hands are dry and red from housework, add a little of the meal to the suds when you're washing them. The starch content is very healing. After rinsing, and a careful drying, massage a little olive oil into the hands. Leave on for 15 or 20 minutes and remove excess with tissue. Do this at bedtime and let it work all night.

Did you know that one of the best treatments for tightening sagging facial flesh is an egg facial? Tricks you can make and give yourself at home? After thoroughly cleansing the face, beat the white of an egg to a froth, spread it over the face, starting at the neckline, using flattened fingers with an upward and outward movement. Spread it over the eyelids, too. Let the application remain on for until the flesh has drawn feeling Remove with cold water, then apply an astringent, such as witch hazel, and let dry. Such a facial takes years off your appearance.

The lemons in your vegetable bin have great cosmetic value, too. Mild skin discolorations yield to its gentle bleaching properties. Squeeze your juice right up in a cut lemon and see how quickly it lightens spots, no matter how soiled from housework or gardening. Lemon juice applied to the elbows, removes dry, darkened skin in that area; applied to the face with a cotton ball, it will help remove excessive oiliness A lemon rinse after the shampoo gives life and lustre to the hair. The strained juice of two lemons to a pint of water is the prescribed formula.

And did you know that if you happen to be afflicted with dry skin all over your body there's nothing like a "cornstarch bath" to restore smoothness to the skin's texture? Just throw a couple of handfuls of the starch into your bath as you would bath crystals or salts, and relax in your tub a while. You'll be delighted with the results

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP WAIT FOR YOUR TURN TO TALK

Be patient to patient . . . your turn to talk will come, naturally and in due course. So don't give the so-quick impression that you just can't wait for the other person to finish talking so that you can get your innings.

DON'T HUMOR YOURSELF BY HAVING FOOD PREJUDICES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Twice lately I have been confronted by this problem, and I haven't known just what to do; I was doing in the home of friends. Among the foods passed to me at table was a vegetable I definitely dislike, but I took a small portion of it and then more or less managed to eat it. In each case I thought that would be that. But then the vegetable was passed again, and I said (graciously, I do believe) "No, thank you." However, in each case the hostess insisted that I have a second helping, apparently not having noticed that I had taken much of the first helping. To tell the truth I was congratulating myself that I had gotten by with the first helping—when I encountered the hostess' persistence about taking the second helping. What should I have done? (I hope I did right!) — T.M.

In this situation of the "persistent hostess," simplest thing for the guest to do is to take a small portion of the second helping and eat at least a little of it.

A word of warning: I hope it isn't your habit to make your food dislikes a too-ready excuse. (Could this be true of you?) The prevailing rule is, you know, not to humor your food-prejudices, but instead to develop a sophisticated food-taste that doesn't admit food prejudices, food dislikes. Also you never know . . . you may get to like that particular food very much, maybe!

WHEN BRIDE-TO-BE SIGNS THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I'm to be married in June. When I write my thank-you notes for wedding presents, should I sign my name only, or include my fiance's name in the signature? "Peggy" or "Peggy and Jim"? — Bride-to-be

Sign your thank-you notes with your name only. But of course in the note itself include Jim's appreciation and enthusiasm for example "Jim and I are thrilled with the handsome crystal candlesticks, and we thank you most heartily for adding such beauty to our new home."

Christ Church EBWA Plans Pot-Luck Supper

STIRLING—The spacious home of Mrs. John Sheridan was a gala place, when on Friday evening she welcomed 24 girls of the Energetic Bowling Club.

Court Whist was enjoyed with Florence Dafoe receiving top honors, and Marjorie Potts, second, each received a gift for their efforts.

Nora Wannamaker, secretary for the club, handed out the average sheets, also announcing the teams according to standing, while Margaret Tanner had the honor of presenting the gifts.

Captain Verna Woodbeck and her team, Nora Wannamaker, Florence Dafoe, Jerene Sutherland, with Jane Vance playing part time and Nelle Smith completing this team, held 106 points.

A close second with 105 points were the Parrots: Dorothy Green, captain; Phillis Sheridan; Leslie Brunson; Hilda Rose; Ella Wannamaker, with Isabel McIntosh playing part time, and Ollie Thompson completing.

The Canaries with 83 points won 3rd place with Gladys Lancaster as captain; Edith Utman; Evelyn Sleeper; Joyce Richardson; Irene Potts and Irene Montgomery finishing instead of Mildred Mayhew.

The Humming Birds were in 4th position with Laura Sheridan as captain with 81 points — Edith Bradshaw, Lulu Harlow, Florence Post, Marjorie Potts and Frances Heath, composed the team.

Individual gifts for merit standing were awarded as follows: high average — Verna Woodbeck; high single — Margaret Tanner; high triple — Frances Heath.

During the term of bowling members have been remembered with either cards or flowers when ill.

Phillis Sheridan, the president, was presented with a piece of corn flower crystal for the wonderful sportsmanship she has shown to each and every member of the clubs.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers elected are as follows: president — Irene Montgomery; secretary — Evelyn Sleeper; treasurer — Hilda Rose; press reporter — Leslie Bronson; captains—Jane Vance, Nellie Smith, Florence Post, Irene Potts.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the captains.

Mrs. Vance called for the lucky tea cup which was held by Frances Heath winning a piece of china.

Joyce Richardson, on behalf of the members, voiced appreciation to the hostess and officers for their services during the bowling term.

Chicago Pot Roast

By Mary Moore

Continued

The world is full of nice people. After the hassle about Chicago Pot Roast, (March 28th) I wrote to Armour and Company to Marie Gifford, asking if she knew the secret of Chicago Pot Roast. I received a courteous reply giving me some valuable hints.

I also wrote to the Chef of the Drake Hotel where my brother had eaten Chicago Pot Roast and with delightful old world gallantry, Mr. Schuler the Maitre d' gave me the detailed recipe from their chef.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Cheese Fondue (see Tuesday), Buttered String and Lima Beans, New Beets with Harvard Sauce, Waldorf Salad (Celery, Apple and Walnuts with Boiled Dressing), Brazil Nut Squares (see Saturday May 11), Coffee.

It called for chunk, rump or round of beef but we (Lillian to be specific) gave it the full treatment by using a 5 pound roll of brisket at 29c per pound, as tough as cut as you can buy.

DRAKE CHICAGO POT ROAST

One five pound chuck, rump or round of beef, 1 clove of garlic, 1 bay leaf, ½ tsp. all-purpose flour, salt and pepper to taste, 3 tablespoons shortening, 1 large onion sliced, 1 cup of water. Rub the meat with the garlic which has been cut in half. Mix the flour with the salt and pepper and carefully rub all sides of the meat. Heat shortening in large covered skillet or dutch oven. Brown the meat evenly on all sides. Slip a trivet under the meat so it will not rest directly on the bottom of the cooking utensil. Add the onion, bay leaf and water. Cover tightly. Simmer gently for four hours. Turn, using two pot holders, every hour.

The consensus of opinion on tasting this succulent roast with its famous brown gravy was "What you were here".

When my brother and his family come to dinner we'll have his verdict. For it was he who tasted the original and will know if we matched Drake's pot roast or are even in the running.

MASHED POTATOES, FRENCH STYLE

Mashed potatoes seem to me to be the perfect accompaniment for a pot roast. The French have a say of preparing them that I think bears repeating. Mash the potatoes until you are sure there are no lumps in them. Add salt, pepper and butter as you usually do, but when you add the milk add twice or three times as much as you usually do — make them sloppy with milk. Then stir them over low heat until they heat through and thicken up enough to serve. This stirring over heat may require 5 to 10 minutes so don't be impatient and don't let them burn. The results are worth the time and effort.

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Holds Tea, Bake Sale

STIRLING — Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 held an afternoon tea and bake sale Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Elliott, Front Street.

Despite the rain, the guests came from Peterborough, Tweed, Belleville, Campbellford and other nearby points.

Guests were welcomed by the hostess Mrs. Elliott, and Noble Grand, Miss Mary Hollis. Miss Gena Spry was financial treasurer and the results were gratifying.

In the hall a lone star quilt in pastel shades was displayed and some time in the future some person will win it. The quilt top was made and donated by Miss Evelyn Bailey, Peterborough, who gave this to her Past Grands' Club which provided the lining and quilted it and on which each member of the club sold tickets.

FLORAL DECORATIONS

The living room was decorated with a large bouquet of apple blossoms, and record music was played, while the dining room was adorned with spring flowers, vases of blue iris and lily-of-the-valley.

The table was appointed with a rayon boucle cloth with a deep beige band of matching material centred with tulips and other flowers. Tri-branched silver candelabra with green and white lighted tapers, silver services at either end of the table and dishes of mints completed the decorations.

The tea was convened by Mrs. Carl Clancy, immediate Past Grand, and her co-convener, Mrs. Cecil Macklin. Miss Marion Carlisle chaplain, and Mrs. Joe Whitehead, Vice-Grand, invited the guests in the tea room.

Mrs. Gordon Richardson convened the tea room. Those who poured were: Mrs. Ethel Duffin, P.D.D.P.; Miss Evelyn Bailey, P.D.D.P.; and four Past Noble Grands, Mrs Morley Barlow, Mrs Walter Warren, Mrs Hiram Mumby and Mrs. Guy Bradshaw.

Servers were Mrs. James Bailey, Mrs. Ed Richardson, Mrs. Ray Rose, Mrs. Harry Vandervoort, Mrs. Kenneth Mumby and Mrs. Leslie Thompson.

Mrs. John Carlisle convened the kitchen and her assistants completed the plates of sandwiches and cookies were: Mrs. Harry Morrow, Mrs. Don Heath, Mrs. Ray Sherrit and Mrs. Lindsay Pollock with Mrs. S. J. Elliott in charge of brewing the tea.

In the den Mrs. Harvey Pitcher convened a bake sale which netted almost $50. Her assistants were Mrs. Alex Bush, Mrs. Charles Davidson and others.

The table was covered with a variety of pies, tarts, cookies, homemade candy, garden vegetables, eggs and jars of pickles.

The afternoon affair proved successful and the members of Laurel Lodge were grateful to all visitors who attended.

RADIOACTIVITY GROWING

LONDON (AP) — The government disclosed Monday that soil in England and Wales is showing increasing concentrations of strontium 90—the radioactive substance thrown out by nuclear explosions. However the concentration is nowhere big enough to harm humans or animals.

Women's Activities

MT. PLEASANT—RAWDON W.M.S.

RAWDON — Mrs. William McAdam was hostess for the joint meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon W.M.S. and W.A. last week. Twenty-three women attended.

Mrs. Milford Wrightman opened the W.M.S. meeting and Mrs. Kenneth Weaver officiated at the piano. Thirteen members answered roll call. The treasurer reported $46.70 for April.

Mrs. Herbert Smith gathered the offering which Mrs. Will Potts dedicated. The correspondence included a thank-you letter, an invitation to St. Andrew's Lilac Tea and a communication from the Presbyterial literature secretary.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher gave a paper on "The Stewardship of Life." Mrs. Gordon Linn, supply secretary, asked for donations of used clothing to be brought to the June meeting. Two bales will be packed soon after the meeting.

The citizenship secretary brought a message from The Temperance Advocate. Thanks were expressed for hospitality. Approximately 60 calls in homes and hospitals were recorded.

Mrs. Grant Rubble concluded the study book by reviewing the last chapter, "Thailand." Women in Thailand may own their own property and conduct their own business. These people originally came from the north. The total population is more than 19,000,000. Religiously, the country is Buddhist. Bangkok is a modern city with almost one million people. The church needs more trained pastors. Work camps are increasing in popularity. The first international camp built a church, a garage and a tool house for the co-operatively purchased farm equipment.

WORLD HEALTH ORGANIZATION

At Bangkok the offices of the World Health Organization are situated. The Food and Agriculture Organization, the World Bank, Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are also located there. The Christian church is growing but there is still a great need for the gospel to be presented correctly.

The president conducted a Trans-Canada program from the April Missionary Monthly by way of a series of selected tours. Mrs. K. Weaver read "Japanese Canadians at Work in the Church," as reported by Grace T. Nemba, Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. Herbert Smith read "The Church Serves a Transient Population," by Elsie Rosenberg. The president read, "You're There So Much of Your Time," as reported by Ida Mackenzie of Toronto.

Mrs. W. G. Fletcher read, "In a Happy Home" by Mrs. Harriet Phillips, Lachine, Quebec. Mrs. Percy MacMullen read "Our Community Centre in St. John's, Newfoundland," as reported by Stella Burry. These letters were all written by missionaries at work. More reports will appear in the fall in a book, "Missionaries Reporting."

The W.M.S. meeting closed with a hymn and benediction.

RECENT EVENTS' PROCEEDS

Mrs. Don Johnson, president of the W.A., took charge. The treasurer reported proceeds from recent events totalled $285. Mrs. Grant Rubble read the correspondence which included a thank-you letter and an invitation to English line afternoon tea.

The group decided to pay festival entry fees and to procure Bibles for each Sunday School class. Mrs. Frank Jeffs conducted the devotional and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher offered prayer.

Mrs. Merle Spencer read a poem, "The Golden Days are Yesterday and Tomorrow." Miss Ruth Linn sang "Dear Lord Forgive." The Bible lessons were read by Mrs. Carleton Potts, Mrs. Frank Spencer Jr., Mrs. Raymond McConnell, Mrs. Earl McAdam and Mrs. Will Potts.

The message on "forgiveness" stressed the idea of "forgiving as we have been forgiven."

The service closed with a Scottish psalter and prayer. The hostess served refreshments and all spent a social half hour.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma looked at pop close when he came down to breakfast, saying, William, I really beleeve you need a haircut, although in a way it seems silly.

Meening on account of pop not having hardly any left to cut, and he said, By gollies it is silly. I'll go to the barber chair for about 2 minutes and I'll walk out of the shop leeving the best part of 2 dollers behind me.

So, pop, I wish I even had the worst part of 2 dollers, I said, and ma said, William, I can tell you how you can save the whole 2 dollers. I know several women who cut their husbands hair with little tools from the drugstorey and same for you, even though you probably have doubting qualms, she said.

Well, I'll go so far as to admit I have mental reservations, pop said, and ma said, Now William, didn't I save a good round drapery bill by making little calfay curtains for the kitchin windows?

You did, my dear, pop said, and ma said, And didn't I do sutch a professional job that those curtains are the envy of all beholders, especially women?

You did, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Then how can you have any doubts?

Well, it's this way, pop said. You had plenty of material to work with on those curtains, and if I had plenty of hair I'd cheerfully trust you with it, but it takes a lifetime of experience to work wonders with insufficient materials.

Meening he better let the barber do it and being the end of the subject for a while.

SICK—OF WORKING

BALTIMORE (AP)—Sick leave is sick leave but city police think a 31-year-old patrolman went too far—408 days of it in his six years on the force. A police department hearing opened Monday for patrolman Joseph V. Farace, formally charged with 'feigning illness and attempting to shirk his duty.' A photograph introduced at the hearing showed Farace bowling on one of the days he was off.

THIS IS CRUELTY?

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Sandra Jean Wilhoite, 22, daughter of comedians George Burns and Gracie Allen, Monday filed suit for divorce from young Wilhoite III, 26, heir to a Texas fortune. The complaint charged cruelty and asked $1,375 monthly for alimony and child support. Mrs. Wilhoite said her husband recently quit his job, saying he intended to 'loaf' for a while.

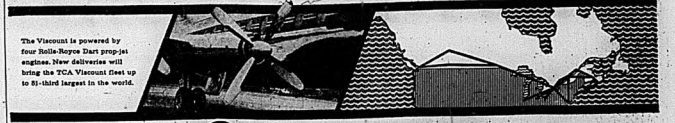
PROGRESS REPORT BY TCA

25 VISCOUNTS now in service... and 26 more to follow!



More Canadian air travellers to enjoy Viscount luxury

TCA's fleet of prop-jet Viscounts steadily grows . . . 4 more Viscounts will be added in the next few months . . . 22 more will be in service by the summer of 1958. More and more passengers will be able to enjoy the unmatched smoothness of turbine-powered flight. More and more centres will be served. When TCA ordered its fleet of Viscounts, the prop-jet was unknown in North American skies. Other leading airlines continued to buy conventional aircraft.

TCA planners were confident that the Viscount would give outstanding service. They were right. What could not be foreseen, however, was that the Viscount in a few months would so completely captivate the air travelling public! The expanding Viscount fleet is but one phase of TCA's planning for the jet age. A fleet of 20 Vanguards — prop-jet aircraft more than twice the size of the Viscount — is to be in service by 1961.

Another fleet of giant DC-8 jetliners will operate on TCA's trans-continental and trans-Atlantic routes, cutting present flying times by almost half. The same creative planning that brought prop-jet flying to North America will bring still greater advances in convenient air travel in the future.

The Viscount is powered by four Rolls-Royce Dart prop-jet engines. New deliveries will bring the TCA Viscount fleet up to 81-third largest in the world.

Tweed

TWEED — Mrs. Fred VaMers of town has recently visited her brother, Charles Kehoe, who is ill and has been in the Toronto General Hospital for some weeks now. He will be taken to the Hospital for Sick Children for treatments and then returned to the General again. She states that his condition is not good.

The Tweed Cub Pack sold peanuts at homes which were canvassed; the business section was also on the sale list all day on Saturday. The money from these sales will be used by the Cubs to purchase necessary equipment.

The C.W.L. attended the regional conference held at Stirling last Sunday. Fifteen Tweed members were there and the meeting was addressed by the Rev. O'Sullivan of Wertworth.

The Ontario Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary of the Anglican Church held its 51st annual meeting in St. George's Cathedral hall, Kingston, on Thursday of last week. The ladies from Tweed who attended were Mrs. F. Mitchell, Mrs. A. Baker, Mrs. C. Jeffrey, Mrs. A. Dickinson, Miss E. Woodhouse and Miss Emma Wallace.

Pleased to report that Mr. Camelle Brusher has been allowed to come home from the Kingston General Hospital where he has spent many weeks. The cast has been removed from his body, but he still has to wear one on his leg. He is happy to be home with his family and would appreciate calls from friends at any time.

Mr. T. C. Graham is chairman of the Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign this year and Monday was "Blitz" day. The canvassers were on their routes in action but the exact results have not as yet been made known.

There will be a sale at the former location of the Tweed Post Office on May 18th. It will be articles of Mrs. May Greatrix, of Actinolite, who is moving to Toronto shortly, after being a resident near here for a long time. She sold her home to Mr. B. Tebo.

Mr. Stanley Wheeler was a visitor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Spencer, and Mr. Spencer, on Thursday. Mr. Wheeler resides in Flinton.

Mr. Fred Thompson was presented with a clock by the staff of the Tweed News office after four years in that department prior to his departure for Oakville where he will be employed on the Record-Star. He has already assumed his new duties.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Allen and family, of Orangeville, formerly of Tweed, called on friends in town one day last week.

Mrs. Eric McCoy was a visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reg Dunham and family on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McCulloch have had a nice visit with relatives in North Bay, recently.

Mrs. L. E. Hawkes' mother is quite ill in Toronto, and Mrs. Hawkes has been there with her for the past few weeks.

Mrs. P. McInroy was in Port Colbourne for a few days with her daughter.

Mrs. C. C. Atton, of town, was the winner of a beautiful oil painting in a draw in Belleville at the University Women's Club on Saturday last.

The Past Grands of Tweed Rebekah Lodge entertained the Past Grands of Stirling lodge on Friday last, at the home of Mrs. T. C. Graham. There were skits, vocal numbers and contests. Refreshments concluded an enjoyable evening.

Born: to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Sedore (nee Theresa Bosley, of Tweed) now living in Cloyne, a son. Both mother and baby doing well.

Council here is now faced with the problem of repairing the sidewalks after the settlement from the Tomac Construction Company recently. The ratepayers appreciate the many headaches, time and unfortunate postponements and interruptions which have faced the council as a whole since the fall of 1955. The sidewalks became badly disintegrated and in many spots now are quite rough and these evidently are due to negligent construction in the first place.

The home on South Victoria street, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Bittle, is now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Beach and family. Mr. Beach is on the staff of the Tweed Lands and Forests.

There is quite a bit of controversy in connection with the closing of business places on Monday, all day. This would make a long weekend and cut the hours of help down, but all merchants are not in favor, in fact it is understood not even 75 per cent are in favor. The by-law to this effect has been held-over by the local council for a time. All have been told they will get legal advice on the score.

A number from Tweed attended the wrestling matches in Belleville on Friday night.

Mr. William Rogers is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

The R.C.A.F. band presented a concert at the Tweed High School last Tuesday afternoon. The band was from Toronto and Flight Sergeant Wiseman was the master-of-ceremonies. They were graciously thanked by the principal, Mr. W. R. Hamilton.

Mr. John L. Foster returned from Kingston General Hospital on Friday and is in critical condition at his home on Spring Street East.

Representing St. James' Anglican Church here, at the 21st Synod of Ontario Diocese, held in Kingston last week, were Rev. L. E. Hawkes, Mr. Ernie Haldman and Mr. Isaac Beatty.

Members of the local Canadian Legion will sponsor the gigantic display of fireworks which they anticipate having at the Tweed Memorial Park on May 20th. Several mothers of the village volunteered and on Friday they canvassed almost every home in the village as a "blitz" to raise cash to finance the fireworks cost. The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion are supervising the funds to assist the man folks. A box is being placed at the park for donations from those who wish to give and were probably missed on the night of the canvass.

Mr. Ray Rivers has begun work on the addition he is putting to his home on Bridge street. Mr. Bernie Bosley is helping with the job.

ADMIRAL DIES

BOSTON (AP) — Rear-Admiral Robert A. Theobald, 73, who charged in a book that President Roosevelt "invited" the Japanese sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, died Monday night. He was the Pacific fleet destroyer commander when the Japanese made their 1941 strike at Honolulu. His book, The Final Secret of Pearl Harbor, published in 1954, drew comment by some who charge that Roosevelt "invited" the attack by deliberately retaining a weak Pacific fleet.

Times are pretty good for most Canadians.

Just look for yourself. Canadians are eating better food, wearing smarter clothes, driving newer cars, owning nicer homes . . . than ever before.

You have the money to buy these things because wages and salaries are higher, there are more and better jobs, industry is growing faster and offering better opportunities. And the Liberal Government has taken additional effective steps to improve farm incomes.

So we ask you . . . do you really want a change of government, which might end all this?

Consider carefully. If you had a change, what kind of a change would it be?

The Conservatives never did give you good times. It's a matter of history that times are bad in Canada when a Conservative Government is in. Last time it was breadlines.

Opposition parties have admitted that they have neither the men nor the experience to make a strong government. Strange and untried theories in the hands of a weak government would really put a quick crimp in good times.

The wiser alternative is to keep the Liberal Government that has served you so well.

Find out your Liberal candidate's name now, and mark a good big X opposite it on June 10.

And by the way . . . never forget that your prosperity and Ontario's prosperity depend on all of Canada.

Holleford Crater at Kingston Believed Caused by Meteor Over 500,000,000 Years Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—New tests by the Dominion Observatory prove almost beyond doubt that a huge meteor plunged to earth some 500,000,000 years ago 100 miles southwest of Ottawa, disintegrating in a ball of flame.

Dr. C. S. Beals, dominion astronomer, said in an interview that cores of rock removed from the crater at Holleford, Ont., about 30 miles northwest of Kingston, definitely indicate that the prehistoric pockmark is of meteoritic origin.

The rock cores were taken from the crater last fall and examined in recent months by observatory scientists. No meteoritic material was found in the crater but examination of the cores established that there could be no other known explanation.

SPOTTED FROM AIR

The Holleford Crater, now filled with rock and earth, was spotted by observatory scientists a year ago during study of aerial photographs taken from RCAF planes at a height of 18,000 feet.

The crater is about 1¼ miles in diameter and has a depth of some 700 feet. The hole left by the exploding meteor is filled with paleozoic sediments at least 500,000,000 years old.

Dr. Beals said cores of rock were removed from three holes drilled into the sediments filling the crater. They established that the original crater was saucer-like in shape, with a depth of some 750 feet at the centre.

The cores of rock removed from the crater showed that the soil layers were formed over the years in seven layers. However, cores from below the floor of the crater consisted of broken, granulated and powdered rock, weakly recemented.

TERRIFIC IMPACT

Dr. Beals said it is apparent that the pulverized rock on the floor of the crater was caused when the meteor plunged to earth with terrific force, burning itself out. The even formation of the layers in the sediments indicated that they had been formed after the meteor had crashed.

This study, together with the fact that no volcanic material was found, clearly shows that the crater was caused by a meteor, Dr. Beals said. He added that it is not unusual that no meteoritic material was found because the meteor would have disintegrated on impact.

The general similarity which the Holleford Crater shows to the well-authenticated Barringer Meteoritic Crater in Arizona, both in its general shape and in the nature of the material below the floor, is quite striking," he said.

"This analogy suggests meteoritic impact as the most probable origin of the Holleford Crater and so far no satisfactory alternative explanation has been found. The cores are being searched for meteoritic material but the statistical probability of a find would appear to be slight."

At the time the Holleford Crater was found observatory scientist also discovered one near Frankford, about 30 miles southeast of Ottawa. The Frankford Crater is about three-quarters of a mile in diameter but the evidence of meteoritic origin there is not so strong as at Holleford.

There are four other craters in Canada believed caused by meteors. They are the New Quebec Crater in Northern Quebec about 130 miles south of Hudson Strait, the Hebron Crater in Northern Labrador, one in Algonquin National Park outside of Brent, Ont., 50 miles east of North Bay, and the Deep Bay Crater at the southeast corner of Lake Reindeer in Northern Saskatchewan.

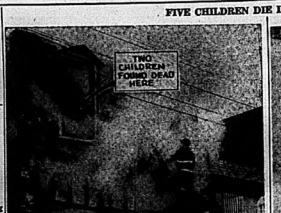
ROME (Reuters) — Thirty-five instructors and students of the Canadian National Defence College left here today for northern Italy where they will visit NATO installations. They came to Rome four days ago from Belgrade.

Expect Record Attendance at Drama Festival

EDMONTON (CP)—A spanking new auditorium and a week's run of eight popular plays may combine to give this year's Dominion Drama Festival the biggest attendance in its history.

The festival, Canada's top amateur theatre event, opens in a $4,500,000 government-built auditorium next Monday night with the Vancouver Little Theatre Association's Anastasia, first of the plays comprising what festival executives call an "attractive, standard program."

Not since the festival began at Ottawa in 1933 has it used such a big house. The Northern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium, as it's called officially, has 2,700 seats. There were 2,000 seats in the Hamilton Auditorium used three years ago but otherwise the annual drama event has been held in smaller halls or movie theatres.



LOWER PRICES

Because of the bigger seating capacity, festival officers have lowered 1957 ticket prices from the previous $6 or thereabouts asked elsewhere in other years to a top of $3 for choice seats in the ultra-modern auditorium.

This year the festival will cost $77,000. The Alberta government has chipped in $2,000, and the 50-cent programs may bring an equal amount. The rest will have to come from ticket sales.

"We've already sold between $12,000 and $14,000 worth," ticket-sales chairman Mrs. R. B. Clifton said Tuesday night. "The most we can make is about $33,000, but we need at least $23,000 to stay out of trouble and I think we can do that. Since the big rush in the advance sale May 2, we've slowed down to about $1,000 a day but sales will pick up this weekend."

FIVE CHILDREN DIE IN SUDDEN FIRE

Mrs. Wilkinson was taken to hospital before the bodies of her children were recovered. Her husband died two years ago and she was carrying on the cleaning business to support the children, all under 10 years of age.

Flames and smoke prevented firemen from entering this Toronto apartment for over an hour, and when they entered they found the bodies of five small children, all dead from suffocation. The widowed mother of the children, Mrs. Margaret Wilkinson, operator of a cleaning establishment under her apartment, jumped from the window 20 feet above the ground, not knowing if her children had been rescued or not. The apartment caught fire when an unexplained blast rocked the building.

Twenty Rebels May Appear In Suez Debate

LONDON (Reuters) — Political quarters predicted today that 15 to 20 rebels may appear in Conservative government party ranks during the two-day parliamentary debate on Suez policy which begins this afternoon.

The debate was arranged hastily following a government announcement Monday that British ships may again use the canal, British shipping had been advised, not to use the waterway since it was re-opened for major shipping last month.

Eight Conservative members of Parliament immediately announced that they were quitting the party's parliamentary ranks and would sit as "Independent Conservatives."

MAY JOIN THEM

More are expected to join them Thursday night in abstaining from voting on an opposition motion of censure against the government.

But their abstention is not expected to damage seriously the government's comfortable majority of about 60. It would however, be a serious blow to Prime Minister Macmillan's leadership.

The eight Conservatives, led by Viscount Hinchingbrooke, an Irish peer who sits in the Commons, declared that the government had made "a capitulation" to Egypt's President Nasser. "Appeasement only leads to disaster," they asserted.

The Marquess of Salisbury, who resigned from the Macmillan cabinet last March over its Cyprus policy, announced Tuesday night that he will call for a similar debate in the House of Lords.

Salisbury has backed the parliamentary rebels without actually leaving the party.

WON'T APPEAR

TORONTO (CP)—Previously arranged bookings in the United States will prevent TV star and horseman Arthur Godfrey from being the feature attraction at the Royal Winter Fair this year, Charles F. W Burns, president of the fair, said Tuesday that Godfrey will probably appear at the fair again in 1958.

Couple Found Dead

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Veraty 30, and his wife Jean were found dead Tuesday in a Jarvis St. rooming house.

Police said wine and liquor bottles littered the room and said the couple may have died from excessive consumption of alcohol or from consumption of a poisonous concoction.

Coroner Dr. Julian Loudon is investigating.

Police said they had been dead at least 24 hours. They were in bed with their pet dog at their feet.

Packinghouse Workers Hear CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP)—M. J. Coldwell says the day will come when Canada and the United States are governed by parties with the ideas and ideals of the CCF party which he leads.

Speaking Tuesday to 100 delegates at the annual convention of the Canadian section of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CLC), he said the Socialist movement lags only in North America.

He was proud of the partnership within the CCF party of labor, farmer and small business and professional persons, holding to common ideals and to a common program of economic action.

The only persons who have anything to gain from disunity were the privileged groups seeking to divide labor and farmer and who find in the Liberal and Conservative and Social Credit parties the vehicles for their political action."

Mr. Coldwell described the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties as just two sides of the same coin, financed by the same powerful groups.

Judging by the costly advertising and publicity campaign of the Social Credit organization, he said it must mean the party also has thousands of dollars at its disposal.

Where does it come from? he asked. The answer was obvious to every Canadian of average intelligence when the alienation of power resources in British Columbia and oil in Alberta was noticed.

The CCF leader said the federal government's national health insurance plan is "feeble." About 7,000,000 persons were outside the plan which excluded the two largest groups of sufferers—mental and TB cases.

One of the primary responsibilities of good government was the good health of the people. He wanted to see Canada adopt the United Kingdom health system.

Speaking of last year's commons pipeline debate, Mr. Coldwell said the "Tories are making a great todo about closure." They were not fighting for public ownership of the line, he said. They were fighting to give the pipeline to another corporation.

ARMS TO YUGOSLAVIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Tuesday ended its cut-and-long ban on the shipment to Yugoslavia of heavy weapons, including jet fighters. The decision is based on a determination by President Eisenhower that Yugoslavia "is and firmly intends to remain independent."

Election Campaign

Wheat Policies Attacked by Diefenbaker

PORTAGE la PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader John Diefenbaker has moved his election campaign into Western Canada with a major attack on wheat marketing policies of Ottawa and Washington.

He said Tuesday the United States has "pulled out all the stops" in a giveaway program which might reduce wheat to an almost valueless commodity on world markets.

The Liberal government of Canada had merely protested "in dulcet tones that did not even demand a reply."

In the first seven months of the current crop year begun last Aug. 1, the U.S. had more than doubled its wheat exports compared with a year earlier, while Canadian exports had risen some 30 per cent. Meanwhile, Canadian wheat surpluses were at record levels.

HITTING MARKETS

The United States was "attacking established Canadian markets with almost ruthless abandon."

Mr. Diefenbaker, prairie lawyer who is seeking re-election himself in Prince Albert, Sask., spoke for 70 minutes to a mid-afternoon audience of 250 in this city of 11,000.

In the second day of his western campaign, he speaks today at St. Boniface, Steinbach and Carman in Southern Manitoba constituencies which have returned Liberals for many years—St. Boniface since 1925, Provencher since 1904 and Lisgar since 1921.

He does not plan a public meeting in Winnipeg, a city which in 1953 elected two of the three Manitoba Conservatives in the last Parliament. The province elects a total of 14 MPs.

The Conservative leader dealt also Tuesday with topics other than wheat.

In a Winnipeg press conference in the morning he denied that the support he is receiving from Ontario's Premier Frost means that Ontario would benefit at the expense of other provinces in any new Federal-provincial tax arrangement under a Conservative government.

MUST BE MET

He said Premier Frost has repeatedly stated that the needs of smaller provinces must be met.

And in his speech here he said that although Prime Minister St. Laurent has stated the Liberals are making no campaign promises they were in fact making promises to make the people forget the "debasement" of Parliament in last year's bitter pipeline debate.

The government had promised $300,000,000 for power in British Columbia "to get rid of a Social Credit government" and another $200,000,000 for power in the Maritimes. Mr. St. Laurent had been visualizing a railway into the north from Alberta.

"They don't make promises—oh, no."

BRITISH APPROACH

Dealing with wheat, he suggested that Britain be approached to buy wheat in place of some 17,000,000 in interest owed last year to Canada on a postwar loan by this country. Payment of the interest has been postponed until after the Year 2001 and Mr. Diefenbaker said few people expect it will ever be repaid.

He also called for a Commonwealth economic conference to restore Canada's markets, loans to Japan to buy wheat here and action to maintain European markets in the face of the proposed European common market system.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberal government had been "awfully quiet" last fall in protesting the British-French invasion of Egypt. Prime Minister St. Laurent had then called the British and French people "those supermen whose steps are about over."

Why had not the government been equally fast and effective in protests against U.S. wheat policies?

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the Liberal party had a unified policy. But in three speeches on agriculture, Trade Minister Howe had said there was a tough fight ahead to retain wheat markets. Agriculture Minister Gardiner had said the future was bright and Labor Minister Gregg had said Ottawa might not have done enough to solve agricultural problems.

"TAKE YOUR CHOICE"

"You pay your money and you take your choice," the Conservative leader said. The U.S program of giveaways and deals for foreign currencies might reduce wheat to an almost valueless commodity in world trade.

Dealing with the Conservative proposal for flexible price supports on farm commodities, he said a Conservative government would carry on a continuous investigation of farmer - consumer price spreads so that consumers would not be prejudiced.

A report on questions of price spreads, which he had advocated in earlier speeches, would be needed to meet "the immediate situation" but a constant review

Prime Minister Tosses Bouquets, Brickbats at PCs

GUELPH (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent tossed both brickbats and bouquets at the Progressive Conservatives in an Ontario campaign opener marred by recurring rain and fog.

As he launched his Southwestern Ontario campaign Tuesday, he praised the Conservative leadership but criticized the party for what he described as attempts to block trans-Canada natural gas pipeline construction.

And he defended the government's use of debate-limiting closure last year to push a federal pipeline loan through Parliament.

On a rainy afternoon, the worst weather he has encountered so far in the current election fight, Mr. St. Laurent sped by motorcade from Toronto's Malton airport to Brantford, 35 miles southwest of here, and then to Paris and Galt, ending the day with an evening rally before a capacity audience here Tuesday night.

MOVES NORTHWARD

Today he is scheduled to move northward by car and train to Ferguss, Palmerston, Hanover and Owen Sound, covering a distance of about 120 miles.

The 75-year-old Liberal is following a tight travel schedule in this province considered by some political experts as a crucial battleground for the June 10 vote.

But thick fog suddenly rolled in Tuesday to disrupt the schedule and thin waiting crowds. The chartered TCA plane carrying the prime minister's party from Montreal's Dorval airport to Brantford had to be diverted to Malton. The pilot had to take a second run at landing that had before he found it safe to come in.

The travel disruption caused a tour delay of more than two hours. At points where he spoke, Mr. St. Laurent apologized for the delay and said that while aircraft may be speedy, they sometimes are not useful to keep election appointments.

At Brantford, a local legion band kept playing marches for some three hours to entertain a crowd of about 400 waiting for Mr. St. Laurent at a park facing the public library.

PIPELINE REPLY

It was here Mr. St. Laurent replied to Progressive Conservative and CCF charges that the Liberals, by using closure, gagged Parliament in the hectic pipeline debate last year.

"Despite the Tories and Socialists who joined with them in Ottawa also required by some department of government in consultation with farm organizations.

The national Conservative leader was accompanied here by the party's Manitoba leader, 39-year-old Duff Roblin, who also introduced him on a television broadcast carried from here on the CBC's TV network.

Mr. Diefenbaker forecast that Mr. Roblin will be Manitoba's next premier—the present one is Liberal - Progressive Premier D. L. Campbell. He added that the believes the premiership "is not the highest position he (Mr. Roblin) will occupy in the service of his country." He did not elaborate.

"The work is being well run. No one should try to depreciate the good deeds that will benefit the whole nation."

The audience applauded. There was more applause when he praised Hon. George Drew, Guelph native and former national Conservative leader who retired last year because of ill health.

"I, perhaps more than most Canadians, know his mettle and respect him as a fine public servant and skilled political opponent.

He hoped Mr. Drew would once again be able to serve in public office. John Diefenbaker, his successor, also was showing "promise." With more extensive experience in his new role, "he should earn a very good reputation, indeed."

Between Brantford and Guelph Mr. St. Laurent squeezed in two other stops, at Paris and Galt, driving through pelting rain between five and six p.m. EDT.

At Paris, some 300 persons, including about 150 children, waited for him in the local arena. He was sure, he said, the children did not want to hear a political speech and he spoke of the fog and the plane, the Queen and Canada's population.

At the Galt armories, some 150 persons waited in a hall-filled hall and here Mr. St. Laurent reviewed federal veterans legislation.

At all points, there were little girls carrying gifts of flowers for Mr. St. Laurent and his daughter, Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell of Montreal. He kissed them all while spectators cheered.

Here at Guelph a group of boys and girls dressed in Dutch, Czech and Ukrainian costumes presented him with gifts of flowers, a photo album and a book on Ukrainian life. Those making the presentations also were kissed to cheers from the crowds.

At one stage Mr. St. Laurent hesitated before kissing 22-year-old Georgina Klapka, pretty Czech Canadian who made presentations of flowers and other gifts on behalf of all New Canadians.

"You are one of my nieces, too," said Mr. St. Laurent, sometimes described as "Uncle Louis," as he bestowed a kiss on Miss Klapka.

Engine Checks By Fireman Said Essential

OTTAWA (CP) — A locomotive engineer told the Kellock Royal Commission Monday that he would not be safe in starting a run without engine checks by himself and his fireman.

Alex. Doull of Moose Jaw, Sask., was the first witness called by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (CLC) in the union's battle with the CPR over the company's proposal to reduce the number of firemen in diesel train operations.

To company suggestions that pre-run firemen's inspections are not necessary because the back-shop staff does this work, Mr. Doull said the shop staff "is pretty heavily worked and often misses out on things."

"BIG INCH" PIPE NOW MADE IN CANADA

Canada's first manufacturer of "big inch" pipe used in oil and gas pipelines is only two months old, but already its production has been sold for the next three years. The $14,000,000 plant, called Welland Tubes Ltd., is located in Welland, Ont. Its annual production will be 300,000 net tons, but the fast-expanding Canadian market still has to import. Here a 40-foot tube is inspected from the inside by a man riding through on a trolley.
